The Result of the Special Examination by Five State Commissioners.

A STRONG REPORT.

The five Insurance Commissioners—those of Maine, New Hampshire, Illinois, New York and Ohio—who have been for several weeks engaged in making a thorough examination of the affairs of the Union Mutual Life Insurance Company of Maine, have completed their work and published their report. They pronounce the company to be "safe and solvent under the laws of any State in the Union." Following is the full text of the report:

We, the undersigned Commissioners and Superintendents of Insurance, having made an exhaustive examination into the condition and affairs of the Union Mutual Life Insurance Company of Maine, certify as follows:

That in and after 1873, the company was in possession of a large amount of loans upon real estate situated in various States. A very considerable part of this it was obliged to foreclose and buy in for the protection of its interests. In 1876 it was found necessary to reduce the former appraisements upon its real estate, in order to conform to the then values of property, and to throw out worthless assets, which had long been carried upon its books. On December 31, 1876, the Hon. Joshua Nye, Insurance Commissioner of Maine, and the Hon. Stephen H. Rhodes, Insurance Commissioner of Massachusetts, made an examination of said company, and found it to be solvent upon the severest basis of mortality and interest assumed by any State laws, as per their report dated March 3, 1877. At the end of 1877 the assets were still further marked down upon the books of the company by order of the Board of Directors. From that time the property of the company has increased steadily in value and productiveness. Much of this real estate has been sold at advantageous prices, and turned into marketable securities. In the report for Dec. 31, 1876, the company was possessed of real estate amounting to $556,899 30. In 1877 this had increased to $1,227,981 77. In 1878 to $1,934,806 70. In 1879 to $2,268,828 52, and in 1880 to $2,470,003 41, by reason of the foreclosure of mortgages made prior to July, 1876, through which the company obtained title to the property. After this this item decreased to the amount found by us in the statement herewith submitted, by reason of the sales of said property. In making our examination, we have selected December 31, 1883, for the purpose of a financial statement, as being the most convenient on account of its corresponding with the close of the fiscal year of the company, and with the date of annual statement made to Insurance Departments.

We have caused a careful re-appraisement of all the real estate owned or loaned upon by the company, by independent persons thoroughly acquainted therewith, and residing in the vicinity, selected as far as practicable by the Insurance Departments of the several States in which the property is located. The abstract of titles have been examined by attorneys appointed by the departments of Maine, New York and Ohio, severally, and by attorneys in Chicago. The greater part of the outstanding mortgages are upon real estate sold by the company for part cash, and annual and semi-annual instalments for the balance. The payment of these instalments increases the security from year to year. The overdue interest and rents of the company are small, with the exception of the sum accrued upon a single mortgage of large amount, which has been in litigation for several years. Agents' balances are very small, showing that the company has its agency system well in hand. Bonds are exacted for the faithful performances of duty, and agents are required to deposit their collections daily to the order of the company, in banks designated for that purpose. The amount of liens upon future premiums, as for commission on outstanding business, is quite moderate.

The bonds and stocks owned and loaned upon have been inspected, and found to be in possession of the company, with the exception of bonds to the amount of $150,000 deposited with the Government of Canada, $100,000 deposited with the Treasurer of the State of Maine, and $10,000 with the Treasurer of the State of Virginia, certificates of which deposits have been secured from the several officers having custody of the same. In every instance it was found that the company had paid for said bonds and had absolute ownership thereof. It is worthy of remark that there are no defaulting securities in the entire list. The cash claimed to be in the company's office and deposited in banks was found as represented. The registers of policies issued by the company and policies claimed to have ceased have been carefully inquired into and checked from its organization to date and found to be correct. The policies outstanding have been valued scriatim, both upon the basis of the 4 per cent actuaries' table of mortality and the 4½ per cent American table.

The company commenced business in 1849. From that period to date it has paid to policyholders every legal obligation incumbent upon it to the amount of $20,164,601, and has received from policy-holders $26,591,017, and has now on hand for policy-holders $6,232,684 10. The total expenses of management of the company in 1876 were $654,408 45, and in the year 1883 they were $266,667 07. We find that the gross salaries to officers and office employes paid in 1876 were $72,300 85, and for 1883 $41,971 61. Prior to August 1st, 1876, the yearly salaries paid to officers alone were $38,000. In 1883 they were $21,500. A large part of the expenses has been incurred by reason of the care of the expensive real estate owned, upon which considerable improvements have been made.

The gross interest and rent receipts are in excess of the amount required upon the re-insurance reserves according to the legal standards of the several States. The mortality experienced is less than that provided for by the tables upon which the premiums have been calculated, and indicate that the risks have been well selected. The premium receipts show a margin or loading upon the gross amount, above that required by a net valuation, of 24 per cent. This is about the usual percentage exacted by conservative life insurance companies.

From 1877 the surplus of the company has steadily increased, notwithstanding that each year the dividend to policy-holders has been augmented, and that the disbursements have frequently exceeded the income. This is partially due to the fact already stated, that real estate has increased in value, and that the disbursements have reduced liabilities to a greater extent than the sum expended; and the further fact that there is a considerable gain in every life insurance company from the discontinuance of policies,—all of which, cannot appear in the ordinary accounts of receipts and disbursements. A large part of these disbursements have been made in paying off and discounting maturing endowments. An unusual proportion of the company's business was written upon endowment policies.

The books have been found in admirable condition, and the system, such as by reason of checks and counter-checks to reduce the chances of error to a minimum, and to place an individual responsibility upon each department. It has been the habit of the company to make a statement of its affairs at the end of each month, including an exact calculation of its re-insurance reserve, deferred and outstanding premiums, and other items of assets and liabilities. The securities and accounts have been counted and audited quarterly by a committee of the directors.

In making this examination nothing has been taken for granted, and every item of assets and liability has been exhaustively scrutinized. To accomplish this a force of nine persons was employed, exclusive of appraisers of property and searchers of titles. All ordinary and many extraordinary means of checking the correctness of our conclusions were employed, and there can be no reasonable doubt of their accuracy.

All items in the nature of contingent assets, such as accrued and overdue interest, outstanding and deferred premiums, and of liabilities, such as death claims, matured endowments, outstanding dividends, &c., have been thoroughly investigated. Premium notes have been inspected and verified scriatim, and the policies upon which they are based ascertained to have been in force, and the reserves thereon have been found sufficient to sustain the loan. Receipts and disbursements have been fully examined to ascertain the correctness of the various accounts. Every courtesy and facility has been extended freely by the company, its officers and clerks, and all answers to questions put by us have been made by the officers under oath.

We have no hesitation in pronouncing the company to be safe and solvent under the laws of any State in the Union, and that, with the same degree of skill and integrity with which the affairs of the company are being managed, it will undoubtedly meet every obligation which it has assumed. On December 31, 1883, upon the basis of the 4 per cent actuaries' table of mortality, it has a surplus of $387,913 10; upon the basis of the American table, with 4½ per cent interest, $718,907 27. Both of these standards are highly technical and conservative. They make no allowance for the margins or loadings upon premiums over the net rates, nor for the gain which arises from the lapse and surrender of policies.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION.

In trade circles no special progress is to be noted this week. The storms which have prevailed of late have checked to an extent the distribution of goods, so that even the present restricted production is not being fully taken. Still, there is a fair demand to supply current wants, while it is a favorable circumstance that the snows which have blockaded the roads have probably covered the winter wheat again, and the prospects for that crop are better than a year ago. This may be a more important consideration later on, but at present as the country has the surpluses of two years' production on its hands with no buyers, the better condition now does not give rise to any particular exhilaration. On the contrary, the tendency at the moment, in both trade and speculative circles, is to exercise great caution.

Perhaps this feeling is partly owing to the influence, among the conservative classes, which the legal tender decision announced this week has had. We have commented upon the decision in another column, but we cannot help adding here that it has greatly disturbed, as well as discouraged, those who have been for so many years struggling for a sound currency. They very reluctantly acquiesced in the former holding of the Court that this power existed in an emergency like that our civil war produced, but it was not considered possible that the judicial mind could harbor such cobwebs of sophistry as this latest judgment reveals. We are told by it in substance that "to borrow money" means "to coin money," so that the provision in the Constitution granting the power to coin money was, we are to understand, mere surplusage. With equal sagacity the opinion states that all powers belonging to other civilized nations, and not expressly withheld from Congress by the Constitution, are to be implied as conferred wholly ignoring the limitation in another section which provides that the powers not specifically granted are reserved to the States or to the people.

But it is perhaps useless to dwell upon these matters now. In some way the business of the country will protect itself against this innovation. Contracts made for payment in gold, already held valid, will, it is likely, become the rule in all cases, and especially if any disposition should be shown to force either paper or silver on the public. We have gained, through much suffering, a gold basis for our currency and we mean to keep it. Our people fully endorse the action of the Chamber of Commerce, on Thursday, respecting silver coinage except in limiting the suspension. Now let other cities appoint similar committees, making the movement a united and general one on the part of the commercial classes, and an impulse will be given to the subject in Congress which cannot fail to lead to good results. Some have wondered why so little general interest is taken this year in legislation affecting bank currency. One reason is that all the bills on the subject now before Congress are conceived in a good spirit, with the prospect of being serviceable for a time at least. But a more general cause for the prevailing apathy is the pressure of the far more unsafe silver issue, which, in the progress of events, may even force many of our more conservative banks out of the national system in their effort to keep dealings on a gold basis.

Bearing upon bond calls, and therefore upon bank note contraction, we have this week the Treasury statements brought down to March 1 of revenue received and surplus held. The figures of most interest are those giving the current revenue, as the present volume of revenue indicates with some accuracy the future surplus. Last month debt reduction was small because pension requirements were large, and that is probably the reason why "disbursing officers' balances" were increased nearly 5 million dollars in the Treasury statement. If that item had been the same as it was at the close of the previous month, debt reduction would have been in February 7½ instead of 2½ million dollars. But, as we said, the current revenue is the point of chief interest; we therefore give in the following the figures of Government receipts as kindly furnished us by the Treasury Department, for February and for the eight months of the present and last fiscal year. The January figures were published in our issue of February 9, page 157.

| | For February. | Since July 1. | For February. | Since July 1. |
| | $ | $ | $ | $ |
| Customs | 16,757,644 59 | 184,159,123 68 | 15,196,907 12 | 145,975,897 92 |
| Internal revenue | 8,100,886 98 | 77,406,702 20 | 9,260,520 39 | 95,590,197 85 |
| Miscellaneous sources | 2,547,481 24 | 22,260,489 62 | 4,104,749 66 | 25,842,735 06 |
| Total receipts | 27,406,012 81 | 283,826,315 50 | 28,562,177 17 | 267,408,830 83 |

The above shows us that the total revenue during last month was only a little more than a million dollars less than the revenue of the same month of 1883, notwithstanding all the tax reductions made by the last Congress. This is a very important fact, which it would be well for our representatives in Washington to know and act upon. But perhaps a more interesting point is that the customs receipts were actually more than 1½ million dollars in excess of last February, notwithstanding the total imports of merchandise were less. If the reader will turn back to the January figures he will see that even for that month customs duties were almost as large as for January, 1883, and hence for the two months that item of revenue foots up larger than a year ago, notwithstanding the tariff revision. As an instructive statement, we have prepared the following, showing the total merchandise imports and total customs receipts for the seven months ending Feb. 1 and the average rate of duty (estimated on the total imports) received for two years. We cannot include February, as the Bureau of Statistics has not yet issued the trade figures for that month.

| Value of imports | $389,260,669 | $428,026,909 |
| Duties collected | 117,287,336 | 130,778,991 |
| Average for seven months | 30·13 per cent. | 30·55 per cent. |

This shows that the duties collected for the seven months of this year, if averaged on all the merchandise imports, would be about 30⅛ per cent, against about 30½ per cent for the same time last year. Had we taken January alone, the difference would be still smaller; and if we had the imports for February, so as to make a similar statement for that month, the percentage would be in favor of this year. The conclusion seems to be inevitable, therefore, that we are likely to get more revenue under the last tariff, than under the law as it was before the late changes.

All the foregoing is simply cumulative evidence, tending in the one direction of demonstrating the urgent need there is for action in Congress as an aid to business prosperity. Certainly we cannot have enterprise while our currency is in doubt; neither is there any better way to cripple and hold in check the energies of the people than by excessive taxation; furthermore, debt reduction and bond redemption are clearly undesirable now. All these are influences, each in its own way, helping to unsettle confidence. For instance, a few millions of gold shipped, as we have explained on previous occasions, is of no importance in itself, if occurring in obedience to trade requirements. The significance of the movement now lies in its connection with currency derangements that make it disturbing.

For this latter reason the foreign exchange market, the gold shipments, and the special withdrawals of gold from the Sub-Treasury have been the features of the week which have absorbed most attention. As to the rates of exchange, they have continued to rule strong and to be maintained at figures which afford a fair profit for the export of gold; consequently bankers who are obliged to remit are sending more or less by every steamer. The exports thus far reported this week are $2,000,000 by the Arizona on Tuesday and $200,000 by the Lessing on Thursday, and the Servia and Baltic, which sail to-day, will take $4,850,000 more, making for the week the large total of $7,050,000.

The most conservative of the foreign bankers are of opinion that gold exports will continue, and if the present 3½ per cent minimum rate of discount of the Bank of England fails to prevent a drain of gold from that institution, the volume will probably be increased. The return of the Bank for the week shows a gain of bullion, but the rate of exchange at Paris on London has moved nearer to the point at which gold can be drawn from the British metropolis to the Continent. Should such a movement become important the governors of of the Bank will not fail to replenish their stock by drawing a larger supply from this country. We are at the moment unable to meet a foreign demand, by the shipment of anything in lieu of gold. Speculators have for a long time been and still are sitting on our grain and provisions, having forgotten that their eggs must addle if the process is too prolonged. As to securities, foreigners do not want them, and will not be likely to want them in any amount, so long as our currency has in it such an element of insecurity. We must expect, therefore, to lose gold; and the large movement of this week can be no surprise to any who have considered the conditions affecting the situation.

The stock market has in no manner this week reflected the business situation. It has been in the main strong, but this strength was almost wholly the result of manipulation. Saturday the bears were compelled to cover their short contracts in Lackawanna, which they had freely sold early in the week on the supposition that the clique had unloaded part of their holdings. It now seems that the sales of long stock were largely supplemented by speculative transactions, and upon this discovery being made by the clique they called in shares which they had loaned and forced the premium for cash stock up to 9 per cent before the close of that day. This naturally affected the market Monday, and, besides, as rumors were current that other oversold properties would be partially cornered, a feverish and strong tone prevailed nearly all day. Tuesday the movement was irregular after borrowers of stock had obtained their supply, but although attempts were made to get the market down the decline was only fractional until late in the day, when a heavy tone prevailed. Wednesday the market was generally strong, and on Thursday, while prices were firm, the speculation was very tame, the transactions very limited and business without special feature. Yesterday was equally featureless, but the tendency towards lower values was more pronounced than on the preceding days.

The speculators for a decline are evidently to a large extent demoralized by the losses they have recently sustained. The general conditions favor their side, except the important fact that the market is greatly oversold and that the other party hold the stocks and seem well prepared to resist any attempt to force serious declines. Professionals outside the combinations have no confidence in either buying or selling, and indeed it is doubtful if even the most enthusiastic members of the cliques feel assured of the maintenance of current figures, unless supported by such manipulation as has been resorted to for the past month. Still, prices of the best properties are not high, and under ordinary conditions, if sustained, public confidence might be gained and some outside support be obtained. One rather unfavorable development of the week was the statement by Mr. Roberts, the President of the Pennsylvania Railroad, that unless more efficacious means are adopted to enforce the agreements between competing lines it is doubtful whether the interests of the Pennsylvania road will be promoted by a further continuance of the trunk-line pool. The report of that company shows that out of 21,674,160 tons of individual freight transported on the main line and branches of the road last year, only 1,937,850 tons, or less than 10 per cent, was through freight. Under these circumstances it is not surprising that the managers of this corporation feel inclined to withdraw from the arrangement unless it can be made effective and leave the through business to be carried by those routes which feel compelled, in order to get traffic, to cut below the established schedule.

It is possible that this threatened disruption of the pool has been one cause for the comparative weakness of Erie during the last few days, this road being peculiarly situated with two important competing lines running almost parallel to it. Still, the same cause seems to have had little influence on West Shore bonds, which have continued a prominent feature of the week, as they were during the previous week. The combination of capitalists which it was claimed expected to interest themselves in that property as stated in our last, seem still to be talked about as intending to take part in some reconstruction movement, though we have authority for saying that the statement announcing that Mr. William H. Osborn was to share in the management was erroneous. But those now in charge seem to have been successful in overcoming very many of the obstacles so lately in the way of bringing the conflicting rights and interests to a satisfactory conclusion, and we are quite sure that the public will hear with great gratification the prospect now of an early adjustment of the financial difficulties which have occurred to a property upon which upwards of 55 millions have been spent in money.

Union Pacific's annual report, issued this week, presents results not materially different from those foreshadowed in this column two weeks ago, based on the monthly statements of earnings and expenses for the year. We find that the 1,821 miles of main road had a total net income (counting in the receipts for interest and dividends on the investments held) of $12,714,683, which is a loss of $1,593,251 as compared with 1882, but that notwithstanding this loss of income the company had remaining a surplus of $1,261,873 over all payments for interest and dividends, in addition to which it also realized $3,040,467 net from land sales, making the total surplus for the year $4,302,340, equivalent to over 7 per cent on the $60,868,500 stock outstanding. In other words, the company might have doubled the dividends actually paid without entirely exhausting its surplus.

The surplus on the year's operations was larger than the falling off in income suggested it would be, for several reasons. In the first place the amount due the United States was only $1,869,958 in 1883, against $2,097,189 in 1882, a saving of $227,000 in this item. Then there has also been a reduction in the item of "interest on bonds" of over $300,000, namely, from $4,976,204 in 1882 to $4,667,711 in 1883. This may appear singular in view of the fact that the company's debt has actually been increased during the year. The explanation is that the interest paid directly out of net earnings is decreasing—that is all, an increasing proportion of the interest being met from land sales. For instance, on the Kansas Pacific consolidated mortgage $258,275 was contributed for this purpose in 1882 and only $84,000 in 1881, but as much as $616,700 in 1883. It is this that accounts for the smaller charge for interest. As to the new collateral trust bonds issued in 1883, their interest is probably met, as is that of the collateral trust bonds of 1879, out of the interest on the securities pledged for the same. One result of this would be to diminish the item of interest from investments on branch roads, and we notice it has diminished—from $2,211,099 in 1882 to $2,066,682 in 1883—though there are no details to show the cause of the diminution.

The report before us does not give any information as to the doings of these branch roads, not even their gross and net earnings. It simply gives the earnings on the main system of 1,821 miles. In the monthly returns, however, the earnings cover the entire system of roads. Using these monthly figures, we have made up the following showing for three years past. It will be found very interesting, especially as the comparison goes back to 1881, the figures for which year we believe have not previously been separately stated.

| Gross earnings | $29,766,994 | $30,363,926 | $30,034,097 |
| Operating expenses | 16,670,171 | 16,061,950 | 16,812,669 |
| Net earnings | $13,090,823 | $14,301,976 | $13,221,428 |

Here we see that gross earnings at least have varied but little during the last three years, though owing to the smaller expenses in 1882 that year showed very much larger net earnings. But during these three years the mileage of the branches—and consequently the earnings of the same—considerably increased, so let us see how the results on the 1,821 miles of main road alone compare.

| Main System (1,821 miles). | 1883. | 1882. | 1881. |
| Gross earnings | $21,002,542 | $22,823,884 | $24,258,817 |
| Operating expenses | 10,354,541 | 10,727,049 | 12,480,343 |
| Net earnings | $10,648,001 | $12,096,835 | $11,778,474 |

Here we have a different showing. Gross earnings on these 1,821 miles have steadily decreased, the effect of the competition of new roads and of the consequent reduction of rates, which have been such important factors in the company's business during the last two years. The loss, it will be seen, was $1,434,933 in 1882 and $1,821,342 in 1883, or $3,256,275 in the two years together. It is gratifying to observe that the company has been able to meet this loss by a large reduction in expenses, though of course not the whole of it could be made good in this way. The reduction of $372,508 in this item in 1883 in the face of the increase of $608,221 shown above on the whole system, tells us that there must have been a heavy augmentation in the expenses of the branch roads. We therefore state these separately, as follows.

| Branches. | 1883. | 1882. | 1881. |
| Gross earnings | $8,738,452 | $7,540,042 | $5,775,280 |
| Operating expenses | 6,315,630 | 5,334,901 | 4,332,326 |
| Net earnings | $2,442,822 | $2,205,141 | $1,442,954 |

It is clear from this that the increase in expenses is wholly on the branch roads. We also see that it is these lines that have served to keep the earnings of the Union Pacific system entire, as steady as they are shown to have been in the first table above. A large part of the net earnings of these roads, it should be said, go directly into the Union Pacific treasury, since it holds so much of their stock and bonds.

The money market is without feature. There is a very light demand for time loans on stock collateral, and the best obtainable rates are 3@4 per cent for two to four months on dividend stocks and 3½@4½ for the same time on miscellaneous securities. Reports from the interior show a comparative abundance of money, but a little better rates are obtained for carrying grain and making advances to ranchmen in the Southwest. The following statement, made up from returns collected by us, exhibits the week's receipts and shipments of currency and gold by the New York banks.

The above shows the actual changes in the bank holdings of gold and currency caused by this movement to and from the interior. In addition to that movement, the banks have lost $5,100,000 through the operations of the Sub-Treasury and by exports of gold. Adding that item therefore to the above, we have the following, which should indicate the total loss to the New York Clearing House banks of gold and currency for the week covered by the bank statement to be issued to-day.

The Bank of England reports a gain of £254,000 bullion for the week. This represents £216,000 received from abroad and £38,000 from the interior. The Bank of France reports an increase of 6,050,000 francs gold and of 25,000 francs silver, and the Bank of Germany since the last return shows a gain of 1,900,000 marks. The following indicates the amount of bullion in the principal European banks this week and at the corresponding date last year.

THE LEGAL-TENDER DECISION.

Aside from its bearing on the matters directly involved, the decision of the United States Supreme Court in the Juilliard legal-tender case has a distinct and most significant constitutional aspect. The brief of the defendant in error (in whose favor the suit is decided) asserted, while that of the plaintiff in error denied, to the legislature of the nation, a power which is inherent in and is an attribute of sovereignty. The former decision of the Court, by which the constitutionality of the legal-tender act of 1862 was upheld, went no further than to affirm that, during a struggle for national existence, the act of affixing the legal-tender quality to evidences of debt, being a national and appropriate method of procuring ways and means for the prosecution of the war, was constitutional. The present decision goes much further. It asserts the power of Congress in the broadest possible manner. The reasoning, in a nut-shell, is this: a sovereign government has exclusive and unlimited power over the money of the country; the government of the United States is sovereign; the power claimed by the several legal-tender acts is not denied to Congress by the Constitution; and hence it exists, to its fullest extent.

This is a new assertion of national power, going in some respects far beyond any former decision. It is a studied assertion of the right of the national authority to pass laws impairing the obligations of contracts; and the right to debase the coinage and to force creditors to accept the degraded coin at its face value in satisfaction of debts, follows inevitably. There is no attribute of sovereignty which marks the ascendancy of the government over the people more offensively than does this. It does not change matters that the government is, theoretically at least, the expression of the will of a majority of the people. For, in any event, the powers to impair the obligations of contracts and to debase the coinage, involve a denial of the guaranteed rights of individuals, at the discretion of the sovereign, whether an absolute monarch or the populace. This is not said simply as a criticism of the decision, but to show what it means, namely, that the general government, according to it, possesses, without having received it in express terms from the Constitution, a power inherent in full sovereignty which, more than any other, can be used for the oppression and spoliation of the citizen. If it has this right, there is scarcely any other, not explicitly withheld by the Constitution, which the Court must not logically give to Congress upon demand. "Centralization," that bugbear of the fathers, has never achieved a greater victory than this.

The decision is one of vast importance in itself. It settles finally the question of the constitutionality of legal-tender paper money. There are no more points to be raised against it. The government may emit bills of credit, and Congress is the sole judge of the expediency and the necessity of so doing. The pledge contained in the last act which increased the issue of greenbacks, that the whole sum should not exceed four hundred millions, may be kept or violated, as Congress may see fit. No Court decision will interpose to nullify an act substituting legal-tender notes for national-bank notes. The undisputed and unlimited control of the money standard and of the issue of money, is vested in the national legislature. The brief of the defendant in error maintained the right of Congress to coin paper; that is, to issue fiat money, pure and simple. The Court has not taken up that point, but the claim of the learned counsel is not a forced conclusion from the opinions of Mr. Justice Gray. In short, all reliance upon any constitutional inhibition to do anything whatever with the currency which Congress may have a whim to do, must be abandoned, henceforth and forever. The hopeless ignorance, the meddlesomeness, the recklessness and the frivolity of Congress, on many occasions, in dealing with currency matters; the disastrous confusion and present perils; and the narrow escapes we have had from the most calamitous legislation; all these things show what evils the future may have in store for us.

Since the safeguard of a constitutional prohibition has been declared not to exist, there is a new incentive to all who realize what an opportunity is given to rashness and folly by this decision to take measures to prevent the possibility of acts of unwisdom. The American people have had experience enough with bad systems of money to appreciate the value of a good system; but they do not. Greenbackism in its offensive forms—as the war cry of the financially unfortunate and as the shibboleth of a political party—has disappeared. But it is not dead. On the contrary, it only requires a fresh occasion to bring it forth again in greater strength and with added aggressiveness. Now, if ever, is the time to overthrow it by a thorough and systematic campaign. The money cost of distributing lavishly, in all infected districts, popularly written and convincing tracts, would be very slight, and the effect upon thinking and well-disposed men would be incalculable. But it will not do to rely upon that agency alone. It is the imperative duty of all men who appreciate the great danger the financial interests of the country are in, not only from the opportunity now given to the worshipers of paper money, but to the idolaters of the silver dollar, to make their power felt within their respective parties. If there is any great political issue dividing men into two parties, the politicians will find it out in due time and tell us what it is.

Meantime business men can see that, whichever party may win, it is essential for their best good that no man who is unsound on the currency shall be elected to office. If they act accordingly, with as much courage as is displayed when they discharge a dishonest clerk, we shall at any rate have a reform of the currency—whether a permanent one or not the future will show. And in addition to all this, men must be prepared to act determinedly and unitedly, if Congress should ever attempt to put into execution the new power which the Supreme Court finds it to possess. California showed the way during the whole period of the suspension of specie payments. If the business men of the East suffer the currency to be still further degraded, it will be their own fault. It is even now in their power to drive the silver dollar out of sight, in spite of its legal-tender character, as effectually as they drove out the trade dollar.

FEATURES OF THE PENNSYLVANIA REPORT.

No one can take up the report of the Pennsylvania Railroad without being impressed with the magnitude of the company's operations. All know that it is the greatest railroad corporation in the land, and that its traffic is of vast proportions. But it is not till we see the actual figures that tell of its operations, that we form any really adequate conception of the dimensions of the business it is doing.

We are led to these reflections by what appears to be a change in one of the company's statistical tables presented with the annual report submitted this week, and which enables one for the first time to see the full extent of all its operations. It has always been the policy to give a summary, showing the business both east and west of Pittsburg, but this summary was apparently confined to the lines directly operated, and left out all others. It did not, to our knowledge, include those lines, of considerable importance in the aggregate, which the company owns or controls but does not operate through its own officers. Consequently it failed to indicate the full amount of business done by the entire system. In the present report, however, the summary has been made to include all lines "owned or controlled, east and west of Pittsburg," and the result is, figures more imposing than any previously given.

To show the magnitude of the business we need only say that this summary discloses that both in 1883 and 1882 the gross earnings of the network of roads in its control reached over 100 million dollars—in 1882 $101,514,926 and in 1883 $105,653,532; that even the net earnings exceeded 36 million dollars in both years. But while this acquaints us with the system's earnings, it is not half the story. A better indication is the traffic statistics, which show that in 1883 the system carried over 83⅝ million tons of freight and 48¾ million passengers. Even this, however, conveys only partial knowledge, since the passengers traveled, and the freight was hauled, over longer or shorter distances. Hence, the mile being the recognized unit of railroad operations, the work done in 1883 can only be truly shown by the equivalent in passenger and ton miles, which are represented by the enormous totals of eleven hundred and fifty-six million passengers carried one mile, and seventy-seven hundred and fifty-nine million tons of freight one mile.

The main interest, however, the report has is in the results of operations for 1883 as compared with other years. In this sense it has a two-fold value. First, in showing to the security holders of the company the value and earning capacity of their property, and secondly as reflecting the course of business during the year for railroad property generally. In this latter respect, the Pennsylvania system is certainly very representative in character. Its lines traverse substantially the whole of the territory east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio, and they embrace in their business every shade of industry—manufacturing, agricultural and miscellaneous. The year 1883 it is known was not particularly favorable to railroad business. The crops were of only moderate proportions, and manufacturing industries were nearly all depressed. The same conditions that affected the Pennsylvania lines must also have affected other lines in the same territory. For this reason it is satisfactory to note that the Pennsylvania figures show continued progress. The monthly statements had, until the closing months of the year, recorded gains in earnings on the lines east of Pittsburg, but it was not certain that the Western lines were also improving, since the profit on the same was constantly diminishing, which might be due either to heavier expenses or heavier charges, or a smaller business. The figures now given in the report exhibit a gain of $4,138,606 in gross earnings on all lines owned or controlled (the gain on the lines directly operated east of Pittsburg had been $2,003,418), but net earnings exhibit an improvement of only $607,264. The result is much the same as on the Eastern lines alone, namely a much heavier increase proportionately in expenses than in earnings, but this addition to expenses in the case of the Pennsylvania is not as significant as it would be in the case of some other lines, since the Pennsylvania is all the time spending large amounts for betterments and improvements, which it charges to ordinary operating expenses. The point of main importance is the constant accession to traffic, as shown in the increase of 3,897,797 in the number of tons of freight moved (all lines, both east and west), and of 3,578,148 in the number of passengers carried.

In reference to the fiscal results of the year's operations we may say what we said in previous reviews, namely, that the company's income is affected in three different ways. First, by the outcome on the lines east of Pittsburg and Erie, whose earnings go directly into the company's treasury; secondly, by the result on those lines for whose charges and obligations it is in whole or in part responsible; and thirdly, by the return received on the large mass of securities of branch and connecting roads which it holds. When business is good, it usually happens that there is a gain from each of these sources, while on the other hand, when business is bad, there is just as likely to be a loss from every one of these component parts. It follows that though the company owns a very large system of mileage, it is not necessary to know the outcome on each separate division, in order to arrive at the actual result to the parent company. For instance, on the lines west of Pittsburg, though we had no figures whatever showing their operations, the relative profitableness or unprofitableness of the same would be manifest by the single item of dividends received on the stock of the Pennsylvania Company (every share of which the Pennsylvania Railroad owns), which company operates these Western lines. In the same way, to get at the result on the lines east of Pittsburg, we need only examine the income account of the main stem and branches, Pittsburg to Philadelphia—1,313½ miles—since it is this division that sustains and controls the other two, the United New Jersey and the Philadelphia & Erie. Indeed, it is on this section that the whole structure composing the Pennsylvania system of roads has been reared. Hence if we would have at once a comprehensive and exact idea of the company's fiscal operations, a study of the income account of this part of the system is all that is necessary. Moreover, the Pennsylvania covers so wide a field, and is governed by such a variety of conditions and circumstances, that any rehearsal of the details is out of the question. Accordingly, we give below simply an abstract of the income account for six years past. The comparison will show at a glance the progress that has been made in this period of time, and in what quarters it has been most pronounced.

* Including $200,000 in 1882 and $100,000 in 1883 for bonds due State of Pennsylvania.

‡ This was a debit, and occurred through the charging off, in whole or in part, of sundry items not thought fully good, and also by the payment of $100,000 on account of the sinking fund for year 1878 and $100,000 for trust fund same year.

§ Debit, because of certain items that were charged off.

Here we see how largely the company has gained in each of the three ways mentioned above—that is, first in net earnings, then in interest on investments, and finally in having to meet a smaller loss on the lines leased or operated by it. Net earnings we find continue to show an increase, despite the many adverse features in the general situation of trade and business that have existed and still exist. The extent of the improvement in this respect within recent years is reflected in the fact that while in 1878 the total net was only $9,396,037, in the past year it was $13,696,400, being a gain of over $4,300,000, or nearly 50 per cent, in five years. That there has been no corresponding increase in charges is apparent from the item of rentals, interest, &c., which counted for $5,192,440 in 1878 and counts for $6,429,928 in 1883, an augmentation of only $1,237,488.. More striking, however, than the gain in net earnings is the increase in the sum derived (in cash) from dividends and interest on the securities held by it. Thus in 1878 this amounted to no more than $1,804,846; in 1883 it reached $4,113,059. The report calls attention to the size of this item and states that the amount is $214,321 in excess of the interest upon the company's entire funded indebtedness. A further favorable feature is, as said, in the smaller losses the company has to meet on many of the lines operated by it. In 1878, for instance, the lease of the United New Jersey Companies netted a loss of $1,136,775, but in 1883 the loss was no more than $653,915. It is true that in 1881 the deficit was even smaller, but the less satisfactory showing now is to be ascribed not to any falling off in business but to a heavy augmentation in expenses and to some other special and exceptional circumstances. On the Philadelphia & Erie, the Baltimore & Potomac, and the Elmira Chemung & Canandaigua, the result is even more gratifying. The Pennsylvania has had to advance nothing to the first two of these during either 1883 or 1882 (they having become self-sustaining) and nothing to the third since 1880. In 1878 the company paid over to them more than half a million dollars. On the other hand, the Allegheny Valley road would appear to be becoming more burdensome with each succeeding year, and $661,010 was advanced to the same in 1883, against only $240,260 in 1878.

Under all these circumstances, it is not surprising to note that the balance applicable to stock has been constantly on the increase, and that in 1883 the amount was considerably more than double what it was in 1878. Even on 1882 the increase is as much as a million dollars, though this has brought with it no increased distribution to the stockholders, who received 8½ per cent cash dividends in both 1882 and 1883. The report states that, in view of the business depression existing, the division of profits was fully as large as a conservative management of the property would warrant. This remark was probably intended for the English holders of the stock, who are accustomed in their own country to seeing a company's yearly surplus distributed in full to the stockholders. In this country, where the demand for additional outlays is so incessant and so urgent, we are rather inclined to insist upon the retention of a part of the surplus for this purpose. It should be said, however, that while nominally the Pennsylvania stockholder received only 8½ per cent on his investment, in reality he received much more—nearly 10 per cent—through the allotment of stock at par, which in the market commanded a premium.

It has been the policy of the company within recent years to provide the means needful for new extensions and additions to the property, partly by an increase in shares and partly by an increase of bonds, rather than by the issue of bonds alone. This serves a double purpose. In the first place it tends to avoid an undue enlargement of the debt, distributing the cost for new property between stock and bonds, and, secondly, it gives stockholders the opportunity of themselves contributing some of the additional capital needed from time to time—the inducemen offered of course being the premium on the shares. It was in pursuance of this policy that the stock during the year was increased $7,300,000, while bonds were increased only $3,000,000 (collateral trust bonds). The proceeds of these sales (except about two million dollars still retained in the treasury) were used either in providing additional facilities on existing lines or to aid in the construction of new branch and auxiliary lines thought necessary for the protection and development of the company's business, $8,349,464 altogether having been spent in this way in 1883, the largest two items being $1,645,377 for new equipment and $3,300,702 on account of the line to Reading. It is estimated that the call on new capital account during the current year will be fully as heavy as in 1883, which illustrates how large the demands are upon a company like the Pennsylvania to enable it to maintain its favorable position for doing business and commanding traffic. We presume that the additional three millions of collateral trust bonds sold last week are to be applied to this purpose, but the report states that the policy of giving stockholders the privilege of supplying a part of the needful funds will not be deviated from.

The strong feature in the Pennsylvania's position, and which makes the large net earnings shown above possible, is the great preponderance of its local traffic. In the past year the company carried, on the 1,313 miles of road composing its main stem and branches, 21,674,160 tons of paying freight, but not ten per cent of this was through freight, the aggregate of this latter being no more than 1,937,850 tons. Moreover, the gain over previous years is wholly in local and not in through freight. For instance, total tonnage was larger than in 1882 by 1,313,761 tons, but local tonnage was larger by 1,320,730 tons, showing that through tonnage must have fallen off 6,969 tons. In the previous year, of a gain of 2,393,872 tons, all but 128 tons was in local freight. Almost the whole of the company's vast network of roads is tributary to the main stem between Pittsburg and Philadelphia (358 miles), and as a result the traffic over this line has become very heavy. This fully appears from the fact that in 1883 these 358 miles of road earned at the rate of $74,638 per mile. Mr. Poor, in his Manual, gives the average for all roads in the country in the year 1882 at $7,188, or less than one-tenth the amount on this piece of road. It is to be noted that the Pennsylvania has been gaining very heavily here, and that as recently as 1878 the earnings were only $48,850 per mile.

As regards the income of $4,113,059 from investments, this was made up, as in previous years, of a great variety of items, only three of which were above a quarter of a million in amount. The gain over 1882 is $600,000, and is due in some measure to the improved position of the companies in which the Pennsylvania has stock or bond ownership. Thus the increased dividends paid on Northern Central stock swelled the receipt from this source to $241,656, from $152,523 in 1882. Then $336,000 is given as income from Western Pennsylvania general mortgage bonds which in the previous year did not appear at all. About this amount there must have been something exceptional, since only 2¼ millions of these bonds are held, which at 5 per cent interest would yield no more than $125,000. In addition to the gain from these two sources the income was swelled by an increase in many of the minor items. As to what extent the total of over four million dollars will be affected by the prevailing depression in business, it is of course impossible to say.

A GOOD TRADE STATEMENT.

The January exhibit of our foreign trade is even better than expected. There is an excess of merchandise exports over imports in the sum of nearly 20 million dollars, and though this is about four millions less than in the corresponding month of 1883, it is yet a very satisfactory showing, in view of the conditions that have prevailed. One statement which we have heretofore made this large favorable balance confirms, and that is that the high rates for foreign exchange in January were not due to the conditions of our trade at that time. The same remark will hold good with regard to February. It is evident therefore that a settlement has been made in part by a return movement of securities and in part by a withdrawal of foreign balances here which has been induced by the better employment found for the same at home, and by the disturbed condition of our monetary arrangements resulting from the attempt to bring silver on a forced parity with gold. The merchandise movement at each port during January this and last year is shown below.

It will be observed that as compared with a year ago, imports still appear to be seeking a lower level, since the total for January, 1884, is 2⅝ millions smaller than in January, 1883. Nevertheless, this total is by no means small, being at the rate of over 650 millions a year, so that if we compare with a few years back there is no lack of room for further contraction in this respect. It is to be remarked, too, that the goods imported are apparently going into consumption. A month ago we called attention to the fact that stocks in the warehouses were increasing. Now a downward movement is in progress, for while on the 1st of January the aggregate value of goods in bond was $29,948,104, on the 1st of February the amount had been reduced to $28,906,612, which compares with $32,060,818 at the same date in 1883, $22,660,302 at the same date in 1882, and $40,627,615 at the same time in 1881.

As to the exports, the falling off of 6⅝ millions for the month is more easily explained than was the heavy decrease for the previous month. We find that the breadstuffs exports record a contraction of $3,550,796, and the provisions exports a contraction of $1,884,648, or together $5,435,444. On the other hand, there was a gain of $792,977 in the shipments of live stock, which would reduce this loss to $4,642,467—leaving 1¾ millions of the total falling off of 6⅝ millions to be accounted for by a decrease in other items. Cotton is the chief of these other items. Our own statistics show that we exported of this staple during January 629,904 bales, against 695,025 bales in January, 1883, a diminution of 65,121 bales. But the money loss is not as large as these figures would indicate, for prices ruled higher this year, low middling uplands being quoted at 10 3-16 and 10⅜ respectively at the opening and close of the month, against 9¾ and 9 11-16 at the same dates in 1883. Allowing for the difference in price, cotton would just about make up the remainder (1¾ millions) of the loss in exports not explained by the movement of provisions and breadstuffs. As to petroleum, the shipments from New York were not quite equal to those of 1883, but here also prices were higher—refined having been quoted nearly two cents above the figure of a year ago—so that it is not likely that in value this item records any very large decrease. In the following table we give the breadstuffs and provisions exports from each leading port.

In the breadstuffs exports, of course wheat records a heavy decrease; but it is interesting to observe that corn, too, is now beginning to exhibit a falling off. In former months corn has been relied upon to offset in some measure the decrease in wheat, but evidently this will not be the case in the future, for in January, 1884, we exported only 2½ million bushels, against over 4 millions in January, 1883. Rye, however, of which the exports are small, continues to show decided improvement on a year ago. Another feature in these breadstuffs figures is that the falling off in the shipments of flour is relatively much smaller than in wheat, and the demand for flour (the manufactured article) apparently continues unabated, even while it is almost impossible to dispose of wheat—the unmanufactured article. Thus in the month under review the wheat exports fell off about two million bushels, but the flour exports diminished only 86,000 barrels, and the result is that in value there is very little difference between the two—5⅜ millions for wheat and 4⅞ millions for flour. Subjoined are the figures.

In the provisions exports it was thought improbable a short time ago that the current movement would be smaller than the movement of last year, and yet for two months now it has fallen behind. The falling off reaches nearly two million dollars, and it will be seen is confined almost entirely to pork products—particularly bacon and hams. In dairy products and in beef products, on the other hand, there is a pretty general increase. It is further to be noted that in the exports of live stock, which do not figure in the totals because the statistics have not until recently been furnished, there is quite a marked gain over 1883. Thus cattle was shipped this year to an aggregate value of $1,295,509, while in 1883 the total reached only $445,012. Below are the details of the provisions exports.

DYNAMITE IN ENGLAND.

The leading feature of our European news is no longer the Soudan or Tonquin, but dynamite. All over, in Paris, in Berlin, in Vienna, at Rome, at St. Petersburg, at Madrid, as well as in London, the political conspirator is seeking to accomplish his purpose by wholesale and reckless destruction of life and property; and, for the most part, dynamite is his instrument. The object evidently is to establish a reign of terror, and so to paralyze the governments as to compel them to yield to the wildest and most revolutionary demands of the extremists. It is not wonderful that Russia, Austria and Germany should be sounding each other as to the propriety of entering into a fresh league against the assassin, and that they should be using their best efforts to induce both France and England to come into the alliance. If the present state of things should continue, some such union will be demanded by the intelligent classes of Europe, and political agitation will thus defeat itself.

Hitherto it has been our privilege to contemplate the political storms and tempests of Europe as students rather than as interested parties. Our interests were not at stake. Our honor was not called in question. Secure on our own broad continent, suffering neither from want nor from injustice, and in no way responsible for the broils of Europe, we might have sympathy and sorrow, but we had no cause for inconvenience or trouble, and no need either to explain or to apologize. It would almost seem as if the situation were now changed. The use of dynamite in England in circumstances where it was clearly the intention to destroy both life and property by so-called Irish-Americans, has filled the public mind with consternation and alarm, and has aroused a feeling of indignation which unfortunately is finding free expression against this country. The argument is simple enough; but it is much more simple than logical. Amid the wreck of disastrous explosions, and in suspicious places, are found mysterious boxes, packages, clocks, all in some way supposed to be connected with dynamite, and all of American manufacture. It is at once inferred that these boxes, packages and infernal machines, in the shape of clocks, were brought over from America for purposes of destruction, and the American people and Government are charged with knowledge of it and therefore with criminal neglect of duty. They harbor conspirators, and they allow them to leave their shores carrying with them instruments of barbarous warfare against a friendly and unoffending people. Such is the charge which is now openly and publicly made; and it is not at all improbable that it may soon, if it has not already, become the subject of correspondence between the government at London and that at Washington.

Is this presentation of the case, as made by the British press and people generally, a fair presentation? We think not. Among the American people, properly so-called, and among all the better informed classes of our adopted citizens, there are no two opinions as to the character of these dynamite outrages. They are a libel on the civilization of the nineteenth century. On the part of their perpetrators they argue a condition of moral nature which forbids us to place them in the category of brutes, but which justifies us in placing them in the category of fiends—not only enemies of law and order, but enemies of the race. Their conduct has no redeeming feature; and it reveals quite as much of the coward as of the scoundrel. This we believe to be the general American sentiment in the matter. If it were made clear that these crimes were openly hatched in America, that they were committed by Americans, and that the dynamite and other instruments of destruction were bought in America, and conveyed across the Atlantic for purposes of war upon the British people, it would certainly be difficult for us to repel the charge of criminal neglect. But it is not so. If the schemes are hatched here, they are hatched in such a manner as not to violate the law. There is, no doubt, much loud talking—much vaporing and braggadocio; but the men who so talk are not the kind of men who lend themselves to such enterprises. Dynamite, and clocks, and other instruments for lighting the dynamite, may be bought here, and taken on board ship, and carried to the British shores, by the conspirators themselves; but it is all done secretly; and until there is an overt act of law-breaking, the Government has not the power to interfere.

It is by no means certain, however, that the explosives are the production of American manufacturers in America. That they were found in American boxes is certainly suspicious; but it is not conclusive evidence. How many thousand boxes similar to those found cross the Atlantic weekly. How easy to procure these boxes and, for the sake of a blind, fill them with the home-made material. Then again there are millions of American-made clocks in Great Britain; and we have the authority of experts for saying that it is an easy matter so to arrange the machinery as to make them serviceable in dynamite explosion. How easy to buy in London, or Birmingham, or Glasgow, a few American clocks and make the necessary changes. Nor is it at all certain that the perpetrators of these later outrages are even Irish-Americans. Here again there is ground for suspicion. The cut of the clothing and the shape of the boots, in some instances, and the finding of cards in others—all point in one direction; but they do not furnish conclusive proof. Men engaged in such work do not use cards to defeat their own purposes. In the former series of explosions Irish Americans were undoubtedly the principal conspirators, as was abundantly proved at the several trials; but it is not good logic to say that because the conspirators were Irish-Americans in those former cases, they are Irish-Americans in these latter. Suspicious as the situation doubtless is, it may turn out that Irish-Americans have been unjustly blamed, and that the crimes have not any direct connection with the American land or people.

Besides, is not Great Britain holding us to a stricter account even than she holds herself? What is wanted is proof. Until proof sufficient has been had and established, the British Government and people must not hold us to a responsibility and an accountability which it has ever been their pride to refuse to recognize in their own case. It has been a crown of glory to the British people that their sea-girt island has been a safe asylum for generations to political refugees. That glory has not yet departed from them. They ought not to ask us to do what they would not do themselves. We cannot prevent the making of dynamite; nor can we prevent its being shipped to Europe. But it has to pass through our Custom House, as it has to pass through that of England. Vigilance there is perhaps much more at fault than vigilance here; and it is more than probable that a little more vigilance in the detection and a little more promptitude in the punishment of Irish outrages would have begotten a state of things which would have contrasted favorably with that of to-day.

COTTON CONSUMPTION AND OVERLAND MOVEMENT TO MARCH 1.

We are able this week to make up our overland statements for another month. This brings the statements down to March 1, and they now cover six months of the crop year.

OVERLAND MOVEMENT TO MARCH 1, 1884.

The gross movement for the month of February shows a decrease from the movement for the same month last year of 29,307 bales, and an increase over February, 1882, of 27,701 bales, making the gross figures for the six months this season 762,421 bales, against 883,494 bales in 1882-83 and 822,369 bales in 1881-82. The net movement for the month, however, has been only 16,399 bales, against 54,236 bales in February, 1883, and 16,077 bales in 1882; and for the six months the total is 461,070 bales against 526,556 bales last season, and 353,355 bales the previous season. This small net total in February of this year is due to the fact that a much larger portion than usual of the gross has been marketed during the month through New York and Boston, and counted therefore in the weekly receipts at the ports. Below we give the details for the six months, this year and the two previous years.

RECEIPTS, EXPORTS AND SPINNERS' TAKINGS.

The falling off in port receipts noticed in previous months has continued, the decrease now from last season reaching 509,294 bales; the month's movement has been 385,938 bales, against 595,598 bales in February, 1883, and 291,992 bales in the same month of 1882, the decrease from last year having been 209,660 bales, and the increase over the preceding year 93,946 bales. The total net port receipts up to March 1 are 4,353,604 bales, against 4,862,898 bales for the same time in 1882-83 and 4,033,541 bales during the corresponding period in 1881-82. New Orleans stands alone of all the important Southern ports as showing an increase over last season. Foreign exports during the month exhibit an increase over the same month of the two preceding years, having reached 435,259 bales, against 408,855 bales and 324,776 bales respectively; the total for the six months is 2,944,355 bales against 3,214,893 bales in 1882-83 and 2,284,197 bales in 1881-82. Stocks both at the ports and interior towns are below those of last year. The receipts, exports and stocks, presented in our usual form, are as follows.

* Great Britain exports include to the Channel.

Using the facts disclosed by the foregoing statements, we shall find that the portion of the crop which has reached a market through the outports and overland, and the Southern consumption since September 1 this year and the two previous years, is as follows.

| | 1883-84. | 1882-83. | 1881-82. |
| Receipts at the ports to Mar. 1.....bales. | 4,353,604 | 4,862,898 | 4,033,541 |
| Net shipments overland during same time | 461,070 | 526,556 | 353,355 |
| Total receipts.....bales. | 4,814,674 | 5,389,454 | 4,386,896 |
| Southern consumption since September 1. | 190,000 | 200,000 | 155,000 |
| Total to March 1.....bales. | 5,004,674 | 5,589,454 | 4,541,896 |

The amount of cotton marketed since September 1 in 1883-84 is thus seen to be 584,780 bales less than in 1882-83 and 462,778 bales more than in 1881-82. To determine the portion which has gone into the hands of Northern spinners during the same period, we have prepared the following.

| | | | |
| Total receipts to March 1, 1884, as above.....bales. | | | 5,004,674 |
| Stock on hand commencement of year (Sept. 1, 1883)— | | | |
| At Northern ports | 135,180 | | |
| At Southern ports | 96,926 | —232,106 | |
| At Providence, &c., Northern interior markets | | 5,011— | 237,117 |
| Total supply to March 1, 1884 | | | 5,241,791 |
| Of this supply there has been exported to foreign ports since Sept. 1, 1883 | 2,944,355 | | |
| Less foreign cotton included | 4,497— | 2,939,858 | |
| Sent to Canada direct from West | | 13,728 | |
| Burnt North and South | | 12,358 | |
| Stock on hand end of month (March 1, 1884)— | | | |
| At Northern ports.....bales. | 382,221 | | |
| At Southern ports | 566,373— | 948,594 | |
| At Providence, &c., Northern interior markets | | 15,119— | 3,929,657 |
| Total takings by spinners since September 1, 1883 | | | 1,312,134 |
| Taken by Southern spinners | | | 190,000 |
| Taken by Northern spinners since September 1, 1883 | | | 1,122,134 |
| Taken by Northern spinners same time in 1882-83 | | | 1,293,201 |
| Decrease in takings by Northern spinners this year..bales. | | | 171,067 |

The above indicates that Northern spinners had up to March 1 taken 1,122,134 bales, a decrease from the corresponding period of 1882-83 of 171,067 bales and from the same months of 1881-82 of 90,381.

AMOUNT OF CROP NOW IN SIGHT.

In the foregoing we have the number of bales which has already been marketed this year and the two previous seasons. An additional fact of interest is the total of the crop which was in sight on Mar. 1, compared with previous years. We reach that point by adding to the above the stock remaining at that date at the interior towns, less stock held by them at the beginning of the season. In this manner we find the result for three years on March 1 to be as follows.

| Total marketed, as above....bales. | 5,004,674 | 5,589,454 | 4,541,896 |
| Interior stocks in excess of Sept. 1 | 178,000 | 300,000 | 313,000 |
| Total in sight.....bales. | 5,182,674 | 5,889,454 | 4,854,896 |

This indicates that the movement up to March 1 of the present year is 706,780 bales less than in 1882–83 and 327,778 bales more than in 1881–82. Comparing with February 1 we find that the total month's movement from the plantations is 370,337 bales in 1884, against 664,834 bales in 1883 and 301,069 bales in 1882.

WEIGHT OF BALES.

To furnish a more exact measure of the receipts up to March 1, we give below our usual table of the weight of bales. We give for comparison the figures for the same time in the two previous seasons.

* Including Florida.

It will be noticed that the movement up to March 1 shows a decrease in the average weight as compared with the same periods of the last two years, the average this year being 482·38 lbs. per bale, against 491·17 lbs. per bale for the same time in 1882-83 and 473·83 in 1881-82.

THE COTTON GOODS TRADE IN FEBRUARY.

In the early part of the month there was a fairly active movement in brown and bleached goods, wide sheetings, &c., at the important centres, and many popular makes were advanced from 2½ to 5 per cent. Since the middle of the month the markets have been quiet, owing to the backwardness of the jobbing trade, arising, as is claimed, from unfavorable weather. Goods have latterly shown a tendency to accumulate, and the price of low-grade brown and bleached cottons are barely steady at the close. Colored cottons have been dull throughout the month, but prices are nominally unchanged.

Print cloths show no activity, and, in fact, at the end of the month are lower, in spite of the curtailment of production at Fall River caused by a partial strike among the spinners. Even the lessened out-turn has not prevented an increase in stocks, the total at the end of February being more than 100,000 pieces larger than at the close of January, showing that present production is ample for the supply of the present demand. The stock of print cloths in the hands of manufacturers and speculators on March 1 reached 741,000 pieces, against 635,000 pieces on February 1, 1884, 684,000 pieces on March 1, 1883, and 1,216,000 pieces March 1, 1882.

LONDON, Saturday, Feb. 16, 1884.

In the money market during the past week a somewhat quieter feeling has prevailed, and more confidence has been apparent. There has been no demand for gold for exportation to Australia, and the rate at New York on London for cable transfers has risen to 4·89. The Australian demand for gold seems to have been quite a speculative operation, but it has produced a temporary scare, and has led to a very cautious feeling on the part of capitalists. In consequence of those operations the value of money has been forced up to the extent of about half per cent, and up to the present time the rise has been very satisfactorily maintained. It is, however, doubtful if the money market will long retain its present firm appearance. There is no considerable supply of bills in the discount market, and the recent spasmodic movement in the money market has had an adverse influence upon general business, which is not likely to be recoved immediately. New loans are also few, and there seems to be a general disposition shown to trade and speculate with the greatest caution.

On the other hand the advance in the Bank rate of discount to 3½ per cent has had its usual effect, viz., to improve the exchanges and to attract gold to this country. Up to the present time no considerable amounts have arrived, but at all events the outward movement has been checked, and some addition has been made to the supply of gold by the receipt of moderate quantities both from home and foreign sources. Future Bank of England returns are likely to show increasing strength. The present week's changes are incidental chiefly to the financial operations of the government. The payments of imperial taxation and also for exchequer bills have varied the totals considerably, but the proportion of reserve to liabilities is about the same, viz., 40·83 per cent.

Annexed is a statement showing the present position of the Bank of England, the Bank rate of discount, the price of consols, the average quotation for English wheat, the price of middling upland cotton, of No. 40 mule twist, fair 2d quality, and the Clearing House return for the past week, compared with previous years:

In reference to the state of the bullion market during the past week, Messrs. Pixley & Abell remark:

Gold—With the exception of £20,000 sovereigns, taken from the Bank for South America, there has been but little demand for gold, and sovereigns and bars to the value of £211,000 have been sent in. The arrivals since our last have been £11,000 from Australia, £11,000 from West Indies, £46,000 from New Zealand, £110,000 from the Cape; total, £178,000. The Tamar has taken £15,200 to the Brazils and the P. and O. steamer £10,000 to Calcutta.

Silver—An improvement in the value of bars has taken place, and the price may now be quoted as 51⅛d. per oz. standard; the demand has been for India. We have received since our last £10,000 from Chili, £7,100 from West Indies, £60,000 from New York; total, £107,100. The P. & O. steamer has taken £113,000 to India.

Mexican dollars have improved in sympathy with bar silver, and those brought by the French steamer Ville de St. Nazaire, $93,000 in value, have been placed at 49¾d. per oz., chiefly for refining purposes. The Valetta has taken £13,500 to China and the Straits.

Tenders were opened at the Bank of England yesterday for £2,000,000 Liverpool Corporation 3½ per cent stock, and the total applications amounted to £2,160,100, at prices varying from £101 10s. per cent to £99, the minimum. Tenders at 99 will receive about 80 per cent of the amount applied for, those above that price being allotted in full.

The wheat trade remains in a very stubborn state. The statistical position is regarded as more favorable to holders; but millers pay no attention to the fact, and only buy from hand to mouth. After a winter of unusual mildness, the weather has become cold, but far from severe. Easterly winds have set in, and, in an agricultural point of view, the change is a very satisfactory one. The wheat plant was becoming in several localities "winter proud," but if this weather should continue vegetation, which is very forward for the time of year, will receive a wholesome check. The change in the weather is advantageous in two ways; firstly, by checking any premature growth of vegetation, and secondly, by improving the condition of our home supplies of wheat. Of late there have been some complaints that the very mild winter had affected the condition of the wheat in granary, and hence it was considered that a better demand existed, and would continue to exist, for hard and dry foreign wheats. A continuance of this weather should be calculated to be unfavorable to that demand, but there is undoubtedly a diminished foreign stock here, as the granary keepers are seeking for orders to fill up their warehouses. They will, however, find no difficulty in effecting this. There are large supplies of flour offering for sale, and excellent parcels are being disposed of at the low price of only 26s. for 280 lbs. Barley, of which the farmers have been selling freely since harvest, owing to the unsatisfactory state of the wheat trade, is being less freely delivered by them; but those who have grown good malting barley have had satisfactory returns. Very little good barley now remains to be disposed of, and a low average price may be expected. This may dispose many to arrive at the conclusion that farmers will be compelled to sell more wheat, as there must be provision made for "ways and means."

The following quantities of wheat, flour and Indian corn are estimated to be afloat to the United Kingdom compared with previous periods; Baltic supplies are not included:

Converting quarters of wheat into hundred-weights, the totals for the whole kingdom are as follows:

| | 1883-84. | 1882-83. | 1881-82. | 1880-81. |

| Wheat.....cwt. | 21,800,000 | 20,300,000 | 19,333,000 | 16,403,700 |

☞ This aggregate is arrived at by multiplying the sales in the 187 markets above by 3⅓, and that result is reduced to cwt. by multiplying it by 4⅓. This proportion between the 187 markets and the totals for the kingdom is adopted by the London grain trade and is accepted by it as producing a result approximately correct.

GOLD CURRENCY OF THE ARGENTINE REPUBLIC.—In our article on the gold supply and distribution of January 26th, in speaking of the new demands constantly making upon the world's stock of gold, we referred (page 102) to the Argentine Republic and its currency reform. According to the law of October, 1883, all banking institutions of that Republic were required to make their notes redeemable in gold coin. The London Statist of February 9th says that, in reply to a circular note issued by the President in November last, the banks have now declared that only a short time will be sufficient for the withdrawal of the notes they have in circulation which are not in conformity with the Act of October, or for making them legal issue by means of stamps or notices in the papers. The ground, therefore, being clear, the President of the Republic decreed in December as follows:

ART. 1.—A period of six months is hereby allowed to those banks of issue that wish their notes to be receivable in the State offices, to comply with the Act of October 19th, and this decree, by changing their present notes in circulation and setting forth on the new ones that they are payable to bearer in national gold money at sight.

ART. 2.—One year is allowed to such banks as, from any cause, may be unable to change their issue for the new one, during which time they can, either by a visible stamp on which they promise to pay bearer in national gold, or by notices in the leading papers of the capital of the same tenor, make their issue legal.

ART. 3.—The time referred to in the foregoing article shall commence to run from thirty days after the publication of this decree; and if, when said time shall have expired, the banks shall not have begun to exchange their issues for new notes, their legal privileges shall cease until they complete said exchange.

ART. 4.—A post of Director-General of Banks of Issue shall be established in the Finance Department.

ART. 5.—Those banks at present authorized to issue notes, or whose issue has been consented to by the National Government, and which, having complied with the provisions of the Act and of this decree, wish their notes to be receivable in the State offices, must apply to the Director-General of Banks, binding themselves to send in monthly an exact balance sheet of its affairs, and showing its issue and reserve in coin, &c.

ART. 6.—Said balance sheets shall be examined by the Directors and submitted to the Finance Minister.

ART. 7.—The balance-sheets, and the reports and observations made on same, shall be kept strictly private, and shall only be availed of to inspire such prudent measures as may be necessary for the security of the Republic. To this effect, if he consider it necessary, the Finance Minister may order the Director to have the balance-sheets audited.

ART. 8.—The Finance Minister shall issue instructions for the receipt of the notes of such banks as comply with these present provisions. The others shall be excluded.

ART. 9.—The Finance Minister shall fix the administrative attributes of the Director General of Banks.

ART. 10.—Let this be duly reported to the Honorable Congress, communicated, &c.

ROCA. V. de la Plaza.

It will be remembered that throughout the early part of 1883 the quotation of notes was very nearly on a par with gold, and in June specie payments were resumed in the country.

Lehigh & Wilkesbarre Coal Company.—At the annual meeting of the Lehigh & Wilkesbarre Coal Company last week the following statement was submitted: Coal production 2,245,000 and additional tons purchased 93,000. Of this amount 1,530,000 were shipped to Port Johnston, and the remainder to points on the Reading road. The amount expended for improvements and charged to expenses was $275,000. The mortgage debt was reduced $406,000 (exclusive of $84,000 deposited for redemption of bonds). Of $500,000 five-year mortgage bonds which matured July 1, $200,000 have been extended four years and sinking funds continued for the redemption of the same. The company paid interest on incomes during the year and 2½ per cent on $6,116,000 consol. bonds held by the Jersey Central Railroad. No definite action has yet been taken regarding the proposition to lease the property to the Reading. The election for officers resulted as follows: President, W. H. Tillinghast; directors, H. S. Little, John Keen, George B. de Keim, C. C. Knight, F. A. Comly and B. Williams.

Louisville & Nashville.—The Ohio River is to be bridged at Henderson, Ky., a syndicate having taken the $2,000,000 bonds of the Henderson Bridge Company, to provide the funds for that purpose. The Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company, the Southeast & St. Louis Railway Company, the Evansville & Terre Haute Railroad Company, the Peoria Decatur & Evansville Railway Company and the Louisville Evansville & St. Louis Railway Company have entered into a traffic agreement with the Bridge Company for ninety-nine years. The traffic of the several companies named, between the cities of Henderson, Ky., and Evansville, Ind., which is now done by ferry transfer of ten miles, will be greatly increased when the bridge is completed, making the railroad connection continuous and direct from St. Louis and Chicago to Nashville and points south of that city.

The masonry work of the bridge has been under way for a year past, and is nearly completed, the Louis. & Nash. Co. advancing to the Bridge Company the necessary funds. The superstructure has been contracted for, and is to be completed and the bridge opened to traffic in December of this year.

The bridge is to be 53 feet above high-water mark, complying with the requirements of the Federal law, and avoiding the necessity of a drawbridge.

This is one of the most important works undertaken by the L. & N. Railroad Co., as it is under the auspices of that company that the enterprise has been projected and put in the way of early completion; and its good results should naturally be shown in augmented earnings of that company and the several companies centering at Evansville.

—The Louisville & Nashville Company announces the completion of the Owensboro & Nashville road. About fifty miles have been completed during the past year. The road will be operated under a separate organization, not as part of the Louisville system. The Louisville Company owned at the date of the last annual report $959,400 out of a total issue of $1,156,500 of stock.

Oregon & Trans-Continental.—A legal opinion has been given as to the liability of stockholders in this corporation, which may be condensed as follows: When this stock was originally issued in 1881, the subscribers paid in only 83 per cent of the par value of each share, although they received certificates stating that each share had been fully paid up. It appears that 17 per cent of the nominal capital has never been paid into the treasury of the company, and that under the constitution and laws of Oregon, under which the company was organized, the holders of stock are liable to the creditors to the extent unpaid upon each share.

The Supreme Court of Oregon has held the liability to the creditor to be in the following order: First, the corporation must be exhausted; second, the last holder of the stock, if he be solvent, and, third, the prior holder to the extent of debts existing when he held.

[On questions of technical law, such as this, it is desirable to have an opinion on both sides.]

Chicago St. Paul Minneapolis & Omaha.—This company, it is stated, has sold $1,100,000 6 per cent consols, which they were authorized to sell, to H. B. Hollins & Co.

NEW YORK, FRIDAY, MARCH 7, 1884—5 P. M.

The Money Market and Financial Situation.—Aside from some excitement in the stock market incident to a partial corner in Delaware Lackawanna & Western, and some general interest in the outward movement of specie to Europe which has been very pronounced this week, there have been few special features in the general financial situation. The chief causes of the continued stagnation in the money market are the small profits of trade and the decrease of enterprises. The earnings of the railways, which until lately were the most encouraging feature in the general situation, are now in many cases falling off. Further, the stocks of exportable domestic commodities do not find a ready market, and the visible supply of grain in the United States is over 10,000,000 bushels larger than at this time a year ago and over 20,000,000 larger than two years ago.

In this situation of things the aspect of our foreign trade, as compared with this time last year, attracts more than the usual attention. The official report of the Bureau of Statistics shows that in January the excess of exports over imports was $19,677,487, as compared with $21,621,600 in December, and as against $23,409,055 in January, 1883. There is, no doubt, some under-valuation of imports, which, if it could be determined, would reduce the credit balance in our favor; but the balance is certainly quite large, and would be considered satisfactory except that foreign capital has, for the time being, ceased to seek investment in American railway securities and some of our stocks and bonds are coming back here, while at the same time foreign balances are being withdrawn from us, either through fear of our currency laws or through the offer of better remuneration abroad. As the result of these features, the exports of gold have assumed considerable magnitude, and for the week to Saturday night they will reach nearly seven million dollars.

One feature of the financial situation in connection with the stock market in the last week or two is that the general supply of stocks for loan in the market has apparently diminished. There seems to have been something of a change in the general policy of the large owners of stocks in regard to lending them, and it is also thought that a great many have been withdrawn from the loan market and put into banks as collaterals for time loans. The incentives for this change are, first, to sustain the prices of stocks by making it less easy for the bears to borrow stock, and, second, to secure time loans at low rates of interest, in view of the possibility of higher rates of interest later on, under continued exports of gold.

The money market has shown some faint symptoms of a change from the dead level of the last several months; the rates for mercantile discounts were advanced on Monday ½ cent, to 4 and 5 per cent for double names for 60 days and 4 months, and to 5 and 5½ for single names. On Tuesday the rates for double names were quoted at 4 and 4½ but went back to 4 and 5 on Thursday and again to 4 and 4½ on Friday. The net result is no alteration during the week in the rates for double names though the rates for single names are ½ cent higher. Call loans on stock collaterals have vibrated between 1½ and 2½, with the majority at 2. Time loans on dividend-paying stocks are quoted at 3½ to 4 and on mixed collaterals at 4.

The last weekly statement of the New York banks showed a decrease of $1,628,500 in deposits and of $1,018,000 in specie, which resulted in a decrease of $1,061,375 in the surplus reserve, leaving the same however still large—namely, $18,629,975. This surplus, however, is likely to be largely reduced under continued exports of gold.

The great foreign banks all show gains of specie again in their last weekly statements. The Bank of England gained £254,000, the reserve, however, being reduced to 38⅞ per cent from 40⅞ per cent the week previous. The Bank rate of discount remains unchanged at 3½ per cent. The Bank of France gained 6,050,000 francs in gold and 25,000 francs in silver. The Bank of Germany gained 1,900,000 marks in specie.

The following table shows the changes from the previous week and a comparison with the two preceding years in the averages of the New York Clearing House banks.

Exchange.—Sterling exchange has remained firm throughout the week, the posted rates being uniformly 4 87½@4 90½. The rates for actual business remain also unchanged at figures which justify the export of gold, viz.: Sixty days, 4 86¾@4 87; demand, 4 89½@4 89¾; cables, 4 90@4 90¼. Commercial bills continue comparatively scarce at unchanged rates, viz., 4 85@4 85½.

Quotations for foreign exchange are as follows, the prices being the posted rates of leading bankers:

State and Railroad Bonds.—The railroad bond market during the past week has recovered from the depression noted in the closing days of the preceding week, and there has been a pretty general gain in prices over those of Friday, the 29th. One noticeable feature of the market is that there has been more doing in the regular investment issues and first-class bonds, and prices for these especially have advanced. This feature is regarded as indicative of a more general movement of capital for investment in bonds for the sake of the interest.

Fluctuations in the principal issues of bonds during the week have been: West Shore & Buffalo 5s, which ranged at 56½@57@55⅜@57¼@55¾; Erie second consols at 93@94@92@93@92½; Texas & Pacific land grant incomes at 48⅜@48¾@51@50; do. Rio Grande Division firsts at 72¼@72½@71¾@72⅜; Wabash general mortgage 6s at 66@67@65@67; and do. Chicago Division firsts at 77¼@80; Milwaukee & St. Paul Wisconsin & Minnesota 5s advanced 1¾; Burlington & Quincy debenture 5s, 1⅛; Canada Southern firsts, ¾; Burlington Cedar Rapids & Northern firsts, ¾; Chesapeake & Ohio firsts, series B, 1 per cent; San Francisco seconds, class B & C., 2¼; Northern Pacific firsts, ¾; New York Chicago & St. Louis firsts, ¾.

State issues were active and strong during the week. Alabama class B sold at 100¼, 101¼; Alabama class C at 80¾; Georgia 7s, gold, at 113½, 114½; North Carolina special tax at 2¾, 3½; North Carolina 4s at 83¼, 84; Tennessee mixed at 39½, do. compromise at 46¼, do. new series at 40, do. old at 40, 41; Missouri 6s of 1886 at 106, 1887 at 107 and 1889 at 112.

Railroad and Miscellaneous Stocks.—The stock market has been subject to considerable excitement on special occasions and in connection with particular stocks during the last six days, and yet the net result for the week does not show any very great change, though as a general rule the majority of the active stocks record some gains. On Saturday, to the general surprise of the market, Lackawanna stock became scarce, having been largely withdrawn from the loan market by S. V. White, who also continued to buy until the premium for cash stock on that day was 9 per cent over the price for regular delivery, which latter advanced 5⅛, to 133⅛. This squeeze of the shorts, however, was over by Monday evening, and Lackawanna dropped back in a few days nearly to the price before the corner. Union Pacific, St. Paul, Lake Shore, Louisville & Nashville, and some others, have also been active on apprehensions of somewhat similar tactics in connection with them, though nothing of the kind was actually developed during the week. In the last two days, but especially on Friday, the 7th, the market was depressed by the increasing exports of gold. The Union Pacific annual report, which came a day or two ago, was regarded as more favorable than had been expected a month or so back. Central Pacific, Erie and the Gould stocks have been rather weak throughout; while the Vanderbilt stocks, as a rule, have been well sustained. The coal stocks and the shares of Northwestern roads have also been firmly held most of the time, though to-day the whole market tended downward, as already said.

Union Pacific Railway.

(For the year ending Dec. 31, 1883.)

The Union Pacific annual report furnishes the earnings and expenses for 1,821 miles of road only, including the main line from Omaha to Ogden, the Kansas Pacific line from Kansas City to Denver and from Leavenworth to Lawrence, and the Cheyenne Division from Denver to Cheyenne.

The facts relating to the Union Pacific mileage and earnings might easily be misunderstood by many readers of the CHRONICLE without the following explanations:

1. The mileage on the main Divisions, as above stated, was 1,821 miles both in 1883 and 1882, and the earnings given in the report for each year are based on that mileage.

2. The whole Union Pacific system, including branch and connecting roads, was 4,693 miles on January 1, 1883, of which 513 miles, embracing the Central Branch Union Pacific and leased lines, the Manhattan Alma & Burlingame, the Manhattan & Northwestern and the Nevada Central railroads, were operated by other companies, leaving 4,180 miles operated in the Union Pacific interest.

During 1883 there were added (mainly on the Oregon Short Line) 396 miles, while the St. Joseph & Western and Solomon railroads, 308 miles, were deducted from the Union Pacific system at the close of 1883, making the whole mileage January 1, 1884, 4,781 miles, from which the same 513 miles deducted as in 1882 left the total mileage operated in the Union Pacific interest on January 1, 1884, 4,268 miles, against 4,180 miles on January 1, 1883.

3. In the annual report the earnings and expenses are reported for the 1,821 miles only and nothing is said of the connecting roads. The only item in regard to the result of their operations is contained in the income account, which is supposed to give the net profit of all the connecting roads in the interest and dividends received by the Union Pacific Company from stocks and bonds owned, which receipts are stated at $2,066,682.

4. The monthly statements of gross and net earnings given out by the company during the year (which are most useful to stockholders) give the gross and net earnings on all the lines operated by the company; and from these and the annual report together the following exhibit is compiled.

The annual report of Mr. Sidney Dillon, President, states that: "The aggregate amount of passenger and freight traffic for the year 1883 exceeded the amount for the previous year, the diminished earnings having been caused by a reduction in rates. The total number of passengers carried was 1,185,984, being an excess of 21 per cent; and of tons of freight carried, 2,583,285, being an excess of 23 per cent over the year 1882. The business depression in Colorado for a greater part of the year, together with a division of Montana traffic with the Northern Pacific Railroad, and the entire diversion from our lines after September 15th of the passenger business between Oregon and Washington Territory and the East, caused a large loss in the passenger business of the Union Division. During the last seven months of 1883 there was a reduction of 25 per cent from the rates previously in force on all the company's lines in Kansas, but the local traffic resulting from the development of the country adjacent to the railway considerably exceeded the amount of this loss, and but for the reduction in rates in Colorado and Utah, arising from the competition of rival lines and the failure to agree upon rates, the gross earnings of the company for the past year would have been largely in excess of the year previous. The latter of these causes has now been remedied, and with the maintenance of present rates, and the continued increase of traffic, the gross and net earnings for the year 1884 should show very favorably when compared with the past year.

"In the through, and in the Pacific Coast business, there was a gain from last year of 23,083 tons in the east-bound freight, but a loss of 67,872 tons in freight west-bound. The local freight increased from 1,609,500 tons to 2,135,955 tons, being at the rate of 32·7 per cent, and the local freight tonnage increased from 329,941,729 tons carried one mile to 435,380,875 tons carried one mile, being an increase of 32 per cent. The average decrease in rates per ton per mile for the year on through freight was 73-100 of one cent, and on local freight was 24-100 of one cent." * * *

"The operating expenses, including taxes, in 1883, were $10,354,540. Compared with the year previous there was a saving of $653,438 in the cost of maintenance of way and of cars, and the increase in the cost of conducting transportation was $203,731, the total saving in operating expenses being $372,508." * * *

"The total amount of coal mined by the company amounted to 757,119 tons, being an increased from the same mines of 95,273 tons, or 14·3 per cent, over the out-put of the preceding year. The average cost loaded into cars was $1 40½ cents per ton, being 5½ cents less than during 1882." * *

"The sales of company lands in 1883 amounted to a larger sum than in any previous year since the sales were commenced, and exceeded the sales last year by the sum of $2,308,837. The total number of acres sold during the year was 1,166,349, for the gross sum of $4,081,133. The number of purchasers was 3,814, who bought an average of 305·8-10 acres each, at the average price of $3 50 per acre." * *

"During the past year the railroads connecting with the Union Pacific Railway and operated under its control were extended as follows:

|---|---|
| Oregon Short Line Railway and Wood River Branch | 317 miles. |
| Omaha and Republican Valley | 27 " |
| Omaha Niobrara & Black Hills | 14 " |
| Georgetown Breckenridge & Leadville | 2 " |
| Denver South Park & Pacific | 36 " |
| Total | 396 miles. |

OREGON SHORT LINE RAILWAY.

"At the date of the last annual report this railway was open for business to Shoshone, Idaho, 321 miles from the point of its connection with the Union Pacific Railway. Up to the 1st of January, 1884, the road had been operated for an average length of about 420 miles; the net earnings of its business since April 1st being only $57,000 less than the current interest on the bonds issued for its construction. This is regarded as a very favorable result, and is confirmative of the confidence heretofore expressed of the large volume of business that this road will exchange with the Union Pacific upon further development of the Wood River Mining District."

DENVER SOUTH PARK & PACIFIC.

"It was deemed advantageous that an independent line should be constructed to Leadville, in place of paying to the Denver & Rio Grande Railway the large sum demanded for the use of 43 miles of its track, by which the connection to Leadville has hitherto been made. Accordingly, a branch 34 miles in length has been built, extending from Dillon to Leadville; and on the 6th of February the first locomotive passed over the route. A short spur, 7½ miles in length, has also been built to give direct connection between the Denver South Park & Pacific line, and its Gunnison extension. The branch, 16 miles in length, extending from Gunnison to the coal mines on Ohio Creek, has been completed, by which an ample supply of fuel of excellent quality has been obtained."

In regard to the Union Pacific Company's relations with the United States the report says:

"The relations of the company with the United States have not changed during the past year. The principal matter in dispute between the Government and the company is in relation to the amount which shall be allowed to the company as compensation for the carrying of the mails. Under the decision of the United States Supreme Court, the company has a charge against the United States for this service, covering the period from February, 1876—after which date the company gave notice that it would no longer acquiesce in the rate prescribed by the Postmaster General—to December 31st, 1882, which exceeds the allowance of the Postmaster General for the same period by upwards of $3,500,000." * * "The matter has therefore been allowed to go to the Court of Claims for the purpose of having the 'fair and reasonable rate' contemplated under the company's charter established." * * "The total cash payment claimed by the Government to December 31st, 1882, under the least favorable construction of the term 'net earnings' under the Act of 1878, is $1,727,742. Against this balance claimed to be due by the Government, the company has the claim above referred to of about $3,500,000."

Delaware & Hudson Canal Company.

The annual report is very brief, as usual. It states that the mining of coal was suspended sixty days during the year, and while prices were low, they were well maintained, thus justifying the policy of a proper restriction of the product. While the railroad system in its entirety yielded satisfactory results, the depression in the ore and iron industry seriously diminished the earnings of the leased lines, which was, however, partially overcome by the increased coal tonnage—953,000 tons having been transported over the Albany & Susquehanna and its connections.

At the last annual meeting of the stockholders, an ordinance was unanimously adopted authorizing the increase of the capital stock from time to time as the bonded debt of the company matures, until the aggregate capital shall amount to $30,000,000.

Under this ordinance $3,500,000 was offered at par in June last to the stockholders of record; $2,877,100 of which was subscribed for, leaving $622,900 in the hands of the company; the proceeds of said issue of stock are being used in the retiring of the $3,500,000 of 7 per cent bonds due July 1, 1884, all of which will be paid at maturity.

The road extends from Camden, N. J., to Atlantic City, 59·70 miles, with a branch from Atlantic City to South Atlantic, 5·71 miles; the Philadelphia Marlton & Medford, a branch from Haddonfield to Medford, 11·70 miles, is also operated, making 77·20 miles in all.

Consolidation Coal Co.

(For the year ending Dec. 31, 1883.)

The President's report of the business of the company for the year ending Dec. 31, 1883, furnishes the following:

|---|---|---|
| Gross receipts from mines, railroads, rents, &c., including value of stock of coal on hand | | $1,750,591 |
| Total expenses of every kind (exclusive of interest and sinking fund) | | 1,314,858 |
| Net receipts | | $235,733 |

| Balance to the credit of profit and loss | | $60,617 |

The total balance to credit of profit and loss December 31st, 1883, was $64,776.

The company also holds as a cash asset $100,000 of first mortgage bonds of the Cumberland & Pennsylvania Railroad, acquired in 1875 by the payment of $98,600 in cash from earnings, as mentioned in previous annual reports.

The funded debt was reduced during 1883, by the purchase for the sinking fund of the second mortgage bonds of the Cumberland & Pennsylvania Railroad Company and the 7 per cent mort. bonds of the Consolidated Coal Company, amounting to $21,000, leaving total funded debt January 1, 1884, $2,501,500, against which the company holds in sinking fund $84,500.

"In the past year the company contracted for the building of two iron steam colliers. They will be completed early this spring, and will render an important and much-needed service in the large and growing coastwise business of the company.

"The railroads of the company have been improved during the year by the addition of 130 tons of heavy steel rails. The whole main line is now laid with steel rails. Every branch of the road department has been maintained in superior condition."

GENERAL INVESTMENT NEWS.

Atchison Topeka & Sante Fe.—The United States Supreme Court has rendered a decision in the case of this company against the Denver & New Orleans Railroad Company, appeal from the Circuit Court of the United States for the district of Colorado. This was a suit brought to compel the Atchison Topeka & Sante Fe Railroad Company to unite with the Denver & New Orleans Railroad Company in forming a through line of railroad transportation to and from Denver over the Denver & New Orleans road, with all the privileges as to exchange of business. By the decree of the court below a compulsory business connection was established between the two companies. The United States Supreme Court now holds that the constitutional right in Colorado to connect railroad with railroad does not of itself imply the right of connecting business with business; that the courts cannot compel one railroad to do business with another, according to a scheme which they (the courts) may devise; that the question of the relation of these two roads, so far as through business, through tickets, interchange of cars, &c., is concerned, is legislative rather than judicial, and that upon the existing facts a Court of Chancery can afford no remedy. Decree reversed and cause remanded, with directions to dismiss the bill without prejudice.

—The earnings and expenses for December, and for the year, in 1882 and 1883, have been as follows:

| | —Month of December.— | | —Year.— | |

* A. T. & S. F. gross earnings December, 1882, included $312,823 on account of pool balances.

Central Massachusetts.—This company gives notice that the preferred stock will be ready for delivery at the office of the New England Trust Company on and after March 3 in exchange for receipts for bonds given by said trust company. The railroad company invites preferred stockholders who wish to take any of the new bonds to be offered by the company to send names and amounts to the President. The bonds referred to are those to be issued for the completion of the road.

Cleveland Columbus Cincinnati & Indianapolis.—At the annual meeting, held in Cleveland, March 5, the report of the board of directors for the year 1883 showed the total earnings of the road to have been $4,342,604, expenses $3,677,870, leaving the net earnings for the year $664,733. The amount of tonnage transported and the revenue derived therefrom fell short of the results in former years. The result of such rate-cutting was a disregard of tariff by all roads. The bonded debt of the company has been increased $930,000 during the year. The increase is the result of expenditures made in improving the road generally, and especially for equipments for the new branches, the Indianapolis & St. Louis and the Cincinnati & Springfield railroads. A new general mortgage has been prepared amounting to $12,000,000, which will cover the amount of all outstanding mortgages and leave about $4,500,000 as a provision for the future requirements of the road. None of the Vanderbilts were present at the meeting, their votes and proxies being cast by President Devereux, who voted 90,000 shares. Samuel Barton cast a large block of stock. E. I. Baldwin cast the 34,000 votes for the English trust fund, as he did last year.

Cleveland Youngstown & Pittsburg.—At Steubenville, O., March 4, Judge Hance appointed Robert Martin of that city receiver of the Cleveland Youngstown & Pittsburg Railroad, on application of Carnegie Brothers of Pittsburg, R. P. Dickinson of New York, and a number of sub-contractors. The road has been finished from Nebo, Jefferson County, to Phalanx, Trumbull County, on the Mahoning branch of the New York Pennsylvania & Ohio Railroad, a distance of about 100 miles.

Colorado Coal & Iron Company.—In reply to the circular of Mr. W. J. Palmer, the Executive Committee of the Denver & Rio Grande Railway issued the following address:

DENVER & RIO GRANDE RAILWAY COMPANY,
47 William Street, New York, March 3, 1884.

To the Board of Directors of the Colorado Coal & Iron Company.

GENTLEMEN: The very voluminous and labored communication of February 14 signed by your president, William J. Palmer, has been received, and as it was so general in its terms we have delayed answering until we could ascertain the facts in the case, to which we now beg to call your attention. Regarding the three contracts, extracts from which are quoted, it strikes us as rather singular that they were not printed as a whole in order that your stockholders and the public might judge of what benefits or advantages accrued to each of the parties under them. In this connection we beg to state that so far (and our investigations have been most thorough in this particular) we fail to find a single instance wherein this company has violated the terms of its contract; on the contrary, your company has reaped the full benefit provided for therein and innumerable other advantages. Regarding the oft-referred-to letter of January 7, the facts are as follows: The president of this company during his investigations found that very large drawbacks were being paid and other concessions granted to your company on every branch of business conducted over its railway, some of which he considered very unjust. As an example, you were allowed in the month of January (on December vouchers) drawbacks amounting to $5,029 49 on freight bills aggregating $5,982 03. You will readily understand our president did not desire to transport any more of these supplies at such rates; hence his verbal instructions to the general manager to discontinue these special rebates for the time, and until we could have a conference with your representative, which we have asked for without results. No allusion was made in the order to the coal or coke business, although the agents of your company made an attempt to distort its verbiage so as to cover every class of business, and so notified some of the largest customers of this road, with the hope, as we believe, of prejudicing them against our company; but the explanations that these misrepresentations called forth served to correct any wrong impressions.

It has always been the intention of this company to adhere to the terms of these contracts, so far as they legally could, and such will be the policy of the present management. The statement that there has been no complaint from other shippers is untrue, as our executive officers have had innumerable charges of the favoritism extended toward your company, and it is a well-known fact that this feeling has worked much injury to our interest.

The statement that because General Palmer was the president of these various companies at the time the contracts were executed, therefore they are to be disregarded, is without the slightest foundation, since we are informed that General Palmer's holdings in your company are infinitesimal, and therefore we cannot believe that his influence, should he desire to exert it to our disadvantage, would be regarded. The last part of your pamphlet, embracing copy of letter from a California house, stating what might have been done, is too far-fetched for our consideration. We agree with you that the interest of both our companies could best be served by harmonious action, and the practicing of a spirit of equity on both sides; which it has been our disposition to cultivate, and all we have desired to exact from your company. In this, we feel assured we have the support of the entire disinterested public in the State through which we operate.

In conclusion, we can but believe, if the same energy had been displayed on the part of your officers in looking after the management of your company in the way of economies, &c., that has been exercised in trying to destroy the value of the very interest upon which you so much depend, that the results of your company would have been more satisfactory to its real owners.

By order of the Executive Committee,
ADOLPH ENGLER, Vice-President.

In reply to the foregoing, the officers of the Coal & Iron Company have addressed the following communication:

OFFICE COLORADO COAL & IRON COMPANY,
47 WILLIAM ST., NEW YORK, March 6, 1884.

A. ENGLER, ESQ., Vice-President Denver & Rio Grande R'way Co.:

SIR: Your letter of the 3d instant to the Board of Directors of this company is at hand. You say (1) that you have delayed answering our communication until you could ascertain the facts; (2) that it is singular that we did not print as a whole the contracts which exist between the two companies; (3) that you fail to find a single instance in which your company has violated the terms of its contract; (4) that your president, considering some of the drawbacks paid to this company as very unjust, and, "not desiring to transport any more of these supplies at such rates," gave verbal instructions to discontinue these special rebates for the time; that, as an example, drawbacks amounting to $5,029 were allowed to our company on December freight bills aggregating $5,982; (5) that a conference with our representative was asked for without results; (6) that it has always been the intention of your company to adhere to the terms of these contracts so far as they legally could, and that such will be the policy of the present management.

You conclude with some general reflections, interesting enough, but pertaining to matters with which, as you have not yet been placed in charge of the Colorado Coal Company, may be considered premature.

Respecting what we may call the serious points of your communication, we beg to say—

1. Your investigation of the facts cannot have gone far enough if it did not reveal to you what we now offer for your further information.

2. The contracts between the two companies have long been printed in pamphlet form, are in the possession of both parties, and accessible to all inquirers. It was only necessary to quote those parts which were violated. There never has been any pretense that the Coal Company has not fulfilled its part of the agreements. In an appeal to your Board to fulfill the obligations assumed by your Company, for consideration already received, it was not necessary to re-print the contracts, for the information of the public, which was not a party to them, and to which we made no appeal. Our appeal was to you, and it was only the fact that our remonstrance was answered by the attempt to put yourselves in control of our Company that it became afterwards necessary to lay the case before our stockholders.

Had you really considered that we suppressed some material provision of the contract, would you not have been swift to call attention to it and to have printed the omitted clause with the letter which you delivered to the newspapers quite as soon as to us?

3. As an instance of violation of contract, we again call your attention to the fact that in the agreement upon the faith of which our works were built, your company pledged itself for twenty years to "transport all and every of the products of the mines, furnaces, smelting works, mills and other establishments, and mineral and agricultural lands of the Colorado Coal & Iron Company, and all materials used in the construction, maintenance and operation of said works, mines, and other industrial establishments, and the structures or properties thereto appertaining at rates never to exceed the best rates per mile given to any other company, association or individual."

That, notwithstanding this unmistakable obligation, your company since the order of your President of Jan 7, has been transporting nails made at works east of Colorado from Pueblo (or Denver) to Ogden (or Salt Lake) for 11 cents per keg, while the nails of this company were charged $1 48 per keg freight for the same haul.

It is not true that the contract thus violated refers to local business alone, as has been suggested in possible extenuation. Neither its terms, nor its uniform construction hitherto, nor the reason of things underlying it, justify such a construction. The capital of the Colorado Coal & Iron Company was invested in manufactures on the line of your road, on the distinct pledge that it should not be sacrificed to the exigencies or vicissitudes of railroad management. There could be no fear of your charging us higher rates than other similar companies in Colorado. The railway would have neither any inducement or power to do so. It was competition from the eastward that was to be guarded against. Had we located the works at the Missouri River or east thereof, we would of necessity have been sure of always enjoying as good rates as others. It was only because we trusted our capital and property to a location on your line that any contract became necessary. The actual facts of our tonnage, no less than the recitals of the contract, show the inducements which influenced the railroad company to make this solemn pledge. If it is to be suspended every time a war between railroads leads you to offer to carry eastern freights for less than cost, there would be no basis for investment whatever. It is precisely when for temporary reasons you reduce freights to eastern shippers that our local manufacturer needs the protection given by the contract. While from the latter, at least, you would get the income from the hauling of raw materials and all the other incidental advantages of securing and encouraging production upon your own line.

The bare fact that this excuse is made in your behalf emphasizes the danger of turning our company over to your associates to construe both sides of these contracts.

4. You say that $5,029 drawbacks were allowed us on December freight bills of $5,982. Did you fail to discover in your search after facts that during that month of December we paid you for our own shipments, from and to ourselves, $29,831, and that you received besides from our commercial shipments $110,619, making in all $140,453, which was more than 34 per cent of your total freight business. Was your president unable to learn, before issuing an order to destroy our business, the reason of the special rebates of $5,029, on certain bills aggregating $5,982 in that month, from his general manager or general freight agent, or auditor, or other officers, who were under the same roof with him, and who had approved these bills? Has he failed to inform you that they were made merely to conform our rates to the then existing market rate given to every other shipper of like products over the same section of your railway—to put us simply on a par with other manufacturers for whom you were carrying the same commodities to the same markets? That any other manufacturer of nails, &c., could have the same amount of goods carried in December, between Pueblo and Utah, over your line for $954. That having for your own convenience pretended to charge us in account for the same thing $5,982, it was necessary, in order to keep your contract with us (which in December you were still honoring), that you should credit us back a "rebate" or "drawback" of $5,029. Is it any clearer now?

On January 7, however, your president, "not desiring to transport (for the Colorado Coal Company) any more of these supplies at such rates," directs that this company be charged "until further notice," fourteen times as much per mile as other shippers.

Manufacturers to the east of us who had not trusted to your contract promise, availed themselves of this cut rate to impair and destroy the rapidly-growing markets in Utah and the Far West, which this Company, your best customer, had just built up. You did not refuse a pound of freight at those same rates to them—the refusal was to us alone, with whom you had contracts. You had none elsewhere. It was the very emergency for which the contract was intended. No contract was needed to induce you to haul at high rates!

In short, the figures you quote show the exact measure of the extent to which your contract would have been violated in December had you failed to credit us with $5,029 drawbacks, and the measure of actual violation after your order of January 7, on the same classes of product to the same extent of traffic reckoned at "regular traffic rates" (viz., $5,982).

5. While our representative in Colorado has not declined, he has very properly not been eager to go into a conference with your president on the avowed business of regulating the prices of our products at our own works and mines—not for your consumption, but for commercial markets.

Neither has he ever been authorized to modify or discuss the subject of re-adjustment or violation of these contracts.

6. Your proclamation of good intentions was to be expected. We certainly would not expect you to proclaim bad intentions, and at the same time ask our stockholders to entrust their proxies with you. Your present acts exclude the Colorado Coal & Iron Company from the markets of Utah, Nevada and California, while you open those markets to all its competitors; and yet your president says he has "done nothing hostile." In truth, his whole course and announced policy since reaching Colorado, culminating at last in this order of Jan. 7, has been in the direction, not of building up new business, but of tearing down all that his predecessors had done, with the result thus far of setting by the ears the several companies associated in the development of that country. The violation of which we complain was not a temporary oversight. For weeks there has been no war of freight rates. Peace prevails, and yet that order stands unrevoked, and we are now being charged "regular tariff rates," $1 48 per keg, while the nails of other makers are carried at 95 cents.

We also desire you to state explicitly, for the information of our stockholders, the understandings or promises under which a branch line of several miles is being extended to the coal lands of a rival concern in the canyon field. Whether a regard for "public policy" has moved you (without waiting to be so compelled by the Attorney-General) to hold out assurances to these rivals that you will disregard another important obligation of your contracts with us.

The policy of your present management is to construe the contracts in such a way that the acts of which we complain will not be considered violations; or, to use the language of your president, it is to seek "an equitable re-adjustment" of these contracts and the business relations between the two companies. For this purpose, doubtless, you are endeavoring to obtain the control of this company, so that you can modify, abrogate, or construe, at your convenience. Whether you succeed in this enterprise will depend upon the extent to which you may be able to impress our stockholders. However that may be, we certainly cannot be charged with misrepresenting your letter, if we say in a word that the sole excuse you offer for violating our contract in January, is that it cost you something to keep it in December. We think our stockholders may require some stronger justification.

By order of the Executive Committee,
C. W. DRAKE,
Assistant Secretary.

Denver & Rio Grande.—The following statement for the month of January has been issued, showing the receipts of this road and its leased lines: Cut rates to Utah points prevailed nearly the whole month in 1884, and snow blockades interfered seriously with business:

Illinois Midland.—At Springfield, March 4, Justice Harlan filed with the clerk of the United States Circuit Court an opinion on matters submitted to him at Chicago and Boston in connection with the Midland railway foreclosure case. The opinion sustains the validity of the four different mortgages; also that of the large amount in receiver's certificates. Last year the case was referred to a master, to take testimony and report the character and amount of the receiver's indebtedness. He found that all the certificates issued, except to the amount of about $100,000, were valid, and that a large amount of the other indebtedness incurred by the receiver was due, and was a charge upon the property; also, that Receiver Genio was entitled to an honorable discharge. Justice Harlan's opinion confirms this report. No decree of sale has been entered in the case as yet, and probably will not be before the June term of the Court.

The motion to dissolve the receivership was denied.

Tennessee State Debt.—The funding of the State debt at 53, under a law passed at the last session of the Legislature, is progressing slowly. Up to the present time the board has funded bonds of all series aggregating $3,500,000. Most of the bondholders seem to prefer waiting, in the hope of obtaining a better settlement.

The completion of the Atchafalaya bridge in December last has already resulted in a reduction in the operating expenses, and, it is stated, will add materially to the gross and net earnings during the current year.

| Balance to credit of profit and loss December 31, 1883 | | | $13,613,184 03 |

The above statement shows that, after the payment of a dividend of eight and one-half per cent, amounting to $7,530,649 75, there remained a balance of $2,021,996 98, from which was deducted the sum of $603,452 36, properly chargeable to profit and loss, leaving the net amount carried to the credit of that account for 1883, $1,418,544 62, and making a total credit at the close of the year of $13,613,184 03.

The division made of the profits of the past year was fully as large as a conservative management of your property would warrant; the amount carried to the credit of profit and loss not being greater than was prudent, especially in view of the fact that, owing to the depression in the manufacturing and mining interests of the country, the increased number of roads competing for through traffic, and the constant tendency to lower rates, the gross revenues of the important railway lines have for some months past shown a decrease as compared with the same period of last year, without a corresponding reduction in expenses.

The policy adopted by the Board in 1882, of giving the shareholders the option of converting a portion of their dividends into stock, and of making an additional allotment of shares at par, was continued during the past year, the actual dividends being nearly ten per cent. This plan enables the Company to make use of its current earnings for capital account instead of permitting them to accumulate until the regular dividend periods, while the option before referred to enables the shareholders to acquire additional stock on favorable terms, and reimburses your treasury for the money temporarily used for construction purposes. Your Board are satisfied that it would be to the best interests of the shareholders to continue the practice of paying limited cash dividends, and such extra dividends convertible into stock, as the profits of the Company may from time to time warrant.

The securities of branch and auxiliary lines now owned by the Company amount at their par value to $125,405,519, and are represented on the books at a cost of $95,331,715 73. The income derived therefrom during the year amounted to $4,113,058 77, which sum was $214,321 58 in excess of the interest upon your entire funded indebtedness. This fact should be especially gratifying to the shareholders, as the principal object sought to be attained by the investment of this large sum of money—the proper protection of the interests of your Company—has not only been secured, but the prudence of the investment further shown by its yielding an income more than sufficient at the present time to meet the interest on your direct obligations.

The results of the Pennsylvania Railroad Division for the past year show a steady increase, both in gross and net revenues.

Upon the United Railroads of New Jersey Division there was a very fair increase in gross revenues, but the percentage of expenses is still high. The results from the direct operations of the line were about $90,000 better than for the preceding year, the apparent increased loss upon that Division arising from the fact that the discount on the conversion of six into four per cent bonds has been directly charged against its income.

The Philadelphia & Erie Railroad Division continues to show an improvement, both in gross revenue and net results; so that the line, after providing for the interest on its funded indebtedness, had a balance of about $215,000 to appropriate to the redemption of past-due coupons owned by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

To provide the additional facilities needed on your Main Line and the New Jersey Division, and to aid in the construction of additional branch and auxiliary lines necessary for the promotion and protection of your traffic, there was obtained-

| Total amount expended on capital account in 1883 | | $8,349,463 85 |

On account of the above advances to branch and auxiliary lines there have been received in securities of those companies, $4,997,309 84.

While these expenditures may appear large, yet they are not so when proper consideration is given to the wide extent of territory covered by your lines and the amount of capital invested therein. Such an extended system of railways could not be regarded as in a sound and prosperous condition unless they demanded an investment of capital at least equal to that which has been heretofore annually made.

The outlay during the present year for similar improvements and facilities upon the Main Line and branches and the United Railroads of New Jersey Division, and for the completion of the lines now in process of construction and such new branches as may be necessary, will probably reach the sum of $8,500,000. This amount it is proposed to obtain by continuing the policy of giving the shareholders the option of converting a portion of their dividends into stock and by the sale of securities of auxiliary lines, and of additional amounts of the $10,000,000 of Trust Certificates which your Board deemed it prudent to create for this purpose. These certificates bear interest at four and one-half per cent per annum, and are secured by a deposit of bonds of your branch and auxiliary lines representing a par value of $12,500,000. A sinking fund has been established for the purpose of retiring the certificates thus issued. In the judgment of your Directors, it was better for your interests to place these securities in trust, and issue the obligation of your Company against them as collateral, than to sell them. As before noted, $3,000,000 of the certificates have been sold, leaving $7,000,000 on hand.

The debt due to the State of Pennsylvania on account of the purchase of the Main Line was reduced during the year by the payment of $299,907 06, which was charged to capital account. The balance of the annual payment of $460,000 ($160,092 94) representing the interest upon the amount due to the State, was charged directly to income account. The balance due on account of the purchase of the Main Line is $2,976,002 83.

Under the provisions of the consolidated mortgage of the Company, there was set apart on the first day of July last, out of the net income, the sum required for the purchase of outstanding bonds secured by that mortgage, and entitled to the security of the covenants therein, in relation to the sinking fund. Bonds to the par value of $280,360 were thus purchased, and, after being canceled, were delivered to the trustees under the stipulations of the said mortgage; this reduction appears in the Treasurer's General Account. The amount of bonds so purchased to date is $1,489,610 at their par value.

There are now in the sinking fund, for the redemption of the obligations of the various companies forming the United New Jersey Railroad & Canal Company, securities of the par value of $2,140,800. There is also a cash balance, uninvested by the Trustees, of $143 74, making an aggregate investment of $2,140,943 74, for which you will, in the future, in accordance with the terms of the lease, receive bonds to be issued under the General Mortgage of that Company.

A loan of the Joint Companies—viz., the Delaware & Raritan Canal Company and Camden & Amboy Railroad & Transportation Company—for $1,700,000 matured February 1, 1883, and a balance of $124,000 of a loan of the same companies having previously become due, bonds to the amount of $1,824,000 bearing interest at the rate of 4 per cent per annum, maturing February 1, 1923, were issued under the general mortgage of the United New Jersey Railroad & Canal Company for $20,000,000, and sold on satisfactory terms, the proceeds being used to pay off the loans first referred to.

The sinking fund for the redemption of the Trust certificates issued for the purchase of the shares of the capital stock of the Philadelphia Wilmington & Baltimore Railroad Company was sufficient to enable the Trustee to purchase $428,000 of such certificates during the past year. These certificates have been canceled as provided in the Trust agreement. The General Account of the Treasurer shows this reduction in the amount of outstanding certificates, and a corresponding reduction has been made on the other side of the account in the cost of the shares purchased by your Company. The total amount of these certificates purchased and canceled to December 31, 1883, is $857,000.

The mortgage bonds of the Harrisburg Portsmouth Mount Joy & Lancaster Railroad Company, amounting to $700,000, bearing interest at 6 per cent per annum, became due July 1, 1883. These bonds were extended for thirty years, under the security of the same mortgage, and the rate of interest reduced to 4 per cent per annum.

CAR TRUSTS.

Further provision was made, under the system of Car Trusts, for the equipment of your roads, to the extent of 500 hopper gondolas and 525 box cars for the Main Line, and 4,987 box, gondola and stock cars for the roads in which your company is interested west of Pittsburg.

The outstanding certificates of Series C and D of the Car Trust of Pennsylvania, representing 2,000 cars, at a cost of $1,035,000, and bearing interest at 6 per cent per annum, were paid and canceled during the year. The cars furnished under Series C having thus passed into your ownership, the equipment account was increased $250,000, one-half of their original cost, the balance remaining charged to profit and loss. The cars furnished through Series D having been sub-leased to your lines west of Pittsburg, the same plan was pursued by those lines, as shown in their accounts.

The number of tons of freight moved over the Main Line and branches, not including 1,265,297 tons of fuel and other materials for the Company's use, was 21,674,160 tons; for the previous year, 20,360,399 tons, showing an increase of 1,313,761 tons, or 6 45-100 per cent. There was an increase of 1,320,730 tons in local freight.

Of the 21,674,160 tons of individual freight transported over the Main Line and branches, 1,937,850 were through and 19,736,310 local freight.

The coal shipments increased 1,021,129 tons, and the coke shipments 248,613 tons; their aggregate being 12,426,888 tons, as against 11,157,146 in 1882—a gain of 1,269,742 tons.

The east-bound coke tonnage from the Connellsville region shows an increase of 184,670 tons, and the west-bound an increase of 115,106 tons; the entire movement of coke from that district amounting to 2,689,826 out of a total of 3,137,100 tons from all sources.

The total shipments of oil during the year 1883 amounted to 1,756,696 barrels, as against 3,972,121 barrels in 1882, showing a decrease of 2,215,425 barrels.

On the Main Line the through freight east-bound shows a slight increase, and the through freight west a slight decrease, and the local freight, in both directions, a marked increase.

The number of passengers on the Main Line shows an increase of three per cent.

On the United Railroads of New Jersey there was an increase in through freight, in both directions, of 138,410 tons, and an increase of local traffic, in both directions, of 475,893 tons, making a total increase of 614,303 tons. The passenger traffic shows an increase of over eight per cent in the number carried.

On the Philadelphia & Erie division there was an increase of the tonnage of through freight in both directions of 37,974 tons, and an increase in local freight westward of 141,473 tons, but a decrease in local freight eastward of 603,865 tons. About one-half of this decrease is due to a reduction in oil traffic; the remainder arises mainly from the fact that the anthracite coal traffic, which formerly passed over two miles of the Philadelphia & Erie road to reach the Northern Central Railway, now reaches that line at Sunbury over your North and West Branch road. The passenger traffic shows a slight decrease in the number carried.

There were built at Altoona 119 locomotives for your Main Line and 12 for other roads in your interest. There were also constructed at that point 74 passenger cars, 5 postal cars, 1,301 Car Trust cars, 1,092 freight cars, and 108 cabin and maintenance of way cars for your Main Line, and 37 passenger, baggage and postal cars, and 17 freight and cabin cars, for your other lines.

At the West Philadelphia shops, 23 baggage cars were built for the Main Line, and at the Philadelphia & Erie shops, 11 locomotives, 3 baggage, 322 freight and 13 cabin and maintenance of way cars were constructed for your roads east of Pittsburg.

There were used on the Main Line and branches, in construction and repairs, 20,913 tons of steel rails and 1,353,815 ties; on the Philadelphia & Erie Railroad, 1,832 tons of steel and 171,458 ties; and on the United Railroads of New Jersey, 6,524 tons of steel and 337,933 ties, making a total of 29,269 tons of steel and 1,863,206 ties.

The other lines west of Pittsburg, in connection with which the Company has assumed liabilities, or which it controls through the ownership of securities, but which are worked through their own individual organizations, are the Chicago St. Louis & Pittsburg Railroad, St. Louis Vandalia & Terre Haute Railroad, Grand Rapids & Indiana Railroad and roads operated through its organization, and East St. Louis & Carondelet Railway.

* The difference between these sums and those stated in the last report is due to the fact that the results of the Chicago St. Louis & Pittsburg Railway (formerly Columbus Chicago & Indiana Central Railway) were included in 1882 in the operations of lines directly operated, and in 1883 in the operations of those worked by their own organizations.

† The difference between this amount and the balance shown by the income accounts of Pennsylvania Company and Pittsburg Cincinnati & St. Louis Railway Company is due to the fact that the actual advances made during the year were $3,317 92 more than the losses shown by the operations of the roads.

; Profit.

Your lines west of Pittsburg show a continued increase in gross earnings, but, owing to the competitive character of the traffic, there is a larger ratio of expenses and a reduction in net revenue. The expenses in many instances are exceptional in their character, and tend to bring the properties to a higher standard of efficiency, both in roadway and equipment; but this is necessary by reason of the severe competition resulting from the construction of new lines. Your Board have reason, notwithstanding this, to expect satisfactory results from these properties.

The freight movement shows a gain of 1,341,240 tons, and the number of passengers carried an increase of 650,737, or about five per cent in each class of traffic.

The Pennsylvania Company, after meeting all its obligations, was able to pay a dividend of four per cent and carry to the credit of profit and loss a surplus of $72,829 14.

Of the issue of $3,200,000 of the Pennsylvania Company's bonds, secured by Pittsburg Fort Wayne & Chicago Railway stock as collateral, $630,000 have been redeemed through the operation of the sinking fund, leaving the amount outstanding $2,570,000. Of the $12,500,000 of its four and one-half per cent bonds $231,000 have been redeemed, leaving outstanding $12,269,000.

The report made by the Trustees of the sinking funds of the first and second mortgages of the Pittsburg Fort Wayne & Chicago Railway Company shows that the regular annual contribution of $104,100 was paid to the Trustees of these mortgages. They redeemed during the year $126,000 of the first mortgage and $108,000 of the second mortgage bonds, making the total amount redeemed to December 31, 1883:

| First mortgage bonds | $1,463,500 00 |
| Second mortgage bonds | 1,695,500 00 |

With a balance of cash in the hands of the Trustees uninvested December 31, 1883:

| On account of first mortgage sinking fund | $227,722 05 |
| On account of second mortgage sinking fund | 131,108 26 |

The further sum of $101,921 was also paid into the sinking funds provided for the redemption of the existing mortgages on the other leased lines west of Pittsburg, in addition to the amounts contributed directly by the individual companies.

The Grand Rapids & Indiana Railroad shows increased revenues for the year, with a surplus after meeting all fixed charges. The land department made sales of 22,650 acres, almost entirely farm lands, for $225,040 19, being an average of $9 94 per acre. The entire amount sold to the close of the year, after deducting canceled contracts, was 393,439 acres, and the aggregate price received therefore was $4,827,411 38, an average of $12 27 per acre.

Out of the proceeds of such sales the Trustees redeemed during the year $1,340,000 of the first mortgage bonds of the Company, of which $1,242,000 were converted into income bonds, making the entire amount so exchanged to the end of 1883, $2,339,000.

The assets on hand December 31, 1883, applicable to the redemption of the first mortgage bonds, were:

| Balance in the hands of the Trustees | $356,423 71 |
| Bills and accounts receivable in hands of cashier | 605,562 58 |
| Cash in hands of cashier | 19,899 12 |
| Total | $981,885 41 |

For the proper protection of the large advances made under the contract which expired January 1, 1883, for the purchase of coupons, your company deemed it wise to take the necessary legal steps to determine the priority of its claim, as the owner of such coupons upon the revenues of the Grand Rapids & Indiana Railroad Company. This suit is now pending; it is hoped it will result favorably to your Company and secure a proper settlement of this account.

The condition of your western lines was fully maintained. The roadbed was improved by ballasting additional sections with stone and cinder; by renewal and substitution of iron for wooden bridges, and by the further substitution of steel for iron rails. Extensions were made of the third and fourth tracks, and additional second tracks and sidings provided at various points. Large sums were expended in furnishing increased yard, dock and station facilities, and in the purchase of additional real estate at terminal points. The policy of substituting heavier and more effective motive power was continued, and your car equipment further increased.

During the year there were laid on the northwestern lines operated directly in your interest, 9,914 tons, and on the southwestern lines, 11,419 tons of steel rails.

| The amount expended during the year in betterments on the lines west of Pittsburg was | $1,929,405 75 |
| To which add the balance at the close of the last annual report | 2,125,896 81 |
| Total | $4,055,302 56 |
| On account of which there were received in 1883 | 2,006,160 39 |
| Leaving a balance due in general account of | $2,949,142 17 |

As stated in the last annual report, the property of the Columbus Chicago & Indiana Central Railway Company was sold under foreclosure proceedings on January 10, 1883, and a reorganization effected on April 1, 1883, under the name of the Chicago St. Louis & Pittsburg Railroad Company. The long and vexatious litigation attendant upon the lease of that road was thus brought to a termination, and your western lines relieved of what had hitherto been an onerous obligation, and one which, if the final adjudication had sustained the lease, would in all probability have seriously affected their revenues.

Your Board thought it advisable, for the proper protection of your interest, to become, in connection with your western lines, the owners of a portion of the securities of the new company, so that there is now held in your interest $11,500,000 of the first mortgage five per cent bonds, 117,212½ shares of the preferred stock and 14,242½ shares of the common stock of the par value of $100 per share. The net earnings of this line for 1883 were not quite sufficient to meet its fixed charges, but it is believed that when the improvements now in progress are completed and the property brought into a thoroughly effective condition, it will be able to make a fair return upon the capital invested.

GENERAL REMARKS.

Under the provisions of the Trust created October 9, 1878, as will be seen by the report hereto attached, there has been paid, to December 31, 1883, the sum of $3,100,000, which, with the income therefrom, has been invested in securities amounting at par to $3,643,208 27, yielding an interest of 6 786-1000 per cent per annum upon the investment.

The statement of the insurance fund, also attached, shows assets on hand, at the end of the year, of $1,145,406 19, being an increase over the previous year of $112,413 93.

During the past year a controlling interest was acquired by your Company in the Camden & Atlantic Railroad, extending from Camden to Atlantic City, a distance of fifty-nine miles, and possessing valuable terminal facilities in Camden, and ferry privileges connected therewith. A majority of the share capital of the West Jersey Ferry Company was also secured in your interest. These acquisitions will tend to give the public better accommodations than they have had in the past, and will promote and protect your general interests in the State of New Jersey.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company having puchased $375,000 of the seven per cent bonds of the Pemberton & New York Railroad Company, which were guaranteed, principal and interest, by the United Railroad & Canal Companies of New Jersey, it was deemed advisable to effect a consolidation of that road with the Philadelphia & Long Branch Railway, and thus vest in one corporation the ownership of the lines extending from Pemberton Junction, the terminus of the Camden & Burlington County Railroad, to the New York & Long Branch Railroad near Bay Head, in New Jersey. This was effected on the 13th of October, 1883, under the name of the Philadelphia & Long Branch Railroad Company. The capital stock of the new corporation was fixed at $900,000, with an equal amount of five per cent first mortgage bonds, of these securities your Company received $750,000 of capital stock and $750,000 of bonds in settlement of their interests in the lines thus consolidated.

The agreement with the Central Railroad of New Jersey for the joint use of the line between Bay Head City and Perth Amboy, known as the New York & Long Branch Railroad, to which reference was made in the thirty-fifth annual report, was found to be quite satisfactory in furnishing increased facilities to the public, and in promoting the joint interests of the contracting parties. The change in the management of the New Jersey Central road, which occurred in May last, resulted, however, in a notice that that company would no longer be bound by the agreement, although it was not pretended that your Company had failed in any manner to carry out the covenants which it had assumed in connection therewith. It is believed that through the suit which your Company was thus compelled to bring for the protection of its rights, the contract will be adjudged to be in full force and effect.

The principal outlay upon your main and leased lines during the past year was for extensions of third and fourth tracks and additional yard facilities. The large expenditure made at Harrisburg for this purpose has afforded much relief in the movement of traffic, but owing to delays in the acquisition of the necessary property for the new passenger station at that point, its construction has not been commenced.

Additional right of way was acquired at various points, and the sum of $275,000 expended for real estate.

On the New York Division further progress was made in the extension of third and fourth tracks, and in the improvement of the line at Frankford and Bristol. The new passenger line over the Hackensack River, which was exceptionally expensive in its character, is nearly completed and will be opened this spring. It will materially expedite the movement of traffic, as it affords the passenger trains an independent line from East Newark to Jersey City. There was also an extension of third and fourth tracks on the Connecting Railway in the work upon the New Jersey Division.

The equipment, in addition to that obtained through the system of Car Trusts, has been increased by 104 locomotives and 64 passenger and postal cars.

The policy that was indicated in the last report in reference to the construction and promotion of branch lines has been continued, and much the larger portion of the capital outlay was for this purpose. Nearly $1,300,000 was expended in extending branch and auxiliary lines that were in operation at the beginning of the year, and $1,770,000 upon lines not yet opened for traffic. The results obtained from such investments in increasing the revenues of your properties will be apparent upon an examination of the sources and character of your traffic.

Among the more important branch lines in operation at the beginning of the year that shared in this expenditure were the Tyrone & Clearfield Railway, your largest bituminous coal-feeder, the Southwest Pennsylvania Railway, from which your coke shipments are mainly derived, and the Pittsburg Virginia & Charleston Railway. The latter road is now developing a traffic that enables that company not only to take care of its fixed liabilities, but gives fair prospects of reasonable dividends to its shareholders.

On the Western Pennsylvania Railroad there were expended $523,000 in reducing the grades and extending the line to Bolivar. This work has so far progressed as to make further outlay unnecessary for the present, and it is now being brought into service as a low-grade line from Pittsburg to the western slope of the Alleghenny Mountains. The completion of the West Penn. & Chenango Connecting Railroad, extending from the terminus of the Butler branch of this road to the Chenango & Allegheny Railroad, a distance of about twenty-four miles, affords a direct outlet to the lakes for the coal and other traffic of the Western Pennsylvania road, and also gives the section adjacent to the new line a more favorable connection with Pittsburg. It is hoped that the construction of this line will be of advantage not only to its promoters, but to the interests of the Western Pennsylvania Railroad.

The Ridgway & Clearfield Railroad, alluded to in the last annual report, was opened for business at the close of the year. It will develop a new bituminous coal region, and afford additional traffic to your lines.

The construction of the Philadelphia Germantown & Chestnut Hill branch has been vigorously prosecuted, and it is expected the line will be completed by the middle of the year. The branch line extending from Frazer, on the Main Line, to Phœnixville, was finished, thus bringing this important manufacturing town in direct connection with your system of railroads. The line traversing the Schuylkill Valley, known as the Pennsylvania Schuylkill Valley Railroad, has been actively pushed forward, and will be ready for traffic as far as Reading during the coming season. Your management sees no reason for changing the views expressed in the last report, as to the necessity for the construction of this line, and the important influence it will have, not only in adding to the revenues of your properties, but in protecting your interests.

The Philadelphia Wilmington & Baltimore Railroad Company shared in the general prosperity of the railway interest, during the past year; its net revenues provided for its fixed liabilities and the customary dividend of eight per cent, with a continued increment to the credit of profit and loss. The completion by the Baltimore & Potomac Railroad Company of its double track between Baltimore and Washington has strengthened the position of the Philadelphia Wilmington & Baltimore Railroad, and largely increased the facilities for the transportation of passengers and freight between Washington and northern points.

Your Company has joined the Philadelphia Wilmington & Baltimore Railroad Company in a traffic contract to promote the construction of a railroad about one hundred miles long, extending from the southern end of its Delaware line to the southern extremity of the peninsula of Virginia, opposite Norfolk. It is expected that this route, through its directness and ability to shorten the time, will secure a large share of the traffic which now seeks the more northern ports by water, and will thus largely benefit the Philadelphia Wilmington & Baltimore Railroad, as well as your other lines.

The Northern Central Railway Company has been especially prosperous during the year, and is now in such condition as to give good assurance of a continuance of direct profits to your Company as its largest shareholder, as well as indirect advantages to your general system.

The pooling arrangements between the trunk lines, while, to a certain extent, protecting your revenues on through traffic, have not yielded the full benefit that was anticipated when they were made. The construction of new through routes has been carried to an extent far in advance of the actual necessities of the country, and the result has been that the lines having inferior facilities have been unable to attract business except at unremunerative rates, while the undue volume of business thus obtained by such lines has been used as the basis for securing an unfair proportion of the pooled traffic. While your Board are fully convinced of the advantages to both the public and the transportation companies of a proper pooling system, in the maintenance of fair and equitable rates, and in preventing discriminations between shippers, they are also satisfied that the requisite stability cannot be attained until more efficacious means are provided to enforce the agreements made between the competing lines; and unless this is done it is doubtful whether the interests of your Company will be promoted by a further continuance of the imperfect arrangements that now exist.

Since your last annual meeting your Company has lost the services of Mr. Strickland Kneass, an eminent civil engineer, who filled the position of assistant to the President, whose death occurred on the 14th of January last. Mr. Kneass had been connected with the original construction of your main line, and had for many years occupied various positions of trust connected with your Company. The Directors, while bearing testimony to the zeal and ability with which all of his duties were discharged, desire to express their appreciation of his long and faithful service, and their deep sense of the loss sustained by the Company.

The General Account of the Treasurer is hereto appended, together with a list of the securities owned by the Company. Your attention is also called to the General, Income and Profit and Loss accounts of the Philadelphia & Erie Railroad Company, the Pennsylvania Company, and the Pittsburg Cincinnati & St. Louis Railway Company; also, the General and Profit and Loss accounts of the Allegheny Valley Railroad Company and the General, Income and Profit and Loss accounts of the Grand Rapids & Indiana Railroad Company; also, the reports of the Comptroller and General Manager of the Company, which will be published with this report in pamphlet form, and will show in detail the results of the operation of your lines.

The Board renew their acknowledgments to the officers and employees for the fidelity and efficiency with which they have discharged their duties during the past year.

By order of the Board,

G. B. ROBERTS,
President.

Florida Railway & Navigation Company.—At Jacksonville, Fla., March 1, a meeting of the stockholders of the Florida Central & Western, Florida Transit & Peninsular, Fernandina & Jacksonville and the Leesburg & Indian River railroads, all of the above companies were consolidated under the name of the Florida Railway & Navigation Company, with the following list of directors: C. R. Cummings and F. W. Peck of Chicago; W. Bayard Cutting, Thomas C. Platt, L. M. Lawson, E. H. Harriman, E. N. Dickerson and H. L. Horton of New York; Elijah Smith, of Boston; D. L. Yulee and C. D. Willard, of Washington, and J. M. Schumaker and B. S. Henning, of Florida. The system embraces 509 miles of completed railroad, and the construction of extensions north and south will be begun at once.

Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company—Nesquehoning Valley.—The Schuylkill Coal & Navigation company has agreed to postpone for twenty years, from September 1 next, its right to terminate the lease of the Nesquehoning Valley road, by the payment of the par value of the stock. Lehigh Navigation will instead pay during that period a rental which guarantees a dividend of 5 per cent on Nesquehoning stock, instead of 7 per cent as heretofore. Stock must be presented before May 1, and stamped, in order to secure the benefit of the extension.

Boston & Albany.—The statement of the earnings, &c., for the quarter ending Dec. 31, 1883, made to the New York State Railroad Commissioners, is as follows:

| Gross earnings | $2,142,151 |
| Operating expenses, excluding all taxes (88·8 per cent.) | 1,903,217 |
| Net earnings from operation | $238,934 |

Richmond & Alleghany.—The first mortgage bondholders of the Richmond & Alleghany Railroad have prepared a document protesting against the plan of reorganization proposed by the officers, which requires absolute surrender of half the coupons for four years, aggregating $700,000. The new plan represents that the property is worth more than the first mortgage bonds. The bondholders propose that the company pay one-half the coupons, fund the other half, and that scrip be issued for the coupons so funded at the rate of $140 for each $1,000 bond—scrip to carry 5 per cent interest. Principal and interest are to be payable prior to any payment of dividends on preferred or common stock. The old plan they claim is in the interest of second mortgage bondholders, who would receive preferred stock for their bonds, and after the first mortgage bondholders had surrendered their coupons for several years without any equivalent, the holders of preferred stock might be drawing dividends.

COMMERCIAL EPITOME.

FIRDAY NIGHT, March 7, 1884.

The weather has continued quite wintry, even in southern latitudes, throughout the week, but moderating somewhat towards its close. The effect upon business has been most unfavorable, and even in speculative staples the dealings have greatly diminished. Financial bills before Congress have caused much uneasiness. The committee of the lower house has completed the new tariff bill by greatly reducing the free list, and it will be reported at once for consideration, reports say with little prospect of its passage.

The following is a statement of the stocks of leading articles of domestic and foreign merchandise at dates given:

The lard speculation has been much depressed in sympathy with the Western markets, and an important decline in prices has taken place. To-day, however, a demand to cover contracts caused some re-action and the close was steadier at 9·58c. for March, 9·62c. for April, 9·70c. for May, 9·74c. for June and 9·78c. for July. Spot lard quoted at 9 35c. for prime city and 9·55@9·60c. for prime Western; refined for the Continent nominal at 9 85c. Pork has been dull and drooping at $17 75 for mess and $20 25 for clear. Bacon dull at 9¾c. for long clear. Cutmeats quiet, and prices are barely sustained. Beef and beef hams have been dull and unchanged. Tallow is firmer, and closes more active at 7½@7 7-16c. Stearine sold at 10c. for prime city. Butter is unsettled as between old and new; creameries, 28@38c.; Western factory, 14@18c. Cheese firm but quiet at 11@15c. for State factory. Eggs have been firmer, but close easier at 22@23c.

Rio coffee has been dull and, to a great extent, nominal at 12½c. for fair; options have been more active but at a decline, closing barely steady to-day at 10·70c. for March, 10·75c. for April, 10·80c. for May and June, 10·85c. for July and August and 10·90c. for September and October; mild grades have been steady, with liberal sales of Maracaibo and African descriptions. Tea was steady until to-day when prices declined; the sales to-day were 480,000 lbs. at 30⅜c. for March, 31@31½c. for April and 33¾@33¼c. for May. Foreign fruits have been quiet and weak. Spices have been dull. Rice has been in fair demand and steady. Cuba molasses has declined; 50-degrees test refining has sold freely at 23½c.; New Oreans has been steady at 35@56c. Raw sugar has been moderately active at easier prices; fair refining is quoted at 5⅝c.; refined has been firmer; crushed 7⅜@8c.; powdered 7¾c.

Kentucky tobacco has been very quiet, but no changes in prices have taken place; sales, 86 hhds. for export; 250 hhds. were sold on 'Change; lugs, 7¼@8c.; leaf, 8½@11c. There have been moderate sales of seed leaf, and all prices rule steady; sales for the week embrace 1,176 cases, including 500 cases crop 1881, Penn., 5@10c.; 252 cases crop 1882, Penn., 10@18c.; 100 cases crop 1880, Penn., 12c.; 224 cases crop 1882, State Havana seed private terms, 100 cases crop 1882, Wisconsin Havana seed wrappers, 18@25c.; 100 cases crop 1883, Ohio, 9@12c., and 100 cases crop sundries, 4@18c.; also 600 bales Havana 80c.@$1 15, and 250 bales Sumatra, $1 25@$1 50.

In naval stores the business has been very moderate until to-day, when 5,000 bbls. good strained rosins were sold at $1 50; the tone is firm, owing to the light stocks. Spirits turpentine is steady at 36@36½c. Refined petroleum has been variable in sympathy with crude certificates; yesterday 83⅜c. for 70 Abel test were the figures, and to-day 81½c., with better sales. Crude oil certificates were more active at a higher plane. There have been several small failures, and this enhanced the depression until to-day, when, after opening at 98⅜c., there were sales at $1 01½, closing at $1 00½. The business in metals, hops, oils and wool has been limited, and nothing of interest can be mentioned.

There has been but a moderate business in ocean freight-room either in berth or charter room. Rates have been irregular and inclined to easiness. To-day grain to Liverpool, by steam, was quoted at 1¾d.; flour, 7s. 6d.; bacon, 12s. 6d.@15s.; cheese, 17s. 6d.@20s.; cotton, ⅛d.; grain to London, by steam, 3⅛d.; do. to Glasgow, by steam, 3d.

The past week has been one of great and unusual dulness in the speculation for future delivery at this market, and prices show some decline. There was very little demand at any time and such little "spurts" towards better figures as were made on Tuesday and Thursday mornings were eagerly embraced by holders to reduce their burdens. There has not been anything of special importance in foreign or Southern advices except that the movement of the crop, both at the ports and the interior towns, was somewhat in excess of estimates. The receding of the floods in the Ohio Valley has permitted a resumption of the overland movement by rail, which has partially made good a marked falling off in receipts at New Orleans. To-day the opening was weak, but there was rather more activity at a slight decline, closing as compared with last Friday 8@11 points lower for this crop and 4@6 points lower for the next. Cotton on the spot has been very dull and prices nominally without change, yet not without some increase among holders anxious to reduce the large stocks accumulated here. To-day the close was quiet but steady at 10 7/8c. for middling uplands.

The total sales for forward delivery for the week are 235,200 bales. For immediate delivery the total sales foot up this week 3,533 bales, including — for export, 1,312 for consumption 1,721 for speculation and 500 in transit. Of the above, 25 bales were to arrive. The following are the official quotations for each day of the past week.

☞ The imports into Continental ports this week have been 37,000 bales.

The above figures indicate a decrease in the cotton in sight to-night of 22,037 bales as compared with the same date of 1883, an increase of 215,674 bales as compared with the corresponding date of 1882 and an increase of 248,953 bales as compared with 1881.

AT THE INTERIOR TOWNS the movement—that is the receipts for the week and since Sept. 1, the shipments for the week, and the stocks to-night, and the same items for the corresponding period of 1882-83—is set out in detail in the following statement:

* This year's figures estimated.

The above totals show that the old interior stocks have decreased during the week 19,153 bales and are to-night 85,840 bales less than at the same period last year. The receipts at the same towns have been 33,940 bales less than the same week last year, and since September 1 the receipts at all the towns are 558,241 bales less than for the same time in 1882-83.

RECEIPTS FROM THE PLANTATIONS.—The following table is prepared for the purpose of indicating the actual movement each week from the plantations. Receipts at the outports are sometimes misleading, as they are made up more largely one year than another at the expense of the interior stocks. We reach therefore, a safer conclusion through a comparative statement like the following. In reply to frequent inquiries we will add that these figures, of course, do not include overland receipts or Southern consumption; they are simply a statement of the weekly movement from the plantations of that part of the crop which finally reaches the market through the out-ports.

The above statement shows—1. That the total receipts from the plantations since September 1, 1883, were 4,578,645 bales; in 1882-83 were 5,314,676 bales; in 1881-82 were 4,387,783 bales.

2.—That, although the receipts at the out-ports the past week were 68,720 bales, the actual movement from plantations was only 46,932 bales, the balance being taken from the stocks at the interior towns. Last year the receipts from the plantations for the same week were 121,030 bales and for 1882 they were 31,648 bales.

| Receipts at the ports to Mch. 7. | 4,422,324 | 5,026,540 | 4,117,235 | 4,810,212 |

It will be seen by the above that the decrease in amount in sight to-night, as compared with last year, is 811,517 bales, the increase as compared with 1881-82 is 333,577 bales, and the decrease from 1880-81 is 410,938 bales.

WEATHER REPORTS BY TELEGRAPH.—The weather has been fairly favorable during the week, and preparations for the next crop are beginning, still in some sections wet weather has acted as a bar to plowing. The Mississippi River at Memphis and the Red River at Shreveport are still very high, but at the latter point the water is receding rapidly.

Galveston, Texas.—We have had no rain during the week. It is generally needed. The thermometer has averaged 62, the highest being 73 and the lowest 39.

Indianola, Texas.—There has been no rain all the week. Farmers have plowed early and are well prepared, but planting is retarded by dry weather; rain is much needed. The thermometer has averaged 62, ranging from 33 to 76.

Palestine, Texas.—We have had light showers on four days of the week, the rainfall reaching forty hundredths of an inch. The ground is in good condition, and plowing and other crop preparations are active. The thermometer has ranged from 30 to 75, averaging 58.

New Orleans, Louisiana.—It has rained on two days of the week, the rainfall reaching sixteen hundredths of an inch. The thermometer has averaged 63.

Shreveport, Louisiana.—The weather has been generally fair during the week, the rainfall reaching thirty-seven hundredths of an inch. Light rain to-day. The river is still very high, but falling rapidly. The thermometer has ranged from 33 to 78.

Vicksburg, Mississippi.—The early part of the week was clear and pleasant, but during the latter portion it has been showery on three days, the rainfall reaching seventy-one hundredths of an inch. The thermometer has ranged from 26 to 70. Rainfall during the month of February, six inches and seventy-three hundredths.

Meridian, Mississippi.—Telegram not received.

Greenville, Mississippi.—Telegram not received.

Last week the rainfall reached ninety-two hundredths of an inch, and the thermometer averaged 56, and ranged from 28 to 80.

Columbus, Mississippi.—It has rained on three days of the week, the rainfall reaching two inches and one hundredth. We are having too much rain.

Little Rock, Arkansas.—Telegram not received.

Pine Bluff, Arkansas.—The early part of the week was clear and pleasant, but during the latter portion we have had rain on two days, the rainfall reaching two inches and fifteen hundredths. Wind and rain storm now raging. The thermometer has averaged 37, the highest being 68 and the lowest 18. During the month of February the rainfall reached eight inches and seventy-two hundredths.

Fort Smith, Arkansas.—We have had no rain during the week, but there have been heavy fogs. Cotton is about played out. The thermometer has averaged 41, ranging from 16 to 74.

Helena, Arkansas.—It has rained on four days of the week, and the remainder of the week has been cloudy. The river came to a stand yesterday within three inches of highest water ever known; it has since fallen two inches. An overflow so early will do no harm to crops, unless we have another rise. Average thermometer 39, highest 64 and lowest 30.

Monticello, Arkansas.—Telegram not received.

Newport, Arkansas.—The early part of the week was clear and pleasant, but during the latter portion we have had rain, the rainfall reaching thirty hundredths of an inch. The weather has been too cold; ice formed on three nights. The thermometer has averaged 35, ranging from 20 to 50.

Memphis, Tennessee.—We have had rain on four days of the week, the rainfall reaching one inch and forty-two hundredths. There was snow and sleet on Tuesday. It is now raining hard. The river is eleven inches above the danger line and stationary. Roads are in a very bad condition. The thermometer has ranged from 21·5 to 61, averaging 38. We had rain and snow on twenty days during February, and the rainfall reached nine inches and sixty-four hundredths. The thermometer ranged from 18·5 to 72·7 and averaged 47·9.

Nashville, Tennessee.—It has rained on four days of the week, the rainfall reaching two inches and fifty-three hundredths. It has been too cold and wet; no plowing has been done; planters are greatly behind. Average thermometer 31, highest 47 and lowest 10.

Madison, Florida.—We have had no rain during the week. Average thermometer 57, highest 79, lowest 33.

Macon, Georgia.—It has rained on three days of the week, and is still cloudy. The thermometer has averaged 46, the highest being 69 and the lowest 17.

Columbus, Georgia.—We have had no rain during the week. The thermometer has ranged from 26 to 69, averaging 53.

The following statement we have also received by telegraph, showing the height of the rivers at the points named at 3 o'clock March 6, 1884, and March 8, 1883.

INDIA COTTON MOVEMENT FROM ALL PORTS.—We have re-arranged our India service so as to make our reports more detailed and at the same time more accurate. We had found it impossible to keep out of our figures, as cabled to us for the ports other than Bombay, cargoes which proved only to be shipments from one India port to another. The plan now followed relieves us from the danger of this inaccuracy and keeps the totals correct. We first give the Bombay statement for the week and year, bringing the figures down to March 6.

The above totals for the week show that the movement from the ports other than Bombay is 8,000 bales more than same week last year. For the whole of India, therefore, the total shipments since January 1, 1884, and for the corresponding periods of the two previous years, are as follows.

EXPORTS TO EUROPE FROM ALL INDIA.

This last statement affords a very interesting comparison of the total movement for the three years at all India ports.

Overland Movement, &c., to March 1.—In our editorial columns to-day will be found our regular statement of overland movement, receipts, exports, spinners' takings, &c., brought down to March 1st.

New York Cotton Exchange.—A case has recently been brought before the Arbitration Committee and also before the Board of Appeal which concerns the non-resident members of the Exchange in particular. As the number of such members is not inconsiderable, we deem the subject of sufficient import to make room for an abstract of the decision.

Mr. Henry Koch, of Littledale & Co., of Liverpool, a member of the New York Cotton Exchange, has presented a claim to participate in the proceeds of the seat of J. P. Billups, who failed in December, 1883. The claim arose out of sales made by Liddledale & Co. of cotton consigned to them, and also of sales of futures against that cotton by Littledale & Co. for account of J. P. Billups & Co. The claim was disputed by two other creditors of Billups & Co. Of five arbitrators four decided in favor of Littledale & Co., but this decision was opposed by the fifth arbitrator, who argued that Littledale & Co., having had sufficient cause for posting J. P. Billups & Co. as unable to meet their obligations, and having omitted to do so, had thereby forfeited their claim. The Board of Appeal, to whom the case was then referred, without considering the objection of the appellants, unanimously reversed the award, because the claim did not fall within the provision of Section 12 of the by-laws, as none of the transactions out of which the claim arose took place in the New York Cotton Exchange, or under its rules, or in the New York cotton market. The language of the 12th section of the by-laws, standing by itself, would doubtless seem broad enough to cover the claim; but, after quoting that section, it was shown that it could not be considered as standing alone; that it was but a fraction of an elaborate and comprehensive code of by-laws which must be considered as a whole; that the charter of the corporation designates among the purposes for which the Cotton Exchange was formed, the decrease of local risks attending upon the business, and generally the promotion of the cotton trade of the city of New York.

Non-resident members, as well as resident members, are entitled to all the protection afforded by the by-laws, so far as regards transactions entered into and carried out on this market; but neither residents nor non-residents, if they choose to deal in other markets and under different rules, could enforce the claims they would thus acquire by a resort to the machinery of the Exchange.

To extend the provision of the by-laws to transactions entered into and carried out in distant parts of the world, under different regulations and conditions from those existing here, even though the parties happened to be members of the Exchange, would be to extend the authority, jurisdiction and powers of the Exchange beyond the limits authorized by its charter or contemplated by its by-laws. The Board of Appeal was therefore of the opinion that the claim presented by the respondent did not fall within the provision of section 12 of the by-laws, and that the award of the Arbitration Committee allowing the claim should therefore be reversed. Fees to be paid by the respondent.

Jute Butts, Bagging, &c.—There has been a moderate amount of business during the week, but the market is not active. The inquiry is still for jobbing wants but in this way a fair amount of stock is being placed. Prices are unchanged, and sellers are steady at 9½c. for 1½ lbs., 10c. for 1¾ lbs., 10¾c. for 2 lbs. and 11½c. for standard grades. Butts have been in some demand for paper grades and sales of 2,000 bales are reported to arrive. The close is quiet, with paper grades held at 2¾@2⅞c. and bagging qualities at 2¾@2⅞c. The stock here is about 47,000 bales with 131,000 bales afloat. The sales for the past month foot up 10,000 bales at 2½@2¾c., mostly to arrive.

Comparative Port Receipts and Daily Crop Movement.—A comparison of the port movement by weeks is not accurate as the weeks in different years do not end on the same day of the month. We have consequently added to our other standing tables a daily and monthly statement, that the reader may constantly have before him the data for seeing the exact relative movement for the years named. The movement each month since September 1, 1883, has been as follows.

| Perc'tage of tot. port receipts Feb. 29... | 80·73 | 85·45 | 78 28 | 84·28 | 86·27 | |

This statement shows that up to Feb. 29 the receipts at the ports this year were 562,440 bales less than in 1882 and 320,063 bales more than at the same time in 1881. By adding to the above totals to Feb. 29 the daily receipts since that time, we shall be able to reach an exact comparison of the movement for the different years.

Note.—13,386 bales added to the total to February 29 as correction of previous receipts.

This statement shows that the receipts since Sept. 1 up to to-night are now 565,440 bales less than they were to the same day of the month in 1883 and 334,856 bales more than they were to the same day of the month in 1882. We add to the table the percentages of total port receipts which had been received to March 7 in each of the years named.

The Exports of Cotton from New York this week show an increase, as compared with last week, the total reaching 10,026 bales, against 4,338 bales last week. Below we give our usual table showing the exports of cotton from New York and their direction, for each of the last four weeks; also the total exports and direction since September 1, 1883, and in the last column the total for the same period of the previous year.

BREADSTUFFS.

FRIDAY, P. M., March 7, 1884.

Flour has not sold at all freely, but has, nevertheless, been generally steady. The winter wheat grades have the preference, and these are still in only moderate supply. Spring wheat flour on the other hand is plentiful and, in the existing dulness of trade, is more or less nominal in value. Usually spring wheat descriptions sell at from 50 cents to a dollar a barrel higher than winter, but now the latter on the average bring twenty-five cents more than the former. To-day there was only a moderate trade, but prices were about steady.

Wheat has sold but moderately on speculation, and the export trade, though showing a slight increase at times, has reached a comparatively unimportant aggregate. The fluctuations in prices have been within rather narrow limits but the tendency has been downward. There has been some decrease in the visible supply in this country and the quantity on the way to Europe is smaller by 1,820,000 bushels than it was a week ago; but these considerations have had but a momentary influence. The dulness of the foreign trade neutralizes every statistical advantage that can be cited, and the fact that 50,000 bushels were posted here yesterday as warm and weevilly likewise acts as something of a drag on the market, preventing at all events any material advance in prices. It may be added that one of the chief reasons given for the slowness of the export trade here is not that the New York quotations are much, if at all, above the parity of those current in England and on the Continent, but that the quality of much of the wheat is so low that exporters purchase it with extreme caution. To-day there was a moderate trade at a fractional advance. The advices in regard to the winter wheat are, as a rule, favorable. No. 2 red closed at $1 14 in elevator, $1 07 3/8 for March, $1 09 3/8 for April, $1 11 1/2 for May and $1 12 3/8 for June, showing a decline for the week of 1/2c. to 1c. in options, though the closing price in elevator is higher than that of a week ago.

Indian corn has been dull for export, but somewhat more active latterly on speculation. Prices have declined, however, in sympathy with the depression in wheat and lower prices at Chicago. The receipts there have increased, owing to the fact that the condition of the country roads has been greatly improved by the cold weather of late. It is also claimed that some of the larger holders in Chicago have sold out. Yesterday the depression there was described as almost panicky, owing to large sales by speculators anxious to realize. To-day there was a moderate business here at a slight advance. No. 2 mixed closed at 63c. delivered, 61½c. for March, 62c. for April, 63c. for May and 63⅜c. for June, showing a decline for the week of ½c. to 1c.

Rye and barley have sold slowly at no marked change in prices. Oats have been quiet at slowly declining prices; No. 2 mixed closed at 40c for March, 40⅝c. for April, 41¼c. for May and 41½c. for June, showing a decline of ½c. to 1c. during the week.

THE DRY GOODS TRADE.

The past week has developed an improved demand for men's-wear woolens, and fair orders were placed in this connection by the clothing trade, who appeared in the market in considerable force. Aside from clothing woolens there was a very light demand for domestic fabrics by wholesale buyers on the spot, but a pretty good distribution of staple cotton goods, white goods, indigo-blue prints, wash fabrics, dress goods, hosiery, &c., was made by agents on account of recent and back orders. In spite of the stormy weather which prevailed at times there was increased activity in the jobbing branches of the trade, and a fairly good business was done in both foreign and domestic goods by the principal jobbers. It has become evident that both wholesale and retail buyers have determined to pursue a cautious hand-to-mouth policy for the present, but a fairly good spring trade is anticipated, nearly all textile fabrics being so cheap at current quotations that a liberal demand for consumption is pretty well assured.

DOMESTIC COTTON GOODS.—The export movement in cotton goods was comparatively light, the week's shipments having been only 1,140 packages, of which 439 were sent to Great Britain, 374 to Brazil, 103 to Mexico, 91 to Hayti, and smaller lots to other destinations. There was a freer movement in all descriptions of plain and colored cottons from the hands of jobbers, but the demand by package buyers was strictly moderate, and almost wholly of a hand-to-mouth character. Low grade brown and bleached cottons were barely steady (the late advance having been lost in some instances), but the most desirable plain and colored cottons remain firm, and the best brands of wide sheetings and white goods are stiffly held by agents. Print cloths have further declined to 3⅜c. for 64x64s and 3c. for 56x60s, the dulness of the print market and the consequent lack of demand having contributed to this result. Ginghams, wash fabrics, wide prints, printed lawns and piques were severally active with jobbers, and in moderate demand at agents' hands. Fancy prints were very quiet with agents, but a good business was done in indigo-blues, and furnitures, greys and shirtings were in fair request.

DOMESTIC WOOLEN GOODS.—There was a large influx of wholesale clothiers from Western and near-by markets, and their presence has given an impetus to the demand for heavy clothing woolens, as all-wool and cotton-warp cassimeres, worsteds, overcoatings, satinets, &c. Orders for fabrics of the above descriptions were placed to an important amount, but buyers manifested a good deal of caution, and there was an utter absence of speculation in their operations. Prices for men's-wear woolens are so low that the best and most reliable makes are receiving a marked preference from the trade, and there was consequently a good deal of irregularity in the demand, indifferent styles and poor qualities having met with little attention. Kentucky jeans were quiet in first hands, but more active with jobbers. Ladies' cloths, Jersey cloths and cloakings were in moderate request, and a very fair business was done in worsted dress fabrics; while a slight improvement in the demand for heavy shirts and drawers was reported in exceptional cases.

FOREIGN DRY GOODS.—There was only a moderate movement in foreign goods from first hands, selections having been chiefly confined to a few specialties. The jobbing trade was more active, though hardly up to the average of former seasons at a like period. Fine black and colored silks were in fair request, but low grades moved slowly and at unsatisfactory prices. Fancy silks were fairly active, but at very low figures. Staple dress goods ruled quiet, but fair sales of desirable fancies were reported. White goods, laces, embroideries, hosiery and fabric gloves were in fair request, but linen goods continued sluggish, and a light trade was done in men's-wear woolens and ladies' cloths.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION.

There has been a decided improvement the past week in the general feeling pervading all our markets. This is the result mainly of the turn in foreign exchange (due to easier rates for money in London) by which gold exports have been checked and the anxiety with regard to the silver question been relieved. Acting in the same direction, is the battle of General Graham in Egypt, ending with the total defeat of Osman Digna, as this success indicates a speedier settlement of that difficulty than was anticipated and a less drain of gold on that account than was feared. A further quieting influence has been the course of our stock market, which, though artificially sustained, affords a certain rest from that feeling of insecurity which the constant successful attacks on prices had made so prominent a feature in the general situation.

The event of most importance has been the reduction by the Bank of England of the minimum rate of discount to 3 per cent from 3½ at which it has stood since February 6th. In this interval the Bank has gained about £2,150,000 bullion and nearly £1,000,000 more is now in transit from America, so that the supply at hand and to arrive fully justified the governors of the Bank in reducing the rate. The action was evidently hastened by the lower open market rate in London observable immediately after the supply of bullion from America was assured. All business is so depressed in Great Britain that there is a very slack demand for money for commercial purposes; so as soon as the pressure to protect the Bank reserve is removed, the open market rate necessarily falls. Easier money in London is important to us because it checks the demand for further transfers of capital, sent abroad to be employed at better rates than those ruling in this country. But while London is still relatively higher than New York we cannot expect any return of the capital that has already gone, but simply a cessation, which may be only temporary, in the demand.

The transfer of capital to which we allude was in no sense a trade movement. As we have often stated of late, we cannot at the present moment be in debt to the outside world in any amount. For the seven months ending with the first of February there was a merchandise balance in our favor, less the net specie imports, of 74 million dollars, and for the last two months ending with that day the net balance in our favor on the merchandise and specie movement was about 43 million dollars. This is the position in which the accounts stood February 1. Whatever may have been our export trade since, it is evident, with the decreased imports now in progress, that we are not as yet in debt on current transactions. Very possibly the next few months the conditions will change. For this reason, and for the reason that interest rates are still in favor of London, it can cause no surprise if the demand for sterling continues sufficiently urgent to keep the rates for exchange close to the gold-exporting point, and more or less gold be shipped. Importers who have refrained from remitting while exchange has been high, will naturally purchase as soon as there is a moderate decline, and this demand, together with that from bankers, will, it is likely, fully absorb the supply of commercial bills.

There is no reason to expect for the present any considerable amount of bankers' drafts against outgoing securities, and the offerings of such bills will be confined to the settlement of arbitrage accounts which are rarely very large. The shipments of gold this week have been only $150,000 bars, on Wednesday, by Messrs. August Belmont & Co. and $50,000 gold coin to South America on Thursday. The rates for sight exchange and cables fell on the last-named day to a fraction below the point at which gold could be sent to London at a profit, and, unless an increased demand should arise to remit by Saturday's steamer, it is believed that the supply of bills will be sufficient to meet the inquiry. Although this interruption to gold exports has allayed the excitement regarding the silver question, this fact should not induce any relaxation in the efforts to urge Congress to legislate promptly and effectively in relation to the coinage of the silver dollar, for, if these coins are suffered to accumulate in the Treasury, the Department will sooner or later be forced to adopt measures to get them into circulation, and the most natural channel will be through the New York banks.

The stock market continues to be artificial in its movements. That is to say, there is no apparent investment demand, nor are speculators showing any disposition to make purchases at current prices. On the other hand, the better class of properties have obviously, during the frequent raids that have been made upon them, been very largely oversold. So that while the present condition is called artificial, the relation now existing between the two parties operating in the market, shows that the extreme low prices which ruled were no less artificial, not having been brought about by the marketing of stocks, nor even having produced free selling on the part of actual holders.

The feature on Monday was a move to pinch the shorts in Union Pacific, the books closing for the quarterly dividend on the afternoon of that day. The clique manipulating the stock were able to enforce a premium of only $\frac{5}{8}$ of 1 per cent for cash stock and before the close of the day the supply became liberal and the whole market was more or less unfavorably affected by the decline which resulted and by the announcement that a meeting of the trunk line presidents had been called for Thursday to consider an important cut in east-bound grain rates. On Tuesday the speculation was very tame until in the afternoon when it became more active on a report that New York Central would be cornered before the end of the week. On Wednesday there were indications that the bears were covering some of their short contracts and before the close not only did cash New York Central command a small premium but the stock advanced, carrying with it the other Vanderbilt specialties and also the grangers. Early on Thursday further pressure was applied to New York Central and the premium was forced upward to $\frac{1}{2}$ of 1 per cent, but the supply of stock became abundant, the price gradually declined and in the late trade the whole list fell off to the lowest figures of the day. On Friday, however, notwithstanding the reduction of 10 cents per hundred pounds in east-bound freights from Chicago, the market manifested great strength, and before the close showed a very decided advance on leading stocks.

The week's movements seem to indicate that holders of stocks which may be cornered are disposed to sell or loan their properties whenever a special rise in values occurs, and the supply of "long" stock brought out in this way has thus far proved sufficient to relieve the bears without their being compelled to take much stock from the cliques. Whenever the market loses the stimulating effect of manipulation, it lapses into dullness. There have been no new developments regarding the troubles in the Western pools. Perhaps we should mention that yesterday the announcement was again made of a rupture in the Colorado pool. Whether this report will prove any more truthful than previous similar announcements the event alone will show. One point seems to be evident, and that is that as yet the differences have not been settled. In this connection the statement is published that the Chicago Burlington & Quincy has contracted to build a road from Minneapolis via St. Paul to the Wisconsin State line, "which will give it a much more direct route "to St. Paul than is now open to it, and make it inde- "pendent of the Rock Island." From this assumption, it has been argued that another cause of dispute is sure to arise between the Quincy and the Northwestern Association. We fancy if the pool lasts until the Quincy builds that road, its life will be without end.

The differences which the trunk-line managers met on Thursday to consider arose out of a pretty general demoralization among the contracting parties. The latest offense was an alleged cut by the New York Central in retaliation for a violation of the schedule by the Erie and the Baltimore & Ohio roads. All the representatives were present at the meeting, not only of the trunk lines, but of their Western connections, and the proceedings fully reported would be very interesting. The remarks of Mr. Roberts of the Pennsylvania, in his annual report, to which we referred last week, caused quite an unsettled feeling, and very likely led to the meeting. But the results reached in putting all rates affected down to the cut rate, in order that no line could have any advantage over another in securing business, and also the determination to establish pools at interior competitive points, show a strong disposition to prevent any actual rupture.

In another column we review at some length the earnings of the railroads for the month of February, and give the reasons why the comparison has proved more favorable than expected. As we have said before, however, in March and the subsequent months we will have to compare with exceptionally heavy earnings a year ago, and a continuance of the gains heretofore reported therefore becomes out of the question. This remark applies particularly to the roads of the Northwest, which during March, 1883, carried the accumulations of previous months, when traffic had been interrupted by snow and ice. The returns now coming to hand for the first week of March clearly show the distinction that must be made in this respect. Thus the St. Paul reports a decrease for that period of $55,000, the Northwest a decrease of $46,000, and the Omaha a decrease of $9,000. And exhibits of this character for these roads must be expected for some time to come, for the earnings last year kept increasing with each succeeding week, and there was one week—the fourth—when both the St. Paul and the Northwest earned over $700,000 each. It seems hardly likely that any such totals will be reached this year, in view of the less favorable traffic conditions that exist.

It is pertinent to remark here that with the multiplication of unfavorable returns, there is an evident tendency on the part of railroad managers to withhold the figures. Such a policy we are inclined to think is a mistaken one. To give out the figures when they show an increase, and then to suppress the monthly or weekly reports when there happens to be a decrease, does not inspire confidence in the public mind. Such action is interpreted as a suppressio veri, which in law is considered about the same as an allegatio falsi. It is suggested, too, that if, when making application for the listing of more stock or bonds, either in London or New York, the managers should plainly state that the earnings would be published when good but withheld when bad, there might be some hesitation in granting the request made. As yet, the Gould system of roads is the only prominent one that has withheld monthly reports, where formerly they were regularly furnished, but this criticism is also commended to the consideration of others who may contemplate following in the same footsteps. It has been rumored that the Union Pacific was about to discontinue its monthly statements, but we decline to credit the rumor until we meet with a positive refusal from the company's officials, which has not yet happened. The Boston Transcript aptly remarks that the Union Pacific could afford to lose a million dollars net, but could not afford to conceal the monthly reports.

St. Louis & San Francisco has this week issued a pamphlet report of its operations for the late calendar year. This road attracts attention by reason of the steady growth of its earnings and because of the increased mileage tributary to the company's system. In this latter respect the position of the property has been improved by building into the Indian Territory to secure a share of the live stock traffic, for which that section of the country is noted, and, besides, the completion during 1883 of the Atlantic & Pacific road to the Colorado River (in which road, as is known, the St. Louis & San Francisco has a half interest) has opened a new and direct through route to the Pacific coast, from which the St. Louis & San Francisco can not fail to derive important benefits. It is to be noted, too, that the road now has (dating from the 1st of January, 1884) a line of its own into St. Louis, and is no longer compelled to rely upon the Missouri Pacific for accommodations in that particular. When, some years ago, the San Francisco was purchased, apparently in the joint interest of the Gould and Huntington people, it was supposed the extension into St. Louis would be abandoned, but subsequent events have proved that the Gould interest, though having a very strong representation on the Board of Directors, does not control the policy of the road—so the extension has been built.

As to the operations for the year 1883, the results are quite satisfactory. The road suffered a diminution of its ore traffic in Missouri on account of the depressed state of the iron industry, but the excellent and unprecedented yield of corn in Kansas, the southeastern end of which the San Francisco drains, together with the increase of the live stock traffic from the Indian Territory, and the gain in the passenger movement, more than overcame the loss on that account, so we find that the earnings increased $324,324 (or 9 per cent) during the year, the total reaching $3,896,565. Of course, expenses also increased ($150,035), and there was, moreover, a larger charge (in the sum of $47,311) for improvements, leaving the gain in net earnings $126,978, and raising the same from $1,946,458 in 1882 to $2,073,436 in 1883. It will be observed that the road is operated very cheaply—the ratio of expenses to earnings being no more than 46·79 per cent, even after counting in improvements. The charge for interest and sinking funds during the year was $1,303,579, besides which $26,484 net was paid on account of various other items, which left a balance of $743,373 on the year's operations, independent of the receipts on account of land sales amounting to $645,844 gross. Out of the $743,373 from the operations of the road, the company paid, as in the two years preceding, 7 per cent dividends on its 1st preferred stock (the first in the order of priority) of $4,500,000, calling for $315,000, after which there still remained a surplus of $428,373 to be carried forward. This surplus is equivalent to over 4¼ per cent on the 10 millions of preferred stock (which comes next in the order of priority after the 1st preferred) outstanding. The company did not during the year experience the full measure of results from the extension into the Indian Territory, nor from the completion of the Atlantic & Pacific, and the St. Louis piece has, as already stated, been in operation only since the 1st of the current year. For this reason, quite favorable expectations are entertained for 1884, and reference to our weekly table of earnings on another page will show that for the ten weeks of the year, to the end of the first week of March, there has been a gain in earnings over the corresponding period in 1883 of $152,380.

Money continues in abundant supply on call, and there is very little demand for time loans. There is a similar plethora of funds at interior points, notably at Chicago, but bankers there are disposed to deal very cautiously with their customers, refusing discounts to all except first-class borrowers. At Louisville, the practical failure of the whiskey extension bill tended to increase the demand upon the banks, temporarily at least giving employment to all the spare funds. A little better inquiry for money is expected at all points toward the close of the month, when preparations will be made for the usual April settlements. The following statement, made up from returns collected by us, exhibits the week's receipts and shipments of gold and currency by the New York banks.

The above shows the actual changes in the bank holdings of gold and currency caused by this movement to and from the interior. In addition to that movement, the banks have lost $4,500,000 through the operations of the Sub-Treasury and by exports of gold. Adding that item therefore to the above, we have the following, which should indicate the total loss to the New York Clearing House banks of gold and currency for the week covered by the bank statement to be issued to-day.

The Bank of England reports an increase of £883,000 bullion during the week. This represents £716,000 from abroad and £167,000 from the interior. Of the above amount from abroad at least £300,000 probably came from New York. The Bank of France gained 1,300,000 francs gold and lost 1,100,000 francs silver, and the Bank of Germany shows a decrease of 3,207,000 marks specie. The following indicates the amount of bullion in the principal European banks this week and at the corresponding date last year.

WHAT MAKES INTEREST LOW.

Almost daily for two weeks or more it has been stated by the press and by foreign exchange bankers that a prominent reason at the present time for gold leaving us was that interest ruled lower here than in London. Any one can readily see the force of this suggestion, for it does not require a student of political economy to understand that if every other influence affecting gold currents were removed, floating capital would go where it could earn most. It will not (all other things being equal) stay in New York receiving 1½ per cent or less when by paying the cost of transportation it can secure 3½ per cent or more.

This being true, it follows that a rate for money at any place lower than that ruling in other commercial centres is not desirable unless it results from a superabundance of capital. Evidently no such excess of capital exists in the present instance. On the contrary there is in Great Britain a very much larger accumulation of wealth than in the United States, and consequently a much larger amount of loanable funds seeking employment there. The natural relation of the two markets is for New York to rule above London, capital being worth more here because there is less of it, and wider opportunity for its use. But yet for nearly two years now, call loans in New York have much of the time been under the minimum rate of the Bank of England, and during the past year even time loans have been put out at a materially lower figure. To-day some of our largest banks hold in cash more than one-half their deposits, unable to get anything for its use. This is wholly unnatural. It is also unwholesome, tending to drive capital away from us, when a new country like ours needs for its development all it can get.

The question naturally comes back then, what is it that makes money so cheap here? It is not that we have had any recent increase of capital, for the truth is we must presume that there has been a very considerable decrease in our available supplies. Europe has been sending back our securities, and the general estimate among those best informed is that our holdings of foreign capital were never so small. Furthermore the annual accumulations in this country have certainly decreased during late years. Very poor crops in 1881, and unremunerative prices for them much of the time since, with business and productive enterprises in general profitless, or carried on at a loss, are not evidences of increasing wealth. Furthermore, our previous accumulations have been seriously trenched upon by the unusually large conversion of floating capital into fixed capital during the last four years in building railroads more rapidly than ever before, and multiplying spindles and furnaces and other manufacturing appliances.

If these are facts—and we see no way of controverting them—ought not our loan market being thus depleted be stringent? The mere circumstance that we have stopped building railroads, or stopped enlarging our factories, gives us no new capital. It may be claimed that it calls for a less demand on the old supply. But is not such a view erroneous? It stops the conversion which was in progress, but how does it release anything that has been converted, or lessen the demand to cover the debts and credits which have accumulated? The railroads, factories and furnaces are all built, the mortgages, notes and other evidences of debt which were put out in constructing them still exist, and in these forms the accumulations of years are securely locked. At such a juncture, and while also our annual accumulations have largely diminished, and foreign capital has been withdrawn from us in unusual amounts, our loan market remains at nearer a nominal figure than at any previous date in our existence as a nation. It has not even been in the least disturbed by the 10 millions of gold which has been shipped from this port since the first of March, and if 10 millions more should go out before the first of April, the rate of interest would scarcely mark the event.

What an apt illustration all this affords of the unscientific nature of our monetary system, and how forcibly it brings out the truth that paper currency is not capital—it is simply an instrument in the garb of capital by which capital is transferred. When exchanges are rapid, we may use, although we do not need, a large volume of it; but as they slacken, the same amount if kept out becomes very redundant. In all mixed currency systems a plan of redemption is provided to meet this evil, and were our paper money thus made responsive to the wants of commerce, fluctuating in volume with the fluctuations in business activity, it would be but little disturbing. As it is we have 346 millions of legal tenders, 346 millions of national bank notes, and 110 million silver certificates, making altogether over 800 millions of paper money (omitting some minor items), and none of it except the bank notes subject to even the semblance of redemption. The legal tender or silver certificate may of course go into the Treasury to-day, but to-morrow's payments force it out again. Like the little vagrant it has no place of rest—it must move on. So we have at present more instead of less currency kept in active use, than there was when our business depression began, the most of the silver certificates having been put out since then. Our banks are in truth at this moment stuffed full of the paper which we pay our domestic debts with, and were it not for the distrust prevailing by reason of our silver coinage nothing could prevent another speculative flurry.

These suggestions are worth a thought at least. We assume that it would be presumptuous to expect the evil to be cured at present; it is not urgent enough. The bank note, the best paper currency we have, is the only kind Congress has ever shown any disposition to withdraw. But it is none the less desirable to call attention to the lesson passing events are teaching, which is, that the most expensive and disturbing paper money a country can use, is a forced currency like our legal-tender notes.

MEXICAN RAILROADS AND THE RECIPROCITY TREATY.

In the present depressed state of our industries, anything that holds out the prospect of a new market for our surplus products, must receive cordial welcome. Tending in that direction, the ratification this week by the United States Senate of the Reciprocity Treaty with Mexico is an important event, especially as it comes contemporaneously with the announcement that the main line of the Mexican Central Railroad has been completed all the way to the City of Mexico. Thus the chance for freer intercourse is presented at the opportune moment when a new channel of communication with our near neighbor is opened, providing an excellent means of carrying the provisions of the treaty into practical effect.

Under this treaty we are permitted to supply the Mexicans with all those materials which it may be supposed they at present most need to aid in developing their natural resources, and which we can furnish with advantage to ourselves, namely, agricultural implements, machinery, railroad equipment, building materials, in addition to such articles as books, ink and pens (not of silver or gold), besides the important item of petroleum. In return, we agree to admit the raw products of her soil (excepting cereals) free, chief among which are fruits, coffee, hides, sugar (not above No. 16 Dutch standard), molasses and tobacco. Though Mexico has a population which is variously estimated at from ten to twelve millions, and though the two countries are exceptionally well fitted to supply each other's wants, our total trade with the republic in the very best year (1882–3) reached less than 25 million dollars—$8,177,123 imports and $16,587,620 exports—in addition to which, however, we received nearly 10 millions of her specie.

The Mexican import duties are notoriously heavy and oppressive, but it should be said that they have not constituted the only barrier to a larger trade with us. Quite as effectual an obstacle existed in the disadvantages inherent in the country itself. There was no system of internal transportation by which products could be brought to the seaports, or, indeed, for carrying them from one district to another. Mexico has no navigable streams of any magnitude, and railroads have until recently been almost unknown. Hence, goods could not be transported for even a short distance of fifty miles, except at a very heavy cost, which barred out not only imports, but made it impossible to send the products of the interior to market either at home or abroad. This is shown in the fact that almost the whole of Mexico's exports have been made up of articles raised near the seaboard or in proximity to the Mexican Railway (Mexico City to Vera Cruz), the only railway the country has heretofore had. Of course, all this will be changed now under the comprehensive system of railroad lines in course of construction.

There has been some opposition in this country to the treaty, but there would appear to be no doubt of its proving greatly to our advantage. Agriculture has heretofore been conducted in a very primitive fashion in Mexico. With the advent of the railroad we may expect a resort to more modern methods and better results, and with a market open for her products the development of the country will be rapid and its demands on us largely increased. Mexico, moreover, not only agrees to remove the external dues on the importations from us, but also the internal taxes, it being the practice to tax goods passing from one State to the other in the republic. On the other hand, the concessions we make appear to be confined mainly to sugar, hemp and tobacco, the most of the other articles which it is proposed we shall admit free being already on our free list. At present, the item of largest exportation from Mexico to the United States is hemp, and the duty on this is removed. Next to this, comes hides, on which there is no duty. But the main opposition to the treaty has been from the sugar producers of Louisiana. Statistics show that this State raises about 90 per cent of the sugar production of the United States, and its entire product in 1882 3 was only 303,066,258 pounds (and this is larger than it has been at any time for twenty years), while in the same year the imports of all kinds of sugar into the country amounted to 2,019,823,614 pounds. Assuming that all the domestic production, as well as the importation, went into consumption, it would appear that we produce in the United States only about one-eighth of our consumption and to protect the producers of 300 million pounds, we levy a tax upon two thousand millions. Furthermore, Mr. Nimmo states that in the latest year for which data can be obtained Mexico raised only 154,549,662 lbs. of sugar altogether. That amount brought in free could not affect price much, though doubtless the production will be increased under the new condition of things.

As to the completion of the Mexican Central Railroad, this brings the United States in direct connection with the capital of Mexico, and gives that country a railroad route almost from one end to the other. To show what an important work it is, we need only say that the distance from El Paso (the United States terminus) to the city of Mexico is over 1,200 miles. It is less than four years since the charter for this road was granted, and to-day finds the whole main line in operation. The enterprise has been the conception of Boston people, and been built under their auspices, and very largely with their money, though chiefly indebted to the energy of Mr. Nickerson for its successful prosecution. The difficulties in the way have been very great. Not the least of these has been the distrust of all railroad undertakings which the events of the last few years have produced in the minds of our people. When the enterprise was first started the times were very propitious for floating loans, but latterly it has been almost impossible to obtain money for new railroad construction. The Mexican Central people, however, went straight on with their work, and though the bonds of the concern steadily declined in the market, they never permitted themselves to entertain a doubt of the success of their project. And others had faith in the enterprise, too, for the necessary money was always forthcoming when wanted, though, as said, little of it could be obtained from outside sources. When it was found, early in the year, that the first estimates of the cost had been slightly exceeded and that about a million more of money was needed to carry the road to completion, it seemed as if failure had overtaken the concern, just as success was within reach, and its 7 per cent bonds fell to 44. But the additional means were provided and the bonds are now at 60 again. We mention this in illustration of the financial exigencies that the projectors had to meet and successfully overcame.

The Mexican Central, however, is chiefly important as being the first railroad to enter the Mexican capital from the United States. Others are under way or projected, which if carried out will multiply the avenues of communication with the United States and also give Mexico adequate railroad facilities to develop her internal and external commerce. The Mexican National (narrow guage) is the chief of these. This enters Mexico at Laredo, is projected to run to the City of Mexico, and has 700 miles of completed road within the borders of the Mexican Republic, besides about 180 miles more (to Corpus Christi) in the United States. Then there is the Mexican International, or Huntington road, which enters Mexico at a point opposite Eagle Pass and on which 150 miles are completed. This will form a very direct route to the Mexican capital from the cities of Galveston and New Orleans. There are also various other lines on which little or no work has been done, but some of which will no doubt be built and aid in further development of the country.

Altogether, it seems not unlikely that Mexico is destined now to a rapid development, and that in her industria progress and expansion the United States will in a great measure share. Through the Reciprocity Treaty and the railroad lines the whole current of trade will be turned towards this country, and it is certain that while taking from her the productions of her soil (which the increased transportation facilities and the change in the mode of agriculture will be sure to multiply largely), we can in turn make the operation profitable to ourselves by selling her many of our own wares and manufactures, which we will be able to offer so much more cheaply than any other nation.

AUSTRALIAN FEDERATION.

The attention of our readers has on several occasions, within a recent period, been called to the movement which has for some time been in progress and which has for its object the federation of the different Australian States. In December of last year, partly on account of the difficulty which arose in connection with the proposed annexation of New Guinea and partly, also, to consult as to the propriety of bringing about a closer union of the colonies, a representative Council or Conference was held in Sydney, New South Wales. It was known that the Conference came to an agreement, and that a deputation had been sent to London to make known the result, and to push the plan agreed upon; but it was not known what proposals they had actually carried with them.

It now appears that before they concluded their sittings, the Inter-colonial Conference or Convention, on the 7th of December, drew up a bill for the establishment of a Federal Council of Australasia, and that this bill, embodying the wishes of the Australasian colonists, is now in the hands of the Government. As the bill itself, or some modification of it, is likely to be introduced in the present session, and, as with the passing of such bill, the Australasian colonies will enter upon an entirely new career—a career full of promise of great future prosperity—it may be well to look upon some of its provisions.

The first feature, and one of the most important, is the light in which the proposed arrangement views the whole Polynesian region. It is clear that the people of Australasia look upon the Polynesian Islands as their own, actually or in prospect. The bill includes in its operations not only Fiji, New Zealand, New South Wales, Queensland, Tasmania, Victoria and Western Australia, but the provinces of South Australia, their dependencies, and those of the said colonies. In the preamble and in every line of the bill may be read a resolution that a hundred isles outside must be brought within the same system. In this respect the plan differs from that which was pursued in the confederation of Canada; and this is doubtless to be accounted for by the fact that the proposed new federation is not restrained by any neighboring, powerful dominion. As the London Times put it, "the "Federal Counsel of Australasia is empowered by the bill "to draw, and will be unable to decline to draw, a wide "circle for a greater Australasia, composed of elements it "can call into life as it pleases."

At the outset the Council is to consist of some fifteen or sixteen members. A session of the Council is to be held at least once every two years. Each colony is to be represented by two members, except in the case of Crown colonies, which shall be represented by one member each. The first Council is to be held at Hobart Town in Tasmania. Subsequent sessions shall be held in such colony as the Council shall from time to time determine. The Council shall in each session elect one of its members to be President. The usual oaths of allegiance must be taken by the members of the Council. At the present time the independence of the different colonies leads to many inconveniences in civil and business matters. To obviate these inconveniences, it is provided that, saving the royal prerogative, and subject to certain specified provisions, the Council shall have legislative authority over all Her Majesty's possessions in Australasia, and over all British ships sailing between them, in respect to certain matters named;—such, for example, as the relations of the Australasian to the other islands of the Pacific; prevention of the influx of criminals; the fisheries; the enforcement of judgments; extradition; general defenses, &c. No bill passed by the Council shall become law until it shall have obtained Her Majesty's assent directly or through the Governor of the colony in which the Council shall be sitting.

The independence of the different colonies shall not be affected by the Federal Council; but all acts of the Council, when they shall have been properly proclaimed, shall have the force of law in all Her Majesty's possessions in Australasia, or in the several colonies to which they shall extend. If in any case the acts of the Council should be repugnant to, or inconsistent with, the law of any colony, the colony must yield to the Council. Ample provision is made for the appointment of committees for the settlement of inter-colonial difficulties, and for the meeting of necessary expenses. The Federal Council may not approach foreign Powers, except through representations or recommendations to Her Majesty. The act authorizing the Federal Council shall not come into operation in any colony until the legislature of such colony shall have passed an act of approval, nor until four colonies, at least, shall have passed such acts.

Such, in condensed shape, is the bill by which it is proposed to establish a great federation in the Southern seas, and to give a new, and what must at no distant day become a great, empire the almost unqualified control of the South Pacific. We have no reason to doubt that the bill will substantially become law; and the presumption is that, as the framers of the act evidently expect, the Federal Council will be in existence before the end of the year. For the work at the outset the fifteen or sixteen members may be found sufficient; but the work will increase, and the membership will continue to multiply, until a parliament larger in numbers even than that of England shall preside over the destinies of another and larger country in the Southern Hemisphere.

RAILROAD EARNINGS IN FEBRUARY, AND FROM JANUARY 1 TO FEBRUARY 29.

Compared with last year, the February earnings make quite a good showing. That is to say, although there is no considerable increase, the fact that there is any at all, has been accepted as satisfactory, a decrease having been expected by many. The gain amounts to $740,000 or about 6 per cent, on mileage augmented 3,156 miles or 8 per cent.

This year's conditions were not favorable to large earnings. The continued depression of our industries; the severity of the weather—snow and ice in one section, and rains and floods in another; nothing to stimulate the grain movement, while the cotton receipts were reduced by reason of last season's deficient yield of the staple, and the passenger traffic was only moderate;—with such facts and conditions prevailing, the improvement recorded in the earnings has been favorably received. And yet it is well to remember that in many respects the conditions prevailing last year were fully as bad as this year, and in some instances very much worse, which of course modifies the conclusion drawn from this year's figures. In February, 1883, the floods in the Ohio Valley were nearly as pronounced, and restricted railroad operations scarcely less, while the meteorological conditions in the Northwest then were phenomenally bad and interrupted railroad transportation almost as much as in the extraordinary winter of 1880-1—in comparison with which the occasional snow storms of the present February were scarcely worthy of mention. In one particular the month in 1883 was more favorable than in 1884, and that was in the larger cotton movement, which, however, affected only Southern roads. On the other hand an important fact this year is that February contained an additional day. This is a point not to be overlooked, being especially important in the case of the larger roads which earn from $50,000 to $75,000 a day. In the following table, we give the earnings and mileage of each individual road.

* Only three weeks of February in each year.

This table makes it clear that for the time being at least the era of large gains in earnings is past. There are only two roads in the list whose gain for the month exceeds $100,000. The increase as a rule is small. It is to be noted, too, that the number of roads recording a decrease is not very numerous. There are only 17 altogether, and the falling off is in no case considerable—though it should always be remembered in this connection that the extra day this year is in part the cause for that fact. The roads in the Northwest make as good an exhibit as any in the list, which is not surprising, considering that last year they fared badly on account of the weather, in illustration of which remark we may point to the fact that the gain this year in nearly every instance fails to equal the loss then. Thus the Burlington Cedar Rapids & Northern has an increase of less than $15,000, while a year ago the decrease amounted to over $38,500. The Chicago & Northwestern gains $126,105 this year, but in 1883 lost $162,781. The St. Paul has gained about $61,000—a year ago it lost $119,000. The St. Paul & Omaha records an increase of $46,000, while in 1883 it had a decrease of $51,000. The St. Paul Minneapolis & Manitoba for the first time in many months reports an increase; but this road has heretofore been comparing with very large figures, while for February it compares with very small figures. The St. Paul & Duluth gained last year, when other roads in the same territory were losing, and this year reverses this by losing when the rest are gaining. For the Northwestern roads the grain movement would appear to have been about the same in 1884 as in 1883. There have been some material changes in the total grain receipts, but they occurred at such points as Toledo, Detroit and St. Louis, and not at Chicago and Milwaukee, which are the principal Northwestern centres. This is shown in the following table, giving not only the receipts for February, but since the 1st of January as well.

Michigan and Wisconsin roads were also affected by bad weather last year, hence we find pretty uniform gains on them this year. The Chicago & West Michigan, the Detroit Lansing & Northern and the Green Bay Winona & St. Paul have failed to recover the full loss of 1883, but the Flint & Pere Marquette and the Milwaukee Lake Shore & Western continue to run largely ahead. In the case of the Wisconsin Central, the comparison does not extend back to 1882, but the gain this year is $19,200, or over 22 per cent. In Iowa, less obstruction to travel by snow and ice and a freer corn movement were the features this year, and the Iowa lines of the Illinois Central, the Des Moines & Fort Dodge and the Central Iowa record improvement on last year, which, however, in the case of the former two, falls far short of equalling the loss then recorded. The Central Iowa lost $16,000 in 1883, and gains $18,000 in 1884 on a larger mileage.

The roads running south from Chicago, as heretofore, make an unfavorable showing: they lose even after having lost heavily in 1883. The Chicago & Eastern Illinois has a decrease of $3,500 this year, in addition to a decrease of $15,000 in 1883. The Illinois Central, on the line from Chicago to New Orleans, has reduced receipts of $47,000, but this we judge from the figures further below is due largely, if not wholly, to the diminished movement of cotton. The Cincinnati Washington & Baltimore and the St. Louis Alton & Terre Haute (main line), which form parts of trunk lines east from St. Louis, both record a decrease. These roads lie in the section of country north of the Ohio and east of the Mississippi, which has for some time been conspicuous for losses of earnings. There are, however, a few prominent roads in this territory which this month record improvement—roads, too, that had quite marked gains a year ago, which makes the present statement the more remarkable. Thus on the Indiana Bloomington & Western there is an increase of nearly $10,000, on top of an increase of $27,000 in 1883. The Ohio Central (not including the River Division) gains $7,000, in addition to nearly $23,000 in the previous year. The Peoria Decatur & Evansville has added $11,000 to its receipts, but had a loss in 1883 of $12,000. The movement of corn at Peoria may explain the variations on the latter road. Last year there was a very large falling off in the receipts of that cereal at Peoria—this year there is a gain.

The roads running to, or connecting with, the Southwest, again are prominent for their excellent exhibits. The Chicago & Alton continues its upward course in a modest way, while the St. Louis & San Francisco is making very rapid strides forward. The former gained $40,000 in 1883, and now adds $15,000 more. On the St. Louis & San Francisco the increase reaches as much as $93,500, or over 40 per cent—but in the previous year there had been a small loss, $3,900. The Kansas City Fort Scott & Gulf also lost a little last year, but has quite a heavy gain this year—though the floods have interfered with traffic operations on its Memphis extension, the earnings of which are separately reported. It would be interesting in this connection to note the results on the Gould Southwestern system, but the figures are all withheld—both for January and February. No doubt, however, the system was adversely affected by the contraction in the movement of cotton. In Texas, certainly, this was an influence upon railroad traffic. But the Gulf Colorado & Santa Fe makes a good exhibit, notwithstanding this circumstance. The loss is only about $4,000, and occurs wholly by reason of a falling off in freight, passenger receipts recording a handsome gain. To show how the cotton movement compared in the two years, not only at Texas ports, but all through the South, we give the following table of the receipts of the staple in February and the two months to February 29 in 1884 and 1883.

Here is a loss of 228,000 bales for February and of 461,000 bales for the two months. That Southern roads have done so well, in face of the heavy loss in this their principal item of freight, speaks well for the development they are making in their general business. The falling off in the cotton movement is not limited to any one section, but is general throughout the South. The heaviest decrease occurs at New Orleans, and it is the decline at that port that leads us to think that the loss in the earnings of the Illinois Central line is ascribable almost entirely to the diminished movement of that staple. An examination of the sources of receipts at that point reveals, moreover, that the Illinois Central line delivered only 26,652 bales in February this year, against 44,884 bales in 1883. The New Orleans & Northeastern, the new line to New Orleans, carried 11,705 bales to that point. At Mobile there was a falling off in the receipts of 13,500 bales, of which about one-half occurred on the Mobile & Ohio, but the earnings of this road appear to have suffered a diminution of only about $3,000 in consequence. On the Atlantic coast the contraction in the movement is quite marked at Norfolk, where the receipts reached only 38,981 bales this year, against 80,997 bales in 1883. Yet such roads as the Norfolk & Western, the East Tennessee, and the Chesapeake & Ohio, which have Norfolk as their principal terminus, all record improvement in earnings over 1883. And the same feature is observable elsewhere in the South, earnings keeping up remarkably well, and even where there are decreases, being (with one or two exceptions) surprisingly small, considering the contraction that has taken place in the cotton movement. On the Elizabethtown Lexington & Big Sandy road traffic was interrupted the greater part of the month by the floods in the Ohio, so the ratio of falling off in earnings is quite heavy; the South Carolina roads, too, show a heavy falling off, but on the Louisville & Nashville the decrease is immaterial, while the Florida roads, the Richmond & Danville, the Memphis & Charleston, the Shenandoah Valley, the Western North Carolina, &c., show better results than in 1883.

As to the earnings for the two months—January and February—combined, our remarks above for February apply equally well. January made relatively a less favorable showing than February—mainly because the comparison was with a better period in 1883—but it exhibited, nevertheless, only a nominal decrease, so that the net result of the two months' business on the roads in the table below is about the same as for February alone. The result on individual roads, however, is not the same, and the decrease on many of them is quite marked, as is illustrated in the fact that while there is a net increase of $662,000 on all roads, there are 25 roads having an aggregate decrease of $1,189,000, which offsets to that extent the gain of $1,851,000 on the remaining 36 roads. The heaviest decrease occurs on the Central Pacific, the Grand Trunk and the Illinois Central. The following is our usual table, giving full particulars for each road.

* Includes three weeks only of February in each year.

Our statement of net earnings covers this time the month of January. The exhibit, taken as a whole, is less satisfactory than for some time past. The large loss on the Pennsylvania is familiar to all, and the decrease on the Philadelphia & Reading is also pretty generally known; but these are by no means the only unfavorable returns. The Northern Central reports diminished net earnings (in small amount), so does the Nashville Chattanooga & St. Louis, so does the Louisville & Nashville (in very much larger amount), so does the Richmond & Danville, and so do the Chicago Burlington & Quincy and the Denver & Rio Grande. The poor result on the latter road, it should be stated, is attributed to "cut" rates and snow blockades. On the Burlington Cedar Rapids & Northern, and the Des Moines & Fort Dodge, we have quite an improvement on the preceding year; but this is only because of the very bad weather that prevailed in that year. In both cases the net earnings fall materially behind those of 1882. The Norfolk & Western, the Shenandoah Valley, and the West Jersey, on the other hand, record continuous improvement. The Oregon Improvement Company also has larger gross and net than a year ago. The following table embraces all roads from which monthly returns can be obtained for publication.

SILVER COINAGE AND THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

The special committee appointed at the meeting of our Chamber of Commerce held on the 6th inst., at which, it will be remembered, resolutions were adopted deprecating the continued compulsory coinage of silver dollars, have sent out to similar bodies of other States a copy of the resolutions adopted, with a very suggestive and forcibly-written memorial. We give the memorial in full below.

The undersigned were appointed a committee to correspond with Chambers of Commerce and Boards of Trade in other cities upon the subject, and to solicit their co-operation, and also to invite delegations from them to a joint meeting in Washington, at some suitable time, when representatives from each commercial body can be present.

In accordance with this appointment, the undersigned most cordially and earnestly invite you to convene your association at an early day, to unite with us in such action on this subject as it may consider wise and proper, and to ensure the desired attendance of a delegation to represent it in Washington, in order there to express the views of the united body to Congress.

The time and place for such meeting will be made known to you by telegram so soon as the needful preliminary arrangements can be made.

The undersigned express the sentiments of the very large majority of business men in New York in apprehending serious injury to the commercial prosperity of the country by the persistent conversion of the cash reserve of the Government into this peculiar and inconvenient form of money. It has already absorbed so large a proportion of the active fund that it must of necessity be disbursed at an early day as the current money of the nation. This result is now only delayed by the forbearance of those who temporarily administer the law.

We believe it to be a new event in the history of coinage, as it certainly is adverse to the spirit of our government, that the kind and denominations of money furnished at the mint of a great nation are not left free to the action of commerce and to the demands of the people, but are pre-determined by an absolute decree, and are forced to consist largely and especially of those pieces that have been found by experience to be least wanted for business uses.

The practical question before the country is not whether the money shall consist of silver or of gold; but whether the dollar or its representative shall continue of the present standard value, or shall sink to a relative value greatly diminished in purchasing power. That the gold dollar and the silver dollar are not equal, is confessed by the daily operations of the Treasury. With five dollars of the one it purchases bullion enough to coin six dollars of the other. And when so created the two kinds of dollars are not made interchangeable by the government that issues them. How, then, can they be equally and equitably enforced into commerce, or be justly and indiscriminately used in the payment of debts?

The operations of the Government are of such magnitude that the kind of money used in its payment must at once become the standard money of the nation, and to that standard all banks and business men must by necessity conform in their dealings and exchanges with each other. The cheaper coin, thus largely disbursed, will at once expel the dearer one, and the transition from the present gold to a single silver standard must be general, swift and certain.

The prices of all property, and the value of all contracts, debts and obligations of the people, not otherwise expressed, must speedily become adjusted to the value of these legal silver dollars, gold will disappear as current money, and become an article of merchandise or of special contract, measured by the lower silver standard.

Unless this law of compulsory coinage be repealed, this vast country, in a time of its greatest prosperity, will be, voluntarily and without reason, remitted to the condition of having two currencies, of different values, with all their inconveniences and complications, as they existed during the war. Gold coin will naturally go to foreign countries, where it is wanted as money, in exchange for silver necessarily imported to fill the void thus created, until this nation becomes irretrievably and solely a silver nation.

The withdrawal of gold as money during this transition will naturally be attended with contraction of the currency that must prove seriously detrimental to the business of the nation; and the consequent establishment of a silver standard here, and the opening of a special silver market, will relieve European nations of the embarrassment they have long felt respecting the practical relation of the two metals to each other as money, by transferring the subject to this country, and will defer indefinitely its settlement as an international question.

In view of consequences so serious and far-reaching, why should Congress maintain a policy certain to derange every interest and disturb every industry in the land, and to become an obstacle and hindrance to our commerce with all other nations?

The time has arrived when this long-impending evil, if not soon arrested, must reach its crisis and become a serious and practical question of daily business life. Before accepting the situation as the unalterable policy of the nation, the undersigned, on behalf of the great interest they represent, most earnestly appeal to every industrial and commercial association in the land to unite in a solemn and vigorous remonstrance to Congress against the continuance of a law whose evil results are so inevitable and so momentous.

Very respectfully,

(Signed) Wm. H. Fogg,
Geo. S. Coe,
Solon Humphreys, Committee.

We trust this will be sent to all our exchanges in all parts of the country. It has been stated in dispatches from Washington this week that this action of our commercial bodies will be of no avail, as Mr. Bland of Missouri and Mr. Belford of Colorado control the action of the two parties, and that they are still joined to their idols. Very likely that is true, it seems so in harmony with past events. But even if it be true, we cannot see how it makes the duty of any man less obvious.

London, Saturday, March 1, 1884.

Business during the past week has been upon a most restricted scale, and the remark applies both to commercial and financial departments. The trade of the country is represented as being in a very unsatisfactory state, and one failure of importance has taken place. Very little enterprise has been shown in connection with new loans and fresh undertakings, and the fortnightly settlement has passed off in a satisfactory manner. Probably the amount of business transacted on the Stock Exchange has been smaller than in the same period of time for many years past, and as there seems to be no prospect of immediate improvement, a decidedly discouraging feeling prevails. The cessation of the export demand for gold on Australian account, and the shipment of a moderate amount from New York to London have had some, but not very great, influence. The value of money has given way, though not to the extent that had been anticipated. In fact, the firmness of the market is a matter of some surprise, considering how limited is the supply of mercantile paper, and how improbable it is that there will be any immediate increase in it.

The failure has been announced this week of Messrs. Martin, Turner & Co., of Glasgow and Batavia, engaged chiefly in the sugar trade, the liabilities being estimated at from £400,000 to £500,000. These failures, which frequently recur, and which are for large amounts, have an adverse influence, and naturally produce a very cautious feeling. There is also the anxiety which is felt with regard to Egyptian affairs, though we are led to believe to-day that the British forces have gained a somewhat substantial victory. The affairs of Egypt, which have been very seriously debated in the Houses of Parliament, with certainly no great satisfaction to the Government, seem likely to prove a tedious matter. The present Ministry have, however, been urged on by the country—notwithstanding that on the vote of censure they obtained a moderate majority—to settle if possible this Egyptian question, in which, without doubt, momentous matters are involved. The present situation acts an incubus upon the commercial interests of this country, and must be removed before trade can be expected to revive. If such favorable features as cheap food, especially as far as bread is concerned, and a moderate rate for money, fail to exercise their normal influence, it is quite easy to arrive at the conclusion that such a difficult matter as the Egyptian question should induce merchants and financiers to pause before entering upon any bold speculative operations.

The Bank of England return is regarded as favorable, but the proportion of reserve to liabilities remains unchanged at nearly 41 per cent. Gold has accumulated in the Bank vaults to the extent of £245,577, and the total supply held by the establishment is £22,495,913, against £23,142,567 last year. The total reserve has been augmented by £357,672, and is £14,065,313, against £14,056,952 in 1883. "Other securities," which have of late been at a low point, are now fully equal to the total held last year, being £24,812,634, against £24,583,519 in 1883. The demand for loans has, therefore, been great, which it is not necessary to construe as a favorable feature. The Treasury balance is large, being £11,243,655, against only £9,697,166 in 1883. The forthcoming budget is nevertheless looked forward to with some anxiety, as war, even with Egypt, is an expensive process. Short money has been in good demand throughout the week, but the discount market has been quiet, there being but few bills in the market.

The following are the quotations for money and the interest allowed by the discount houses to-day and same day of the previous five weeks:

In reference to the state of the bullion market during the past week, Messrs. Pixley & Abell remark:

Gold.—The operations at the Bank have been unimportant this week, comprising only an influx of £6,000 from Sydney and a withdrawal of £35,000 for South America. The only orders for abroad have been for India, and these have been quite met by the arrivals. The Iberia has brought £8,500 from Sydney, the Trojan £10,050 from the Cape, the Lafayette £68,000 from Central America and the Elbe £53,410 from the West Indies; total, £139,960.

Silver.—After the dispatch of our last circular a further slight improvement in bars took place, and 51 3/8d. was paid for a few small parcels. This small rise of 1/16d. was soon lost, and the silver by the Buffon was placed at 51 5/16d.; that by the Flaxmann and Cuvier at 51 1/4d. The Indian exchanges have somewhat declined, and it is doubtful whether this price will be obtainable for the quantity now on the market from the West Indies. We have received since our last £44,240 from New York, £152,100 from River Plate, and £44,910 from West Indies; total, £241,250. The Peninsular and Oriental steamers have taken £196,500, and a considerable quantity of florins has been sent from Venice.

Mexican dollars.—The Andean, from the West Indies, brought a few dollars, which, selling at melting price, realized 49 15/16d. per ounce. The Elbe has £153,150 on board, and this amount will not be on the market for a day or two. There is no demand at present for China, and all arrivals will be taken for refining purposes.

The weather has become remarkably seasonable, the wind having shifted to the east, where it seems likely to remain. Homeward-bound vessels laden with grain from the United States have been retarded on their passage, and the slight tendency to improvement which has recently manifested itself in the wheat trade has been fairly maintained. There has, however, been no pretension to activity, a large reduction of stocks in granary being necessary before any improvement in values can be established. The weather is as favorable as it can be for spring work, and farmers can desire but little more except more remunerative prices for their produce. To establish an advance is still a very difficult matter.

The following quantities of wheat, flour and Indian corn are estimated to be afloat to the United Kingdom, compared with previous periods; Baltic supplies are not included:

☞ This aggregate is arrived at by multiplying the sales in the 187 markets above by 31/3, and that result is reduced to cwt. by multiplying it by 4/5. This proportion between the 187 markets and the totals for the kingdom is adopted by the London grain trade and is accepted by it as producing a result approximately correct.

Annexed is a return showing the extent of the imports of cereal produce into the United Kingdom during the first twenty-six weeks of the season, the average price of home-grown wheat, the sales of home-grown produce, the visible supply of wheat in the United States, the quantity of wheat and flour estimated to be afloat to the United Kingdom, and the exports of wheat and flour for five months, compared with previous years:

LONDON, Saturday, February 23, 1884.

The rise in the New York sterling exchange for cable transfers to 4·90½ has been the more prominent feature in city circles during the past week. During the earlier days the tone of the money market remained firm, and although mercantile bills continued scarce, very few bills were discounted under 3⅜ per cent. Money for short periods was also in good demand, chiefly in connection with the payment of the dividends on several of our leading railway companies; but, as it is known that those movements can have only a temporary influence, the gold shipments from New York to London, and the report that we may expect about £4,000,000 sterling during the spring months, has given a downward tendency to the money market. Furthermore, the limited demand which now exists for American bonds, the low prices of breadstuffs, and the restricted export of most descriptions of food from American ports, are obviously calculated to keep the New York exchange in our favor; but, at the same time, our own export trade with the United States has been falling off, and is now of very moderate dimensions. If, however, the quantity of gold comes forward which is reported, the rates of discount in this country must certainly decline, while on the other hand the New York quotations should improve.

To maintain existing rates here will be a difficult process, as not only is very little gold leaving the country, but, in addition to the anticipated American supplies, business, both commercial and financial, is upon the most restricted scale. The scare produced by the failure of Messrs. Thomas & Co. on the Stock Exchange and by the shipments of gold to Australia no longer exercises any influence. That scare was regarded as the cause of notes and gold being taken away from the Bank of England to give confidence to provincial bankers, and it is now quite probable that if the import of gold from America continues, the provincial mind—evidently easily disturbed—will be less anxious about the future. The improved condition of things, actual and prospective, seems to exercise but little influence, and it is not only in commercial circles, but also on the Stock Exchange, that business is upon a very limited scale. The fact is that the general public have lost so much money of late years, and are so greatly encumbered with shares in new ventures, that the Stock Exchange has no attraction for them.

The position of the Bank of England has scarcely changed during the week, though the variations, chiefly owing to the payment of imperial taxes, are important. The proportion of reserve to liabilities remains at 40·83 per cent. There is an increase of £343,228 in the supply of bullion, due almost entirely to the return of gold coin from provincial circulation, and there is a diminution of £474,120 in the note circulation. The result is that the total reserve has been augmented to the extent of £817,348, raising it to £13,767,641, and comparing with £14,033,977 last year.

Annexed is a statement showing the present position of the Bank of England, the Bank rate of discount, the price of consols, the average quotation for English wheat, the price of middling upland cotton, of No. 40 mule twist, fair 2d quality, and the Clearing House return for the past week, compared with previous years:

In reference to the state of the bullion market during the past week, Messrs. Pixley & Abell remark:

Gold—There have been a few small orders for India, but no demand of any extent for the Continent. The Bank has received £28,000 in sovereigns from Australia, this being the only arrival of the week. The P. & O. steamer takes £30,000 to Bombay.

Silver—There has been a better demand for the East, and as the arrivals of the week are again small, a further improvement in price has resulted; the silver by the Chili steamer having been sold at 51¼d. per oz. The market may be considered firm, the Indian exchanges showing a further rise. The P. & O. steamer takes £58,000 to Bombay, and the Nile £25,000 to the West Indies. The arrivals comprise £19,000 from Chili and £31,000 from New York.

Mexican Dollars have improved ⅛d. in price, in sympathy with bar silver, the rate being 49⅞d. per oz. They are taken for refining purposes, there being but little demand for China.

The trade for cereal produce, and especially for wheat, remains in a very dull and inactive state. All tendency to improvement, which had manifested itself in a slight degree, has disappeared—a movement which is very generally attributed to the unusually mild weather. This has been about the mildest winter on record. In fact, we have had spring weather, with scarcely any interruption, since the close of Autumn, and we are now anxious about the spring, as vegetation is forward, and may receive an unpleasant check. The price of wheat is so low that to quote reduced values would be difficult.

The following quantities of wheat, flour and Indian corn are estimated to be afloat to the United Kingdom, Baltic supplies not being included:

This proportion between the 187 markets and the totals for the kingdom is adopted by the London grain trade, and is accepted by it as producing a result approximately correct.

Oregon & California.—It is reported that arrangements are being made for the cancellation of the lease of the Oregon & California Railroad to the Oregon & Trans-Continental Company. The latter has stopped construction, so that the contract with the Oregon & California to complete eighty-seven miles more of road by June 30 is not likely to be carried out. The O. T. people, however, claim that they have until June 30, 1885, to complete the contract.

Pennsylvania Railroad.—At the annual meeting in Philadelphia the following resolutions were adopted, and no other business of importance was transacted:

Resolved, That the report of the president and board of directors for the year 1883 be adopted and approved, and the incoming board of directors are hereby authorized to carry into effect the recommendations made therein.

Resolved, That the thanks of the stockholders be tendered the president and board of directors for their able and faithful management of the affairs of the company during the past year.

Resolved, That the policy in reference to the payment of dividends, as indicated in the report, be approved, and the board be authorized to continue the same whenever in their judgment it shall be for the best interests of the shareholders of the company to do so.

Pittsburg Wheeling & Kentucky.—An exchange reports that the proposed issue of $500,000 bonds by this company will be guaranteed by the Pennsylvania Company, to which the former road is leased. Bonds will be issued to pay for the road built from Wheeling to Benwood. The Ohio River Railroad is building a ninety-mile road to Parkersburg, to be finished this spring, and the company will permanently use the Pittsburg Wheeling & Kentucky over the first portion of the route.

St. Louis Hannibal & Keokuk.—Erwin C. Case, receiver of the St. Louis Hannibal & Keokuk Railroad, has filed a report and inventory with Judge Treat of the United States District Court. The indebtedness of the road is as follows: Judgments, $22,893; taxes, $5,051; floating indebtedness, $85,873; questionable claims, $5,772; needed for terminal facilities at Hannibal, $100,000; total of summary, $449,340; less available assets, $6,641; balance, $442,698. The receiver says: "The trains of the St. Louis Hannibal & Keokuk Railroad run from Hannibal, Mo., over the tracks of the Missouri Pacific Railway, a distance of 2·6 miles, to St. Louis junction, thence over its own road in a southerly direction 81·72 miles to Gilmore, Mo., connecting there with the Wabash St. Louis & Pacific Railway for St. Louis, southern and western points. The country traversed by this railroad is largely an agricultural district, well settled, and producing annually a large amount of live-stock, grain and other farm products." * * * "This road, in its present condition, with its limited supply of inefficient motive power, lack of side-tracks depots, &c., is inadequate for the demands upon it. * * * Amount needed for terminal facilities at Hannibal, three miles of main track, depots, warehouses, side-tracks, &c., estimated at $100,000. The receiver would respectfully state that in case the suggestions and recommendations made (in the body of the report) are followed and carried out, the road would, in his judgment, be capable of earning a gross sum of at least $200,000 per annum, and possibly this sum might be largely increased, provided the coal products are properly developed. The total amount needed for repairs is estimated at $229,750. Adding to this $100,000 needed for terminal facilities at Hannibal and $119,590 indebtedness, and the total needs are $449,340, less $6,641 available assets on hand. The receiver also filed a petition asking leave to issue debentures for an amount sufficient to cover the above expenditures, these debentures to be in the nature of receiver's certificates, and to be a first lien upon the road, preceding the claims of the bonholders."

Judge Treat granted the request of the receiver, and he is empowered to issue $300,000 of certificates at once, in sums of $1,000 each, interest not to exceed 7 per cent, and $200,000 more may be issued as needed under further orders of the Court, these certificates to be used for needed repairs, improvements, &c. As to the floating debt and other demands, consideration thereof is reserved until the same shall have been presented and adjudged. When applications are made for payments by the receiver for part indebtedness, they must be presented to the Court for adjudication, except that the receiver may pay to the employes their current wages falling due.

—A new bank has just been organized and started in this city, at the corner of Third Avenue and Fifty-seventh Street, to be known as the Nineteenth Ward Bank. The bank is organized under the laws of the State of New York, and its management is composed of gentlemen of long experience in banking and commercial circles. We note such names as Samuel H. Rathbone, President; Douglass R. Satterlee, Vice-President and Cashier; Martin B. Brown, William K. Soutter, George H. Kendall, Vincent R. Schenck and others. This institution will no doubt meet a want in a popular section of our city but little blessed with good banking facilities.

—The editors of the CHRONICLE are in receipt of "Burdett's Official Intelligence," 1884, from London. This volume, published annually, is issued under the sanction of the Committee of the London Stock Exchange, and is compiled and edited by Mr. Henry C. Burdett, Secretary of the Share and Loan Department. The work is probably the most complete book of its class published in the world, and gives a summary of information regarding the numerous shares and bonds dealt in at the London Stock Exchange. The work is thoroughly organized, with a comprehensive index, and is well worthy of a place in the offices of bankers and brokers in this country. A copy may be examined at the office of the CHRONICLE, and parties desiring to purchase can then order direct from London.

NEW YORK, FRIDAY, MARCH 14, 1884—5 P. M.

The Money Market and Financial Situation.—Some of the symptoms of "spring trade" are to be seen in the increase of the imports at the port of New York, which have been from 10 to 12 per cent larger in the last two or three weeks than previously, and though the distribution of goods to the interior and country merchants is on a comparatively small scale yet, there is reason to expect improvement before long, from the fact that the stocks of goods throughout the country are much smaller than usual. The chief obstacle, however, to a prompt improvement in the whole commercial and financial situation is that the exportable products of the country do not find a ready market. The visible supply of grain in the United States is larger than ever before at this season of the year. At Chicago alone it is estimated that there is $30,000,000 locked up in bank advances on grain and provisions in store, and yet with this large stock of grain in hand, which must find a market abroad if at all, we have exported in the last three weeks about $9,000,000 of gold, which makes it evident that Europe prefers the latter to our breadstuffs at the present prices.

The export movement of specie seems to have about ceased, at least for the present. The total exports since Friday, the 8th, have been insignificant, and there are no engagements to-night for specie for the European steamer going out to-morrow, the 15th. The immediate causes of the cessation of gold exports were the reduction of the Bank of England rate of discount on Thursday to 3 per cent from 3½, the consequent decline of ½ cent on the pound sterling on short bills, and the marketing of about $1,500,000 of bankers' demand bills by the Bank of Montreal and Messrs. Kennedy Tod & Co., on Friday, in connection with the Canadian Pacific affairs.

The money market shows some faint symptoms of stiffening, though it has not been made manifest in the quotations, except for discounts on mercantile paper, which were advanced ten days ago ½ cent to 5 and 5½ for single names, and the same this week for double names to 4 and 5. Time loans on collateral of dividend-paying stocks can still be had for any time less than 9 months at from 3½ to 4 per cent, and on mixed collaterals at 4 per cent. Call loans on stocks have continued at from 2 to 1½ per cent.

The last statement of the New York banks showed an increase of $3,841,300 in the loans, which is presumed to have been largely upon railway stocks which have been withdrawn from the stock loan market and used as collaterals for loans at the present low rates, in anticipation of an increase in the rates later on. A portion, however, is of course due to the usual increase of accommodations to merchants incident to the spring trade. The concurrent and nearly equal decrease of deposits and of specie partly reflects the export movement of gold that week, though this item counted only in part in the last statement and may be expected to affect also this week's return. The decrease of surplus in the week to March 8th was $5,879,300, though this still left it at $12,820,675, as compared with a deficiency of $5,166,150 at the same date last year.

On Thursday the Bank of England, as already stated, reduced its rate of discount to 3 per cent from 3½, owing to the continued gain of specie on balance in the foreign movements of gold. In the same time the reserve in the Bank was increased to 43 7-16 per cent of its liabilities, as compared with 38⅞ per cent a week before. The gain in specie for the week was £883,000. The weekly statement of the Bank of France showed a gain of 1,300,000 francs in gold and a decrease of 1,100,000 francs in silver. The Bank of Germany showed a loss of 3,207,000 marks in specie for the week.

The following table shows the changes from the previous week and a comparison with the two preceding years in the averages of the New York Clearing House banks.

Exchange.—The market for sterling exchange remained firm for a week until Thursday when there was a reduction of ½ cent on the £ on demand bills. The rates for 60-day bills remained unchanged though the market has been less firm in the last two days. The supply of commercial bills is, however, comparatively small, and this is the principal element of strength in the market. Posted rates on Friday, the 14th, were 4 87½ @4 90, against 4 87½@4 90½ a week previous. The rates for actual business to-day were as follows, viz.: Sixty days, 4 86½@4 86¾; demand, 4 89@4 89¼; cables, 4 89¼@4 89¾. Commercial bills sold at 4 85@4 85½.

| March 14. | Sixty Days | Demand. |

| Frankfort or Bremen (reichmarks) | 95¼ | 95⅞ |

United States Bonds.—Government bonds have shown scarcely any fluctuations during the week, and, with the exception of a decline of ⅛ in the 4½s, prices are precisely the same as on Friday, the 7th.

State and Railroad Bonds.—There was only a moderate volume of business in railroad bonds during the week, and on the whole less than in either of the two preceding weeks; but prices have been firm, and there were more indications of a legitimate investment for the better class of bonds than of speculation in the cheaper class. Aside from this there have been no special features in the market. The following are the most prominent changes, viz.: Advanced—Louisville & Nashville general mortgage 6s, 2 per cent; Jersey Central debentures, 2¾; Burlington Cedar Rapids & Northern firsts, 1¼; Jersey Central consols assented, 1½; New York Chicago & St. Louis firsts, 1¼; Rock Island 6s, 1; New York West Shore & Buffalo 5s, ¾; Iron Mountain 5s, 1; St. Louis & San Francisco seconds, Class A, 1; St. Paul & Omaha consols, ½; Kansas & Texas consols, ½; Mil. & St. Paul consols, ⅝; Oregon Railway & Navigation firsts, ½, and Union Pacific firsts, ½. Declined—Erie second consols, 1½; Denver & Rio Grande consols, 3; Richmond & Danville debentures, 1; Wabash general mortgages, ¾; and New York Elevated firsts, ½.

State issues were quiet but strong; Tennessee 6s, new series, sold at 41½; do., mixed, at 41½@43; do compromise at 49; and North Carolina 6s, special tax, at 8; Georgia 7s, gold, 115½@115; Missouri 6s of 1888, 108; South Carolina Browne consol 6s, 106.

Railroad and Miscellaneous Stocks.—The stock market was adversely affected during the three days up to last Wednesday by the exports of specie last week and the expectation that they would be large again before the close of this week. There were also rumors of trouble in the Trunk-line pool, which were practically acknowledged to be true by the fact that on Thursday there was a general reduction of 10 cents per 100 pounds on all grain, provisions and meats in the east-bound tonnage of the Trunk lines. On Wednesday, however, New York Central became a feature, owing to the scarcity of the stock incident to the maturity of a large amount of seller 60 sales. The stock for cash and immediate delivery commanded a premium of from ¼ to ⅛ per cent over "regular," though at the same time it was from 1¼ to 2¼ below the regular on seller 5, 15 and 60 day options. The advance in New York Central had the effect to strengthen the whole market, which on Wednesday closed generally higher and retained a part of this strength during the next day. On Friday the reduction of freight rates ordered by the Trunk line managers had a temporary depressing effect, but the market quickly recovered, and during the afternoon manifested a strong upward tendency on some of the leading specialties. The result for the week is generally higher prices than on Friday of the previous week, though there are a few prominent exceptions, like Central Pacific, Union Pacific and Erie. The principal advances are New York Central, 3½; Oregon Railway & Navigation, 1½; Oregon & Trans-Continental, 1⅜, and Pacific Mail, 2⅝.

ANNUAL REPORTS.

New York Lake Erie & Western.

(For the year ending September 30, 1883.)

The annual report for the fiscal year ending with September 30, 1883, is just issued, and no reason is given for the unusual delay in its publication. The Baltimore & Ohio report for the same fiscal year is not yet out, and it would certainly be received with favor by their stockholders at home and abroad, as well as by the public at large, if these great trunk line companies would get out their reports with greater promptness, as a delay of nearly six months after the termination of their fiscal years seems altogether unreasonable.

After giving the income and expenses of the year, which left a surplus of $1,265,484, the following statement is made:

|---|---|
| Surplus from operations | $1,265,484 |
| Add amounts received from other sources, as follows: | |
| Balance received from sale of collateral trust bonds, not accounted for in last year's report | $2,263,333 |
| Premium on first consolidated mortgage bonds | 53,625 |
| From sale of Cin. Hamilton & Dayton RR. trust certificates | 5,000 |
| From the estate of the Erie R'y Co.—bonds of the Towanda Coal Company | 99,500 |
| Making a total of | $3,686,943 |

This amount has been applied mainly as follows, viz.:

| On construction of the railroad of the N. Y. Lake Erie & W. Coal and RR. Company | $503,932 |
| In improvements of the property of the N. Y. Lake Erie & W. Docks & Improvement Company | 156,929 |
| Car trust of New York and others for account of equipment | 1,365,051 |
| Advances to other companies | 1,254,249 |
| Total | $3,280,162 |

For a clear understanding of the figures relating to earnings and expenses, it should be remembered that 68 per cent of the gross earnings of the New York Pennsylvania & Ohio RR., leased, is included in the statement of gross earnings, which is the amount this company receives under the lease for operating the road, the remaining 32 per cent being paid to the lessor as rental.

SURPLUS EARNINGS.

The following shows the surplus earnings which have been invested by the company in improvements to its road and property from year to year since the reorganization: For four months in 1878, $828,546; for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1879, $1,291,971; 1880, $1,790,620; 1881, $1,392,597; 1882, $551,133; 1883, $1,265,484; total, $7,120,354.

FUNDED DEBT.

The funded debt of the company September 30, 1882, was $70,267,137. During the year changes have been made therein as follows: "1. As stated in the report of last year, the third mortgage bonds of the company have been extended for a period of forty years from March 1, 1883, at the rate of four and one half per cent per annum, a yearly saving of two and one half per cent. In the extension of these bonds it was found that two hundred and thirty-four of the issue were so much defaced that they were not a 'good delivery' under the rules of the New York Stock Exchange, and they were therefore canceled, which, in pursuance of the provisions of the first consolidated mortgage, involved the issue of a like number of the bonds of that class to take the place of the bonds canceled as above stated; in making which exchange the company realized a premium of $53,625."

The total funded debt Sept. 30, 1883, was $75,267,136.

The lease of the New York Pennsylvania & Ohio Railroad for a period of 99 years was made, taking effect May 1, 1883, and has been ratified by the stockholders of both companies. The terms of the lease have heretofore been stated in the CHRONICLE.

The Chicago & Atlantic Railway was opened for business about the first of June last, and has already demonstrated its great value to this company as a connection.

THE BLOSSBURG COAL COMPANY.

"The operations of this company and its railroads for the year ending Dec. 31, 1882, resulted in a net profit of $350,000, or over 17 per cent on your investment in its capital stock.

"This sum, however, was applied towards the extinguishment, in part, of the liabilities subject to which your purchase of its stock was made, and the acquisition of such additional facilities and improvements as were necessary to the more complete development of the property. It is also a large contributor to the tonnage of your road in the products of coal, coke and lumber."

THE BRADFORD BRANCH EXTENSION.

"The extension of the Bradford Branch Road and its connection by way of Brockwayville with the company's coal property, and at Fall's Creek with the Alleghany Valley (low grade) road, was explained somewhat in detail in the report of last year. The connection between Brockwayville and the mines has been completed. The extension from Brockwayville to a connection with the low grade road, which is being built by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, is not yet completed but is in course of rapid construction."

DIVIDENDS.

"The board has directed the payment of a dividend of 6 per cent on the preferred stock and of the interest on the income bonds for the year 1883. This is the third consecutive dividend declared on the preferred stock. By the provisions of the plan of re-organization, which is familiar to the share and bond holders, the functions of the Re-organization Voting Trustees cease upon the payment of this dividend. The stock upon which, under such plan, they have exercised the voting power, stands in their name upon the books of the company. As soon as the necessary legal arrangements can be made for the transfer of this stock by the trustees, the proper public notice will be given, and the company will proceed to issue to the parties in interest entitled to receive them, certificates of voting stock in exchange for the beneficiary certificates now outstanding."

The tables of comparative statistics, compiled for the CHRONICLE, for four years past (including the New York Pennsylvania & Ohio Railroad from May 1, 1883, of which 68 per cent of the gross earnings are included) are as follows:

St. Louis & San Francisco Railway Company.

(For the year ending Dec. 31, 1883.)

At the annual meeting of the St. Louis & San Francisco Company the following directors were elected for the current year: C. P. Huntington, Leland Stanford, Jay Gould, Russell Sage, Jesse Seligman, E. F. Winslow, J. D. Fish, W. S. Buckley, Horace Porter and A. S. Hatch, of New York; W. L. Frost, of Boston, and C. W. Rogers and R. S. Hayes, of St. Louis. The number of shares voted was 187,764.

The annual report states that: "The crops for 1883, in the regions traversed by the company's lines, were only moderately good. The wheat crop was considerably less in quantity than that of the year before; but the yield of corn was quite satisfactory.

"Owing to the diminished activity in the iron industries of the country at large, the customary and important ore traffic of our lines has been during the year greatly curtailed.

"The live-stock traffic has been increased during the latter months of the year by reason of the extension of the line of the Central Division of the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad in the Indian Territory, and which continues for the present to be operated by this company. This extension, however, did not reach Red Fork Station (on the west side of the Arkansas River) sufficiently early in the year to afford the full measure of advantage in this respect, and such as may be expected hereafter.

"The through service to the Pacific Coast, created by the completion of the Western Division of the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad between the Rio Grande and the Colorado River, was opened near the close of the year. This makes a most attractive and advantageous trans-continental line. Passengers to and from St. Louis over our road can now go between St. Louis and San Francisco without change of cars, and, owing to the location of the line along the 35th parallel of latitude, will not suffer from the extremes of temperature and delays from snow, as upon other routes." * * *

"It is gratifying to note the continued favorable showing in respect to the ratio of operating expenses. The actual operating expenses for the year were only 40 86-100 per cent of the gross earnings. The percentage of all expenses, improvements and taxes was 46 79-100 per cent.

"As shown by the report of the Vice-President and General Manager, $64,673 charged to improvement and paid out of earnings were expended for property at Newburg, half way between St. Louis and Springfield." * * *

"The changes in bonded indebtedness during the year were as follows: Of equipment bonds there were sold and issued $318,000 and $80,000 additional of these bonds were purchased during the year (and canceled) by the trustees, out of the sinking fund provided for that purpose. The issue of these bonds has now been completed, no more being authorized by the mortgage. The amount now outstanding is $841,000. One and a half million of dollars additional of the general mortgage bonds have been issued. There were sold and outstanding on January 1, 1884, $4,000,000 of general mortgage bonds. The unfunded debt was $1,424,994 on January 1, 1884. This was incurred (pending the further negotiation of the sale of general mortgage bonds) entirely for construction purposes under and pursuant to the terms and provisions of the mortgage securing those bonds, and for the purpose of affording the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company some temporary assistance necessary for the completion of its line. The sums so loaned to the Atlantic & Pacific Company have been duly secured. The company has good reason to expect to soon dispose of the remainder of its general mortgage bonds and thereby discharge its obligations for borrowed funds." * * *

"The extension of the main line from Pacific to St. Louis was completed during the year, and on January 1, 1884, we commenced running our trains direct to and from that city upon our own track. This has been the wish of the company since its organization, and the advantages will in due time be fully demonstrated." * * *

"The number of acres of the company's lands sold during the year was 336,272 acres, for the sum of $485,049, being the largest sales for any year since the organization of the company. All lands remaining in Greene, Christian, Polk, Lawrence and Stone counties were sold to the Scotch Company (which had formerly purchased extensively other lands), aggregating 168,534 acres; 150,995 acres remaining in the counties of Laclede, Webster, Dallas and Camden, were sold to Americans. The parties purchasing propose to actively proceed with the work of settling and improving the lands they have thus acquired."

Southwestern (Gould) System of Railroads.

The brief annual statements of the Missouri Kansas & Texas and the Texas & Pacific have already been reported in the CHRONICLE. The annual meetings of the three other companies were held in St. Louis this week, and the reports will be found below. The report on the general working of the whole system in 1883 has the following remarks: "Commencing January 1, 1883, the Galveston Houston & Henderson Railroad has been operated as a part of the International & Great Northern Railroad, under its lease to that company for ninety years. No new construction has been done except to complete the branches in progress at the close of the previous year, viz., the Trinity & Sabine Railway, completed to Ogden, Tex., 12 miles; White River Branch, St. Louis Iron Mountain & Southern Railway, completed to Batesville, Ark., 13 miles; Doniphan Branch, St. Louis Iron Mountain & Southern Railway, completed to Doniphan, Mo., 10 miles; total newly-constructed mileage, 35 miles."

The lease of the Wabash is thus referred to: "On April 10, 1883, the Wabash St. Louis & Pacific Railway was leased to the St. Louis Iron Mountain & Southern Railway Company, and has been operated since that date in connection with the Missouri Pacific system. Its operations for the six months only, from July 1 to December 31, 1883, are included in this report, as the practical economies and measures for its more profitable operation, adopted subsequent to the lease, can only be said to have taken effect during the period named."

The mileage operated on December 31, 1883, of both main and side tracks, was 10,359 miles, of which 3,566 miles belong to the Wabash. There are 812 miles of side tracks on the entire system. The increase of mileage during 1883 was 217.

The gross and net earnings for the past year, compared with those of 1882, are as follows:

GENERAL INVESTMENT NEWS.

Alabama Great Southern.—On Monday, the 17th day of April, 1884, a meeting of the stockholders of the Alabama Great Southern Railroad Company will be held at the office of the company in Birmingham, for the purpose of voting upon the proposition to increase the issue of preferred stock of the company by the amount of $2,217,000, thereby increasing the capital stock of the company to the total amount of $10,830,000.

Burlington Cedar Rapids & Northern.—Action was taken at the annual meeting of stockholders for the purpose of changing the articles of incorporation. The issuing of bonds for construction purposes by leased-line companies, it is thought, should be avoided, and that but one series or class of bonds should be issued, and that direct by the Burlington Cedar Rapids & Northern Railway Company. The board of directors, therefore, have in contemplation the issuing of a consolidated five per cent bond, for the purpose of eventually retiring all outstanding bonds on the main and branch lines and to defray the expense of extending and equipping the company's system of railway. To do this necessitates an increase of the company's capital stock. The amount is now fixed by its articles of incorporation, $10,000,000. The bonded indebtedness is $6,500,000. The company proposes to raise its capital stock to an authorized amount of $30,000,000. The directors meet on April 9, 1884, to take final action.

Chicago & Grand Trunk.—The report of the directors shows that improvements during the year amounted to $1,308,000. An increase of equipment is intended, and steps will be taken to obtain the needed additional capital. An increase is shown in the passenger and freight business. During 1883 total earnings were $2,977,000; operating expenses, $2,260,000, or 76 per cent, against 83 per cent for the year previous. The net revenue was absorbed in payment of interest on bonds and rentals to other companies.

Cleveland Columbus Cincinnati & Indianapolis.—The directors of this company will meet in New York this week to consider the following resolutions, adopted at the meeting of the stockholders:

Whereas, Large sums, amounting to more than $3,000,000, have from time to time been expended in improvements upon the property of the said railroad company and its leased lines, and in acquiring additional real estate and increased terminal facilities; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the directors of the company be and they are hereby respectfully requested to declare that the stockholders of record are entitled to such dividend or dividends as properly represent the aggregate amount of net earnings of the Cleveland Columbus Cincinnati & Indianapolis Railway Company which have been heretofore applied to improvements upon and additions to the property of the said company and its leased lines, and for which the revenue account of the said company may properly be reimbursed from capital or additional securities representing the cost of such additions and improvements.

Delaware Lackawanna & Western.—One of the causes for the recent large advance in the stock of this company was the report that the trunk line arbitrators had awarded it 14 per cent of the pooled west-bound business. After the climax was reached in the upward movement of the stock, it transpired that the award was only 12·6 per cent, instead of 14 per cent of the whole business. The first report was apparently untrue, and this seems to be a case for the application of the new law introduced in the New York Legislature for punishing the dissemination of false reports to influence the value of stocks.

In view of the fact that the recent annual report showed earnings which were said to be equal to 14 per cent on the stock, it is rather remarkable, if true, that miners' wages are to be cut down. A report from Scranton, Feb. 29, said: "The miners employed at the Sloan & Continental Collieries of the Delaware Lackawanna & Western Company in this city have received notices, through their foremen, of a sweeping reduction of wages, to take effect next Monday. The notices were verbal, and intimated that the pay of the men would be cut down 10 cents per car. Great care has been taken to prevent publicity." * * * "As the men are employed only three days a week on meagre pay, they are greatly disheartened over the proposed cutting down of wages, which will make an important item in their monthly earnings. At the two collieries named six cars constitute a shift or day's work for a miner and laborer, so that the reduction will be 60 cents per day, of which 40 cents will be deducted from the pay of the miner and 20 cents from that of the laborer. At the present rate of working full time the miner earns from $7 50 to $8 a week, and the laborer about $6."

Dubuque & Sioux City.—The directors have declared a dividend of 2½ per cent, payable in April. For some time hitherto the half-yearly dividend has been 3 per cent. The road is leased to the Illinois Central, which pays a rental of 36 per cent of gross earnings, which in 1883 were $1,092,024. The statement of receipts and expenditures is as follows:

East Tennessee Virginia & Georgia.—It is reported that negotiations are in progress for the lease or sale to this company of the lines now owned by the Alabama New Orleans Texas & Pacific Junction Company. A committee of the East Tennessee board has gone to London for the purpose, as reported, of negotiating the lease with the company above-named, which is an English organization.

Fremont Elkhorn & Missouri.—This railroad has notified the 7 per cent bondholders secured by separate mortgage on the second, third and fourth divisions, and redeemable October 1, 1884, to April 1, 1885, that they will have the privilege of exchanging them at par until April 1, 1884, for six per cent fifty-year consolidated bonds, secured by mortgage on the whole line.

Illinois Central.—At the annual meeting of stockholders the following new directors were elected: Walther Luttgren, of A. Belmont & Co., New York, to serve until 1885; Sidney Webster, Robert Goelet and S. Van Rensselear Cruger, of New York, to serve until 1888. Mr. Luttgren takes the place of W. K. Ackerman, who resigned several weeks ago. Messrs. Goelet and Cruger take the places of Frederick Sturges and L. V. F. Randolph, who declined re-election. Mr. Webster was re-elected.

Mexican Central.—The main line of this railroad was completed March 8 by the laying of the last rail at Fresnillo. The line extends from the United States border at El Paso, Texas, to the City of Mexico, a total distance of 1,225 miles.

The Boston Journal says: The funds to build the road have been raised in the following manner: Subscription No. 1, of March 27, 1880, realized the company in round numbers $5,400,000, and for each cash subscription of $4,250 a block of $5,000 first mortgage 7 per cent bonds, $1,000 income bonds and forty shares of capital stock of a par of $100 each was given to each subscriber. The second subscription, January, 1881, was for $11,367,000, for which a block of $5,000 first mortgage bonds, $1,000 income bonds and forty shares of stock for each $4,500 paid over to the company was given. April 12, 1882, circular No. 3 made its appearance, calling for $6,032,000 upon the same terms as the second subscription, and January 25, 1883, still another, circular No. 4, was issued, calling for the same amount as No. 3 and upon the same terms, except that for a portion of the subscription an additional bonus was given, and, remarkable as it appears to be, it is understood that of these large sums there has been no failure in a single instance to meet the terms of subscription by the capitalists who have taken them.

In addition to the amounts mentioned above, President Nickerson a few weeks since, finding that the road would require additional funds, secured a loan of a million dollars for the term of one year, subscribers to have the option of taking the bonds of the company at 65 per cent in payment instead of cash. Aggregating these subscriptions, we find that our capitalists have, up to the present time, invested the following amounts in the Mexican Central:

| First call | $5,397,500 |
| Second call | 11,430,000 |
| Third call | 6,032,000 |
| Fourth call | 6,032,000 |
| Fifth call | 1,000,000 |
| Total | $29,891,500 |

New York & New England.—The Railroad Commissioners of Connecticut have approved the petition of the New York & New England Company to issue $5,000,000 preferred stock, to be paid for either wholly in cash or $50 cash and two shares of common stock for each share of preferred stock; also to issue the remainder of the $2,000,000 second mortgage bonds. The Commissioners also recommended the passage of the supplemental act, which provides that the stockholders may, if they choose, allow the preferred shareholders to elect a majority or the whole of the board of directors until all dividends at any time due on the preferred stock have been declared. This would allow those who advance money to say who shall manage the company until they have received interest upon their advances. The supplemental bill also provides that preferred stock, if issued, shall first be offered on equal terms to common stockholders pro rata.

—The Treasurer of the New York & New England Road has offered to pay the coupons that were protested on January 1st, but the parties making protest have declined to receive payment until the courts have authorized it. The Receiver, however, claims that he has a decree of the court empowering him to pay the protested coupons.

New York Stock Exchange.—The following bonds have been listed:

BUFFALO NEW YORK & PHILADELPHIA.—$3,700,000 of the $25,000,000 general mortgage 6 per cent bonds.

CHICAGO ST. PAUL MINNEAPOLIS & OMAHA.—$1,062,000 of its consolidated 6 per cent "B" mortgage bonds, dated June, 1880, due 1930, Nos. 21,778 to 22,839. These bonds, together with $30,000 of the same class, Nos. 18,663 to 18,692, were heretofore reserved for the Black River branch, and are now issued at the rate of $15,000 per mile upon 72·69 miles of road, extending from Eau Claire to St. Croix Lake and Bayfield, also from Wakefield to Hartington, Neb. The certificates are held by the Central Trust Company of New York.

NORTHERN PACIFIC.—Since the last bonds were listed there have been fifty miles additional inspected and accepted by the Government, entitling the company under its mortgage deed to issue $1,250,000 more bonds, at the rate of $25,000 per mile, Nos. 45,510 to 46,759.

Application has been made to list the following:

NEW YORK LACKAWANNA & WESTERN.—Five thousand guaranteed construction mortgage bonds, each of $1,000, Nos. 1 to 5,000, dated August 1, 1883, due August 1, 1923, bearing interest at 5 per cent, secured by mortgage to Farmers' Loan & Trust Company, New York, subject only to prior lien of $12,000,000, dated December 31, 1880. These bonds are issued by the New York Lackawanna & Western Railroad to the Delaware Lackawanna & Western to reimburse it in accordance with the provision of the lease for construction purposes and in purchase of equipment. At present $3,250,000 of the bonds have been disposed of.

Oregon Improvement Company.—This company's statement for the month of January is as follows:

Union Pacific.—In the CHRONICLE of last week there was some obscurity in the statement of mileage given in connection with the annual report. The 308 miles belonging to the St. Joseph & Western and the Solomon railroads were embraced in the mileage of Union Pacific, on which the monthly reports of earnings were based until Jan. 1, 1884, since which date they have been operated separately. With this explanation the following exhibit is made of the mileage and earnings:

The Commercial Times.

COMMERCIAL EPITOME.

FRIDAY NIGHT, March 14, 1884.

Better weather has given some impulse to spring trade, but business is still backward for the season. There is, however, to be noted a decided revival of confidence in speculative values, and prices of several leading staples have made advances, more or less important, in the past week. It seems probable, however, that the season of sowing and planting will be late in nearly all sections, and this no doubt contributed, with diminishing stocks, to the stronger markets. The check to the advance in foreign exchanges is re-assuring, and in fact the whole situation may be regarded as much improved.

The speculation in lard was quite depressed early in the week, and prices fell heavily; but latterly there has been more activity at buoyant values, closing last evening at 9·80@9·82½c. for prime Western on the spot and for early delivery, 9·93c. for May, 10c. for June and 10·05c. for July; refined to the Continent, 10·05c. Pork closes steady at $17 75 for mess. Bacon and cutmeats without change, but closing firm. Beef nearly nominal. Beef hams quoted at $28@$28 25 per bbl. Tallow is fairly active at 7⅛c. Stearine held at 10c. for prime. Oleomargarine sold to-day at 9c. Butter is firmer at 33@40c. for new creameries. Cheese firmer at 11@15¼c. for State factory. Fresh eggs, 19½@@20½c. The following is a comparative summary of aggregate exports from Nov. 1, 1883, to March 8, 1884:

| Pork, lbs | 17,197,100 | 18,995,100 | 1,798,000 |
| Bacon, lbs | 167,186,294 | 189,907,322 | 22,421,028 |
| Lard, lbs | 83,475,443 | 102,456,259 | 18,980,816 |

Rio coffee has been dull and depressed and closed at 12¼c. for fair cargoes; options have latterly sold more freely, but at a sharp decline, and closed weak at 10·35c. for March and April, 10·40c. for May and June and 10·45c. for July and August; mild grades have been less active and somewhat weak. Tea has been quiet and steady on the spot, but black has sold a trifle lower at auction and at times options have weakened a little; the close was firm, however, after a fair trade; Japan closed at 30¼c. for March, 31¼c. for April and 32⅜c. for May. Rice has been moderately active and steady. Foreign fruits have advanced in some cases, notably rasins, lemons and oranges. Molasses has declined to 23c. for 50-degrees test Cuba, with large sales at that figure; New Orleans has sold moderately at unchanged prices. Raw sugar has been quiet and nearly nominal at 6½@6 9-16c. for 96-degrees test centrifugal and 5⅝c. for fair refining muscovado; the receipts here have increased, and this fact, together with the unfavorable news from Havana, has had a more or less depressing effect: crushed closed at 7⅞c., powdered at 7¾c. and granulated at 7⅝@7 7-16c.

There have been larger inquiries for Kentucky tobacco, and holders now agree that prices are on a steady basis. Sales for the week embrace 588 hhds., of which 246 hhds. were for export. Trading on the Exchange has been to the extent of 475 hhds. Lugs have remained at 7¼@8c., and leaf at 8¼@11½c. The demands for seed leaf have also shown an improvement, and a steady undertone is noticed. Sales embrace 1,604 cases, including 200 cases crop 1883 Wisconsin Havana seed, private terms; 555 cases crop 1882 Pennsylvania, 5@20c.; 490 cases crop 1881 Pennsylvania, 6@10½c.; 150 cases crop 1882 Wisconsin Havana, 20@35c.; 100 cases crop 1882 Ohio, 9@12c.; and 100 cases crop 1882 New England, 15@25c.; also 450 bales Havana, 90c.@$1 15, and 150 bales Sumatra, $1 25@$1 60.

Little of interest has transpired in naval store circles. Rosins have retained a certain strength in sympathy with the foreign and Southern advices, but the movement has been small; strained to good strained, $1 50@1 52½; spirits turpentine has shown easiness and closed at 35@35½c. in yard. Refined petroleum has had a dull week, but refiners have held 70 Abel test at 8½c. for all March delivery. Crude oil certificates have been variable, but the final figures to-night show a decline due to reported free flowing of wild-cat ventures; the highest figures were $1 01⅜, the lowest $1 and the closing, $1 00¼@$1 00⅜. Little has been done in metals, but the general list of prices is comparatively steady; 8,000 tons steel rails sold at $34@$35 at the mills; copper sold at 14⅞@15c. for Lake, and lead at 4·05@4·12½c., closing at the latter price.

There has been a moderate business in ocean freight-room; berth rates have shown irregularity and depression, but oil charter tonnage exhibits more steadiness, and the movement has been larger. To-day grain was engaged to Liverpool by steam at 1d.; flour at 5s. per ton; bacon, 10s.; cheese, 15s.; cotton, 7-64@⅛d.; grain to London by steam quoted 3d.; do. to Bristol by steam taken at 3¼d. from store; do. to Avonmouth by steam, 3¼d. afloat; do. to Hull by steam, 2d.; do. to Antwerp by steam, 1½d.; refined petroleum in cases by steamer to Bombay or Kurrachee, 27c.; do. by sail to Rangoon, 30c.

The speculation in cotton for future delivery at this market has been distinguished for the week under review for a decided improvement in values as well as a more confident tone, and toward the close there was a material increase in the volume of business, especially for the summer months. Liverpool and Manchester accounts have been rather better of late. Receipts at the ports, as well as at the interior towns, have decreased, and the overland movement, which was quite large following the subsidence of the flood in the Ohio Valley, has begun to fall off. There was a variable and somewhat irregular market, with limited dealings, down to the close of Tuesday's business, but the improvement began on Wednesday, which gained much force in the course of Thursday's dealings. To-day there was some further advance, with considerable activity, and the close was steady. Prices, as compared with last Friday, were 11@15 points dearer for this crop (the summer months improving most), 13 points for September, and 6@9 points dearer for the next crop. Cotton on the spot was very dull until yesterday, when there was a good business for export and a firmer feeling. To-day there was an advance of 1-16c, middling uplands closing at 10 15-16c.

The total sales for forward delivery for the week are 272,700 bales. For immediate delivery the total sales foot up this week 2,865 bales, including 1,000 for export, 1,655 for consumption, 210 for speculation and —— in transit. Of the above, —— bales were to arrive. RECEIPTS FROM THE PLANTATIONS.—The following table is prepared for the purpose of indicating the actual movement each week from the plantations. Receipts at the outports are sometimes misleading, as they are made up more largely one year than another at the expense of the interior stocks. We reach, therefore, a safer conclusion through a comparative statement like the following. In reply to frequent inquiries we will add that these figures, of course, do not include overland receipts or Southern consumption; they are simply a statement of the weekly movement from the plantations of that part of the crop which finally reaches the market through the outports.

The above statement shows—1. That the total receipts from the plantations since September 1, 1883, were 4,621,182 bales; in 1882-83 were 5,418,409 bales; in 1881-82 were 4,413,657 bales.

2.—That, although the receipts at the outports the past week were 49,876 bales, the actual movement from plantations was only 28,813 bales, the balance being taken from the stocks at the interior towns. Last year the receipts from the plantations for the same week were 103,733 bales and for 1882 they were 25,874 bales.

| Receipts at the ports to Mch. 14. | 4,485,924 | 5,137,721 | 4,174,689 | 4,918,422 |

| Total in sight March 14..... | 5,272,252 | 6,144,965 | 4,922,012 | 5,750,131 |

It will be seen by the above that the decrease in amount in sight to-night, as compared with last year, is 872,713 bales, the increase as compared with 1881-82 is 350,240 bales, and the decrease from 1880-81 is 477,879 bales.

WEATHER REPORTS BY TELEGRAPH.—There have been somewhat heavy rains in a large portion of the Atlantic and Gulf States during the week, except in Texas, where rain is said to be needed. The Mississippi River is now twenty-two inches below the danger line, and it is expected that the water will all be out of the valley prior to April 1. The Red River is also rapidly returning to its banks. Farm preparations, which, in many sections, were either hindered or made impossible by the backward season, are now showing more activity.

Galveston, Texas.—We have had light showers on five days of she week, and need more. The rainfall reached seventy hundredths of an inch. The thermometer has ranged from 46 to 73, averaging 60.

Indianola, Texas.—There have been small showers on three days of the week, the rainfall reaching thirty-eight hundredths of an inch. A good rain is badly needed. The thermometer has averaged 62, ranging from 44 to 78.

Palestine, Texas.—It has rained on two days of the week, the rainfall reaching fifty-eight hundredths of an inch. There has been killing frost on one night, but there was nothing up to be killed. Corn planting is progressing. Average thermometer 53, highest 74 and lowest 32.

New Orleans, Louisiana.—It has rained on three days of the week, the rainfall reaching two inches and thirteen hundredths. The thermometer has averaged 69.

Shreveport, Louisiana.—The weather has been cloudy, with rain on Tuesday, the rainfall reaching twenty-three hundredths of an inch. The river is falling at the rate of six inches per day, and roads are in fair condition. The thermometer has ranged from 34 to 78.

Vicksburg, Mississippi.—It rained on three days during the early part of the week, on two of which severely, and the remainder of the week has been clear and pleasant. The rainfall reached two inches and eighty-six hundredths. We are having too much rain. The tributary rivers are higher. The thermometer has ranged from 41 to 75.

Meridian, Mississippi.—Telegram not received

Greenville, Mississippi.—It has rained constantly on three days of the week, the rainfall reaching four inches and thirty-two hundredths. Planting preparations are very backward. There is a wider area of the Yazoo Delta overflowed this year than last. The thermometer has averaged 53, ranging from 41 to 71.

Columbus, Mississippi.—We have had rain on thre days of the week, the rainfall reaching four inches and sixty-one hundredths.

Little Rock, Arkansas.—The weather shows an improvement this week. We have had light showers on three days, and the remainder of the week has been fair to clear. The rainfall reached five hundredths of an inch. The thermometer has averaged 43, the highest being 74 and the lowest 27.

Last week it rained on four days, and was clear to fair the remaining days. The rainfall reached one inch and seventy-six hundredths. Average thermometer 40, highest 61, lowest 20.

Pine Bluff, Arkansas.—Telegram not received.

Fort Smith, Arkansas.—We have had rain on two days and snow on one day of the week, the rainfall reaching sixty hundredths of an inch. Farmers are now making good time in preparing their land for spring planting. The thermometer has averaged 45, ranging from 22 to 70.

Helena, Arkansas.—It has rained on three days, and the remainder of the week has been cloudy. The rainfall reached two inches and thirty-four hundredths. We are having too much rain. The river is falling slowly, but there is another rise coming that will send the river nearly as high as the late one. Average thermometer, 45, highest 64, lowest 40.

Monticello, Arkansas —Telegram not received.

Newport, Arkansas.—The days have been warm but the nights have been cold during the week, with no rain. The thermometer has ranged from 25 to 71, averaging 52.

Memphis, Tennessee.—It has rained on three days of the week, but at the close there is a favorable change in the weather. The rainfall reached one inch and fifty-two hundredths. The river is twenty-two inches below the danger line and falling steadily; it is thought the high water in the valley will all run out before the first of April. Owing to the very backward season little has been done toward the making of the next crop, but active preparations are now going on in the uplands. The thermometer has averaged 45·5, ranging from 31 to 69.

Nashville, Tennessee.—It has rained on five days of the week, the rainfall reaching two inches and thirteen hundredths. The weather has been too cold aud wet, and in consequence no plowing has been done yet. Average thermometer 44, highest 63 and lowest 26.

Mobile, Alabama.—It has been showery on one day and has rained severely on two days of the week, but at the close of the week the weather has taken a favorable turn. The rainfall reached four inches and thirty-five hundredths. We are having too much rain. Preparations for planting make slow progress. The thermometer has averaged 60, the highest being 75 and the lowest 44.

Montgomery, Alabama.—It has rained constantly on five days of the week, the rainfall reaching three inches and sixty-nine hundredths. The thermometer has averaged 56·9.

Selma, Alabama.—It has rained on six days of the week, on three of which violently, and the rainfall reached four inches and forty-nine hundredths. There have also been strong winds. The thermometer has averaged 54, ranging from 38 to 72.

Madison, Florida.—We have had rain on two days of the week, the rainfall reaching four inches and twenty-six hundredths. Average thermometer 68, highest 87 and lowest 42.

Macon, Georgia.—It has rained severely on four days of the week. The thermometer has averaged 56, the highest being 70 and the lowest 32.

Columbus, Georgia.—We have had severe rain on two days of the week, the rainfall reaching six inches and eleven hundredths. The thermometer has ranged from 38 to 62, averaging 52.

Savannah, Georgia.—It has rained on five days, and the remainder of the week has been cloudy. The rainfall reached one inch and ninety-seven hundredths. The thermometer has averaged 62, ranging from 39 to 79.

Augusta, Georgia.—We have had heavy general rain on five days of the week, the rainfall reaching three inches and twenty-two hundredths. The bad weather is retarding the operations of planters which may have the effect of bringing about a late crop. Average thermometer 59, highest 76 and lowest 38.

*Atlanta, Georgia.*Telegram not received.

Charleston, South Carolina.—It has rained on five days of the week, the rainfall reaching two inches and eight hundredths. The thermometer has ranged from 43 to 74, averaging 58.

Columbia, South Carolina.—Telegram not received.

The following statement we have also received by telegraph, showing the height of the rivers at the points named at 3 o'clock March 13, 1884, and March 15, 1883.

| | | Mch. 13, '84. | | Mch. 15, '83. | |
| | | Feet. | Inch. | Feet. | Inch. |

New Orleans reported below high-water mark of 1871 until Sept. 9, 1874, when the zero of gauge was changed to high-water mark of April 15 and 16, 1874, which is 6-10ths of a foot above 1871, or 16 feet above low-water mark at that point.

INDIA COTTON MOVEMENT FROM ALL PORTS.—We have re-arranged our India service so as to make our reports more detailed and at the same time more accurate. We had found it impossible to keep out of our figures, as cabled to us for the ports other than Bombay, cargoes which proved only to be shipments from one India port to another. The plan now followed relieves us from the danger of this inaccuracy and keeps the totals correct. We first give the Bombay statement for the week and year, bringing the figures down to March 13.

BOMBAY RECEIPTS AND SHIPMENTS FOR FOUR YEARS.

| Year | Shipments this week. | | | Shipments since Jan. 1. | | | Receipts. | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1884 | 6,000 | 12,000 | 18,000 | 134,000 | 172,000 | 306,000 | 48,000 | 112,000 |

| 1881 | 11,000 | 21,000 | 32,000 | 71,000 | 143,000 | 214,000 | 38,000 | 93,000 |

According to the foregoing, Bombay appears to show a decrease compared with last year in the week's receipts of 24,000 bales, and a decrease in shipments of 41,000 bales, and the shipments since January 1 show a decrease of 50,000 bales. The movement at Calcutta, Madras and other India ports for the last reported week and since the 1st of January, for two years, has been as follows. "Other ports" cover Ceylon, Tuticorin, Kurrachee and Coconada.

| | Shipments for the week. | | | Shipments since January 1. | | |

| 1883 | 4,500 | 1,200 | 5,700 | 53,500 | 12 000 | 65,500 |

EXPORTS TO EUROPE FROM ALL INDIA.

|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | This week. | Since Jan. 1. | This week. | Since Jan. 1. | This week. | Since Jan. 1. |
| Bombay | 18,000 | 306,000 | 59,000 | 356,000 | 41,000 | 394,000 |
| All other ports. | 7,500 | 71,500 | 5,700 | 65,500 | 15,600 | 111,300 |
| Total | 25.500 | 377,500 | 64,700 | 421,500 | 56.600 | 505,300 |

This last statement affords a very interesting comparison of the total movement for the three years at all India ports.

ALEXANDRIA RECEIPTS AND SHIPMENTS.—Through arrangements we have made with Messrs. Davies, Benachi & Co., of Liverpool and Alexandria, we now receive a weekly cable of the movements of cotton at Alexandria, Egypt. The following are the receipts and shipments for the past week and for the corresponding week of the previous two years.

This statement shows that the receipts for the week ending March 12 were 12,000 cantars and the shipments to all Europe 9,000 bales.

EUROPEAN COTTON CONSUMPTION TO MARCH 1.—We have received to-day, by cable, Mr. Ellison's cotton figures, brought down to March 1. The revised totals for last year are also given that comparison may be made. The takings by spinners, in actual bales and pounds, have been as follows:

| From Oct. 1 to March 1. | Great Britain. | Continent. | Total. |
| For 1883-84. | | | |
| Takings by spinners...bales | 1,622,000 | 1,330,000 | 2,952,000 |
| Average weight of bales.... | 431 | 436 | 433 |
| Takings in pounds ..... | 699,082,000 | 579,880,000 | 1,278,962,000 |
| For 1882-83. | | | |
| Takings by spinners...bales | 1,583,000 | 1,416,000 | 2,999,000 |
| Average weight of bales.... | 443 | 438 | 440·6 |

According to the above, the average weight of the deliveries in Great Britain is 431 pounds per bale to March 1, against 443 pounds per bale during the same time last season. The Continental deliveries average 436 pounds, against 438 pounds last year, and for the whole of Europe the deliveries average 433 pounds per bale, against 440·6 pounds during the same period last season. In the following table we give the stock held by the mills, their takings and their consumption, each month since October 1, all reduced to bales of 400 pounds each for this season and last season. It is a very convenient and useful summary:

| Oct. 1 to March 1. Bales of 400 lbs. each. 000s omitted. | 1883-84. | | | 1882-83. | | |

A more striking comparison with last year is reached by ringing together the above totals and adding the average weekly consumption up to this time for the two years:

The foregoing shows that the weekly consumption in Europe is now 137,000 bales of 400 pounds each, which is the same as at the corresponding time last year. The total spinners' stocks in Great Britain and on the Continent show an increase over the stocks at the same time last month, and are slightly in excess of a year ago.

The cable adds that Mr. Ellison estimates the supplies for the remainder of the season at 4,913,000 bales of 400 pounds each against 5,394,000 bales of the same weight last year and 4,888,000 bales in 1882.

NEW YORK COTTON EXCHANGE.—The Board of Managers have called a meeting for Saturday, March 22, to consider the following rates of commission, as proposed by the Committee of Twenty-one, namely:

|---|---|
| Buying or selling for members when the name is given up before 3 P. M., per 100 bales..... | 75 cts. |
| Buying or selling for members when the name is not given up, per 100 bales..... | $2 25 |
| Buying or selling for non-members, per 100 bales ..... | 12 50 |
| From which the utmost rebates allowed are, first, to those who live or have offices in New York or Brooklyn, per 100 bales.... | 7 50 |
| Making the lowest net charge, per 100 bales..... | 5 00 |
| Second, to all others, non-members, per 100 bales ..... | 6 25 |
| Making the lowest net charge, per 100 bales ..... | 6 25 |

In joint-account transactions full commission to be charged, subject to the rebates allowed.

It is understood that buying and selling, or what is called "the round turn," is double the above rates.

The reason for the greater rebate for city business is made, evidently, because the principals are immediately accessible for calls for margins

A notice has been posted declaring the membership of Mr. J. P. Billups at an end, and advertising the sale of his seat on Saturday, March 22, for the benefit of those creditors of J. P. Billups & Co. to whose claims no objection has been made.

EAST INDIA EXPORTS.—By cable from Bombay we have the following: "There is every prospect that the exports from all India for the half-year ending June 30, 1884, will not reach over 900,000 bales." Last year the exports during this same period aggregated 1,220,000 bales. Therefore, according to this estimate, it is expected that the shipments will fall off fully 25 per cent.

EAST INDIA CROP.—Messrs. Wallace & Co.'s Cotton Report, dated Bombay, February 8, furnishes the following:

"Notwithstanding the lateness and smallness of the Oomrawuttee crop, the receipts of cotton into Bombay from 1st January are 197,699 bales this year, against 197,517 bales last year. This is mainly due to the large arrivals of Bengals, which are nearly double last year's figures; but now that the crop is beginning to fall off, it is probable that we shall soon see a deficiency in the receipts this year as compared with last. Clearances are in excess of last year by about 10,000 bales, but unless Dhollerah turns out a full crop, as to which some doubts are now being entertained, the exports to Europe for the current six months are not likely to reach a million bales, this quantity being the most that the export is likely to total under the most favorable conditions of weather and market. The quality of the present Oomrawuttee arrivals has not improved much, and continues to give dissatisfaction; but the Dhollerah crop, judging from sample lots which have already come down, promises to be an excellent one so far as quality is concerned. No samples of Broach have as yet been received, but first pickings, it is expected, will be slightly stained, owing to late rains."

JUTE BUTTS, BAGGING, &C.—The market is becoming more active, and inquiries are for large parcels for future shipment. Some transactions are reported to go South on speculation, but the trade at this point is quiet as yet. Prices are steadily held, and we do not hear of any lots offering below the combination rates of 9⅛c. for 1½ lbs., 10c. for 1¾ lbs., 10¾c. for 2 lbs. and 11⅛c. for standard grades. Butts are rather inactive at the moment, and the only parcels moving are for jobbing wants. Prices are unchanged, holders being steady in their views, and paper grades are held at 2⅜@2½c., while for bagging qualities 2¼@2⅜c. are the figures.

COMPARATIVE PORT RECEIPTS AND DAILY CROP MOVEMENT.—A comparison of the port movement by weeks is not accurate, as the weeks in different years do not end on the same day of the month. We have consequently added to our other standing tables a daily and monthly statement, that the reader may constantly have before him the data for seeing the exact relative movement for the years named. The movement each month since September 1, 1883, has been as follows.

This statement shows that up to Feb. 29 the receipts at the ports this year were 562,440 bales less than in 1882, and 320,063 bales more than at the same time in 1881. By adding to the above totals to Feb. 29 the daily receipts since that time, we shall be able to reach an exact comparison of the movement for the different years.

This statement shows that the receipts since Sept. 1 up to to-night are now 615,249 bales less than they were to the same day of the month in 1883 and 341,673 bales more than they were to the same day of the month in 1882. We add to the table the percentages of total port receipts which had been received to March 14 in each of the years named.

THE EXPORTS OF COTTON from New York this week show a decrease, as compared with last week, the total reaching 10,015 bales, against 10,026 bales last week. Below we give our usual table, showing the exports of cotton from New York, and their direction, for each of the last four weeks; also the total exports and directions since September 1, 1883, and in the last column the total for the same period of the previous year.

BREADSTUFFS.

FRIDAY, P. M., March 14, 1884.

Flour has been very quiet for most descriptions and the market has been at times to a great extent nominal. Prices have shown no marked change but the tendency latterly has been downward. Winter-wheat grades have been the best sustained by reason of the smallness of the supply and winter patents are preferred to the spring, as they have noticeably improved in quality this season. To-day there was a fair trade in Southern flour, but of other descriptions the sales were very small, and as a rule the market was weak.

Wheat, following the lead of the Chicago market, has advanced mainly because of the covering of shorts both here and at the West, owing to the rather unfavorable weather reports that were at one time circulated in which particular stress was laid upon an anticipated cold wave from the Northwest. But there has been no such atmospherical disturbance, and prices for several days have been slowly declining. The reports from the winter wheat-belt, while somewhat conflicting, are in the main not unfavorable, and better weather is anticipated in the immediate future. The export trade has been small, notwithstanding the unusually low ocean freight rates now current. The reason given for the dulness is that the supply in Europe is already too large. To-day there was a decline of 1/4c. to 1/2c. at the opening, but afterward this was recovered, though the transactions were quite moderate. No. 2 red closed at $1 13 1/2 in elevator, $1 07 1/8 for March, $1 09 3/8 for April, $1 11 5/8 for May and $1 13 for June, showing a rise of 1/8 to 5/8c. for the week on the later months, while March & April are the same as a week ago and wheat on the spot is 1/2c. lower than then.

Indian corn has been more active at some advance. The fluctuations in prices have as usual been greatly influenced by those at Chicago, and it was a more noticeable disposition there cover contracts that started a similar movement here and advanced the quotations. The Government estimate of the crop has been reduced, and there is now said to be a much smaller quantity in the hands of farmers than was at one time supposed. But such statements, while they undoubtedly have a certain effect, are offset by the dulness in the export trade, and it is even alleged that they are seconded by some of the larger bulls solely with a view of disposing of their corn at once. To-day prices opened 1/4c. to 1/2c. lower, but afterwards recovered. No. 2 mixed closed at 63 1/2c. delivered, 62c. for March, 62 1/4c. for April, 63 1/2c. for May, 64 5/8c. for June and 65 7/8c. for July, showing an advance during the week of 1/4c. to 1 1/4c., the most noticeable rise being in June.

Rye and barley have been moderately active at rather easier prices. Oats have fluctuated within a narrow range, but the transactions have been fair. No. 2 mixed closed at 40 1/2c. for April, 41 1/4c. for May and 41 3/8c. for June, these figures, owing to some depression late in the day, falling slightly below those of a week ago.

THE DRY GOODS TRADE.

The weather has been more spring-like the past week, and a fair distribution of seasonable goods was made by leading jobbers; but business in this connection was less active than is usually witnessed at this time of year, retail buyers having continued to operate with a degree of caution bordering upon timidity. Some very fair orders for clothing woolens and cloakings were placed with agents representing domestic manufacturers, and a few specialties in dress goods, wash fabrics, &c., were moderately active; but, taken as a whole, the demand at first hands was light and disappointing. The movement in foreign goods was strictly moderate, selections by jobbers and retailers having been almost wholly of a hand-to-mouth character, and light in the aggregate. In spite of the comparative quiet which has prevailed in the market of late, prices are fairly maintained on the most desirable goods, and few accumulations have thus far taken place because of curtailed production in this country and diminished imports from abroad.

DOMESTIC COTTON GOODS.—The exports of domestics for the week were 2,004 packages, including 949 to Great Britain, 302 to Argentine Republic, 216 to Brazil, 147 to Venezuela, 128 to United States of Colombia, &c. It was a very quiet week with the commission houses, but a fair business in all seasonable fabrics was done by the principal jobbers. Brown sheetings were slow of sale, and Southern brands are in such large supply that a curtailment of production is under consideration. Bleached goods were in light demand at first hands, but the finest and medium grades are well sold up and steady in price, while low qualities are weak and unsettled. Wide sheetings were in fair request, as were corset jeans, and stocks are in good shape. Colored cottons were dull with agents, and the demand for white goods was less active; but a fair trade in the above fabrics was done by jobbers. Print cloths were in light demand and easy at last quotations, which are lower than at any time since March, 1879. Fancy prints were dull in agents' hands, but indigo-blues, fine sateens, shirtings and furnitures were in steady request, and a fairly good business was done in wash fabrics (as ginghams, lawns, chambrays, seersuckers, &c.) at steady prices.

DOMESTIC WOOLEN GOODS.—There was a slightly improved undertone in the woolen goods market, but the volume of business was hardly up to expectations. Fair orders were placed by the clothing trade for choice styles of all-wool and cotton-warp cassimeres, worsteds and overcoatings, and a fairly good trade was done in popular makes of satinets. Cloakings have met with more attention, and some considerable transactions were effected by means of relatively low prices. The demand for ladies' cloths and jerseys was irregular, but a fair aggregate distribution was made by agents representing leading makes. Kentucky jeans and doeskins ruled quiet in first hands, and the jobbing trade in these fabrics was only moderate. All-wool and worsted dress goods were jobbed in liberal quantities, and there was a steady call at first hands for duplicate lots of soft wool suitings, cashmeres, yarn and piece-dyed fancy worsteds, beiges, lenos, lace buntings, &c.

FOREIGN DRY GOODS.—The demand for imported goods at first hands was mainly restricted to a few specialities, and transactions were light in the aggregate. A fair business in silks, dress goods, white goods, laces, embroideries, hosiery, &c., was done by jobbers, but retailers were by no means liberal in their purchases, owing to the backwardness of the season. The auction rooms submitted various lines of foreign goods to the trade, but buyers were apathetic, and very few of the public sales resulted satisfactorily.

Iron Mountain Company

OF DURANGO.

A moderate amount of additional capital is wanted by the Iron Mountain Company of Durango, Mexico, for the immediate construction of Blast Furnaces, Rolling Mill, and other facilities for the manufacture of Merchant Iron on a large scale.

This Company owns the celebrated Iron Mountain at Durango, which is the largest deposit of iron ore in the world.

That part of the deposit which is above ground has been estimated to contain more iron than has been taken from all the mines of England during the past 330 years. The deposit is located within a mile of the City of Durango, with a population of 28,000, where cheap and reliable labor can always be found.

The ore is free from all impurities, and produces iron equal to the best Swedish. Fuel, limestone, fire-brick, clay, building stone, timber, water and all other necessaries are abundant, cheap, and near at hand.

A market for more than the Company can produce is at its very doors, and the principal markets of Mexico are now opened to it by the completion of the Mexican Central Railroad.

Mexico has a population of about 12 millions, and as there are few facilities in the Republic for manufacturing Merchant Iron, this Company will virtually have no competition.

The Company is in need of largely-increased facilities to supply the constant and rapidly increasing demand for Merchant Iron, and seeks additional capital by the sale of a portion of its capital stock. For full particulars, address

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION.

There has been but little change in the situation during the past week. The disturbed feeling pervading financial circles two weeks since does not exist now, and to that extent the outlook has improved. But as no effective remedy for existing financial ills has earnestly engaged the attention of Congress, the threatened evil is only for the time being at rest, not removed. In the meantime all business drags, spring trade is very slow and backward, the weather wretched with floods in the Southwest, and the prospects of railroad business not favorable.

On the latter point the further reduction on Thursday in the trunk-line rates from Chicago is by no means a promising feature. With this last reduction (making 15 cents in all), it only costs 15 cents per 100 lbs. to carry grain by rail all the way from that city to New York. At first sight this would be supposed to stimulate the movement to the seaboard and so it may; for 15 cents per 100 lbs. means a saving of 9 cents per bushel on wheat. But before this marking down of rates from 30 cents began, there was just about 9 cents difference between the price of grain in Chicago and the price in New York, so the reduction makes no change except in permitting a movement which prices before prevented, that is, if we suppose any road received full rates under the old schedule. As, however, there have been considerable shipments all along, we must suppose that the cutting which has been in progress has equaled the reduction. Whether the roads can find fun enough to pay for the loss in handling and moving grain to the seaboard under this arrangement we cannot undertake to say.

An approximate idea of how the operation will affect income may be gained by calculating the return which 15c. per 100 lbs. will afford on the basis of mileage between New York and Chicago, and then comparing such return with the average cost per ton per mile at which freight was moved on the respective roads during recent years. Here is how the mileage stands between New York and Chicago on the principal roads.

Pennsylvania and Fort Wayne route.....912 miles
New York Central and Michigan Central.....961 miles
Erie and Chicago & Atlantic.....986 miles

Fifteen cents per one hundred pounds is equivalent to just three dollars a ton. Dividing this by the mileage given, we find the rate realized per mile to be 0·329 cent in the case of the Pennsylvania route, 0·312 cent in the case of the Central, and 0·304 cent in the case of the Erie. Turning now to the cost of moving freight on the respective roads, we meet with the following figures, which, with the exception of those of the Lake Shore (covering 1882), cover the fiscal or calendar year 1883. It should be understood that the figures show the average cost per mile on all freight of every description, through and local. As local freight, being hauled only short distances, costs more to handle than through freight, it is likely that if the latter were stated separately, the result would be less unfavorable to the roads than given. On the other hand, in the case of some of the lines, particularly the Erie, the large amount of coal freight included should operate to make the average on all freight nearer the minimum.

| Cost per ton per mile on Erie | 0·519 cent. |
| Cost per ton per mile on Central | *0·680 cent. |
| Cost per ton per mile on Pennsylvania lines east | 0·562 cent. |
| Cost per ton per mile on Pennsylvania main line | 0·477 cent. |
| Cost per ton per mile on Lake Shore (1882) | 0·413 cent. |

* The rate in 1883 was unusually high. In 1881 it was only 0·56 and in 1880 only 0·54.

On the basis of the lowest cost here given, there would seem to be a loss of one tenth of a cent per ton per mile (the difference between the 0·312 cent received and the 0·413 cent cost of moving), while on the basis of the lines more expensive to operate, the loss would be two-tenths of a cent and over, for every ton of freight moved one mile. In other words, in carrying freight at 15 cents there would appear to be a loss varying from 90 cents to $2 on every ton of freight moved from Chicago to New York. Last summer the trunk lines received 25 cents per 100 lbs. for the same class of freight.

It is pleasant to turn to a more favorable feature in railroad circles. The movement to compromise the differences between the Quincy and the Union Pacific and the settlement of the dispute in the Northwestern Traffic Association, are events of that nature. The Quincy managers have hitherto not found it to their advantage to accept any of the offers made on the part of the Union Pacific and its allies in the new Western pool to adjust the differences arising out of the Nebraska business of the two lines, which differences are inflicting serious damage upon all the roads concerned, as we show later on in this article. A continuance of these inharmonious relations also threatens to deprive the members of the tripartite pool of nearly all the advantages they hoped to obtain by combining. Conferences having proved abortive, an agreement was made or announced on Wednesday for reference of the matters in dispute to committees appointed by the respective companies. What will be the result it is difficult now to determine, but it is expected that there will be a speedy and possibly a permanent settlement of all the vexed questions, although from the nature of the contest, both companies occupying the same territory, the adjustment will be difficult to make. The extension of the Northwestern Traffic Association was announced on Wednesday evening. This combination embraces the St. Paul, the Northwestern, the Minneapolis & St. Louis and the Omaha, and indirectly the Rock Island. Several conferences were had between the managers of the respective lines, and finally the proposition submitted by the Rock Island was to form a pool for two years, after which thirty days' notice of withdrawal should be given, the question of percentages to be fixed by arbitration. The Northwestern first insisted upon a proviso for withdrawal before the expiration of the two years, but it is understood that it yielded this point, and therefore the pool was formed.

Another event of the week has been the recovery in foreign exchange and further shipments of gold. This has had no influence on our markets, only taken in connection with other circumstances it induces caution. The amount which has gone out is $302,864 on the 20th and $605,258 on the 19th. Other shipments were expected for to-day by the City of Chester, but as the steamer will not leave until Monday it is not known as we write what will go by her. The Donau sails to-day. She is a slow boat and will take only $377,603. All the week the supply of bills has nearly equaled the demand, which fortunately was not urgent. The bills drawn last week by the agency in this city of the Bank of Montreal, on account of the Canadian Government, amounted to not more that £600,000, and they were so quickly absorbed that exchange re-acted as soon as the pressure of an unexpected supply was removed. But there was an impression that this agency had not drawn the full amount originally intended, and that more bills from the same source might come upon the market. This possibility increased to an extent the risk of gold exports and induced bankers to prefer fast steamers for the transmission of the metal to London. Then, again, the fact that money is, concurrently with these exports, going to the interior, and that our money market has, therefore exhibited a hardening tendency, with the prospect that before the end of the month it might become more active (especially if speculators should aid in making it so), has had its influence upon the operations of foreign bankers. The latest report indicated that 2⅝ per cent was the rate in the open market in London, and that was early in the week, before the Bank had received the $4,500,000 shipped from here on the 8th inst. It was reasonable to expect that a little lower rate would follow the arrival of so large a consignment of American gold; so if money should at the same time suddenly spring into activity here it might not only be desirable for foreign bankers, as well as others, to have as large an available supply as possible, but the margin of profit in moving gold, which is very small, might disappear. All these considerations combined have tended to limit gold exports this week, and they may continue to exert more or less influence in that direction. Part of the demand this week has been on Cuban account, the financial condition of affairs at Havana being such as to induce capitalists to transfer their funds to London. The mercantile inquiry has been light, mainly for the reason that importers who could do so have refrained from purchasing while bills were so high, preferring to wait for the chance of a reasonable decline.

The stock market has in general been strong through the week. Monday afternoon there was a little set back, but the market rallied next day, supported by an advance in Pullman, the Grangers, the Gould specialties, and the St. Louis & San Francisco stocks. On Wednesday one feature was a scarcity of Michigan Central shares, and the inclination was upward for that and the leading properties until the late trade, when unfavorable traffic returns of the Union Pacific for January, remarked upon below, encouraged the bears to attack that stock. The decline, however, was only fractional, for before the close the news was received with regard to the measures taken to compromise the differences between the Union Pacific and the Chicago Burlington & Quincy. On Thursday the Grangers and Union Pacific were strong in the morning on the annnouncement of the extension for two years of the Northwestern Traffic Association, and although the bears attempted to break prices they were only partially and very temporarily successful, the market being advanced late in the afternoon. On Friday, the further reduction in East-bound freight rates exerted an unfavorable influence in the early trade, but the strength of the Northern Pacific group of stocks served to hold the market steady the rest of the day.

A feature of the market has been the rise and activity in the prices of bonds. It has been observable for some time past that though stocks were languishing, bonds showed considerable animation. This week the movement has become so pronounced as to merit special mention. There can be no doubt that there is a large legitimate investment demand for the better class of such securities, for when stocks fall into disrepute bonds naturally increase in favor. But the movement now is not confined to the better class of bonds. Semi-speculative securities—bonds that have no established reputation as yet, and whose standing and integrity the future alone can determine—have been made to share in it. When a prime investment security which is in meagre supply records an advance of ½ or 1 per cent on small transactions, or between sales made at long intervals, the circumstance has no special significance, but when bonds of a less unquestioned character, which have lain dormant for months, or else have shown but feeble signs of life, suddenly spring into activity, sell in enormous amounts, and score an advance of two or three points in as many hours, the transaction is of a different character. And of this nature many of the transactions in the last ten or twenty days have been. We would by no means reflect upon the great majority of bonds that have appreciated in market value during this period, nor is it to be understood that because a security is quoted at a low figure, its standing is necessarily to be called in question—there are not a few of these latter which sell low, because their merits are not yet generally known to the public—but there is as much distinction between bonds as between stocks, and a rise in price should not of itself predispose one to making purchases. There are some manufacturers of mortgages still existing—controlling mortgages with no limit—and they will meet the demand.

Union Pacific has issued a statement for the month of January which we have already alluded to. Briefly stated, gross earnings have decreased $377,946, reducing them to $1,538,908, and on this total of over a million and a half the company made only $233,544 net, against $897,732 in the month of January, 1883, a loss of $664,188, on mileage of 4,256 miles in 1884 and only 3,996 miles in 1883. The unfavorable result is due to a variety of causes. Owing to the completion of the Northern Pacific, the Union Pacific has lost the through business to and from Oregon and Washington Territory. For the same reason it now gets only one-half of the Montana business—the traffic of which must be very profitable, since it affords a haul over the whole of the Utah Northern road and the entire length of the Union Pacific main line. Then on the business from Utah and Colorado the competition with the Burlington & Quincy and the Denver & Rio Grande has been very severe and has caused very serious reductions in rates, while also the road had to contend with an unusual amount of snow. As far as concerns the division of Montana traffic with the Northern Pacific, that of course is a permanent loss. The loss of the Oregon business, too, will be a continued unfavorable feature—till the juncture with Oregon Navigation lines by the Oregon Short Line shall have been effected, when the Union Pacific, like the Northern Pacific, will be able to offer all-rail connection to that territory. But as relates to what were the chief factors in the present unsatisfactory showing, namely, the "cut" on Colorado and Utah rates, and the expense of keeping tracks clear of snow, these of course are temporary in their character. The restoration of rates, for instance, would cause an immediate improvement in results, and the snows certainly are not a lasting circumstance. The adverse effect that these snows had will only be fully appreciated when it is known that, according to the Assistant General Manager, they were heavier than in the winter of 1871–2, when the Union Pacific in January was operated at a loss of over $100,000. Of course the other competitive roads suffered in like manner from the low rates prevailing, &c., and it will, therefore, be interesting to see the extent to which each was affected. Accordingly, we have been to the pains to prepare the January earnings and expenses back to 1881 for the Burlington, the Denver & Rio Grande, and the Union Pacific.

Here we see that all three roads sustained a reduction of net earnings this year, though both the Denver & Rio Grande and the Burlington & Quincy had a small increase in gross. Previous years' returns also afford a lesson, but we have not space to indicate it to-day.

There is very little doing in securities between London and New York and that little is confined to arbitrage operations. The following shows relative prices in London and New York of leading securities at the opening each day.

Money has been in a little better demand on call. That is to say, whereas a week ago it was difficult to lend at 2 per cent, the transactions this week have been more numerous at that rate and fewer at 1½. There is also a good inquiry for time loans, 3 per cent being bid on government collateral for thirty days and 4½ on stocks for ten months. The Treasury disbursed liberally for called bonds during the early part of the week, a call for $10,000,000 falling due on 15th inst., and this has tended to augment the supply, so that the slight hardening of the rate indicates that had it not been for the Treasury payments higher figures would have ruled. The following statement, made up from returns collected by us, exhibits the week's receipts and shipments of gold and currency by the New York banks.

* Includes $475,000 transferred in the shape of [illegible] certificates, by a deposit of gold in the Sub-Treasury.

The above shows the actual changes in the bank holdings of gold and currency caused by this movement to and from the interior. In addition to that movement, the banks have gained $3,000,000 through the operations of the Sub-Treasury and lost about $1,000,000 by exports of gold. Adding these items to the above, we have the following, which should indicate the total gain to the New York Clearing House banks of gold and currency for the week covered by the bank statement to be issued to-day.

| Total gold and legal tenders | $2,640,000 | $1,315,000 | Gain. $1,325,000 |

Government bonds have been strong this week, with a good demand for the 4s and 4½s for temporary investment, such as is usual at this period of the year.

The Bank of England reports a gain of £1,619,000 bullion for the week. This represents £190,000 from the interior and £1,429,000 from abroad, chiefly New York. The proportion of reserve to liabilities has increased 4 per cent. The Bank of France shows a gain of 2,975,000 francs gold and of 2,600,000 francs silver, and the Bank of Germany has lost 2,200,000 marks. The following indicates the amount of bullion in the principal European banks this week and at the corresponding date last year.

THAT $606,000,000 STOCK OF GOLD.

We wish to say a few words respecting the current official estimate of the stock of gold in the United States. Every now and then the Director of the Mint puts out figures purporting to cover this item (which, of course, he has confidence in, being based on Government statistics,) but which in the opinion of commercial men familiar with the subject are very erroneous. No great importance would attach to the question were it not that these excessive figures are used to encourage unsafe opinions among a numerous class who are inclined to put implicit faith in any statistical statement issued by the Government. Thus when gold shipments in a large amount are threatened, a telegram comes from Washington saying, the Director of the Mint esteems this of no moment whatever since we have 606 millions of gold in the country and it would be a benefit to lose a little; or, if the Chamber of Commerce complains that silver coinage is becoming unsafe, the next day the daily press receives pretty nearly the same old dispatch, only with a new date, and adding that nervousness on account of silver dollar coinage is quite uncalled for in a country possessing 606 millions of gold. The question thus becomes important—are there 606 millions of gold in the United States? If our readers will follow us briefly we think we can show most clearly that there is no such amount, and that the statement is a gross exaggeration.

As a preliminary thought, is it not surprising, if such a marvelous stock exists, that no addition is made to the portion which is in sight at this time of great business inactivity? Many more legal tenders and bank notes were idle in our banks and Sub-Treasury on the 1st of last November than at the same date in 1880, 1881 and 1882, but those depositories, in the aggregate, contained 21 millions less gold than they did November 1, 1881, and only 20 millions more than on November 1, 1880, although according to the Mint report the country since November 1, 1880, has increased its holdings of that metal 153 million dollars.*

Another fact in the same connection worth remembering is that the Government issued about 78 millions of gold certificates during the year ending October 1, 1883, an instrument which one would think peculiarly well adapted for economizing the use of gold, and very potent in drawing into the Treasury, and therefore bringing into sight, gold which was in active use or hid away among the people. Certificates are much easier for the public to hold and carry, and also much safer, for they can be put into a very small space; furthermore, they are not only an explicit promise of the Government to pay gold, but the actual representatives of gold on deposit in the vaults of the Treasury pledged to redeem them. What more effective device could be suggested for attracting or gathering it up? And yet during the year ending October, 1883, while these 78 million gold certificates were issued, and while the stock of gold in the country, according to the Mint report, increased about 43 million dollars (reaching in the aggregate 606 millions at the end of the year), the stock in sight (including that covered by the gold certificates) only increased about 21 million dollars; that is to say, not only of even the year's increase was kept in sight, while the old stock was wholly unaffected. That certainly is incredible; the certificates would have tapped such a large reservoir had it existed.

But let us carry the investigation one step further. According to the Mint report the stock of gold has been as follows at the dates named, and according to the Comptroller of the Currency the holdings of the banks (National and State), and of the Sub-Treasury, have been as given below, at about the same dates.

| | $ | $ | $ | $ |
| Gold coin | 375,823,881 | 469,000,000 | 512,191,036 | 544,512,000 |
| Gold bullion | 78,558,811 | 94,075,744 | 51,440,420 | 61,683,816 |
| Total gold in United States | 453,882,692 | 563,075,744 | 563,631,456 | 606,196,515 |
| Gold in all banks, including gold certificates, and in Sub-Treasury, excluding certificates | 253,632,511 | 294,905,569 | 290,455,297 | 273,179,117 |
| Leaving in hands of the people | 200,250,181 | 268,170,175 | 303,176,159 | 333,017,398 |

Our purpose with the above statement is to locate the supply. There is no better way of testing the truth of the assumption that we possess it, than to hunt for it in its reputed hiding place. Of course if it is in the country it must be either in bank or in the Sub-Treasury, or in daily circulation or hid away in old stockings. Mr. Knox each year about the first of November receives a return of the holdings of all banks, national and State, and the Sub-Treasury publishes its figures on the first of each month. In that way a total, covering about every dollar belonging to any public depository of the country, is obtained. Hence in the above we have deducted the amount so found to be in bank and Sub-Treasury from Mr. Burchard's stock of the same date, and that leaves a remainder all of which if the Mint Bureau is not in error, must obviously be either in active circulation or hoarded. Taking for instance the statement for October, 1883, we have a balance outside of bank and Sub-Treasury of 333 million dollars. That the reader may understand just what that means, let us call the population of the United States 55 millions, and making the usual allowance of five persons to a family, every family must have had in its possession (not in bank) constantly (not occasionally) during the past year over thirty gold dollars! Is it necessary to add another word in proof of the inaccuracy of the Mint statement? The truth is, there is actually no gold in circulation, and the merchant is the rare exception in New York or any other city this side of the Rocky Mountains, who has seen thirty dollars in gold even through an entire month, unless drawn from bank for some special purpose, and the most of our people have not seen that amount in a year. But we repeat, a stock in the United States of 606 millions requires us to assume that each family in the country had every day of the year over thirty dollars in its constant possession, and as there is practically no gold in circulation, we are forced to the conclusion that every household has hid away on the average thirty dollars of this metal! The proposition is so utterly untenable that it would be wasting words to dwell upon it further.

We might stop our inquiry here, but we have such a clear and recent proof of one way in which the error of the Mint Bureau has occurred that it may be more satisfactory to refer to it. Our readers know the process by which this imaginary stock is determined. The total gold coinage less recoinage is accepted as the increase for the year, diminished or added to by the official record of the imports and exports, and that total is then decreased by the estimated takings of gold coin for consumption in the arts. To make the Mint process clearer we insert the following extract from a letter from Mr. Burchard to us Dec. 11, 1883, which also shows the result down to Oct. 31, 1883.

| Gold in the country January 1, 1879 | | $273,271,707 |
| Gold coinage for the period from January 1, 1879, to November 1, 1883 | $287,193,524 | |
| United States gold coins re-melted | 1,831,928 | |
| Net coinage | $285,351,596 | |
| Imports of United States gold coin | $40,222,999 | |
| Exports of the same | 41,067,554 | |
| Net exports | $844,555 | |
| Making a total gain of | | 284,507,041 |
| Add bullion in the Treasury November 1, 1883 | | 62,392,847 |
| | | $620,171,595 |
| Deduct gold coin used in arts from January 1, 1879, to November 1, 1883, (estimated) | | 12,800,000 |
| Total stock gold November 1 | | $607,371,595 |

The foregoing process it will be seen contains at least two uncertain factors; one is the estimated amount of American gold coin used in the arts, and the other is the imports and exports of coin. Passing the former on this occasion, the latter is a portion of our Government statistics most liable to error of any it issues, for no consignor or consignee has any interest to disclose the fact to the Government whether his shipment or receipt is American, English or French coin or bullion, while frequently his interest is to keep it concealed. Even the bare item itself proves the truth of this assertion, and establishes its untrustworthiness, for it shows that all our exports of American coin since January, 1879, had been on November 1, 1883, actually returned to the United States except $844,555.

But there is also direct evidence of this inaccuracy. We have on previous occasions cited erroneous classifications which have come to our knowledge in this particular, both of imports and exports, showing that the Mint's process was faulty. We have now another instance to record which occurred in the gold exports for the week ending Saturday, March 8. There were $250,000 that went out that week, not included at all in any of the Government statements. The Custom House first gave the week's total gold exports at $6,177,192, and a week later it added $450,000 as omissions; but even with its additions it was short $250,000—the total shipments of gold that week being $6,877,192, the portion of American gold coin being also in that amount larger.

We mention this error only to illustrate the kind of omission that of necessity becomes a part of the gold record of the Mint Bureau. The above investigation shows that the estimated stock is obviously an exaggeration, and this instance indicates one way in which it may have become very largely misleading. The item of consumption of American coin in the arts is also purely estimate, and therefore another source of error. But we forbear. Enough certainly has been said to eliminate this hypothetical stock of gold from all future discussions touching silver coinage or gold exports.

LOANS AND DISCOUNTS OF OUR BANKS.

A communication in the Boston Advertiser under the well known initials of "A. W. S." calls attention to a defect in the reports of the National banks as now issued which is well worthy of consideration. The item this correspondent wishes more in detail is that of loans, and as the writer is President of one of the largest banks in Boston, where the lessons taught by the failure of the Pacific National Bank are not yet forgotten, he speaks strongly and from a knowledge of the misconception the present mode of making returns may encourage.

The objection which is urged against the usual form of report is that it offers a cloak for covering up unsoundness. The heading "Loans and discounts" represents not only the largest item in the return, but under it we have the substance of the bank; yet in the total an overdue debt or an absolutely worthless piece of paper when included counts as much as the same amount put out on a government collateral. It is scarcely necessary to say therefore that the make up of this item is of even more importance to the public than the details of the reserve, as the latter is simply the advance guard for meeting and resisting an emergency, while ultimate safety depends wholly upon the efficiency of the former and greater fund.

But while this is true, it is by no means evident that any return can be so drawn up as to disclose the contents of the bank vault, if the party preparing the statement desires to conceal the truth. In the case of the Pacific Bank of Boston, and also of the Mechanics' Bank of Newark which failed the same year, we doubt whether any classification of the loans would have been effectual. In the latter institution, if we remember rightly, false entries were made, even forged letters from correspondents were issued indicating balances in favor of the bank which did not exist, while forged paper was put among the assets payable at places remote from the bank. In the matter of the Pacific Bank, the impairment of capital was so covered up by irregularities in the loans, that one would, we think, have to present a special schedule, only possible to prepare after examination, to bring out the real facts. It is unfortunate that such returns are possible as were made by these institutions only a very little time before their weakness was disclosed, but we should be at a loss to know what division of the item in question would have served to uncover the irregularities existing. In fact, where there is a purpose to deceive, there is no limit to the devices which can be adopted to conceal wrong acts in a published statement.

Still, the suggestions of "A. W. S." would be of use unless there is objection to the public disclosures which honest bank officials might have to make at times. He proposes that the item of "loans and discounts" should be divided into three parts, as follows. 1. The amount considered good. 2. The amount suspended, overdue and doubtful. 3. The amount overdue and unpaid for more than six months. This is not very unlike the division used under the Canadian bank law which we remarked upon a few weeks since though less specific. But in case of actual fraud we cannot, as we said above, see that there would be any great gain, for one can readily imagine how easy it would be, if the disposition existed, to cover up the special disclosures called for in any such return. All loans would be considered good to an officer of that description, and as to overdue debt he could easily keep it alive by renewal if that were necessary to retain the good standing of his bank.

Should it not likewise be remembered in discussing this question, that our banks are already subject to the visits of a public examiner, which are supplementary to and, as it were, a part of the published returns. Once a year (and oftener if he thus or otherwise finds such visits needful) the Comptroller is supposed to know whether a bank is sound or not. These examinations, though sometimes failing in their purpose in case of fraud, as every device must, there is good reason to believe are faithfully performed. Comptroller Knox has said in his reports that in very many instances the capital of a bank has been thus found to be impaired and the deficiency made good without the knowledge of the general public, and that hundreds of instances occur annually and many occur daily, wherein irregularities are discovered and corrected. Hence, when the returns are published, the depositor and stockholder read them with a knowledge of this practice. They are not left therefore wholly to the published figures for their confidence, and the history of the national banking system proves the effectiveness of these arrangements. Under such circumstances, does it not seem of doubtful wisdom or utility to enforce rules for making returns which would perhaps at times embarrass an honest manager, and yet would be in no degree effective in catching rogues?

THE LEGAL-TENDER AND CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT.

It would certainly be unjust and premature to complain because three weeks have elapsed since the unexpected fact was communicated to the country by the Supreme Court that Congress is possessed of absolute and unlimited power over the currency—and yet that nothing has been done. But it is not premature to complain because those who should have taken up this subject with energy and determination have either neglected it altogether or brought it forward in only the most formal and perfunctory manner.

On the Monday after the decision was rendered, four propositions to amend the Constitution so as to restrict the power of Congress over the legal-tender money of the country were introduced — two in each branch. The mildest of the four measures was that of Mr. Garland, Senator from Arkansas, who would limit the issue of legal-tender treasury notes to three hundred and fifty millions, unless Congress should vote by two-thirds, as in case of a veto, to increase the amount. Next is that of Mr. Potter, Representative from New York, who wishes to prohibit the making of anything but gold and silver a legal tender, "except after a declaration of war, when the public safety may require it." Mr. Hewitt proposes the same thing, without the exception in favor of such a measure in time of war. And, finally, Mr. Bayard, Senator from Delaware, besides going as far as Mr. Hewitt in an absolute prohibition upon Congress to make anything legal tender except gold and silver coin, adds to it "nor pass any law impairing the obligation of contracts." This is all very well as far as it goes, but that is not saying much. The two House resolutions were sent, as is required under the rules, to the Committee on the Judiciary. That was not quite the same thing as giving the matter instant and respectful interment. For there is reason to hope that a majority of the Committee will favor some sort of an amendment aimed at the power to issue fiat money, and even legal-tender notes. But manifestly any measure upon the subject of the currency stands but a poor chance of consideration in the House until after the appropriation bills and the tariff question are out of the way; and it is therefore the part of wisdom for the Senate to act first and to send down a resolution of amendment as speedily as possible, to be acted on by the other branch when the financial bills have been passed or rejected.

But it is precisely in the Senate that progress bids fair to be slow and leisurely. Mr. Garland's resolution lies on the table subject to his call. Mr. Bayard's is also on the table, and the mover proposes to speak upon it before it is even referred to the Committee on the Judiciary. No doubt the argument he will make, when he brings the matter to the attention of the Senate, will be well worth reading, but we are forced to doubt the wisdom of delaying the reference to the Committee, even if a strong Constitutional argument from Mr. Bayard is to be the compensation for the loss of time. To review the decision of the Court by way of adverse criticism is wholly idle and useless. What is written, is written. Only one of two things can be done. We must accept the decision as a final exposition of the power of Congress, making the best of it, and hoping that Congress will not act foolishly hereafter in exercising its newly-discovered power; or we must take away that power by an amendment of the Constitution. It is practical statesmanship to lend all energy to remedy the evil, wasting no time whatever in a discussion of the decision which reveals the evil to us. If Mr. Bayard, or any other Senator or Representative, or citizen, hopes for a two-thirds vote in this Congress limiting the power of that body over the legal-tenders, he must be aware that there are no votes to spare. Consequently, those who regard the decision as a wholly erroneous presentation of the law should refrain from exciting any antagonisms, and particularly to avoid giving their opponents an opportunity to take as a line of defense the finality, if not the infallibility, of a decision by the Supreme Court.

It is no easy matter to amend the Constitution. Only four amendments have been made in eighty five years, one of which was rendered necessary by the Jefferson-Burr contest, and the other three were the result of the war. The present effort will not be successful without a struggle. Every hard-money man in either House of Congress should take a constant interest in the subject. Hard-money men out of Congress should take an early opportunity to let every candidate know that they will, under no circumstances, vote for a man who will not promise to support a limitation of the power of Congress over the currency. Even after the amendment has been carried through Congress, it must go to the State legislatures; and this suggests the great importance of an early organization of the friends of coined money in every part of the country to promote the ratification of the amendment when it has been submitted to the legislatures. In fact, too great earnestness in this matter is impossible.

and no effort that will serve to promote the limitation proposed will be labor wasted.

But the first movement should be made in Congress itself. There is little need of discussion, none at all of a debate upon the soundness of Mr. Justice Gray's decision or of its reasoning. Congress possesses a power which is capable of being abused, to the detriment of every permanent interest of the country. Will Congress abdicate that power? Let there be a test of that question, and let those who appreciate the peril set it forth as vigorously as they can.

ST. PAUL'S FAVORABLE SHOWING.

The complete report of the Chicago Milwaukee & St. Paul, issued this week in pamphlet form, bears out in full the favorable anticipations raised by the company's preliminary statement, which we reviewed in our issue of February 2. The report is not only satisfactory as regards the exhibit it makes, but has the additional merit of coming to hand about a month sooner than in 1883, and two months sooner than in 1882, which we accept as evidence of a disposition on the part of the managers to give stockholders and the public earlier knowledge of the company's doings and affairs.

The surplus on the year's operations proves a little larger than stated in the first return. Our remark that the company could have realized but little from new sales of land during 1883 (since no mention of this item was made in the return, and since the company had virtually closed out its lands in the year preceding) is substantiated, but there was "income from other sources" to the amount of $164,707, which raises the surplus from $1,186,693, as given, to $1,351,400—this, of course, above all charges for interest, &c., and also above 7 per cent dividends on both classes of stock. It is perhaps well to reiterate that we have made up this surplus on the basis of the dividends paid or to be paid out of the year 1883's income—not the dividends paid in the year. On the latter basis, the balance would be still more favorable, since the dividend of April, 1883, being on a smaller amount of stock, called for less than does that for April, 1884. With this item of miscellaneous receipts in our possession, we bring forward again the table given in our article of February 2, and change the balance so as to make it embrace in each year this miscellaneous income—it being always understood that the column of "dividends" represents dividends paid out of the earnings of the year in which they appear.

| | | $ | $ | $ | $ | $ | $ |
| 1879..... | 2,930 | 10,012,820 | 5,173,795 | 4,539,025 | 2,957,107 | 1,789,819 | 460,860 |
| 1880..... | 3,755 | 13,080,119 | 7,742,426 | 5,333,693 | 2,618,381 | 1,912,297 | 807,370 |
| 1881..... | 4,217 | 17,935,171 | 10,817,931 | 6,707,380 | 4,127,389 | 2,210,917 | 1,001,832 |
| 1882..... | 4,529 | 20,486,729 | 12,486,073 | 8,200,653 | 4,786,053 | 2,791,388 | 1,248,185 |

* Including miscellaneous income, which in 1879 amounted to $69,0 7, in 1880 to $324,298; in 1881 to $635,308; in 1882 to $623,813; and in 1883 to $164,707.

It is scarcely necessary to call attention again to the great progress that the company has made within recent years, as shown by the above figures of gross and net earnings, but we may note that the past year records a larger surplus than any other, even though miscellaneous income (mainly because of the disappearance of land sales) was only $164,707, against $623,813 and $635,308 respectively in 1882 and 1881. This surplus remained, too, it will be seen, after the company had paid out nearly $8,700,000 for interest and dividends—that is to say, it was able to meet this large charge (in 1879 the amount was less than $4,200,000) and yet carry forward a surplus of nearly 1⅛ million dollars. This relates simply to the results of operations for the year 1883. The total accumulated surplus to date is quite another thing. This, according to the report before us, amounts to $5,079,079. The casual reader may, however, misunderstand that item. The company in reality does not claim to have any such accumulated surplus. The five millions is merely the difference between the receipts and outgoes up to the 31st of December, 1883. It is irrespective of certain current liabilities which are a charge against income and which should be deducted to obtain the actual surplus remaining. Thus on the next day after the accounts were closed, the company had a large amount of maturing interest to meet (almost the whole of the funded debt having January and July as its interest periods), and this of course would diminish the surplus about $2,750,000. Then, the dividend payable in April ($1,660,000) was dependent upon 1883's earnings, and has been declared out of that year's income. If we allow for both these items, there is still left about $670,000, which, strictly speaking, is the real surplus. If this seems a small balance, it should be remembered that three months' earnings will be received before the dividend is payable, and furthermore that a year ago $3,550,974 of surplus profits were applied to the payment of 71,019 shares of stock sold to stockholders at 50 cents on the dollar, which was practically equivalent to a stock distribution to the extent of the remaining 50 cents.

The satisfactory features in the present report, however, are not confined simply to the operating results of the year. The improvement that has been made in the floating debt is perhaps even more striking. A year ago the size of this debt gave many of the friends of the company much concern, though the officials apparently did not share this anxiety. The sum total then was over seven millions and the offsets against it, apart from $2,969,732 cash held (which had to be applied almost in full the next day to the payment of maturing interest), were either insignificant or disputed. This year the gross amount of the debt is only $3,443,787, and the company held $3,048,965 cash, and $1,550,232 of bills receivable and balances due it. Even after allowing for the interest maturing the 1st of January, which this year must have been about $2,750,000, there is left only about 1½ millions of the whole sum unprovided for.

As to the company's bonded debt, the additions during the year were as stated in our article of February 2. The increase amounts to $6,636,500, and the total of the debt now reaches $96,272,000. In speaking of the St. Paul, critics invariably single out this feature for adverse comment and dilate upon the extent of these funded obligations. That the aggregate of the debt is very large is of course an indisputable fact. And yet it is possible to lay too much stress upon that point. The debt covers a mileage of 4,760 miles of completed road, which would give an average of only a little more than $20,000 per mile—a figure that will not be considered high, and certainly looks small alongside of the per-mile indebtedness of many other companies. It is to be noted also that the total capitalization of St. Paul, stock and all (the stock being $30,904,261 common and $16,540,983 preferred), is only at the rate of $30,192 per mile. But the most important consideration with regard to the debt of the road is, that it constitutes the sole and only charge against net earnings preceding dividends. In the case of most large companies, the charge for rentals of leased lines is almost as heavy, if not heavier, than the direct charge for interest. We may mention, in illustration, the Delaware Lackawanna & Western, a company whose own funded debt calls for only $283,000 a year, and yet it takes care of a vast amount of debt on leased roads whose interest it pays in the shape of rentals, the sum of which in 1883 reached $4,663,800. This we state, not as evidence of weakness on the part of the Lackawanna, but to show the difference between it and the St. Paul, the latter's direct debt being large simply because its indirect debt is nothing. It is to this distinction that Mr. Mitchell refers when, after stating that the whole 4,760 miles of road operated by the company is also owned by it, he remarks: "No part of it is held upon "leases on which rents are reserved, and the property is "only encumbered by the bonded debt above mentioned. "The company has never guaranteed the bonds or indebt- "edness of any other company and has no contingent "liabilities of any kind or description."

With the increase that has taken place in the company's indebtedness, there has come of course an increase in the yearly requirements for interest on the same, as we have before remarked. The table above tells what the increase has been in the past, and, bearing upon the future, we may say that the call for this purpose has not yet reached its maximum. The complete figures of the debt given in the report enable us to make more exact calculations on this point than was possible in our previous article. On the debt outstanding the first of January the annual requirement for interest is $5,967,533, which would be $593,608 more than was actually paid in the past year. If the company should have to meet an increase of this amount in 1884, which, for reasons stated in our former article, is perhaps unlikely, the operations of 1883 would leave a margin of $1,351,400 with which to do it.

MR. GLADSTONE'S HEALTH AND A CHANGE OF POLICY.

During the course of the past week, there have been strange, and sometimes conflicting, rumors regarding the condition and prospects of the Gladstone Cabinet. The Prime Minister's absence from recent Cabinet meetings is a known fact. Naturally enough it has led to much conjecture; and the explanations have been as varied as they have been numerous. Amid the mass of conjecture two things seem certain: The one that Mr. Gladstone is not well, the other that there is dissension in the Cabinet.

Whether the absence of the Prime Minister from the Cabinet meetings is wholly due to the condition of his health or in part to differences with his colleagues, is perhaps doubtful. Whatever be the true explanation, his absence from his place in the House of Commons in the present condition of public affairs is a fact which lends a certain amount of gravity to the situation. Later reports announce an improvement in Mr. Gladstone's health; but if it should still be necessary for him to seek for a time the milder air of the south of France, it is impossible but that the programme of business which was announced at the opening of Parliament will be seriously disturbed. There is but one man in England at present who can regulate and control the movements of that complex machine called the Liberal party; and that man is Mr. Gladstone.

It is safe, we think, to say that whatever truth there may be in the statement that he is about to retire temporarily from the scene of active duty, while still retaining his post as Premier, we cannot think that there is any likelihood of any immediate dissolution of Parliament and consequent appeal to the constituencies. The Government is strong with the strength of a powerful majority; and although there may be a pronounced anti-Government feeling on certain subjects outside the House, it is with the feeling of the House that the Government has to do. On two great questions—the policy pursued in Egypt, and the policy pursued in Ireland—the strength of the Government was fairly tested; and on both questions in the most unmistakable manner it was sustained. Nothing has occurred since to change this feeling. On the contrary the success which has attended General Graham so far has in some measure soothed the public mind; and there is no good reason to believe that a second test vote on the Egyptian question, if the Government presented a united front, unless some great disaster should occur, would be difficult or less doubtful. On the Irish question the feeling remains what it was.

The main difficulty, it would appear, exists inside the Cabinet itself. If rumor at all speaks the truth, Mr. Gladstone and his colleagues, while agreed on all the points presented in the new Reform bill, on the policy to be pursued with regard to Ireland, and on all other questions of immediate public interest, are divided in their views regarding Egypt. Mr. Gladstone's plans with regard to Egypt are well known. They are in harmony with the views which have long been popular with the more extreme section of the Liberals, with the surviving members of the old Manchester school, such as John Bright and one or two others, and with some younger men who have imbibed their lessons from that school, such as Mr. Chamberlain and Sir Charles Dilke. Mr. Gladstone is opposed to the re-conquest of the Soudan. He is opposed to anything which would seem like the permanent establishment of British authority in Egypt. He is willing for the time, at least, that the British Government be the guardian and receiver of Egypt, and he is resolved for the sake of trade to adopt measures for the permanent defense of the Red Sea Littoral; but further he is unwilling to go. The Whig members of the Cabinet, of whom Lord Hartington is the leading representative, following the traditions of their party, are in favor of a policy at once more pronounced and more vigorous. According to them, every step which has been taken during the last four months, not to speak of the delays and the uncertainties of the war in Lower Egypt at the beginning of the trouble, has been a fresh blunder. They are not unwilling to abandon Kordofan and Durfar, and the greater part of the country lying to the west of the Nile; but Sennar and the Eastern Soudan they would hold for the Khedive; and to make an end of that distrust which has ruined trade and industry in Egypt proper, they would guarantee absolute protection to the whole region of the Delta, by means of a British garrison, for a fixed and satisfactory length of time. The question now is, which of these views shall prevail in the Cabinet.

Mr. Gladstone has quite recently declared that there would be no change in that part of the Ministerial programme which related to Egypt. It is an open question, however, how far this determination would be affected by his temporary retirement. It is just possible that in his absence Lord Hartington, aided by Lord Granville and Sir William Harcourt, would be able to push matters in Egypt with greater vigor, and with a less scrupulous regard to tender consciences. If Mr. Gladstone's temporary retirement on the ground of ill health should not be necessary, and the opposition in the Cabinet should become obstructive, it will be competent for the Prime Minister to reconstruct his Cabinet and pursue his own policy. It is not an impossibility that Mr. Gladstone, consulting his own health and comfort, should resign; but with the Reform bill on hand, such a course is only conceivable on the supposition of positive and dangerous illness. In the event of his resignation, the presumption is that the seals of office would be placed in the hands of Lord Hartington; and even in such an emergency, it is well to bear in mind that, in the present condition of parties in the House, a dissolution and an appeal to the constituencies would be unnecessary. Sometimes things are allowed to drift, and sometimes they drift successfully. If General Graham should succeed in breaking the power of El Mahdi, the Egyptian policy may yet shape itself to the satisfaction of all, and without any radical change in the Government. However matters may end, there can be no doubt that a policy of greater energy and purpose in the earlier stages of this Egyptian difficulty would have prevented a world of trouble.

NEW YORK STATE RAILROAD REPORT.—We have several times had occasion to call attention to the useful work our State Railroad Commission was rendering in various ways. We have now to commend them for the promptness and efficiency they have displayed in preparing their annual report. When the Commission was created, the duty of preparing this report, which formerly had devolved upon the State Engineer, was placed in their hands. The task had previously been but imperfectly accomplished. The figures and data were thrown together in a mechanical and haphazard sort of way, and, to further detract from the value of the report, with each succeeding year the volume was more and more delayed, till finally it came out sixteen months after the close of the period to which it related, of course being destitute of all interest and throwing discredit upon that State supervision which tolerated such a state of things. Moreover, to reduce the labor of getting out the report, the process of wholesale and indiscriminate condensation was adopted in the later reports, till one of our contemporaries in sheer disgust was moved to remark that the report was not only late in coming to hand but was a sham when it did come.

In marked contrast to the tardiness and inefficiency that distinguished the old system, we have the celerity and general satisfactoriness that characterize the new. The present report is the first issued since the change, and is in two volumes. The first volume was a review of the proceedings of the Commission during the twelve months of its existence and was published soon after the opening of the year. The second volume contains the complete tabular statements which the railroads are by law required to make, and was put in our possession, bound and printed, in the first part of the current month. As the railroads have until near the close of December in which to file their returns, the work of preparing, arranging, printing and publishing the report was pressed into a space of about eight weeks. Much of the extreme delay under the old system was no doubt due to the time consumed in getting the document through the printing office, but it is to be noted that we now have the report in printed form at an earlier day than that at which the work of mere compilation was formerly completed—the State Engineer having usually submitted his report to the Legislature about the 1st of April.

The present report, too, shows much skill in the arrangement of the tabular matter in a useful and convenient form, and gives other evidences of the presence of a guiding spirit of some intelligence. We understand that this part of the Commissioners' work is under the special charge and direction of Mr. John O'Donnell, to whom also the public is largely indebted for the system of quarterly returns lately put into force. If that is so, then this is a particularly gratifying feature, for Mr. O'Donnell was deemed by the community the least satisfactory member of the board at the time of the appointment of the Commissioners. In his decisions Mr. O'Donnell has not always displayed that rigid impartiality that should characterize the judge in actions against the railroads, but he has been a most efficient and trustworthy member—agreeably disappointing the expectations entertained with regard to him—and we only wish that the public service contained a few more such useful men.

Bankers' & Merchants' Telegraph Co.—At a meeting of the board of directors held March 19, the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That a million dollars of the capital stock of this company (making a total issue of three million dollars) be issued, and that stockholders of record April 18, 1884, shall have the privilege of taking the same at par in cash, in the proportion of one share of the new issue for every two shares then held by them, respectively, payment to be made and stock delivered on Monday, April 21, 1884, on which day the option to subscribe shall expire.

Connotton Valley.—The Boston Herald reports that the plan of re-organization has been substantially agreed upon by the combined committees representing the bondholders and stockholders. The present 1st mortgage bonds and coupons and interest on the coupons to May 1, 1884, will be converted into preferred stock at par, and will amount to about $6,500,000. The present common stock will be converted into new common stock at 50 per cent of its par value, par for the old being $50 and of the new $100, that is to say, one new share at $100 will represent four old shares at $50. This will reduce the $5,000,000 common stock to $2,500,000. The old preferred stock will also be converted into new common at 60 per cent of its par value, now $50, but to be $100. There will be three new shares at $100 for ten old ones at $50. There are now $885,000 preferred. It will be particularly stipulated that the preferred stock shall receive all earnings above operating expenses and fixed charges to the amount of 50 per cent, and that there shall be no extensions of the road or other similar and extraordinary expenditures to create a lien above the preferred stock, except by a two-thirds vote of the preferred shareholders. It is not yet settled just what provision will be made for the terminal trust, car trust and equipment indebtedness, but it is probable that a mortgage will be issued for $1,000,000 at 6 per cent, and the terminal and car trust securities be exchanged for it at par and the equipment at a possible sacrifice. The amount of this indebtedness is about $850,000. The road could probably take care of a $1,000,000 mortgage and perhaps show a surplus.

Ohio Central.—At Charleston, W. Va., March 15, Judge Jackson, of the United States District Court of West Virginia, rendered his decision, extending the power of Thomas R. Sharpe as receiver over that portion of the Ohio Central Railroad lying between Corning, O., and the Ohio River. In the three cases of Nelson Robinson et al., Owen and Johnson, and the Central Trust Company of New York, against the Ohio Central Railroad, the question involved was a conflict of jurisdiction between the United States District Court of West Virginia and the United States District Court of Southern Ohio.

Ohio & Mississippi.—The decree of the United States Circuit Court in Illinois provides that Receiver J. M. Douglas shall deliver to the company 415 bonds and their coupons, secured by a mortgage on the Flora & Beardstown Branch. The receiver is also to surrender possession of the roadbed and its equipment to the company as soon as a written consent to the dismissal of the foreclosure suit and a $500,000 bond to provide for the payment of all debts incurred during the receivership shall be filed.

Portland & Ogdensburg.—At Portland, Me., a bill in equity has been filed against the Portland & Ogdensburg Railroad Company in the Supreme Court by the trustees under the mortgage of 1871 for possession of the road by the trustees and the appointment of a receiver. Mr. Putnam, counsel for the trustees, says the bill in no way reflects on the management of the road; that this movement will not cause any security-holder to part with his securities at any diminshed price; that the emergency calling for this action has come on very suddenly, and that when a motion is heard for the appointment of a receiver, he believes it will be conceded by all that the course the trustees have taken is prudent.

Richmond & Allegheny.—At a meeting of the first-mortgage bondholders of the Richmond & Allegheny Railroad, $1,211,000 first-mortgage bonds were represented. The following basis of settlement was proposed in place of that submitted by the Richmond & Allegheny officials in their proposed plan dated Nov. 15 last: "Half the interest on the first-mortgage bonds for four years from July 1, 1883, to Jan. 1, 1887, both inclusive, to be paid semi-annually in cash, commencing July 1, 1884; payment of the remaining half to be deferred a reasonable time without surrender of the first-mortgage securities of the same, with interest at 5 per cent, payable semi-annually on such deferred amounts as run from the dates on which they originally matured, provided that in any scheme of reorganization arranged on the basis we propose, there shall be embraced proper guarantees for the due and punctual enforcement of the conditions thereof." A committee consisting of Messrs. George Buckingham, Crowell Hadden and George Arents was appointed to carry out the provisions of the foregoing resolution.

Shenango & Alleghany.—On the application of English stockholders Mr. John Fowler Powell has been appointed Receiver of the Shenango & Alleghany Railroad, which extends through Mercer & Crawford counties, Pa., a distance of 46 miles.

Sinaloa & Durango.—The Boston Transcript says that the Sinaloa & Durango Railroad was organized to build a railroad in Mexico from Altata, on the Gulf of California, 250 miles east to Durango upon the line of the Mexican Central. The subscription was first taken to build 40 miles of road from Altata to Culiacan, and the company promised, for $2,700, a block of $3,000 first-mortgage bonds and $3,000 stock. Nearly $540,000 was paid in and the company proceeded with construction. The subsidy was $8,000 per kilometre, or substantially $12,000 per mile, and was so promptly paid by the Mexican Government that when more money was needed the stockholders advanced (January, 1882), $260,000 upon a one-year 7 per cent loan, taking a bonus of 100 per cent of stock and the subsidy receipts as security. The subsidy repaid this loan within the year. Besides the $540,000 of subscribers' money expended, the company collected and expended over $200,000 of the Government subsidy, and negotiated the other $209,000 subsidy with Mexican bankers at only 7 per cent discount, and spent the proceeds of this also, nearly $1,000,000 in all having gone into the construction of the road. As the company has no means for further construction, the subscribers were to be asked to surrender all their rights—the securities having never been delivered—allow the property to be turned over to the parties to whom it has become indebted, and receive in consideration exemption from personal liability.

A circular issued by the company asks holders of rights to allow the company to use the securities as pledges for a loan.

Toledo Cincinnati & St. Louis.—Mr. W. J. Craig, receiver of the Toledo Cincinnati & St. Louis Railroad, has filed his reports for December and January in the clerk's office of the United States Court. The report for December shows total receipts $179,816, including $32,012 on hand December 1. In January receipts were $136,313, including $55,710 on hand January 1. Cash balance on hand January 31 was $33,309.

Virginia State Bonds.—Messrs. J. A. Hambleton & Co., Baltimore, say in their circular: "The Virginia Legislature is expected to adjourn to-day. As we have informed our readers, there were many bills introduced relating to the debt question, but the only ones which have passed—both of which require the signature of the Governor to make them laws—is the bill requiring all license taxes to be paid in money instead of coupons as formerly, and the bill which amends coupon-killer No. 1, so as to give the holders of 10-40 coupons the same rights as are possessed by the holders of consol coupons, viz., to prove and collect them. Coupon-killer No. 1 formerly provided only for the proving and collecting of consol coupons. This latter bill is favorable to the holders of Virginia 10-40s."

—Attention is called to the notice in our advertising columns of the Iron Mountain Company of Durango, Mexico, for additional capital to enable it to increase its capacity for manufacturing iron from the vast deposits of ore which lie above ground and form the celebrated Iron Mountain of Durango. This company was organized under the laws of the State of New York in 1881, and embraces the names of Wm. L. Helfenstein, President, and Joseph Knotts of Council Bluffs, Iowa, Vice-President. Owing to the high price of manufactured iron in Mexico, caused by the high tariff and heavy cost of transportation, and to the well attested richness of its claim in both quality and quantity, the promoters state that this company is well entitled to attract the attention of investors as an enterprise worthy of examination.

—The New England Mortgage Security Company of Boston, which has successfully placed its bonds to the amount of about $2,500,000 since its organization in 1875, has now for sale a part of the issue, series "F," which bear 5 per cent interest. The capital of the company, as also the proceeds of the sale of its bonds, are invested in well-selected farm mortgages, and on Jan. 1, 1884, the company had loans on its books of $3,033,385, secured by first mortgage on 839,337 acres of land, estimated to be worth $9,999,921. The company's card is in the Investors' Supplement.

The Money Market and Financial Situation. The general trade and industrial lines of business throughout the country show a considerable increase in volume, as would naturally be expected at this season of the year, and in many respects the condition in the fact that profits are exceedingly small. Interior and country merchants, while buying less in the Eastern States than usual, are also buying very sparingly, and the general distribution of goods is not equal to that of past years. Mercantile credit, however, throughout the country stands well, and there was never a better demand from banks for good mercantile paper for discount than at present.

The earnings of the great trunk lines of railroad in the West and Northwest have been very much diminished in the last few weeks by bad weather, but the comparison with the corresponding period of last year is also unfavorable because the trade conditions then were better than they are now, and, further, Northwestern roads were then carrying a large amount of freight that had been delayed in previous months. The last reported earnings of the St. Paul, the Northwest and the Omaha all show a falling off for this reason. In the case of the Union Pacific, whose January exhibit recording a loss of over $600,000 was made public this week, there was the additional circumstance of an intense competition with the Burlington & Quincy and the Denver & Rio Grande.

The export movement of specie has diminished, temporarily at least. The exports from New York thus far this week reach less than $1,300,000, making a total of about $10,000,000 exported since February 21, when the movement began. The reduction of 15 cents per 100 pounds (10 cents previously and 5 cents more this week) in the rates of East-bound freights from Chicago by the trunk line railroads, is equivalent to a reduction of 9 cents per bushel in the price of the wheat stored in the Western markets, and if this difference is not neutralized by an equal speculative advance in the Western prices, it should facilitate the movement of grain to the seaboard and the foreign markets, and to just the extent that breadstuffs went out of the country further shipments of gold would be avoided. To some extent, however, the reduction in freights is only nominal, as previous to the official reduction rates had been cut by some of the leading lines.

The money markets, both in New York and in the interior cities, are still over supplied with loanable funds, and rates for all classes of loans and discounts remain at low figures. In the New York market the rates for call loans on stock collaterals have continued at 1½ and 2 per cent per annum (the bulk of transactions being at the higher figure), and time loans on good dividend-paying stocks for any period less than 9 months are still obtainable at from 3½ to 4 per cent. Discount of mercantile paper remain at 4 and 5 per cent for first-class double names for 60 days and 4 months, and 5 and 5½ for single names. Nevertheless, it is apparent that the export movement of specie is reducing the reserve of the New York banks to a point where it must soon affect their ability to loan.

The weekly statement of the Bank of England on Thursday showed a gain of £1,619,000. The reserve in the Bank was increased to 47 1-16 per cent from 43 7-16 per cent last week. The Bank rate of discount remained unchanged at 3 per cent. The Bank of France gained during the week 2,975,000 francs in gold and 2,600,000 francs in silver. The Bank of Germany lost 2,300,000 marks in specie.

The following table shows the changes from the previous week and a comparison with the two preceding years in the averages of the New York Clearing House banks.

Exchange.—The foreign exchange market has been firmer but very dull during the past week, and on Monday the posted rates were advanced ½ cent on the £ to 4 88 and 4 90½, against 4 87½ and 4 90 a week ago. The rates for actual business on Friday, the 21st, were as follows, viz.: Sixty days, 4 87½@4 87½; demand, 4 89@4 89½; cables, 4 90@4 90½. Commercial bills continue comparatively scarce at 4 87@4 86. Continental bills have been firm throughout the week.

State and Railroad Bonds.—There has been a decided improvement in the market for railroad bonds during the last week. There has been a larger volume of business, and prices have generally advanced under what appears to be largely a legitimate investment demand for the better class of such securities, as well as an increase of speculation in the low-priced bonds. The various issues of the Western trunk-line roads have been conspicuous in the rise. The largest advance, however, was in Oregon & Trans-Continental firsts. Incident to this, we learn the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company has negotiated $3,000,000 of a new loan, and that with the proceeds it will at once complete its line to a connection with the Oregon Short Line of the Union Pacific. The Canada Southern is also said to have negotiated this week the entire $6,000,000 of its issue of 5 per cent second mortgage bonds. The West Shore 5s have been more active and higher, though no definite action appears yet to have been taken on the financial plan for the relief of the company.

A comparison of closing prices with the final figures of Friday last shows an advance of 1⅜ in Burlington & Quincy debentures; 1½ in Canada Southern firsts; 2½ in do. seconds; 1¼ in Central Iowa (Eastern Division) firsts; 2 in Chesapeake & Ohio firsts, series B; 3 in do. currency 6s; ¾ in Erie second consols; 3 in Green Bay Winona & St. Paul incomes; 2¼ in International & Great Northern 6s; 2 in Jersey Central debentures; 1½ in Missouri Kansas & Texas general mortgages; 2 in Louisville & Nashville general mortgages; 1½ in Metropolitan seconds; 1½ in Milwaukee & St. Paul, Chicago & Pacific (Western Division) 5s; 2¼ in New York & New England 7s; 1⅛ in Chicago & Northwestern consols; 1¼ in do. debenture 5s; 1⅜ in Northern Pacific firsts; 4 in Oregon & Trans-Continental firsts; 2 in Rome Watertown & Ogdensburg 5s; 3½ in Texas & Pacific land grant incomes; 2½ in do. Rio Grande Division firsts; 2½ in Wabash general mortgages; 1½ in New York West Shore & Buffalo 5s; 2 in Fort Worth & Denver City firsts; 1⅛ in Shenandoah Valley firsts; and 2½ in do. general mortgages.

State issues were quiet during the week, transactions having been confined to Tennessee compromise bonds at 49, 50, 49½, North Carolina 4s at 85⅛ and South Carolina 6s non-fundable at 3.

Railroad and Miscellaneous Stocks.—Notwithstanding the diminished current earnings of the principal Western trunk lines, and the enormous reduction of 50 per cent in the last two weeks in the rates on East-bound grain, provisions, meats, &c., by the Eastern trunk roads, the stock market has been held comparatively firm by the bears operators embarked on the bull side. They have received some encouragement from the fact that the rates in the Northwestern Traffic Association have settled their differences and reorganized the association, and also in the fact that the Burlington & Quincy and the Union Pacific have submitted matters to the committees of the respective roads. There has, however, been no attempt to advance prices, and such gain as there has been has resulted as much from an increasing scarcity of floating stock in the market and the unwillingness of the bears to put out large lines of shorts, as from any other cause. The general public are taking very little interest in stocks, and the market has been left entirely to the manipulations of the professional speculators and the room traders. The principal stocks that show an advance for the week are Burlington & Quincy, Colorado Coal, Kansas & Texas, Lake Erie & Western, the Northern Pacific group, Pacific Mail, Peoria Decatur & Evansville, Pullman Palace Car, St. Paul & Manitoba and Texas & Pacific. Those showing a decline are Lackawanna, New York Central, Reading and Union Pacific.

"All of which is owned by the company. No part of it is held upon leases on which rents are reserved, and the property is only encumbered by the bonded debt above mentioned. The company has never guaranteed the bonds or indebtedness of any other company, and has no contingent liabilities of any kind or description.

"Since the last report 420 miles of new steel rails have been laid, 213 of which were on the new road constructed and 207 miles in renewal of track in place of iron rails taken up.

"The 81 miles of road constructed in Dakota, from Letcher to Ashton, make a continuous line in the James River Valley from Yankton, by way of Mitchell, through Aberdeen to Ellendale, a distance of about 250 miles, reaching a point within 65 miles of Jamestown, on the Northern Pacific. The 38 miles constructed from Howard City to Woonsocket are an extension of the Southern Minnesota line to a connection with the James River Valley line. By means of these additions, all the lines of the company in Dakota are connected.

"The rapidity of the settlement of Dakota is a marvel of the times. During the last year over 12,000,000 acres of land were taken up for cultivation by settlers, and from present advices we have every reason to believe that the immigration the present year will equal that of the past. The lines in Dakota, although mostly built in advance of settlements, will at an early day be supplied with an abundance of traffic, the product of the rich prairies, through which they run, now peopled by an energetic and thrifty race of settlers."

Southwestern (Gould) System of Railroads.

The brief pamphlet report of these companies has been issued this week. The remarks were quoted in the CHRONICLE of March 15, page 331.

The net results of the operations of each road for the year is shown in the table below, which gives the net gain or loss in the income account after charging off all liabilities. The "debit" account, as in Wabash, Missouri Kansas & Texas and Texas Pacific, indicates a deficiency in income carried forward from year to year; with St. Louis & Iron Mountain a deficiency of $109,921 last year is changed to a surplus of $936,573 this year.

Galveston Houston & Henderson.

This road was only operated under lease to the International & Great Northern in 1883, having been foreclosed in 1882. No report of earnings in 1882 has ever been published; in 1881 gross earnings were $327,652 and operating expenses $340,665. It is but 50 miles long, and forms the only outlet of the Gould system to the city of Galveston; but the road was in poor condition when foreclosed, and large expenditures have probably been made on the property. In 1879 the gross earnings were reported at $536,838 and operating expenses only $307,287, leaving net earnings $229,551.

Roberts, George Williams, William Borner and F. W. Belc. The five last named are new men.

Colorado Coal & Iron Company.—At a meeting of stockholders of the Colorado Coal & Iron Company, a committee, consisting of Charles Moran, L. H. Meyer, Reuben Leland, Isidor Wormser and Spencer Trask, was appointed to co-operate with a similar committee recently appointed at a meeting in Philadelphia to prepare a ticket for the annual meeting in April.

The result of the meeting in the election of the committee by a vote of 29 to 26 was said to be favorable to the present management.

|---|---|---|---|
| Earnings | $17,387 | $17,854 | Dec., $755 |
| Expenses | 13,581 | 15,048 | Dec. 2,926 |
| Net earnings | $3,593 | $1,934 | Inc. $1,521 |

International Inter-Oceanic & Oriental (Mexico.)—A dispatch from Matamoras, Mex., says that Mr. James M. Calder, of Monterey, has been appointed receiver of this line, which was projected from Laredo via Victoria and the coast to the city of Mexico, and on which considerable grading has been done.

Kentucky Central.—Since some of the large stockholders of Kentucky Central refused to join the agreement for an assessment to raise funds to meet the road's indebtedness, other plans of re-organization have been talked of. The latest is that the bond and stock holders who are willing to help the road should form a syndicate, and, by paying the debt, prevent the appointment of a receiver. It is said that having thus bought the debts of the company, the syndicate will demand a sale of the road, and if possible buy it in, and if not, the stockholders outside of the syndicate take care of themselves.

Mexican Central.—A Boston dispatch says: "Within a month the Mexican Central Railroad will issue securities due to block subscribers; $4,000,000 in bonds will, therefore, be issued upon a single date, the largest amount ever issued at any one time. As they were all paid for some time ago, and no more assessments remain to be paid, some curiosity is manifested as to how many of these bonds may come upon the market. The total amount of Mexican Central bonds issued to the subscribers to the four series of blocks and $2,000,000 bonds to the founders will amount to $35,000,000."

Mexican National.—A statement has been prepared by the directors of the Mexican National Railroad Company for submission to the bondholders, on the subject of the financial condition of the company. It is proposed to fund all coupons from and including April 1, 1884, to Oct. 1, 1886, of bonds bearing date April 1, 1881, and to fund the coupons from and including July 1, 1884, to Jan. 1, 1887, of bonds bearing date July 1, 1882. There are $19,330,000 of the first-named bonds and $5,000,000 of the second. The question of passing the April coupon was considered by the Executive Committee March 19. The company has been negotiating with capitalists in England for money, but a short time ago the negotiations fell through.

Missouri Kansas & Texas.—The Treasurer reports that the privilege of exchanging the second mortgage income bonds and coupon-scrip upon the terms adopted by the board of directors November 2, 1883, is extended until further notice.

Nashville Chattanooga & St. Louis.—The gross and net earnings for February, and for the eight months ending February 29, in 1883 and 1884, have been as follows:

| Surplus | $34,396 | $35,792 | $268,231 | $301,239 |

New York Lake Erie & Western.—The gross and net earnings for December, and for the three months ending December 31, in 1882 and 1883, are given below. The gross earnings include only 68 per cent of the earnings of the N. Y. Pa. & O. Railroad, leased in 1883, and the net earnings thus compare properly with the previous year.

| | December. | | | |

| Net earnings | $1,815,275 | $1,772,788 | Dec. | $60,484 |

New York West Shore & Buffalo.—It is reported that a plan for the financial reorganization of the West Shore road will shortly be submitted to the creditors of the company. The proposition covered now is to issue a $25,000,000 6 per cent general mortgage and to fund three years' coupons of old bonds into the new. Enough of the new bonds will be reserved to secure the $10,000,000 of income bonds issued to the North River Construction Company, and the remainder will be issued to provide equipments, &c. The terminal bonds authorized will probably be withheld from the market for a year. The scheme is said to be favored by a controlling interest in the road, but is opposed by some large bondholders.

North River Construction Co.—Receiver Ashbel Green has given notice that the North River Construction Company will go into liquidation, and that the books have been closed permanently.

Oregon Railway & Navigation Co.—The Boston Transcript says: The Oregon Railway & Navigation Company has not published any earnings since its December report until today, when the gross earnings for February and since July 1 have been given out. The figures in detail are as follows:

|---|---|---|
| January gross | $[illegible] | $[illegible] 50 |
| January net | [illegible] | 1[illegible],000 |

—The Oregon Railway & Navigation Company's loan of $3,000,000 was taken largely in Germany. The balance was subscribed for in England and America. This loan was made to complete the Baker City Branch Company to a junction with Oregon Short Line. Terms are not stated.

Oregon Southern Improvement.—A dispatch from Portland, Oregon, March 20, said: "The Oregon Southern Improvement Company filed a mortgage of $2,000,000 yesterday to secure the bonds issued on the company's property in Coos and Douglas counties. The bonds are payable to the Boston Safe Deposit Trust Company and bear 6 per cent annual interest, payable half-yearly.

Pittsburg Cincinnati & St. Louis.—The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Pittsburg Cincinnati & St. Louis Railroad Company was held in Columbus, O., March 18. The annual report for 1883 is as follows:

|---|---|
| Gross earnings | $4,623,740 |
| Expenses | 3,087,465 |
| Net earnings | $1,536,275 |
| Add amount received for interest, &c. | 8,784 |
| Total | $1,545,059 |
| Interest on bonds | 707,280 |
| Other payments | 298,864 |
| Total | $1,006,154 |
| Net profit main line 1883 | $538,905 |
| Deduct losses on leased lines | 592,747 |
| Loss on all lines 1883 | $53,841 |
| Profit in 1882 | $7,407 |

The following directors were elected: G. B. Roberts, J. N. McCullough, William Thaw, Thomas D. Messler, R. Sherrard, D. S. Gray, H. H. Houston, Wistar Morris, J. N. Dubarry, W. H. Barnes, J. P. Wetherill, G. H. McCook and John P. Green. The organization of the board was postponed for the present.

Pittsburg Fort Wayne & Chicago.—A special meeting of the stockholders of the Pittsburg Fort Wayne & Chicago Railroad has been called for April 3, to vote upon a proposition for a new issue of bonds. By order of the Executive Committee, President L. H. Meyer has issued a circular to the stock and bond holders explaining the situation. The lease of the Pittsburg Fort Wayne & Chicago Road to the Pennsylvania Railroad provides that the stockholders of the leased road shall keep that property in good running order. To pay for the necessary betterments, the lessor company has issued to the lessee company for several years special guaranteed stock known as "betterment stock."

So long as this stock seemed the least burdensome security that could be placed at par, the directors of the Pittsburg Fort Wayne & Chicago Company were satisfied to issue it; but when it advanced in market value above par, the directors did not feel that they had the right to issue it at par. The inevitable result of such an issue, it was stated, would enable the lessee company, by accumulating these issues in a trust or sinking fund, in a few years to outgrow the lessor company in the control of the latter's own property. The issue of the "betterment stock" was therefore stopped, and negotiations have been pending with a view to providing some other form of security to cover the costs of the improvement.

The directors of the Pittsburg Fort Wayne & Chicago Road have decided to submit to the stock and bond holders the proposition to issue mortgage bonds not exceeding $20,000,000 in amount; the bonds to have fifty years to run, and to be issued from time to time, as required, to pay for betterments under the the terms of the lease with the Pennsylvania Company. Louis H. Meyer, George W. Cass and Charles Lanier are the committee appointed to receive proxies in favor of the proposition.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company claims to have made betterments on the leased property amounting to $3,000,000, for which it has not yet been paid.

Union Pacific.—The statement of net earnings for January has been published and shows a large decrease in comparison with January, 1883. This is undoubtedly owing in great part to the cutting in rates, which is a temporary difficulty. The candor and fair dealing of the managers in continuing to report the earnings when they make a bad showing, will impress the public most favorably. The Union Pacific is reducing its debt by land sales, and had it not been for the delay of Oregon Railway & Navigation in completing its line to Baker City to a junction with the Union Pacific's Oregon Short Line, this road would now have the benefit of a large Oregon business. As it is, the connection will probably soon be finished. The following is the statement of earnings and expenses for January:

| Gross | $1,573,998 | $1,910,854 | Dec. $337,946 |
| Operating expenses | 1,305,334 | 1,019,123 | Inc. 286,243 |
| Net | $233,541 | $891,732 | Dec. $624,189 |

—The land sales of the Union Pacific Railway for the month of February were: 1884, 173,593 acres for $418,657; 1883, 42,620 acres for $137,902; increase, 130,974 acres; $280,755.

COMMERCIAL EPITOME.

The weather the past week has been more favorable for the season of planting and sowing in the West, causing declines in prices of food staples, and giving some impulse to general trade; but business is quite backward for the Spring months, and nowhere are any very sanguine anticipations entertained regarding the outcome of the near future. Yet there is no apprehension felt that any serious complications will arise, and confidence is expressed that values are uniformly on a sound basis, promising that any change will be for the better. The financial situation is calm, and the political atmosphere gives little indication of the approach of a canvas for the Presidential succession.

The speculation in lard has been quite without spirit in the past week, and prices have materially declined, a slight rally yesterday being followed by renewed depression to-day, prime Western closing at 9·70c. on the spot and for March and April delivery, 9·74@9·76c. for May, 9·82@9·84c. for June and 9·86@9·88c. for July. Pork has sold to a moderate extent at $17 62½@17 75 for mess and $20@20 50 for clear. Bacon remains nominal at 9¾c. for long clear. Pickled cut meats have had some inquiry at 8½@8⅝c. for bellies, 8¼@8½c. for shoulders and 11¾@12¼c. for hams, and smoked are quoted at 13¼@13½c. for hams and 9¼@9½c. for shoulders. Beef is nearly nominal at old prices. Beef hams are drooping at $27@$27 50 per bbl. Tallow is easier at 7¼@7⅜c. Stearine is quoted at 9¾@10c., and oleomargarine 8¾@9c. Butter is dull, except for new creameries at 34@40c.; Western factory quoted at 15@22c. Cheese is scarce and firmer, but very dull at 12@15¼c. for factory. Eggs are dearer at 23@24c. per doz. The Cincinnati Price Current has printed its compilation of the pork-packing for the past season at seven cities—Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Kansas City, Indianapolis, Milwaukee and Louisville—showing the total to be 3,867,485 hogs, against 4,450,940 last year, a decrease of 583,455 hogs. This is a decrease of 18·37 pounds in the average gross weight, making a deficiency in the manufactured product equivalent to 848,000 hogs, or 19 per cent. The decrease in the yield of lard is 2 4-10 pounds per hog, which is equivalent to 91,000 tierces. The reports of the stocks of provisions show a decrease of 53,500,000 pounds of meats and 108,000 barrels of pork. The stock of lard is about 6,000 tierces greater.

Rio coffee has been dull and declining, and fair cargoes at the close are nominally 11¼c.; options have been active, excited and panicky at a decline of 1c. to 1½c., closing at 9·10c. for March, 9c. for April, 8·95c. for May and June and 9·05c. for July and August; the stocks are largely in excess of those held here at this time last year, while prices are materially higher than then; the failure of three firms has added to the demoralization; mild grades have latterly sold more freely, notably Padang and Caracas, but at lower prices. Tea has been fairly active, but at lower prices; Japan sold to-day at 30c. for April, 31½c.@31⅝c. for May and 32¾@33c. for June. Rice has been quiet and steady. Refining molasses has declined to 22c. for 50 degrees test Cuba; New Orleans has not changed materially and has been quiet. Spices have been quiet, with ginger and cassia lower. Foreign fruits have been generally steady, and raisins have advanced. Raw sugar has been fairly active at declining prices, fair refining closing nominally at 5⅜@5 7-16c., with centrifugal 96 degrees test not over 6¾c.; fair refining has sold freely for July at 5·77½c.; refined has been quiet at 7⅝@7¾c. for powdered, 7¾@7⅞c. for crushed and 7 5-16@7⅜c. for granulated.

There has been a steady but quiet market in all grades and descriptions of tobacco. Kentucky has sold to the extent of 374 hhds., of which 125 hhds. were for export; on the Tobacco Exchange 550 hhds. have been sold. Lugs are quoted 7¼@8c. and leaf at 8¼@11c. Seed leaf ruled steady though by no means active. Sales for the week embrace 1,050 cases, including 500 cases crop 1881, Pennsylvania, 6@10c.; 250 cases crop 1882, Pennsylvania, 5@20c.; 100 cases crop 1882, Wisconsin, Havana seed, 30@35c.; 100 cases crop 1882, New England, 9@25c., and 100 cases crop 1882, Ohio, 9@12½c.; also 500 bales Havana, 80@$1 25, and 200 bales Sumatra, $1 20@$1 60.

The trading in naval stores has been limited, and not until to-day were there signs of weakness; spirits turpentine is now quoted at 34¼@34½c., and strained to good strained rosins $1 47½@$1 52½. In metals nothing of interest occurred, the feeling being almost uniformly easy. Refined petroleum has ruled steady at 8½c. for 70 Abel test, and the sales have aggregated 30,000 bbls. on that basis. Crude oil certificates have been irregular and inclined to weakness, but to-day renewed buying on the "long" side brought out a higher range of values; the opening price was $1 00⅜, highest $1 00⅞, lowest $ 1 00⅛, and closing $1 00¾.

In ocean freight-room berth rates have been irregular and inclined to easiness. Charters, particularly petroleum tonnage, have been well maintained. To-day grain to Liverpool by steam was quoted 1½@1¾d.; flour 7s. 6d. per ton; bacon 10s.@12s. 6d.; cheese 15@20s.; cotton 7-64@⅛d.; grain to London by steam was taken at 3@3¼d.; do. to Avonmouth by steam at 3d.; do. to Antwerp by steam 2d.; do. to Stettin by steam 2s. 6d. per qr.; do. to Hamburg by steam 50 pfennigs; do. to Marseilles by steam 2s. per qr.; crude petroleum to Pasages 3s. 10½d.

There has been a great increase in the activity of the speculation in cotton for future delivery at this market the past week, attended by an important improvement in prices. Saturday showed an advance of a few points, and on Monday there was a very active buying, mainly for April, and said to be by several German houses, who would expect the delivery of the cotton for export. This greatly stimulated speculation and caused an active buying at the South for prompt shipment to this market. Tuesday opened buoyant, but Liverpool did not respond to the advices from this side; consequently there followed a heavy selling movement to realize profits, under which the early advance was not only lost, but the close was at some decline from the latest prices of Tuesday. There was some recovery in the course of Wednesday and Thursday, the reports from Liverpool and Manchester having improved, and the receipts at the ports proving quite small. To-day there was a buoyant opening but active selling under apprehension of free deliveries on April contracts, which caused the early advance to be lost. The close was at an advance for the week of 14@17 points for this crop and 16@17 points for the next. Cotton on the spot has been quiet, but not being freely offered prices are dearer. There was an advance of 1-16c. on Monday and again on Tuesday. To-day there was a further advance of 1-16c., middling uplands closing quiet at 11 1/16.

The total sales for forward delivery for the week are 600,600 bales. For immediate delivery the total sales foot up this week 1,455 bales, including 537 for export, 1,559 for consumption, 2,359 for speculation and — in transit. Of the above, — bales were to arrive. The following are the official quotations for each day of the past week.

THE VISIBLE SUPPLY OF COTTON to-night, as made up by cable and telegraph, is as follows. The Continental stocks, as well as those for Great Britain and the afloat, are this week's returns, and consequently all the European figures are brought down to Thursday evening. But to make the totals the complete figures for to-night (March 21), we add the item of exports from the United States, including in it the exports of Friday only.

The above figures indicate a decrease in the cotton in sight to-night of 212,221 bales as compared with the same date of 1883, an increase of 172,469 bales as compared with the corresponding date of 1882 and a decrease of 5,858 bales as compared with 1881.

NOTE.—In the visible supply table last week India afloat was stated inaccurately; it should have been 225,000 bales instead of 265,000 bales, making a decrease of 116,072 bales as compared with 1883, an increase of 230,129 bales as compared with 1882, and an increase of 100,797 bales as compared with 1881.

AT THE INTERIOR TOWNS the movement—that is the receipts for the week and since Sept. 1, the shipments for the week, and the stocks to-night, and the same items for the corresponding period of 1882-83—is set out in detail in the following statement:

RECEIPTS FROM THE PLANTATIONS.—The following table is prepared for the purpose of indicating the actual movement each week from the plantations. Receipts at the outports are sometimes misleading, as they are made up more largely one year than another at the expense of the interior stocks. We reach, therefore, a safer conclusion through a comparative statement like the following. In reply to frequent inquiries we will add that these figures, of course, do not include overland receipts or Southern consumption; they are simply a statement of the weekly movement from the plantations of that part of the crop which finally reaches the market through the outports.

The above statement shows—1. That the total receipts from the plantations since September 1, 1883, were 4,661,232 bales; in 1882-83 were 5,376,244 bales; in 1881-82 were 4,241,749 bales.

2.—That, although the receipts at the outports the past week were 42,335 bales, the actual movement from plantations was only 17,000 bales, the balance being taken from the stocks at the interior towns. Last year the receipts from the plantations for the same week were 87,855 bales and for 1882 they were 31,141 bales.

It will be seen by the above that the decrease in the amount in sight to-night, as compared with last year, is 710,123 bales, the increase as compared with 1881-82 is 353,129 bales, and the decrease from 1880-81 is 541,552 bales.

WEATHER REPORTS BY TELEGRAPH.—Wet weather has continued to act as a bar to farming operations in a large portion of the South during the week. In Texas, however, (where they have had good rains this week, planting is making good progress, and in a few districts the crop is coming up. The river has again risen at Memphis, but is reported to quickly decline. In the vicinity of Vicksburg and Greenville plantations are overflowed.

Galveston, Texas.—We have had heavy, steady rains throughout the State on two days, which have been very beneficial. The rainfall here reached three inches and twenty-four hundredths. The thermometer has averaged 60, ranging from 51 to 69.

Indianola, Texas.—It has rained very heavily on four days of the week, but hardly enough. The rainfall reached one inch and fifty-three hundredths. Corn is generally up and thriving; there is also some cotton up, and planting is making good progress. Average thermometer 60, highest 76 and lowest 51.

Palestine, Texas.—We have had very welcome rain on two days of the week, the rainfall reaching two inches and twenty two hundredths. Corn and cotton planting make good progress, and farmers are encouraged. The thermometer has averaged 57, the highest being 72 and the lowest 41.

New Orleans, Louisiana.—It has rained on three days of the week, the rainfall reaching three inches and forty-nine hundredths. The thermometer has averaged 62.

Shreveport, Louisiana.—We had heavy rain on Monday, and the remainder of the week has been clear. The rainfall reached one inch and eighty nine hundredths. Roads are in fair condition. The thermometer has ranged from 44 to 71.

Vicksburg, Mississippi.—It was showery on three days during the early part of the week, but the latter portion has been clear and pleasant. The rainfall reached two inches and thirty-three hundredths. The planting season is very backward. The river is now forty-eight feet, three inches, above low water mark; several levees are breaking below here. The thermometer has ranged from 41 to 72.

Meridian, Mississippi.—Telegram not received.

Greenville, Mississippi.—It has rained on one day of the week, the rainfall reaching one inch and twenty-three hundredths. Planters in overflowed districts are discouraged by the prospect of continued high water. Average thermometer 49, highest 79 and lowest 40.

Columbus, Mississippi.—We have had rain on two days of the week, but at the close there is a favorable change in the weather. The rainfall reached one inch and eighty-seven hundredths.

Little Rock, Arkansas.—The weather has been much more settled and spring-like during the week. It has been cloudy, with light showers, on three days, the rainfall reaching thirty-five hundredths of an inch. The thermometer has ranged from 38 to 65, averaging 52.

Pine Bluff, Arkansas.—It has rained on one day of the week, and the balance of the week has been pleasant. The rainfall reached fifteen hundredths of an inch. The thermometer has averaged 57, ranging from 40 to 68. Last week it rained on two days, and the rainfall reached one inch and thirty hundredths. The thermometer averaged 45, and ranged from 30 to 79.

Fort Smith, Arkansas.—Telegram not received.

Helena, Arkansas.—It has rained on two days of the week, and the remainder of the week has been pleasant. The rainfall reached thirty-one hundredths of an inch. The thermometer has averaged 53, the highest being 64, and the lowest 40.

Newport, Arkansas.—Telegram not received.

The thermometer has averaged 54, the highest being 66 and the lowest 36.

The following statement we have also received by telegraph, showing the height of the rivers at the points named at 5 o'clock March 20, 1884, and March 22, 1883.

New Orleans reported below high-water mark of 1871 until Sept. 9, 1871, when the zero of gauge was changed to high-water mark of April 15 and 16, 1874, which is 6-10ths of a foot above 1871, or 16 feet above low-water mark at that point.

INDIA COTTON MOVEMENT FROM ALL PORTS.—We have re-arranged our India service so as to make our reports more detailed and at the same time more accurate. We had found it impossible to keep out of our figures, as cabled to us for the ports other than Bombay, cargoes which proved only to be shipments from one India port to another. The plan now followed relieves us from the danger of this inaccuracy and keeps the totals correct. We first give the Bombay statemen for the week and year, bringing the figures down to March 20

| Year | Shipments this week. | | | Shipments since Jan. 1. | | | Receipts. | |

According to the foregoing, Bombay appears to show a decrease compared with last year in the week's receipts of 23,000 bales, and an increase in shipments of 9,000 bales, and the shipments since January 1 show a decrease of 41,000 bales. The movement at Calcutta, Madras and other India ports for the last reported week and since the 1st of January, for two years, has been as follows. "Other ports" cover Ceylon, Tuticorin, Kurrachee and Coconada.

| 1883 | 1,500 | ..... | 1,500 | 55,000 | 12,000 | 67,000 |

EXPORTS TO EUROPE FROM ALL INDIA.

This last statement affords a very interesting comparison of the total movement for the three years at all India ports.

ALEXANDRIA RECEIPTS AND SHIPMENTS.—Through arrangements we have made with Messrs. Davies, Benachi & Co., of Liverpool and Alexandria, we now receive a weekly cable of the movements of cotton at Alexandria, Egypt. This statement shows that the receipts for the week ending March 19 were 15,000 cantars and the shipments to all Europe 4,000 bales.

A NEW NEWSPAPER FOR THE SOUTH.—Mr. R. Dundas Chater, of 187 Pearl Street, has just issued the first number of "The Naval Stores Market Reporter," devoted exclusively to Southern interests. Mr. Chater has for twelve years issued a weekly circular on naval stores which has been an authority on that subject throughout the country, and now he has begun the publication of this paper to take the place of the circular, only covering a wider field. He proposes to give the latest and fullest intelligence relative to naval stores from all parts of the world, including values, receipts, sales and stocks of spirits turpentine and rosin in all the American and European markets. We trust this new venture will be abundantly successful, and have no doubt it will deserve it.

JUTE BUTTS, BAGGING, &c.—The market continues very steady, but business continues to be of a jobbing character, only a few round parcels having found buyers. Sellers are not forcing goods, however, as a good demand is expected shortly, and we do not hear of any lots offering below 9½c. for 1½ lb., 10c. for 1¾ lb., 10¾c. for 2 lb. and 11½c. for standard grades. Butts are still rather quiet, and, beyond a few orders for present wants, we do not hear of any business. A few inquiries are reported for parcels to arrive, but we did not learn that any transactions had been made. Prices are somewhat easier, and 2⅜@2½c. are the figures for paper grades, while bagging qualites are held at 2¾@2⅞c.

COMPARATIVE PORT RECEIPTS AND DAILY CROP MOVEMENT.—A comparison of the port movement by weeks is not accurate, as the weeks in different years do not end on the same day of the month. We have consequently added to our other standing tables a daily and monthly statement, that the reader may constantly have before him the data for seeing the exact relative movement for the years named. The movement each month since September 1, 1883, has been as follows.

| Per'tage of tot. port receipts Feb. 29... | 80·78 | 85·45 | 78·28 | 84·28 | 86·27 | |

This statement shows that up to Feb. 29 the receipts at the ports this year were 562,440 bales less than in 1882, and 320,063 bales more than at the same time in 1881. By adding to the above totals to Feb. 29 the daily receipts since that time, we shall be able to reach an exact comparison of the movement for the different years.

This statement shows that the receipts since Sept. 1 up to to-night are now 673,999 bales less than they were to the same day of the month in 1883 and 322,377 bales more than they were to the same day of the month in 1882. We add to the table the percentages of total port receipts which had been received to March 21 in each of the years named.

THE EXPORTS OF COTTON from New York this week show a decrease, as compared with last week, the total reaching 8,028 bales, against 10,015 bales last week. Below we give our usual table, showing the exports of cotton from New York, and their direction, for each of the last four weeks; also the total exports and directions since September 1, 1883, and in the last column the total for the same period of the previous year.

WYOMING, steamer (Br.), Douglass, at New York, March 13, from Liverpool, on March 8, lat. 43, lon. 40, passed a bale of cotton.

DIANA, ship (Br.), before reported, from New Orleans for Liverpool, which put into Bermuda in distress, had discharged 1,750 bales of cotton on March 13, but the arrival of a special agent from owners and underwriters had stopped any further discharge. ## BREADSTUFFS.

Flour has been quiet and depressed, owing partly to the slowness of trade, and partly to the reduction in freight rates hither from the West. Winter wheat flour of high grade has continued in moderate supply, but some of the lower grades are in ample supply. The receipts, however, have been mainly of spring wheat flour. City mills and Southern flour sell rather the most readily, though the dulness of all grades differs only in degree. To-day the market was dull and generally weak.

Wheat has been quiet for export but fairly active on speculation. Prices have declined, mainly owing to the favorable weather at the West, where the prospects seem to point to an early Spring seeding. Not a little has been sold in Chicago on stop orders, and here at times there has also been free selling. May is the favorite option here among speculators, and recently a bull movement was started in that month, but it is not at all aggressive now. The shorts have covered steadily as prices fell, or there would have been a much greater decline. The export trading has been comparatively unimportant here, though the market has not been much above the limits of exporters in some cases. In Chicago there has been an increased foreign business in Spring wheat, exporters being favored by low rail freight rates eastward, and exceptionally favorable terms on through bills of lading. To-day there was a moderate trade here at a fractional decline. English buyers are indifferent, as they claim there is a prospect of large supplies from Russia. No. 2 red wheat closed at $1 10¼ in elevator, $1 07⅞ for March, $1 08¼ for April, $1 10⅛ for May, and $1 12⅛ for June, these prices being ¼ to 1c. lower than the figures of a week ago, the later months showing the greatest depression.

Indian corn has been only moderately active on speculation and very quiet for export. Prices have fallen in sympathy with the decline in wheat, but corn has not followed the latter cereal so closely as at times in the past. Still, the speculative trading, both here and at Chicago, has been without animation, and only a better demand at the latter market for the lower grades, which are becoming scarce, prevented a more marked decline there; though somewhat smaller receipts have likewise served to break the force of the downward movement in wheat. To-day there was a moderate trade here at a slight decline. White and yellow descriptions are neglected and to a great extent nominal. No. 2 mixed closed weak at 61c. for March, 61⅜c. for April, 62⅝c. for May, 63⅝c. for June and 65c. for July. These prices are ¾c. to 1c. lower than those of a week ago.

Rye and barley have sold moderately at prices showing no marked change. Oats have been fairly active only, and have declined slightly; No. 2 mixed closed at 40c. for April, 40⅝c. for May and 40¾c. for June, showing a decline of ⅛c. for the week. The trading toward the close was more active.

The following statement, prepared by the Bureau of Statistics, will show the exports of domestic breadstuffs from the undermentioned customs districts, during the month of February, 1884, and for the eight months ended the same, as compared with the corresponding months of the previous year:

THE DRY GOODS TRADE.

The past week has developed very little change in the general condition of the dry goods trade. Wholesale buyers continued to operate lightly, and in accordance with positive wants, and a comparatively small business was consequently done by domestic commission houses and importers. There was at times a moderately good trade in jobbing circles, but the weather was capricious, and there were so many quiet intervals that a much smaller aggregate distribution of seasonable goods was made by jobbers than has usually been the case at the corresponding period in former years. It has become apparent that the outlook for a really good spring trade is not encouraging among distributers and they are therefore making their early purchases with unusual caution, but it is by no means improbable that the situation will change for the better within the next few weeks, if the demand for consumption should start up briskly. Values are without material change, but a steady advance in cotton has imparted more firmness to some kinds of manufactured goods in first hands, and a few descriptions have slightly appreciated.

Domestic Cotton Goods.—The export movement in cotton goods was unusually large, 9,243 packages having been shipped from this port, including 7,779 packages to Central America, 341 to Santo Domingo, 314 to U. S. of Colombia, 217 to Venezuela, 196 to Great Britain, 75 to Newfoundland, &c. There was a continuation of the light and unsatisfactory demand for cotton goods lately reported by manufacturers' agents, and the jobbing trade was somewhat disappointing. Brown sheetings were slow of sale, but the advance in cotton has strengthened prices in first hands, and Pepperell fine brown sheetings were advanced ¼c. per yard by agents. Bleached goods, and most kinds of colored cottons, ruled quiet, but a fair business was done in wide sheetings and corset jeans at steady prices. Print cloths were in fair demand and dearer in sympathy with cotton, closing at 3 7-16c. for 64x64s and 3c. bid for 56x60s. Prints were in light and irregular demand by wholesale buyers, but a fair distribution of both prints and ginghams was made by jobbers, and wide printed cottons, lawns and piques were in fair request.

Domestic Woolen Goods.—The demand for men's-wear woolens has not realized the expectations of holders. There was a fair business in strictly desirable styles of all-wool and cotton-warp cassimeres, but indifferent makes were almost neglected. Worsted coatings and suitings were taken in moderate quantities to a fair aggregate amount, as were choice makes of overcoatings; but there was less spirit in the demand by clothiers than is usually seen at this stage of the season. Stocks of the above goods are not excessive, and the best makes are steadily held at opening quotations. Satinets (though in fair demand) were less active than of late, and a limited business in Kentucky jeans was reported by agents. Cloakings were fairly active in some quarters (owing to exceptionally low prices), but the general demand was moderate, and there was only a limited call for ladies cloths, Jersey cloths and stockinettes, while all wool and worsted dress fabrics were in fair request, as were shawls and carpets.

Foreign Dry Goods have ruled quiet in importers' hands, and only moderate sales were effected by jobbers. Fancy summer silks and fine black and colored silks were in fair request, as were a few specialties in fancy dress goods; but low-grade silks and staple dress fabrics were lightly dealt in. White goods, laces and embroideries met with considerable attention, but linen goods were slow of sale, as were most kinds of men's-wear woolens.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION.

The prevailing feeling in commercial and financial circles shows some improvement this week. There has been no material increase in Wall Street transactions and no marked change in any department of business. But the reports from the winter-wheat districts are, so far as they go, favorable, while the break in the speculation at Chicago gives promise that we shall market what we produce. Our unfortunate corner in wheat has cultivated other sources of supply, and now we are forced to sell very low to crowd them out again. And if the break in prices this week in Chicago means an acceptance of the situation which the three years' speculation in breadstuffs has brought us to, it is the most hopeful sign which has appeared for many a month.

Much has been said of India's competition in foreign wheat markets, and it is a feature which is constantly increasing in seriousness so long as we prevent our surplus going into consumption; but an abundant harvest here with a determination to sell at what our produce will fetch, changes the aspect. India's contribution to the world's supply has been and is being added to largely through a combination of circumstances which may never again occur, a very material factor being the small quota America has contributed for three years. Just so the withholding of our cotton supply through our civil war gave undue prominence to India's cotton production; with peace the old relations were quickly restored. In the present case there have been other favoring conditions. India has had three and even more good crops, having of late proved untrue to her proverbial characteristic for droughts. But her chief ally, and without which all others would have been much less effective, has been the ruinous rates for ocean freights which have prevailed. These are special and temporary, induced by the inactivity in business the world over, but only made possible through a too rapid construction of iron steamships during the past three years. As ship-building has fallen off, any revival of business will quickly re-adjust the relation of things. India owes her present export in part also, to a reduction by the Government of the rates for freight on her railroads. According to Mr. Cross, in his Budget speech, the net earnings of the railroads for last year only showed 4·6 per cent on the capital invested. That does not appear to leave much room for lower freight rates, or much inducement for capital to go into new enterprises. As business principles must in the end prevail, this is an important factor in the question of increasing India's exports of wheat. For these and for other reasons we have not time to enlarge upon connected with the mode of production and carriage, we do not look on the supply of wheat from that quarter with any great solicitude, if only our crops are good and our speculators will leave the market alone.

We were led into an error last week respecting the relative prices of grain prevailing in Chicago and New York by taking as a basis for comparison the quotation in the two markets for red winter wheat. Our conclusion was that those prices showed, prior to the marking down of trunk line rates, only 9 cents difference, and consequently that the cut rate before prevailing must have been about 15 cents, and hence the reduction would not stimulate the grain movement eastward. This conclusion was wrong, because the basis of comparison was wrong. A calculation of this kind is very difficult to make, it being embarrassed by several important considerations. Of course, first, there are the daily fluctuations in values. But the main difficulty arises from the difference in grades and in the quality of the same grade of wheat at different points. Chicago is regarded as the chief wheat centre of the West, and yet the leading grade of wheat there is No. 2 spring, while here it is No. 2 red winter, with a wide and varying difference from year to year in their relative values. Our supplies of red winter wheat come mainly from St. Louis, Detroit, Toledo, and some interior markets. The grade of No. 2 at St. Louis represents a better quality than No. 2 in this market; while at Toledo the reverse is true, the No. 2 of that market being not so good as our No. 2. We have had very little spring wheat in this market this season, and it has been very difficult to fix a price for it; but latterly considerable sales to arrive have been made, and there is a prospect of soon having the grade of No. 2 Chicago spring regularly quoted. The sections growing spring wheat were visited with very bad weather at the time for harvesting last year, and its quality was thus impaired. Its value, therefore, which for some years has been equal to, or even greater, than winter wheat, is now much less.

It seemed desirable to state these facts in view of the large eastward movement of grain which is reported to be now in progress and which the decline in freight rates as well as the break in the speculation has served to increase. Very few bills made against grain exports have, however, as yet appeared, for the reason probably that the decline in the price of the staple is so recent and values still so unsettled as to discourage liberal purchases for shipment. But it is expected that the low values will soon change this, unless speculators should again interfere with the natural course of the market and carry it beyond the views of foreign dealers. It is of the highest importance in the interest of the country's future position as a contributor to the world's supply of grain that we should let our present surplus go. It is well known that there has been a large crop raised in Australia, and that India's production promises well, while Russia has still a considerable portion of her old stock left. The early condition in Europe is also excellent. So, if we should have a good year in America, and there is no set back in Europe, it would not be surprising were we to see the lowest prices for wheat prevailing the coming summer that have existed for many a year. Is not that a fair statement of the outlook at the moment?

Perhaps the prospect of an increased amount of grain bills has had something to do with the easier market for foreign exchange the last few days. But the main cause for the dulness is the negotiation in Europe of about $2,000,000 of the Canada Southern $6,000,000 5 per cent loan, and the circumstance that money in the open market at London is now down to 2¼ per cent, so that there is no inquiry for the transfer of capital. As a result, there is very little urgency in the demand for bills, but no great abundance in the supply. Bankers do not look for any material decline in rates, but it will be satisfactory if they are maintained sufficiently below the gold-exporting point to prevent shipments of the metal. Breadstuffs do not make exchange rapidly, especially at the low prices now ruling, and the higher values for cotton, it is not unlikely, will for a time check the shipment of the remnant of that crop. The exports of gold this week (not including $377,503 13 reported by us last Saturday) have been $558,325 71 by the Bothnia, $302,703 50 by the Fulda, $202,551 63 by the Canada, $355,774 34 by the Celtic, and, as we write, $801,616 20 have been put on board the Oregon, which sails to-day, or a total of $2,220,971 38.

There has been no special feature in the stock market this week, though the tendency has generally been towards lower prices. Reports of a further cut in eastbound grain rates, which, however, were not confirmed, aided in unsettling the trunk-line stocks on Monday and in the afternoon New York Central was especially influenced by a rumor that an issue of $20,000,000 per cent terminal betterment bonds had been decided upon by the directors. This was officially and explicitly denied the next morning and consequently the market for the Vanderbilts opened strong, favorably influencing the whole list. The improvement did not long continue, the tone being irregular and inclined to be heavy in the afternoon. On Wednesday the coal shares were affected by reports that the miners in the anthracite region were preparing to resist any further reduction in their wages and to protest against frequent and brief suspensions in production, preferring prolonged periods of interruption to work. The trunk-line stocks were also depressed by the announcement of a reduction in the rate on pig lead and bullion base, indicating that the business of the roads was still demoralized by cuts. In the afternoon favorable news regarding the progress of the negotiations for the settlement of the differences between the Union Pacific and the Quincy aided in turning the market upward, and it closed strong. On Thursday prices were higher for the first hour, after which there was an unsettled feeling, and in the afternoon the tone was generally weak, with a decline in Erie to the lowest point since January, 1879, as the feature. Yesterday business was very dull, but the trunk-line properties were kept pretty steady by reports of a meeting of trunk-line managers, while on the other hand the coal shares manifested weakness and declined.

With respect to the report of the contemplated issue of 20 million bonds by the New York Central, it may be said that while the statement is positively denied, the street impression is that it has some foundation. There is nothing in the last annual report to indicate any floating debt of such a character as to call for the issue of bonds. But it is known that outlays for betterments have now about exhausted the surplus in the Treasury of the 40 million issue of bonds, and it is not unreasonable to assume that a new issue will in some form be put out to supply the yearly requirements. All large corporations seem to need a considerable amount of money yearly for betterments and the acquisition of new property. The cause for the decline in Erie may be found in the statement of earnings for January and for the four months ended January 31, which we have analyzed in another column.

But it is not the Erie alone which shows a loss in earnings. That is true in fact of no one road or section, but applies to nearly all roads and the entire country. The course of business on the trunk lines is well indicated not only in the return of the Erie, showing net of $85,773 in January this year, against $304,577 last year, but also in the report of the Pennsylvania, showing a loss on all lines operated of $896,918 for the first two months of the year, and in the weekly traffic figures of the Grand Trunk of Canada, which for March thus far have averaged a loss of $40,000 per week. As reflecting the business of Northwestern roads, we have the St. Paul, recording a falling off of $204,500 for the first three weeks of March, the Northwest a decrease of $169,400 in the same period, the St. Paul & Omaha a decrease of $2,000, the St. Paul & Duluth a decrease of $11,000, while the Burlington Cedar Rapids & Northern lost $16,500 during the first two weeks. As indicating the business of Western lines east of the Mississippi, we have the Illinois Central, which has fallen $93,500 behind in the three weeks, and the Chicago & Eastern Illinois, the Evansville & Terre Haute, the Cleveland

Akron & Columbus, the Cincinnati Indianapolis St. Louis & Chicago, and the Indianapolis Bloomington & Western, all of which report a loss. As illustrating how the Gould Southwestern system is faring, we have the absence of all returns for the same, which would not be the case if the exhibit were favorable. About the only lines that are doing better than a year ago, are the roads in the South unaffected by the diminished yield of cotton, such as the Chesapeake & Ohio, the Norfolk & Western, and the Louisville & Nashville, and also the same class of roads in the Southwest, more particularly the St. Louis & San Francisco, as well as the lines connecting with the Southwest, like the Chicago & Alton, which still continues its upward course. There are also a few minor roads in Michigan and Wisconsin that report gains, chief among them being the Flint & Pere Marquette and the Milwaukee Lake Shore & Western.

Pennsylvania's exhibit for February, although, as stated, showing a smaller net than a year ago, is not quite so unfavorable as that for January. The depression in the coal and iron trades, and of manufacturing industries generally, the unsettled rates on through business and the small volume of that business, together with floods and other adverse circumstances, all combined to render results unsatisfactory. It is to be noted, though, that the lines east of Pittsburg and Erie make a relatively better showing than the lines west of those points. The same feature has been observed before, and the reason for it is, that on the Eastern Division there is a steadily increasing amount of local business, while on the Western system local traffic is yet in the early stages of development, and the multiplication of new roads in that section, contemporaneously with a succession of poor crops, has operated to reduce rates and diminish profits. In the following table we give a summary of the company's operations both for February and the two months ended February 29, for six years. The figures cover in the case of gross and net earnings only the Eastern lines, the result on the Western lines (which is reported as so much loss or gain to the Pennsylvania Railroad) being appended at the end, to show the outcome on the whole system of roads.

* Surplus. † Deficit.

This table develops the same fact commented on (in another column) in the case of the Erie figures, namely, that 1884 shows results not materially different from 1882, when the business of the trunk lines underwent a heavy diminution because of the failure of the previous season's crops and the war of rates that had been in progress. Thus after allowing for the loss on the Western lines, there is a balance of net earnings for February this year of $974,528, while in 1882 the balance was about the same amount, or $979,424. So also the total for the two months makes a similar showing. Still, it is a fact that the present year's figures fall below those of any other year given, while compared with 1883 the company has lost $263,630 for February and $896,918 for January and February combined. On the other hand, it is satisfactory to note that the decrease for February was very much smaller than in January. A feature of some encouragement for the future is also found in the item of expenses, which in recent years has undergone such decided augmentation. As compared with 1879, gross earnings (for January and February) have risen almost two million dollars, yet only about $98,000 of this amount has gone to swell net, all the rest being absorbed by increased expenses. If the present depression in business should continue, it is not unlikely that some reduction in expenses will be effected, which the lower price of materials, fuel, &c., would certainly permit. At any rate, that is a possibility bearing upon the future which should not be overlooked.

The money market has been without feature this week, with a good supply and only a moderate inquiry. The only change to note at interior points is a fall to par in the rate of exchange at Chicago on New York, reflecting the more liberal movement of grain to the seaboard cities, and a hardening in the rate for money at Louisville caused by the banks in that city strengthening their position in view of the defeat of the whiskey extension bill. The Courier-Journal of Monday said in relation to this measure: "If the result is adverse, the additional requirements upon the banks will be three times as great in some cases as the original loan. It is not doubted that the loan can be subdivided and carried, but in doing so necessarily a large percentage of the loan fund will be diverted from the general market." Since then the bill has been defeated, and it is now reasonable to look for more or less permanent fixing of funds by banks having Louisville as a centre. The following statement, made up from returns collected by us, exhibits the week's receipts and shipments of gold and currency by the New York banks.

The above shows the actual changes in the bank holdings of gold and currency caused by this movement to and from the interior. In addition to that movement, the banks have lost $1,500,000 through the operations of the Sub-Treasury and about $2,000,000 more by exports of gold. Adding these items to the above, we have the following, which should indicate the total loss to the New York Clearing House banks of gold and currency for the week covered by the bank statement to be issued to-day.

The Bank of England return show a decrease of £229,000 bullion for the week. This represents £137,000 received from abroad and £366,000 sent to the interior. The Bank of France gained 6,650,000 francs gold and 110,000 francs silver, and the increase by the Bank of Germany was 860,000 marks. The following indicates the amount of bullion in the principal European banks this week and at the corresponding date last year.

BANK EXAMINERS AND THE PACIFIC BANK OF BOSTON.

A Washington dispatch reports that the Banking and Currency Committee has decided to make no further investigation into the matter of the Pacific Bank failure. This determination is, we should judge, a wise one. Following up such charges against Comptroller Knox is not likely to prove a profitable expenditure of time. He has held his office for about twenty years, and has made a record for intelligent, conscientious work which would require very conclusive evidence to disturb.

It is not surprising that the Pacific Bank stockholder should feel aggrieved. We all feel aggrieved when we lose in any venture; it is not only the loss, but the reflection such loss casts upon our cleverness, that hurts us, and to shift the charge of negligence from ourselves to some one else is in everyway a relief. Certainly Mr. Knox was not to blame for the acts of a president whom the directors elected, nor for the negligence of directors the stockholders elected, nor for the kind of loans the latter suffered the former to put the depositors' money into, nor for the plan of reorganization, nor for the assessment on the stock which was made in January 1882 at a meeting of stockholders, nor for the paper signed by the directors in March 1882 stating that the bank was in condition to resume business. These affairs were all within the especial knowledge, control and province of the bank, its officers and stockholders, and should have been permitted or done with a sense of official and personal responsibility, and not on any presumption that the Comptroller or examiner was running the bank.

It seems to us there can be no difference of opinion as to the responsibility and blame in the particulars mentioned. But there is more reason in the claim put forward that the bank being in operation and the loans being made, the Comptroller through his examiner should be acquainted with their nature and know and force a cure of any irregularities. This view of the law is, we have little doubt, held by the majority of bank stockholders and by numerous bank directors. The latter in many cases look upon the examiner's certificate as positive and final evidence of not only the bank's solvency but of its entire conformity to bank usages in all particulars and have little care to go back of it. They argue that the system is a mere encumbrance unless confidence can be placed in the work when done. The officer is presumed to be an expert; he is given by law the complete control of the bank for the examination; everything opens at his command and the bank pays him for his services. Now what is all this intended for? The Comptroller says plainly that he himself is not in the eye of the law "to "stand sponsor for the solvency of national banks or the "right action of their board of directors," and we must infer from the further remarks the Comptroller makes that he does not think the examiner holds that position either. If this be so, what can Congress be supposed to have meant in instituting these examinations?

Without for the moment answering that question, we think it will have to be admitted that the position Mr. Knox takes in this matter is a difficult one to assail. It was evidently not the intent of the law maker, through any of the provisions of the act to do away with bank officers or directors, or to lessen in any degree their duties or responsibilities. In fact the law is perhaps unusually clear and emphatic on the points affecting the relations of such officers to the bank. Section 5,145 states that the affairs of each association shall be managed by directors. Section 5,147 even requires the director to take an oath that he will so far as the duty devolves on him diligently and honestly administer the affairs of the association, and that he will not knowingly violate or permit to be violated any of the provisions of the law. And section 5,136 grants the power to make by-laws regulating the manner in which the general business of the association shall be conducted, evidently contemplating that all known devices and arrangements for effecting loans, supervising and checking the acts of officers and examining the condition of the bank, shall prevail in associations formed under the national law.

This intent not to transfer to the Comptroller or examiner any of the duties or responsibilities of the director, is further evident from the fact that under the provisions of the act only a little time can be given to an examination of each bank. There are about two thousand six hundred banks with five or more directors to each, but only eighteen examiners for the whole country and one Comptroller. No one contends that the Comptroller could personally acquaint himself with the condition of every association. Almost equally impossible would it be for the examiners to do it. They have each an average of 145 banks to examine. The law probably contemplates the making of but one visit in the twelve months unless there is some special need, and it is hardly necessary to say that one visit, even if long enough to do thorough work, is wholly insufficient for acquiring any intimate acquaintance with a bank's business. Then only twenty to seventy-five dollars (according to capital) is paid the examiner, outside of the redemption cities; a sum which precludes the idea of a thorough inspection of an association's accounts, securities, transactions, and methods of business. Take, for example, a bank of medium size, say of two hundred thousand dollars capital and five hundred thousand dollars deposits, the visitorial fee fixed by statute in such a case being twenty-fifty dollars, which covers everything, traveling expenses, &c.; the examiner has perhaps a day and a half for his work. Do not such conditions force the officer to take wholly on trust many of the facts that make up his balance sheet? And if the manager is a crafty knave, so crafty that no one of the directors who are near him every week or oftener has even suspected him, what chance has the examiner in his one or two days' work to uncover his tricks? Had the officer a suspicion to base an inquiry upon, his opportunity would be better. But if the directors have no suspicion, and he receives none, he must enter the bank and treat those in charge as if they were honest men, and take their word for much he has not the time to investigate.

It may be said that the Comptroller is not limited by law to eighteen examiners. That is true if the Secretary of the Treasury sees fit to appoint more, but the compensation is limited and that virtually limits the number, unless the frequency of the visits is increased—a policy which would be an unbearable interference with the business of the large body of well-managed banks, and which would have as its only excuse the possibility of catching a thief at very infrequent intervals. Moreover, even if there were two or three times as many examiners as now and the visits were increased in proportion, the guaranty expected could not be given. If a dozen directors, with daily visitorial powers and constant intercourse, cannot detect irregularities, it is folly to expect an examiner by a visit made once, twice or three times a year to find out secrets a clever rogue is working to conceal. As the Comptroller very justly remarked on a previous occasion "If the teller is making false entries and daily abstracting the funds of the bank; if the bookkeeper is keeping false accounts and rendering untrue statements; if the cashier is placing forged paper among the bills receivable and upon the register book and transmitting such paper to distant places where it purports to be payable, it is not possible for an examiner in a day or two to unravel this evil work."

What advantage, then, it may well be asked, is gained through the examiner? We have long been in doubt whether there was any sufficient good accomplished to compensate for the harm done. The very impression which prevails (and which always prevails when the Government, State or National, provides for supervision of any department of business) that the stockholder and director are secured, and the soundness of the institution tested, by those examinations, does very great harm. It caused no little loss in this Pacific bank case. New money would not have gone into the suspended association if the people had not looked upon the government officers, in whose hands the association then virtually was, as endorsing the movement, and thus holding out a quasi promise that with the assistance given it, the Bank would be able to weather the storm. It was evidently supposed that the examiner understood the situation fully and that no step was taken without his approval. Each innocent investor looked to him under the idea that the government undertook to protect, and now he complains on finding out that it does not and cannot protect. In fact, in this case the Government appears to the trusting stockholder more in the shape of a wolf disguised as a benefactor, for at the moment when everything was at the point of adjustment, the statutory three months' limit expired, and the bank suddenly found itself in the hands of a receiver!

The claimed benefits of the present system were briefly referred to in the closing paragraph of our article of last week on "Loans and Discounts of our Banks," and we have not left ourselves room enough to state them more in detail. They may be summed up by saying that associations sometimes meet with losses which they do not disclose until a visit of the bank examiner brings them to light, and then, on notice from the Comptroller, and without the knowledge of the general public, they make good their impaired capital. Whether the indicated harm done by the inquisitorial proceeding does not far overbalance this claimed benefit we leave the public to judge. Of course if the system of examinations is dispensed with, a fuller report as to loans and discounts, as suggested by "A. W. S." last week, would be desirable. Though even then it might be questionable whether publication of the details would be wise. At present the Comptroller requires for his own inspection each time he makes a call for returns (that is, five times a year), a supplementary statement or schedule subdividing this item of loans and discounts as follows:—

I. On paper, with two or more individual or firm names.
II. On single-name paper without other security.
III. On mortgages and other real estate security.
IV. On U. S. bonds (demand loans).
V. On other stocks, bonds, &c. (demand loans).
VI. All other loans.
VII. Bad debts, as defined in section 5,204 Revised Statutes.
VIII. Other suspended and over-due paper.
IX. Liabilities of Directors as payers.

Whether something of this kind for the private inspection of the Comptroller, is not sufficient and preferable to the misleading system which now gives the appearance of protection but does not protect, is a good subject for Congressional inquiry.

ERIE'S CURRENT EARNINGS.

In view of the depression in the company's securities, the statement of the Erie Railroad for the month of January, issued Wednesday, has special interest. The statement is unfavorable, as it was expected to be; but for that reason the company's officials are to be commended for having made it public. Never were reports of earnings and expenses more carefully scrutinized than at the present moment, and the managers not only of the Erie, but of the Pennsylvania, the Philadelphia & Reading and the Union Pacific—all of these companies passing through a period of bad business—are deserving of great credit in not yielding to the impulse (natural under the circumstances) to conceal results, but frankly submitting them and letting stockholders know the true state of affairs. Such a policy is not only sure to win public confidence, but is in the best interests of the properties themselves, since it substitutes actual returns for uncertainty, the latter always being the more mischievous.

The company gives two separate statements this time. The first embraces in the earnings, in 1884, 68 per cent of the receipts of the New York Pennsylvania & Ohio road (the other 32 per cent being taken out, because that represents the rental the Erie is obliged to pay over to the lessor under the terms of the lease) and in the expenses those of the leased road in full. The second presents the figures on the Erie alone, regardless of the accounts of the Pennsylvania & Ohio. The first of course reflects, in the item of net earnings, the actual results to the Erie on all operations, and the comparison in that respect with the previous year is correct, as showing the change from that year; but the second statement enables us to see the course of gross earnings as well (which before was not possible) and also by means of a little figuring to determine whether the falling off in net this year is the outgrowth of less favorable results on the Erie proper, or is due simply to a loss in operating the leased road, as the combined operations of the two lines leave only $85,773 net for January, 1884, against $304,577 in the same month of 1883. Further, these net earnings in 1884 amount to less than 6 per cent of the gross (the latter being stated as $1,567,211), so the question arises whether January in any other recent year has made an equally unsatisfactory return, or whether the present year is exceptional in that respect. To throw light on these points, we have prepared and give below the figures not only for January, but also the four months of the fiscal year to the end of January, for 1884, 1883, 1882, 1881 and 1880. The figures relate to the Erie proper in all the years, but we have added a line to show how the lease of the Pennsylvania & Ohio is affecting results in 1884. It will be found that this is the most intelligent as well as clearest way of comparing with past years.

| | $ | $ | $ | $ | $ |
| Gross earnings | 1,272,331 | 1,524,889 | 1,318,997 | 1,443,437 | 1,296,381 |
| Net earnings | 174,074 | 304,577 | 182,783 | 305,449 | 349,816 |
| Loss on N.Y.P.& O.lease | 88,301 | ..... | ..... | ..... | ..... |
| | 85,773 | 304,577 | 182,783 | 305,449 | 349,816 |
| Oct. 1 to Feb. 1. | | | | | |
| Gross earnings | 6,491,896 | 6,854,106 | 6,420,540 | 6,867,473 | 5,924,158 |
| Operating expenses | 4,547,838 | 4,707,256 | 4,591,115 | 4,432,731 | 3,950,654 |
| Net earnings | 1,947,058 | 2,146,850 | 1,829,425 | 2,434,742 | 1,973,504 |
| Loss on N.Y.P.& O. lease | 88,496 | ..... | ..... | ..... | ..... |

We thus see that while both gross and net earnings are smaller than in any other year, the month in 1884 was not unlike that in 1882, after the short crop of 1881. Except for the Pennsylvania & Ohio lease the net this year would be $174,074, or only $8,700 less than in the year mentioned. But the loss of $88,301 on that lease reduces them to $85,773. However, it cannot be gainsaid that in January, 1882, the net were exceptionally small, for in 1880, in 1881, and also in 1883, the total was in each case above $300,000. For the period from Oct. 1 to Feb. 1—four months of the company's fiscal year—the comparison is more favorable. Disregarding the leased line, gross earnings record no very great falling off, while net are above those of 1882 and close to those of 1880, though there is a decline of about $200,000 as compared with 1883, and of nearly $500,000 as compared with the extraordinarily large total of 1881. Even deducting the loss on the Pennsylvania & Ohio lease does not alter this very materially, and we have gone back thus far in the comparison to make it clear that whatever the outcome of future months may be, for the four months thus far elapsed the exhibit is not in any way alarming.

Hitherto there has been no way of finding out whether the working of the Pennsylvania & Ohio was proving profitable or unprofitable to the lessee. The two statements furnished by the company have enabled us to show the net result of the lease, as given in the table above, and from the same statements we have been able to make up the following detailed account of the leased road's operations.

| New York Pennsylvania & Ohio— | $ | $ |
| Gross earnings | 433,646 | 2,188,251 |
| Operating expenses | 383,180 | 1,576,507 |
| Net earnings | 50,466 | 611,744 |
| Rental (32 p. c. of gross earnings) | 138,767 | 700,240 |
| Loss to Erie | 88,301 | 88,496 |

Thus there is a loss of $88,301 for the month of January, as already stated. But the loss for the four months is only a trifle more, from which it follows that in the other three months the road was operated without loss. The loss in January, it should be noted, was made in the face of the improved connections that the road ad through the opening of the Chicago & Atlantic, which uses the Pennsylvania & Ohio as the connecting link with the Erie. The accession of new business, by giving a larger volume of traffic, should of course tend to diminish the ratio of operating expenses, but nevertheless, as the figures given show, the Erie did not find it possible to operate the road at the 68 per cent which the lease allows it.

CLEVELAND COLUMBUS CINCINNATI AND INDIANAPOLIS ROAD.

This road (whose detailed report has been received this week) occupied for many years a very disadvantageous position. Its business is largely through (about two-thirds of the entire revenue coming from through traffic) and consequently its prosperity hinges almost exclusively upon the profit that class of business affords, which profit, as is known, has largely diminished during the last decade and is subject to great fluctuations under the varying yield of the crops and the severity of competition. Of course that is a feature not admitting of any great change except in the progress of time.

But there were other drawbacks which tended to hamper the management, though more capable of removal. The principal of these arose out of the unsettled relations existing with connecting roads. The Cleveland & Columbus line offered a very eligible route to both Cincinnati and St. Louis, and yet though the great Eastern trunk lines on the north could have utilized it to advantage, they held off, and thus the property was without the protection of a powerful connecting company, which could develop its business to the fullest extent. It got a very considerable share of the Vanderbilt traffic, but still it was not a Vanderbilt road, and did not secure all, while the Erie, though contributing some small portion of its business, gave much the larger part to the Cincinnati Hamilton & Dayton. It was this latter fact—namely, that the Hamilton & Dayton was a parallel competing line—that induced the efforts to consolidate the two roads, which scheme, as our readers know, miscarried, with the result that the Cleveland road passed into the control of the Vanderbilt interest, while the Cincinnati Hamilton & Dayton fell into the hands of the Erie people. Naturally, the position of both roads was improved under the change, since each at once became a part of a great trunk system of roads to the seaboard.

There was, however, another obstacle in the way of the satisfactory working of the Cleveland & Columbus as a through line, which has also been removed. The Indianapolis & St. Louis and the St. Louis Alton & Terre Haute formed important links in the route to St. Louis, but the relations of the Cleveland road to these companies were not clearly defined and were the cause of anxiety and trouble. The Alton & Terre Haute was under lease to the Indianapolis & St. Louis, and the latter was under the joint ownership of the Pennsylvania and the Cleveland & Columbus. Had the Indianapolis & St. Louis and its leased line proved self-sustaining, there would probably have been little ground for complaint in the arrangement with the Pennsylvania, but the lines fell far short of being self-sustaining, and as a result money had to be advanced in large amounts to the Indianapolis & St. Louis for the purpose of meeting deficiencies. In these advances the Pennsylvania refused to share, claiming that it was securing no compensating benefits in the way of business, while in fact the Cleveland road was, and the latter, recognizing the force of the objection and also fearing to lose so essential a link in its through route, was compelled to assume the whole burden. At the same time, under the divided ownership, the Cleveland road could not take full possession of the property and operate it as if it were a piece of its own line. This unsatisfactory state of things had to be changed in some way if the best results were to be had, and accordingly the Cleveland road in 1882 succeeded in acquiring the Pennsylvania's interest in the Indianapolis & St. Louis, then secured a modification of the lease of the Alton & Terre Haute, and finally, on June 6, 1883, the stockholders having ratified the agreement, assumed entire control of the property of both roads, giving it a continuous line under its own management to St. Louis.

It is necessary to make this explanation, because otherwise it will be difficult to understand why the advances of the Indianapolis & St. Louis in 1883 were larger than ever before, the amount having been $365,000 in 1881, $373,000 in 1882, and having now risen to $1,109,798 in 1883. The reason for the heavy increase in 1883 is that with the transfer of the road into its own hands the Cleveland company determined upon a complete reconstruction of the property, and this entailed a large outlay of money, which, being spent on permanent improvements of this character, it is thought is not likely to reach the same amount in future years. The improvements, too, will tend to increase the efficiency of the road for doing business, and in this way bear good results later on.

It was in providing the means for these advances, as well as to make improvements in its own road, tracks, &c., that the increase of $993,000 in debt (shown in the report) during 1883 was chiefly incurred. The remainder of the money expended for these purposes was taken directly out of net earnings, which is the basis of the present agitation for an accounting of profits for past years, and a corresponding scrip distribution. The company's dividends have been exceedingly irregular, partly because of poor crops and poor rates, but also because, as in the case of many other roads, a portion of net earnings were devoted to the making of permanent additions to the plant. A committee of the directors has lately been appointed to look into the matter and report as to just how much of the net earnings were applied in this way; according to the balance sheet, however, there was on December 31, 1883, a balance to the credit of income account of $3,382,160. The company recently authorized the making of a new mortgage for twelve million dollars to provide for the future requirements of the property. Of this, however, 7½ millions will be reserved to retire the full amount of the debt now outstanding, and only the remaining 4½ millions are to be used in furtherance of the object named and that only from time to time as required. At present 1½ millions have been issued.

As to the results of the year's operations, they are not as satisfactory as expected. There is a decrease of $98,996 in gross receipts and of $153,601 in net, expenses having risen $54,604. The decrease in revenue is said to be the result jointly of a poor wheat crop and the non-maintenance of rates by competing lines during the latter half of the year, and the increase in expenses was caused by extraordinary additions and improvements in the passenger department. How 1883 compares with the nine preceding years in the matter of earnings and expenses, as well as the sources of earnings, is shown below.

| 1874..... | 391 | $3,148,197 | $941,374 | $4,022,571 | $3,182,155 | $910,416 |

These are traffic earnings alone, and the total differs somewhat from the figures alluded to above, but a very important point that this comparison discloses is, that the revenue from freight traffic in 1883 was actually less than in 1874, nine years before. Is this because of a falling off in traffic? Clearly not. To show the actual traffic movement in this period, both of freight and passengers, we give the following figures from the company's report.

| Year. | Passengers. Number One Mile. | Rate Per Passenger Per Mile. | Cost Per Passenger Per Mile. | Profit Per Passenger Per Mile. | Freight. Number of Tons. | Tons One Mile. | Rate Per Ton Per Mile. | Cost Per Ton Per Mile. | Profit Per Ton p. m. |

Here we see that the company handled about a million more tons of freight in 1883 than in 1874, and that its tonnage mileage increased 144 million ton-miles. Yet the revenue that this increased tonnage and mileage brought in was only $3,068,717 in 1883, while in 1874 it was $3,148,197, an actual decrease of $80,000. Of course, the explanation of this is found in the lower rates obtained. It might be supposed that the reduction in rates would be more marked in the case of the Cleveland road, because of the large preponderance of through business which it does, the tonnage of 408½ million ton miles in 1883 having been composed of only 95 million tons local and 313½ million tons through. But while of course the reduction on its through freight affects a greater volume of business, the actual falling off per ton per mile has been heavier on local than on through, and this is ascribable to the multiplication of roads in the district traversed by the Cleveland system. This local rate in 1874 was at an average of 1·776 cent per ton per mile, while in 1883 it was only 1·079 cent, a decline of 0·697 cent. During the same time the rate on through business has fallen from 0·984 cent to 0·652 cent, or only 0·332 cent. On all kinds of freight the average was 1·192 in 1874 and 0·751 in 1883, as given in the table. This latter makes the decrease per ton per mile 0·441 cent, and it is remarkable that such have been the economies in operating, that the average expense per mile during this time has decreased even more—from 1·051 to 0·545, or 0·506 cent, leaving for 1883 a larger profit per mile than in any other year given. It is only by reason of this contraction in expenses that the company is able to report larger net earnings than in 1874. It is to be noted that while the rate on passengers has also been downward, though in a less marked degree, there has been no corresponding reduction in the passenger expense, but, on the contrary, an increase. The cost for 1874 is given at 1·402 cent for 1883 at 1·819 cent, or 0·417 more. The expense was unusually heavy in 1883, for the reason already stated but even the 1882 figure—1·491 cent—is higher than that of 1874. This would seem to demonstrate that while the cost of moving freight has been cut down under an increase in the volume of business done, the same has not up to the present time been true of the passenger traffic.

NEW YORK STATE RAILROAD REPORT.

We are very happy to make the correction noted in the following letter. It is not often that an official declines to accept credit due or not due. Still, the public will think it more modest, not to say more honest, to take the course Mr. O'Donnell has pursued.

JOHN D. KERNAN,
WILLIAM E. ROGERS, } Commiss'rs.
JOHN O'DONNELL,
WILLIAM C. HUDSON, Secretary.

BOARD OF RAILROAD COMMISSIONERS,
ALBANY, March 26, 1884.

Editors of the FINANCIAL CHRONICLE:

In your article in the March 22d number you have unwittingly done an injustice to the Board of Railroad Commissioners, and particularly to its expert accountant. To no one member of the board is there any exclusive credit due, but especially in the matter of the preparation and arrangement of the tabular matter of our second volume of reports the credit is due to the able accountant of the Board, Mr. H. M. Thompson.

Very respectfully yours,

J. O'DONNELL.

LONDON, Saturday, March 8, 1884.

The fact that a considerable quantity of gold will be arriving from New York during the next few days has very little influence upon the money market, there being a good business doing, though chiefly in short loans. The payment of the imperial taxes absorbs a large amount of business, and the Bank of England, as the Government banker, is now the largest holder of money. The total of public deposits is as much as £2,050,000, against £9,418,000 last year. The Bank of England directors will soon be making advances on the security of the approaching dividends, and an easier condition of things is then likely to prevail. Tenders have been received this week for £1,915,000 Treasury bills. The amounts allotted were: In bills at three months, £155,000, and at 6 months, £360,000. Tenders at 3 months at £99 4s. and above received in full, and for bills at 6 months at £98 10s. 8d., about 35 per cent; above it full. The average rate of interest for 3 months' bills was £1 0s. 11d. and for the 6 months' bills £2 17s. 7½d. per cent. In February the average rate for 3 months' bills was £2 14s. 1d. and for 6 months' £2 17s. 3d. per cent. The bills were paid for yesterday, but the operation should not necessarily affect the money market, as a somewhat larger amount of bills has matured during the week.

The following, relating to the state of the bullion market, is from the circular of Messrs. Pixley & Abell:

Gold.—The only orders have been for India, and the P. & O. steamer leaving yesterday took £275,000 to Bombay. The gold shipped from New York has begun to arrive, and there is now about £800,000 afloat; as the American exchange keeps firm, further sums will be sent here. The Wieland has brought £65,400 from New York; Oder £228,000 from New York; Norham Castle £3,685 from the Cape, and from Vienna have come £80,000 in sovereigns; total, £177,085. The Bank has received since 28th ult. £241,000 in bars and coin.

Silver.—Since our last circular prices slightly improved, and 51⅛d. to 51¼d. were the quotations for a few days; this morning, however, lower rates of exchange came from India, and the nearest value for bars is 51⅛d. per oz. The imports comprise only £18,000 from Chili and £15,000 from New York. The Para takes £8,000 to the West Indies, the P. & O. steamer £152,200 to Bombay, and £358,300 in florins have been shipped from Venice and Trieste to India.

Mexican Dollars.—Those by the Elbe, which had not previously been sold for arrival, were placed, on the 3d inst., at 49 11/16d. per oz.; the market has since slightly improved, and the price to-day is 49¾d. per oz. The Oder brought about £10,000 from New York.

The directors of the Anglo-Californian Bank (limited), in their report for the year ended the 31st of December, 1883, state that the gross profits, after making full provision for bad and doubtful debts, are £66,479 8s, 5d. Allowing for all charges at San Francisco and London, there remains £38,521 7s. 5d. as the net profit for the year. Adding to this £3,134 19s. 6d. brought forward from last year, the sum of £41,656 6s. 11d. is available for appropriation. An interim dividend of 8s. per share was paid in September last, and the directors now propose a dividend ot the same amount, making 8 per cent per annum, free of income tax. The board propose carrying £3,666 4s. 6d. to the reserve fund (which, with £4,333 15s. 6d. now transferred from an insurance fund, will then stand at £78,000), leaving £3,130 0s. 7d. to be carried to profit and loss new account.

The Secretary of the British Iron Trade Association has issued a statement which informs the trade that the make of pig iron in 1883 was 8,490,224 tons, a decrease of 3,063 tons as compared with 1882. This is the first decrease since 1879. The falling off was chiefly in the make of hematite in West Cumberland and in the output of North Staffordshire. There was a moderate increase in the production of Cleveland, that of Scotland being almost unchanged. Mr. Jeans adds that an official return has been received from the United States showing that the make in that country was 4,595,510 tons in 1883, a decrease of 27,813 tons. In Germany the production was 3,380,788 tons, an increase of 209,831 tons. There is also a table giving the tonnage of steel and iron ships in course of construction or contracted for at the beginning of each of the last five years. The tonnages were as follows: 1880, 491,000 tons; 1881, 843,000 tons; 1882, 1,264,603 tons; 1883, 1,075,259 tons; and 1884, 729,446 tons. The decrease in the steel ships is relatively greater than that in the iron vessels.

The "City" has this week been alarmed at the failure of Messrs. Parker & Parker, due to heavy land speculations. The liabilities have been reported as high as £1,000,000, and even more, though there is some valuable property to realize; but as the bankruptcy petition stated that the act of bankruptcy was absence from places of business with a view to evade their creditors, another unpleasant disclosure is feared. This failure is not likely to affect Stock Exchange affairs.

The banking firms of Messrs. Barnetts Hoares, Hanbury & Lloyd, Messrs. Bosanquet, Salt & Co., of London, and Lloyd's Banking Company, limited, of Birmingham, have amalgamated. The management of the several divisions of the new bank—which is to be called Lloyd's, Barnett's & Bosanquet's Bank will remain the same in each department as at present. Lloyd's Banking Company, limited, announce that they will take steps to extend the present authorized capital from £3,060,500 to £5,000,000, of which three fourths will be reserve capital.

The fine weather for agricultural purposes which we had last week broke away on Monday and Tuesday; but since then we have had some brilliant days, though not sufficiently cold to check the premature development of vegetation. The season is at present a very forward one, and when that is the case in this country we usually are in fear of a cold spring doing much damage. The wheat trade remains in its extremely monotonous condition. Supplies are less extensive, but they are fully adequate, and millers only buy to meet actual wants. There seems to be no expectation of any departure from this condition of things; but there is more doing than there was a few days ago, there being a better Continental demand for cargoes off the coast.

The following quantities of wheat, flour and Indian corn are estimated to be afloat to the United Kingdom, compared with previous periods; Baltic supplies are not included:

The following return shows the extent of the sales of home-grown wheat, barley and oats in the 187 leading markets of England and Wales during the first 27 weeks of the season, together with the average prices realized, compared with 150 markets in previous seasons:

Converting quarters of wheat into hundred-weights, the totals for the whole kingdom are estimated as follows:

☞ This aggregate is arrived at by multiplying the sales in the 187 markets above by $31\frac{1}{2}$, and that result is reduced to cwt. by multiplying it by $41\frac{1}{3}$. This proportion between the 187 markets and the totals for the kingdom is adopted by the London grain trade and is accepted by it as producing a result approximately correct.

Annexed is a return showing the extent of the imports of wheat and flour into the United Kingdom during the first six months of the season, viz., from September to February inclusive, compared with previous seasons:

Of the above imports for the week in 1884, $4,716 were American gold coin and $8,639 American silver coin. Of the exports during the same time $130,578 were American gold coin.

Canada Southern.—Messrs. Taylor, Carolin & Cox, the agents for the Canada Southern Company, sold to a syndicate $2,000,000 of the Canada Southern 2d mortgage 5 per cent bonds, and the syndicate took an option on $2,500,000 more, making $4,500,000. The syndicate has already sold the $2,000,000 of bonds in Europe. The proceeds of these bonds will be put into improvements of the property, a part of it going to pay off an advance made by Mr. Vanderbilt.

Colorado Coal & Iron.—The joint committee favorable to the Palmer management have issued an address to the stockholders recommending the names of the following gentlemen as candidates for directors of the company for the coming year (of these Mr. Edward Lewis is suggested as President): Edward Lewis, Philadelphia; F. A. Dick, Philadelphia; John H. Small, York, Pa.; D. C. Dodge, Colorado; A. H. Danforth, Colorado; Henry Amy, New York; Rossiter W. Raymond, New York; Geo. F. Peabody, New York; Chas. A. Moore, New York. Stockholders favoring the election of these gentlemen are requested to sign a proxy in favor of Spencer Trask or Henry Winser, and forward to either of these gentlemen at once, it being necessary that it should be in their hands on or before the 1st of April.

Danville Olney & Ohio River.—The two committees of bondholders are reported to have settled their differences, and the road will be foreclosed under the plan of Mr. Corbin. This plan is to issue $500,000 first mortgage 6 per cent bonds, to run thirty years, the proceeds to be used in payment of such outstanding liabilities as the court determines are underlying liens, and to put the present section of road into economical operating shape, with proper depots, buildings and equipments. The bond and certificate holders are to receive, for 75 per cent of the face value of their bonds, income bonds running thirty years, bearing 6 per cent interest, non-cumulative. The principal when due and the interest when earned shall be secured by a second mortgage upon the whole property. The bondholders are to receive for the remaining 25 per cent of their bonds at their face value stock in the new company. The entire stock capital is to be limited to $1,500,000. The accrued interest on the old bonds is to be paid in stock. The income on the income bonds shall be payable in scrip, when not earned in cash, convertible into stock, and no more stock is to be issued than is required to give the bondholders 25 per cent on their holdings and the conversion of the scrip mentioned above.

Jeffersonville Madison & Indianapolis.—The directors organized by electing Mr. Geo. B. Roberts President, and Mr. J. S. McKernan, of New Albany, Secretary and Treasurer. Mr. McKernan reported the net earnings of the road for the year 1883 at $350,000. The expenditures, including interest, rentals, &c., were $322,000; sinking fund, $15,000; net surplus, $12,000 —an increase over the preceding year's showing.

Memphis & Little Rock.—On the ground that there has been no interest paid on the bonded debt of the Memphis & Little Rock Railroad since January, 1882, application has been made in the United States Court, at Little Rock, Ark., by the trustees, for the appointment of a receiver. Counsel for the Memphis & Little Rock assert that Judge Caldwell will, without doubt, dismiss the application for the appointment of a receiver.

New York & New England.—On March 25th, the House and Senate of the Connecticut Legislature both passed a resolution permitting the New York & New England Railroad to issue preferred stock and to use the balance of its second mortgage bonds in paying its floating debt, provided the majority of the ordinary stock of the company so vote. The period for action is limited to January 1, 1885.

Ohio & Mississippi.—At Cincinnati, March 22, at a meeting of the directors of the Ohio & Mississippi Railroad Company, President W. T. McClintock tendered his resignation, and Capt. W. W. Peabody was then elected President and General Manager, and he will have entire control upon the transfer of the property by Receiver Douglass about April 1st.

Oregon Railway & Navigation Company.—Messrs. Lee, Higginson & Co. of Boston issued a circular offering $3,000,000 Oregon Railway & Navigation Company's 7 per cent gold debentures at par and interest, subscriptions to open March 22 and payments to be due April 1. The Evening Post says that with the funds thus made available, the company will at once proceed to complete the Pacific end of the Oregon Short Line to a connection with the part already practically completed by the Union Pacific to the point of junction at Huntington, which was some months ago selected instead of Baker City. The Union Pacific end having been completed, leaves a gap of about 100 miles to be built yet by the Oregon Navigation Company. A very considerable part of the work on this has already been done, and it is expected that by next autumn at the furthest the entire line will be in operation. The entire distance from Chicago to Portland will be as follows, viz.: To Omaha, 500 miles; Omaha to Granger, 877 miles, Granger to Huntington, 539 miles; Huntington to Portland, 411 miles; total, 2,325 miles.

St. Johnsbury & Lake Champlain.—The stockholders of this railroad company have voted to issue consolidated mortgage bonds to the amount of $1,100,000, for the purpose of laying the road with steel rails and for purchasing rolling stock. This action is taken in anticipation of increased traffic expected in consequence of the completion of the road between Rouse's Point, the termination of the Ogdensburg & Lake Champlain Railroad, and Swanton, the end of the St. Johnsbury & Lake Champlain Railroad, for which Mr. Vanderbilt and others have furnished the money, and which will be completed about January 1. Of these bonds $600,000 will bear 6 per cent interest and the remainder 5 per cent. There will be $400,000 issued immediately, the remainder being restricted so as to depend on the increased earnings. The Boston Safe Deposit & Trust Company is trustee of the mortgage.

Toledo Cincinnati & St. Louis.—It is reported from Boston that the Court has directed the receiver to abandon the Dayton Division; also that a sale of the Cincinnati Northern Division has been ordered, to take place in 70 days.

MEXICO FROM THE MATERIAL STAND-POINT, by Alex. D. Anderson, is the title of a pamphlet just published by Brentano & Co. Its 150 pages are replete with information concerning this country on our Southwestern border, in whose development and brilliant prospects American capital and enterprise is destined to play an important part. The mineral, agricultural, forest and marine wealth of the country are severally treated; manufactures, commerce and the national finances are discussed, and there is an interesting chapter devoted to the railways, which gives a list of the concessions or charters granted by the Mexican Government up to and in force Jan. 1, 1883.

—The Railway Share Trust Co. (Limited), of London, publishes its card in the CHRONICLE to-day, which will be found in the advertising columns under the title "foreign bankers." This corporation has the very large paid-up capital of nearly $5,000,000, and undertakes the business of trustee to loans of approved railroads, and also the negotiation of satisfactory loans in the London market. The attention of American railroad managers should be given to the card of this company.

—Attention is called to the card of Messrs. R. J. Kimball & Co., bankers and brokers, this city, in our advertising columns to-day. The gentlemen composing this firm are possessed of large experience in Wall Street, some of them having been members of the New York Stock Exchange for over seventeen years.

—The well-known firm of Reed & Flagg have removed from No. 54 William Street to new and commodious offices in the Duncan Building, No. 11 Pine Street, where their friends who may be interested in railroad and other investment securities will in future find them.

—Coupons maturing April 1st on the land-grant bonds of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company will be paid when due at the office of Messrs. J. Kennedy Tod & Co., 63 William Street. See notice in advertisement column.

—The coupons maturing April 1st on the 2d mortgage bonds of the St. Paul Minneapolis & Manitoba RR. will be paid when due at the office of the company, 63 William Street, New York.

—Attention is called to the list of bonds in the advertising columns of the CHRONICLE on which interest will be paid April 1 by Messrs. Winslow, Lanier & Co.

NEW YORK, FRIDAY, MARCH 28, 1884—5 P. M.

The Money Market and Financial Situation.—The subject of greatest interest in connection with commercial and financial affairs in the past week has been the decline in the prices of breadstuffs and the reduction in the rates of freight for transporting them from the West to the seaboard. The decline in the price of wheat at the West from March 1st to the 27th was an average of 10 cents per bushel. During the past two weeks there has also been a reduction equal to 9 cents per bushel in the official rates of freight on wheat from Chicago to the seaboard, and it has been publicly stated by individuals that they know of further reductions in the railroad freights equal to 2 cents more per bushel. It is probable that these reductions in rates were to some extent nominal; but, making allowance for this, it seems reasonable that, including the decline in price at the West, the wheat can be delivered at the seaboard at least 15 to 16 cents per bushel cheaper than three weeks ago.

This is a great decline and should (unless speculation again interferes) result in finding a foreign market for the heavy surplus of breadstuffs in this country. But in view of the large contribution to the world's supply at present being made by India and Australia and Russia, it seems reasonable to assume that only at low prices all through succeeding months can we dispose of our present surplus and that to come from the crop now in the ground. The "visible supply" of grain in store at the principal points of accumulation is over 8,000,000 bushels in excess of the amount so held at the same time last year, and there are also large supplies in the country still to come to market. If a foreign market can be found for this stock, even at relatively low prices, it will be a powerful factor in reviving trade and also in changing the tendency of the foreign exchanges.

The total exports of specie thus far this week have been $1,400,000, making the total since February 21, when the movement began, about $12,000,000. To this is to be added $800,000 engaged for the steamship Oregon on Saturday, the 29th.

The earnings of the great trunk lines, both east and west and south of Chicago, have continued to show a decrease from the corresponding periods of last year. The coal carriers are also running behind. Among eastern trunk lines, the Erie for January records a decrease of over 70 per cent in the net earnings as compared with January, 1883. The net earnings of the Pennsylvania (east of Pittsburg and Erie) for February exhibit a decline of $212,115, or about 15 per cent from the same month in 1883.

The defeat of the bill to extend the period for holding whiskey in bond is one of importance to banks at the West that have made large advances on the same, and on which they will be compelled to furnish the money to pay the tax, or otherwise allow it to be sold.

The money markets at the West have indicated an increasing demand for bank accommodation, but the New York market has continued superabundantly supplied, and though there was some hardening of rates for mercantile discounts two weeks ago, the rates for all classes of loans have remained unchanged during the last week, viz.: Call loans on stock collaterals 2 and 1½ per cent; time loans on similar collaterals 3½ to 4; first class double-name mercantile paper for sixty days or four months, 4 and 5 per cent, and for single names 5 and 5½.

The last weekly statement of the averages of the New York banks showed something of a relapse into the former condition of stagnation, as was illustrated by the decrease of $3,481,500 in the loans and an increase of $1,934,300 in the surplus reserve.

The weekly statement of the Bank of England exhibits a loss of £229,000 in specie, though this is the first statement for six weeks that has shown a loss. The percentage of reserve, which last week was 47 1-16, is now 47 3-16, and the Bank rate of discount remains unchanged at 3 per cent. The weekly statement of the Bank of France records a gain of 6,650,000 francs in gold and 110,000 francs in silver. The Bank of Germany gained 860,000 marks in specie during the week.

Exchange.—The foreign exchange market has been quiet at unchanged rates throughout the week. Commercial bills have been comparatively scarce, but the increased movement of wheat from Chicago to the seaboard and thence to Europe, which has begun as the effect of the decline in wheat and also in rates of freight, is expected to furnish an increased supply of bills before long. The posted rates, however, on Friday the 28th remained at 4 88@4 90½. The rates for actual business on the same day were as follows, viz.: Sixty days, 4 87¼@4 87½; demand, 4 89½@4 89¾; cables, 4 90@4 90¼. Commercial bills 4 85½@4 86.

State and Railroad Bonds.—The improvement in the volume of business and the advance in prices which have been a feature of the railroad bond market for several weeks past, continued up to about the middle of the past week, when there was a partial re-action, but mainly in the speculative bonds. Early in the week Erie 2d consols declined 4 per cent, to 87½, but subsequently recovered, then declined again, closing to-day at 89½. The West Shore 5s also declined on Thursday 1¼, to 56¼. These fluctuations resulted in a decrease of business in the last day or two. A comparison for the week, however, shows that the majority of issues are higher, viz.: Advanced—Chesapeake & Ohio currency 6s, ¾; Chicago St. Louis & Pittsburg 5s, 1 per cent; Hannibal & St. Joseph 8s, ⅛; International & Great Northern 6s, 1¼; Jersey Central debentures, ⅝; Kansas & Texas general mortgages, ⅜; Mobile & Ohio second debentures, 6 per cent; New York Susquehanna & Western firsts, 3 per cent; Chicago & Northwestern debentures, ¼; Oregon Railway & Navigation firsts, ½; Oregon Short Line 6s, ¼; Rome Watertown & Ogdensburg 5s, 2 per cent; St. Paul & Omaha Consols, ¾; and Fort Worth & Denver City firsts, ⅛. Declined—Denver & Rio Grande consols, ¾; East Tennessee 5s, ½; Erie second consols, 2¼; Kansas Pacific consols, ⅛, to 98; Missouri Pacific consols, ⅛; Milwaukee & St. Paul consols, ⅜; do. Chicago & Pacific Western Division 5s, ¾; Northern Pacific firsts, ⅜; New Orleans Pacific firsts, 1¾; Texas & Pacific land grant incomes, ¼; do. Rio Grande Division firsts, ¾; Wabash general mortgages, ½; New York West Shore & Buffalo 5s, 1⅞; and Elizabeth Lexington & Big Sandy firsts, 1¼.

Railroad and Miscellaneous Stocks.—The unsettled relations of the roads in the Trunk-Line Pool, the reduction of rates on east-bound freights, and the diminished earnings of the principal lines of railroad throughout the United States, as compared with this time last year, have exercised an unfavorable influence on the stock market throughout the week. The leading operators, however, had in most cases given their specialties some substantial support, and the bears were afraid to sell largely in view of the apparent scarcity of floating stock in the market—squeezes like those of Lackawanna and New York Central some weeks ago having made them timid. Nevertheless there has been a pretty general decline in the shares of the coal carriers, which affected the whole market, and was the principal factor in the general decline of prices in the latter part of the week. Pullman Palace Car has advanced 1⅝ per cent and Metropolitan Elevated 6 per cent. Almost all other leading stocks have declined, the largest falling off being noted in Manhattan Elevated, Pacific Mail, the coal-carriers, and Erie and the trunk-line shares. Western Union was rather weak to-day.

ANNUAL REPORTS.

Cleveland Columbus Cincinnati & Indianapolis.

(For the year ending Dec. 31, 1883.)

The annual report of President Devereux states that the amount of tonnage transported during 1883 and the revenue therefrom fell short of the results anticipated.

"For the first half of the past year, or late into the summer, the tonnage and earnings of the line had steadily continued to increase, and in comparison had largely exceeded the figures of any like period in the road's history. But the measurable failure of staple crops subsequently told against the freight revenue, and apparently from the same cause the local passenger traffic was affected. A back-set further came in the autumn, when the railway stood firm in its maintenance of rates upon competitive traffic, bound thereto by the firm policy of its eastern connecting roads, and in consequence saw business surrendered for a considerable time through a one-sided observance of tariffs. The outcome of this disagreement in rates was attended with less general demoralization than might have been expected, and the year closed with the results of the last six months very unsatisfactory. Yet the universal observance of agreed tariff rates, which throughout the seven months of the year had obtained almost without exception, did somewhat offset this later loss of traffic from rate-cutting, although in the end the result of such cutting was a disregard of tariff by all roads. It was from the effects of the seven months' accord and good faith between the roads that the average gross freight rate per ton mile for the year exceeds that of 1882, and is shown to be 0·751 cents, as against 0.706 cents in 1882. The cost freight rate per ton mile for the year is 0·545 cents, as against 0·513 cents in 1882." * * *

"The increased cost of passenger operating expenses is wholly due to re-building and advancing to standard the passenger equipment of the line, which work has been substantially completed." * * *

"With the determined policy of this company to absolutely control and operate, as a single interest, this road with the other roads in question [Indianapolis & St. Louis and Alton & Terre Haute roads] between Cleveland and St. Louis, including in such management the lines to Cincinnati, there followed the necessity of putting into good and efficient physical condition the St. Louis Alton & Terre Haute Railroad and also completing the re-building and restoration of the line between Terre Haute and Indianapolis.

"It was determined that this reconstruction work, great as it was, should be vigorously pushed to completion, having regard to the best interests of all the properties, and to this cause the extraordinary expenditures of the past year are due."

There has been advanced during the year to the Indianapolis & St. Louis Railway and to the receiver of the Indianapolis & St. Louis Railroad to provide for the outlays just described in carrying forward the plan of this company, a total sum of $1,109,797. There has been advanced to the Cincinnati & Springfield Railway during the year $88,281 for improvements; and the deficit in operating in 1883 was $174,947, making the total sum advanced $263,228.

The following expenditures have been made during the year upon the main line on account of additions: Expenditures for new equipment, $355,085; new side track, $25,857; for lands, $2,267; total expenditures, main line, on account of additions, $382,710. The bonded debt of the company has been increased $930,000 during the year, and now stands at $7,295,000. Sale was made of 998 of the consolidated mortgage bonds, and the current earnings of the main line were also used in part on account of the extraordinary expenditures above alluded to.

"The further action of your board has been to order the preparation of a new general mortgage of the Cleveland Columbus Cincinnati & Indianapolis Railway in amount $12,000,000, to include and ultimately retire all the outstanding mortgages, and thus yielding about four and one-half million dollars of bonds as a provision for the present and future requirements of the railway in its development and additions to its estate."

Norfolk & Western.

The annual report states that the New River Division was opened to the Flat Top coal fields May 21st, 1883, since which time the length of line in operation has been 503 miles.

"Upon its organization in 1881, the company adopted the policy of giving encouragement to local industries, and liberal reductions were made in the local rates on both passenger and freight traffic. Under this policy the gross earnings of the line increased during a period of three years 36 per cent, although local rates had been reduced nearly 25 per cent."

This growth may be seen in the tables of earnings below; and that the growth of business has a decided element of permanence is demonstrated by the following figures, showing that the increase in the number of passengers and tons of freight carried is to a great extent attributable to the local business:—

|---|---|---|---|
| Local | 142,312 | 289,511 | 147,199 = 103 per cent. |
| Total | 154,215 | 307,927 | 153,712 = 100 " " |

| | 1880. | 1883. | Increase. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Local | 296,267 | 539,906 | 243,639 = 82 per cent. |
| Through | 182,686 | 257,349 | 74,663 = 41 " " |
| Total | 478,953 | 797,255 | 318,302 = 66 " " |

The recent large increase in the mineral traffic, as shown by comparison with the previous year, is particularly noticeable in the following figures.

| Tons. | 1882. | 1883. | Increase. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Iron ore | 1,399 | 51,915 | 50,516 |
| Pig iron | 13,372 | 24,811 | 11,239 |
| Coal | 4,735 | 54,552 | 49,817 |
| Coke | none | 23,762 | 23,762 |
| Slate, stone and marble | 5,027 | 19,584 | 14,557 |
| Salt | 1,214 | 11,482 | 10,268 |
| Plaster | 1,620 | 4,214 | 2,594 |
| Total | 27,367 | 190,120 | 162,753 |

No cash dividends were paid during the year 1883. "Your directors believing that, so long as it was considered advisable to use the surplus earnings of the company for the purpose of bettering its property or increasing its facilities for doing business, the preferred shareholders are entitled to scrip dividends representing the amount which has been so applied, and which would otherwise be applicable to cash dividends, at a meeting held December 26, declared a scrip dividend of 3½ per cent, payable January 15, 1884, on the $15,000,000 of preferred shares then outstanding. The scrip, when presented to the company in sums of $500, is exchangeable into convertible debenture bonds, payable in 1894, bearing 6 per cent interest, payable semi-annually. The surplus to the credit of income account amounted December 31, 1883, to $864,193, of which the sum of $492,410 had been earned during the year 1883. After charging off this dividend, amounting to $525,000, the balance remaining to the credit of income account is $339,193."

In consideration of the requirements of the company for new work, &c., the directors on December 21, 1883, having first obtained the consent of a majority of the common stock holders, authorized the creation of an Improvement and Extension Mortgage for $5,000,000, with power under certain restrictions to increase, for the purpose of double-tracking the line when necessary, to $8,000,000. Under this mortgage bonds are to be issued bearing interest at the rate of six per cent per annum. The first issue is limited to $2,500,000, and a proposal in satisfactory terms for the purchase of bonds to this amount was accepted, the proceeds to be used for the following purposes:

First.—The construction of the Cripple Creek Extension of the New River Division, about fifty miles in length. This work was put under contract December 10, 1883, and the line is expected to be completed and in operation before the close of the year 1884.

Second.—For increased terminal facilities at Norfolk. Contracts for this work were entered into December 28, 1883. The work to be completed prior to August 31, 1884.

The remainder of the improvement and extension bonds, $2,500,000, can, under the terms of the mortgage, be sold only when the stockholders so vote, and only for the purpose of providing funds for making improvements on the main line, for increased terminal facilities, for new rolling stock, and for new branches or extensions. If bonds are sold for the purpose of constructing branches or extensions, the amount of bonds sold for this purpose is limited to $25,000 per mile. In case of an issue of bonds for the purpose of double-tracking the line, said issues are to be made at the rate of $10,000 per mile, and no bonds are to be issued for this purpose until at least fifty miles of double track, of standard quality, has been constructed. Under the terms of this mortgage, the issue of bonds secured by the New River Division first mortgage is limited to $2,000,000, the amount now outstanding.

The unfunded debt of the company, exclusive of accrued interest and current balances, amounted Dec. 31, 1882, to $647,091. Obligations, however, having been incurred prior to Jan. 1, 1883, for new construction, improvements and terminal facilities, the amount necessary to meet these requirements was provided for by a collateral loan of $1,000,000, secured by 30,000 of the preferred shares belonging to the company, and at the close of the year 1883 this unfunded debt was as follows: Collateral loan, $1,000,000; bills payable less bills receivable, $223,506; total, $1,223,506.

"It is expected that a considerable portion of this amount will be paid off during the present year out of the surplus earnings, it being the purpose of the present management to free the company from all such indebtedness at the earliest practicable moment, and not incur additional obligations until previous financial provision shall have been made."

CAR TRUSTS.

As car trust obligations fall due, the actual cash value of the rolling stock represented is charged to equipment account, and the remainder, representing interest and commissions, is charged currently to interest account.

The car trust obligations outstanding Dec. 31, 1882, amounted to $552,400. During the year 1883, additional rolling stock having been purchased, car trust obligations to the amount of $1,478,426 were issued, and, deducting what was paid off in the year, the car trust obligations outstanding Dec. 31, 1883, amounted to $1,916,893, the payment of which extends over a period of ten years.

SHENANDOAH VALLEY R.R.

The share capital of the Shenandoah Valley Railroad Company is 36,962 shares of the par value of $100 each, representing $3,696,200, of which 30,506 shares have been acquired by the N. & W. company, received in payment of subscriptions for 40,506 shares of its common stock.

The importance of the Shenandoah Valley Railroad as an auxiliary to the N. & W. line has been fully demonstrated.

|---|---|
| From passengers | $34,019 |
| From freight | 182,751 |
| Total gross earnings from business interchanged | $216,771 |

The following is a statement of the earnings of the Shenandoah Valley Railroad Company for the year 1883:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Gross earnings | | $854,415 |
| Operating expenses | | 662,157 |
| Net earnings | | $192,257 |
| Interest charges— | | |
| Interest on funded debt | $325,685 | |
| Other interest | 50,220 | |
| | | 375,905 |
| Excess of interest charges | | $183,648 |

"To cover this amount, your company made advances in accordance with the contract above referred to, amounting to $200,000. From this source and from the sale of its bonds the Shenandoah Valley Railroad Company was enabled, in addition to meeting its fixed charges, to make many desirable improvements, and pay for new rolling stock urgently needed. At the close of the year the Shenandoah Valley Railroad had $127,375 cash on hand, and no floating debt whatever other than the amount due your company."

NORFOLK TERMINAL CO.

"The capital stock of the Norfolk Terminal Company fully paid in is $322,026, of which $321,900 is owned by your company. The real estate belonging to the company is at Lambert's Point, below the present city limits of Norfolk, and about four miles from the present terminus of your line, and consists of 233 acres, with 205 acres additional as measured out to the Port Warden's line, with a water frontage upon the same of 1⅔ miles. The company also owns stock in the Old Dominion Steamship Company, and barges for the transportation of cotton and coal, the actual cost of which, together with the real estate, is represented by the capital stock. A mortgage of $1,000,000 has been created, and bonds will be issued from time to time as improvements are required. The improvements as at present contemplated are estimated to cost about $325,000, and bonds for the amount expended will be taken at par and paid for by your company out of the proceeds of the first issue of improvement and extension bonds previously referred to, and the bonds deposited with the trustees of the improvement and extension mortgage in accordance with provisions made therein."

Peoria Decatur & Evansville.

The annual report of this company states that:

"The business of the year, when considering the almost entire failure of the corn crop on the Peoria Division and the very short wheat crop on the Evansville Division, together with a total lack of demand for grain from the South, may be considered very satisfactory. The freight traffic shows a decrease of 10·36 per cent in volume and the earnings a decrease of 16·10 per cent. The passenger traffic shows a decrease of ·023 per cent in the number carried, and a decrease of ·017 in the earnings, and the rate per passenger per mile shows a decrease from 2·71 to 2·66 cents. The operating expenses show a decrease in their per cent to earnings, viz.: from 65·95 to 58·79, or 7·16 per cent, which is very favorable."

The length of road operated was the same as in 1882 as follows: Main line, Pekin to Evansville, 238 miles; leased from the P. & P. U. Ry., Pekin to Peoria, 10 miles; branch Stewartsville to New Harmony, 6 miles; total, 254 miles.

Charlotte Columbia & Augusta.

This company, owning and operating a line from Charlotte, N. C., thence to Columbia, S. C., to Augusta, Ga., 191 miles, leases the [illegible] Tennessee & Ohio, from Charlotte to Statesville, 47 miles; the Chester & Lenoir, from Chester, S. C., to Newton, N. C., 79 miles; and the Cheraw & Chester, from Chester, S. C., to Lancaster, 29 miles. The accounts of these leased lines are given separately.

During the year ending Sept. 30, 1883, the Chester & Lenoir was extended from Meaders to Newton, 7 miles. A further extension to Lenoir, 31 miles, is in progress.

During the year 1,487 tons of steel rails were laid, making 77½ miles of the main line now laid with steel. On the leased lines a number of new ties were used. The Chester & Lenoir was well advanced toward completion to Lenoir, 110 miles from Chester, and the Cheraw & Chester was completed by building a bridge over the Catawba River. Some needed improvements were postponed for want of means.

The President's report says: "The year covered by this report was one of great prosperity throughout our country; that into which we have now entered is seriously affected by the short cotton crop. Rigid economy will be necessary; but by prompt reduction of operating forces as trade diminishes, it is believed that the roads, if unembarrassed by the Railroad Commissioners, will be able to meet expenses and maintain condition. If, however, things remain as now, the loss of money and credit that ensues will force a further reduction by the removal of first-class passenger trains, which are costly and unprofitable, and the substitution of mixed trains, which will, as in former years, do the local freight and passenger business."

| | 1882-83. | 1881-82 |
|---|---|---|
| Passengers carried | 159,554 | 106,841 |
| Passenger miles | 5,955,943 | 4,120,984 |
| Tons freight carried | 199,274 | 179,187 |
| Ton miles | 14,635,151 | 13,897,334 |

Of the passenger miles 30·7 per cent, and of the ton miles 74·5 per cent, were of through business. Of the freight traffic 55·9 per cent was north-bound and 44·1 per cent south-bound.

| | 1882-83. | 1881-82, |
|---|---|---|
| Freight | $475,607 | $390,163 |

| Total | $702,841 | $601,625 |
| Expenses | 423,768 | 419,652 |
| Net earnings | $279,073 | $181,993 |

The large increase in earnings was due to a great improvement in crops on the line and to a considerable increase in through rates during the earlier part of the year. The result of the operations of the leased lines were as follows:

| | At. Tenn. & Ohio. | Chester & Len. | Che & Ches. |

New York Lake Erie & Western.—In a recent interview with a reporter of the New York Times, Mr. H. J. Jewett, President of this company, said: "Up to the time of our last statement, Sept. 21, 1883, besides paying current running expenses, interest on bonds and other obligations, and three consecutive dividends of 6 per cent each to preferred stockholders, the company has expended in six years nearly $14,000,000 in improving the road, property and equipments, and of this fully one-half was paid out of current surplus earnings. In the month of December last alone we put into improvements $304,565, and during the three months since Dec. 31 we have expended nearly double that amount, which makes nearly a million dollars put into improvements within the last four months."

COMMERCIAL EPITOME.

Friday Night, March 28, 1884.

The weather has become spring-like and some progress has been made in the resumption of inland navigation at the West and North. In the valley of the lower Mississippi floods have done much damage and greatly impeded railway communication with New Orleans. There have been heavy declines in speculative values of leading food staples. General trade continues quite moderate but export business has latterly been more active, there being a disposition to accept prices which will dispose of our surplus stocks. The flurries in produce speculation have somewhat disturbed financial circles, but with no serious results.

The speculation in lard for future delivery for the first half of the week under review was strongly toward lower prices, culminating on Wednesday in a semi-panic. Thursday saw an active, buoyant market, in which part of the decline was recovered, but to-day there was renewed depression, closing at about 9·50c. for prime Western on the spot and for April, 9·56c. for May, 9·62c. for June, 9·70c. for July and 9·76c. for Aug.; refined for the Continent 9·75@9·80c. Pork has declined to $17 50 for mess and $19 50@$20 for clear. Bacon remains nominal at 9⅝@9¾c. for long clear. Cutmeats quiet and barely steady; pickled bellies 8⅛@8⅜c., shoulders 8¼@8½c., hams 11¾@12¼c., and smoked shoulders 9¼@9½c.; hams 13@13½c. Beef remains quiet; extra mess $12@$13 and packet $13 50 per bbl.; India mess $23@$25 per tce.; beef hams $27@$27 50 per bbl. Butter has latterly been weak; fresh creameries close at 32@37½c.; Western factory 14@22c. Cheese dull; State factory 12@15¼c. Fresh eggs have been higher, but close dull at 23½@24½c. The following is a comparative summary of aggregate exports from November 1, 1883 to March 22, 1884:

|---|---|---|---|
| Pork, lbs | 18,252,400 | 20,893,200 | 2,645,800 |
| Bacon, lbs | 174,937,011 | 207,496,775 | 32,559,764 |
| Lard, lbs | 87,558,887 | 109,380,747 | 21,821,860 |
| Total lbs | 280,748,298 | 337,775,722 | 57,027,424 |

Rio coffee has been declining steadily both on the spot and for future delivery; there has been a good business on the spot at as low as 10c. for fair cargoes, but to-day advanced to 10½c. Options have been active, excited and irregular, but the general drift has been downward; a failure in the trade to-day had no marked effect, but the heavy decline within a fortnight has given rise to more or less distrust; a break in the cable has stopped communication with Rio de Janeiro, but a marked and rapid decline in Havre has had a demoralizing effect; to-day there was an early advance but later it was lost, and a decline of 10 to 15 points followed; April closed at 8·50@8·55c., May at 8·55@8·60c., June at 8·65@8·70c., July at 8·70@8·75c. and August at 8·75@8·80c., showing a decline of ⅜c. to ½c.; mild grades have been quiet and nearly nominal.

Tea has declined materially and there were two failures in the trade to-day; Japan sold to-day at 22c. for April, 24c. for May and 25c. for June; black at 28c. for April and 29c. for May and June; the trading latterly has been liberal, but as the time for April deliveries approaches the weakness develops. Rice has been quiet. Molasses dull. Raw sugar has been dull and weak; fair nominally 5 7-16c.; for July it has sold at 5·72½c.; refined closed quiet at 7⅝c. for crushed, 7½@7⅝c. for powdered, 7¼c. for granulatedand 6¾@7c. for standard "A."

Kentucky tobacco has continued in active demand and lugs are quoted firmly at 7¼@8c. and leaf at 8¼@11c. Sales for the week 812 hhds., of which 665 were for export. On the Exchange 650 hhds. have changed hands. Seed leaf has ruled quiet but steady; sales embrace 850 cases, including 200 cases crop 1882, Pennsylvania, 10@20c.; 300 cases crop 1881, Pennsylvania, 6@10½c.; 100 cases crop 1882, Wisconsin, Havana Seed, 20@30c.; 150 cases crop 1882, New England, 11@20c., and 100 cases crop 1882, Ohio, 9@14c.; also 400 bales Havana, 80c.@$1 20.

In naval stores little of interest has taken place, but prices have remained fairly steady at 33½c. for spirits turpentine, and $1 47½@$1 52½ for strained to good strained rosins. Refined petroleum has been very quiet, and to-day refiners reduced their views to 8⅜c. for 70 Abel test. Crude oil certificates have severely declined. The crash was precipitated mostly by utter lack of confidence in a rise; to-day there were sales at 96⅝@93¼c., closing 94¼@94½c. There was nothing important in metals beyond the sale of 12,000 tons steel rails, at $34, deliverable at the mills. Wool, hops and oils have been quiet. Hides and leather very firm.

Ocean freight room has continued quiet and rates show irregularity and easiness. Affairs are in a very unsatisfactory shape. To-day grain was taken to Liverpool by steam at 2d; flour 7s. 6d. per ton; bacon and lard 10@12s. 6d.; cheese 15@17s. 6d.; cotton 7-64@⅛d.; grain to London 3½d.; do. to Glasgow by steam 3d.; do. to Havre 6c.; do. to Bremen 45 pfennigs; refined petroleum to Rotterdam 2s. 3d. per bbl.; do. to the Baltic 3s.; cases to Java 29@30c.; do. from Philadelphia to Japan 25@26½c.

There has been continued activity in the speculation in cotton for future delivery at this market the past week, and prices show a further advance. With no very active influences at work, except that Liverpool and Manchester accounts were better, and stocks undergoing a rapid reduction, there was a slight advance on Saturday, and on Monday the market was quite buoyant. Tuesday, under a weak Liverpool report, there was some selling to realize, which caused the loss of part of Monday's advance. On Wednesday there was a further slight decline, which was recovered in the later dealings for that day. The feature of the week, however, was in Thursday's business. This was the first day for the issuing of notices for delivery on April contracts. These came out quite freely, but as they were generally "stopped," showing that the parties receiving them intended in most cases to receive the cotton, a sharp advance took place, and this crop closed 8@10 points dearer. To-day the speculation was less active, and the course of values became soon after the opening quite irregular, but later became active and buoyant for the early months on threats of a "corner" on April contracts. The close was barely steady, at an irregular advance compared with last Friday, of 24@25 points for March and April, 18@19 points for the remainder of this crop, 15 points for September and 5@11 points for the next crop. Cotton on the spot has remained very quiet, and there is now an unusually large accumulation of supplies at this market; but, in sympathy with the advance in futures, quotations were advanced 1-16c. on Monday and again on Thursday. To-day there was a further advance of 1/16c., middling uplands closing at 11 3/16c.

The total sales for forward delivery for the week are 675,200 bales. For immediate delivery the total sales foot up this week 2,983 bales, including 23 for export, 2,961 for consumption, — for speculation and — in transit. Of the above, — bales were to arrive. The following are the official quotations for each day of the past week.

RECEIPTS FROM THE PLANTATIONS.—The following table is prepared for the purpose of indicating the actual movement each week from the plantations. Receipts at the outports are sometimes misleading, as they are made up more largely one year than another at the expense of the interior stocks. We reach, therefore, a safer conclusion through a comparative statement like the following. In reply to frequent inquiries we will add that these figures, of course, do not include overland receipts or Southern consumption; they are simply a statement of the weekly movement from the plantations of that part of the crop which finally reaches the market through the outports.

The above statement shows—1. That the total receipts from the plantations since September 1, 1883, were 4,674,650 bales; in 1882-83 were 5,580,268 bales; in 1881-82 were 4,478,397 bales.

2.—That, although the receipts at the outports the past week were 52,884 bales, the actual movement from plantations was only 33,311 bales, the balance being taken from the stocks at the interior towns. Last year the receipts from the plantations for the same week were 74,024 bales and for 1882 they were 33,599 bales.

AMOUNT OF COTTON IN SIGHT MARCH 28.—In the table below we give the receipts from plantations in another form, and add to them the net overland movement to March 1, and also the takings by Southern spinners to the same date, so as to give substantially the amount of cotton now in sight.

|---|---|---|---|---|
| Receipts at the ports to Mch 28 | 4,582,570 | 5,329,782 | 4,290,640 | 5,090,626 |
| Interior stocks on March 28 in excess of September 1..... | 92,080 | 250,486 | 187,757 | 255,770 |

| Net overland to March 1 ..... | 461,070 | 526,556 | 343,355 | 415,047 |
| Southern consumpt'n to Mch. 1 | 190,000 | 200,000 | 155,000 | 135,000 |
| Total in sight March 28..... | 5,325,720 | 6,306,824 | 4,986,752 | 5,896,443 |

It will be seen by the above that the decrease in amount in sight to-night, as compared with last year, is 981,104 bales, the increase as compared with 1881-82 is 338,968 bales, and the decrease from 1880-81 is 570,723 bales.

The following statement we have also received by telegraph, showing the height of the rivers at the points named at 3 o'clock March 27, 1884, and March 29, 1883.

| | | Mch. 27, '84 | | Mch. 29, '83 | |

New Orleans reported below high-water mark of 1871 until Sept. 9 1874, when the zero of gauge was changed to high-water mark of April 15 and 16, 1874, which is 6-10ths of a foot above 1871, or 16 feet above low-water mark at that point.

India Cotton Movement from all Ports.—We have re-arranged our India service so as to make our reports more detailed and at the same time more accurate. We had found it impossible to keep out of our figures, as cabled to us for the ports other than Bombay, cargoes which proved only to be shipments from one India port to another. The plan now followed relieves us from the danger of this inaccuracy and keeps the totals correct. We first give the Bombay statement for the week and year, bringing the figures down to March 27.

| Year | Shipments this week. | | | Shipments since Jan. 1. | | | Receipts. | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|

According to the foregoing, Bombay appears to show a decrease compared with last year in the week's receipts of 17,000 bales, and a decrease in shipments of 22,000 bales, and the shipments since January 1 show a decrease of 63,000 bales. The movement at Calcutta, Madras and other India ports for the last reported week and since the 1st of January, for two years, has been as follows. "Other ports" cover Ceylon, Tuticorin, Kurrachee and Coconada.

| 1883 | 1,000 | ..... | 1,000 | 56,000 | 12 000 | 68,000 |

EXPORTS TO EUROPE FROM ALL INDIA.

| Shipments to all Europe from— | 1884. | | 1883. | | 1882. | |

| Total | 52,500 | 482,000 | 60,000 | 508,000 | 99,300 | 645,600 |

This last statement affords a very interesting comparison of the total movement for the three years at all India ports.

Alexandria Receipts and Shipments.—Through arrangements we have made with Messrs. Davies, Benachi & Co., of Liverpool and Alexandria, we now receive a weekly cable of the movements of cotton at Alexandria, Egypt. The following are the receipts and shipments for the past week and for the corresponding week of the previous two years.

This statement shows that the receipts for the week ending March 26 were 9,000 cantars and the shipments to all Europe 8,000 bales.

Manchester Market.—Our report received from Manchester to-night states that the market is firm at a slight increase in prices. We give the prices of to-day below, and leave previous weeks' prices for comparison.

New York Cotton Exchange.—The result of the vote on the proposed Commission Law last Wednesday showed 116 yeas and 125 nays; a large minority when it is considered that at least 161 votes were required to carry the same. No doubt great efforts were made to defeat the measure, but it is said that many voted against it, because in their opinion it did not go far enough, and others because they want all restrictions removed.

A committee has been appointed to consider the expediency of admitting print cloths to be dealt in at the Exchange. The idea is generally liked. It is anticipated that it would accomplish the much and long desired increase of business; while manufacturers would find it a means of securing a price by forward sales, thus anticipating an occasional pressure caused by an accumulation of stocks too heavy for the demand at the time being.

In consequence of service of injunction in the suit of J. P. Billups against the New York Cotton Exchange, the sale of his seat or membership has been indefinitely postponed.

East India Crop.—From Messrs. Wallace & Co.'s Cotton Report of date Bombay, February 22, we take the following: "As was anticipated the falling off in receipts from up-country is already showing itself, the arrivals up to date being 35,000 bales less than last year, while up to date of our last report the arrivals were almost the same, and the clearances also show a falling off, but when the Broach and Dhollerah crops arrive freely, the deficiency, which will during the next few weeks continue to increase, will to some extent be made up. Sample bales of Broach have just arrived, showing better quality than was anticipated in first arrivals, but the bales received, being only samples, do not represent what the bulk of the first arrivals will probably be. Sample bales of Dhollerah of satisfactory quality also continue to come down, and are bought up at fancy prices."

Jute Butts, Bagging, &c.—There has been a fair demand for bagging since our last, and parcels are moving freely. The parcels are not large, but in the aggregate a considerable amount of stock has been moved. Prices are steady, and sellers are not disposed to shade present quotations on small parcels, but a quantity could be had at a shade less. The closing quotations are 9½c. for 1¼ lb., 10c. for 1¾ lb., 10½c. for 2 lbs. and 11½c. for standard grades. Butts are somewhat easier in price, and the market is rather quiet. There has been nothing of importance transacted, the trade being of a jobbing nature, buyers only taking what they require for present wants. Paper grades have been sold at 2¼@2⅜c., and bagging qualities at 2⅝@2¾c., and we hear that a round parcel could be had a shade under these quotations.

Comparative Port Receipts and Daily Crop Movement.—A comparison of the port movement by weeks is not accurate, as the weeks in different years do not end on the same day of the month. We have consequently added to our other standing tables a daily and monthly statement, that the reader may constantly have before him the data for seeing the exact relative movement for the years named. The movement each month since September 1, 1883, has been as follows.

BREADSTUFFS.

FRIDAY, P. M., March 28, 1884

Flour has been very quiet and is still declining, in sympathy with the depression in wheat. Spring wheat grades have been especially plentiful, the supply being increased by large receipts. The supply of most kinds of winter flour is ample, but superfine of some grades is not at all plentiful. To-day there was a small trade at generally unchanged prices.

Wheat has sold freely on speculation at a very sharp decline, due almost solely to the favorable weather at the West and the promising prospects for the winter crop. The crop advices from Europe have also pointed to a bountiful yield there, and this fact, together with the over-supply in British markets, has led many of the bulls both here and at the West to relinquish their holdings. There was little export trade until yesterday when important transactions took place, though the wheat was largely sold to arrive some time ahead. To-day there was an early advance of ½c. to 1¾c., owing mainly to reports of a cold wave at the West; but later the rise was lost, the higher prices having called out liberal offerings. The export trade to-day was only moderate. The closing prices for No. 2 red were $1 05½ in elevator, $1 02½ for April, $1 04⅝ for May, $1 05¾ for June and $1 05 for July, showing a decline for the week of 5 to 6c.

Indian corn has been more active on speculation, but the export trade has shown little or no improvement. Good corn has not been very plentiful at the West, however, and as it is wanted for seeding it has not been so much influenced by wheat as usual. The dulness of the foreign business is still, however, a very unfavorable feature, and offsets anything calculated to sustain prices. To-day there was a fair business in options and early in the day prices advanced 1c. to 1½c., but there was some re-action later. The quotations for white and yellow corn are entirely nominal in the absence of business, and the appended prices would be difficult or impossible to obtain. No. 2 mixed closed at 60½c. delivered, 60½c. for April, 61⅝c. for May, 62½c. for June and 64c. for July, showing a net decline for the week of 1c.

Barley has sold fairly at an advance. Rye has declined. Oats have been fairly active at gradually declining prices. They are more affected than usual by corn this season, as there is so much of the latter which is fit only for feeding purposes. To-day there was a moderate trade at some recovery. No. 2 mixed closed at 37⅜c. for April, 38⅛c. for May and 38¼c. for June.

FRIDAY, P. M., March 28, 1884

The dry goods market has shown less animation than is usually witnessed at this stage of the season, and the volume of business transacted by commission houses and importers the past week was light and disappointing. The weather was more spring-like, and retailers were rather more liberal in the purchases of seasonable goods, but jobbers' stocks are abundantly large for meeting current trade, and no material improvement in the demand at first hands is likely to occur until jobbers are compelled to renew their assortments, as there is not the least tendency toward speculation by wholesale buyers. Accounts from the interior indicate that the jobbing trade has started up fairly at some important points in the West and Southwest, but business is still backward in near by sections of the country, and the recurrence of floods in the Mississippi Valley has caused an uneasy feeling in some of the Southern markets, from which very few orders were received during the week.

COTTON GOODS.—The exports of domestics for the week from this port were 3,511 packages, including 2,566 to Great Britain, 302 to United States of Colombia, 175 to China, 150 to Brazil, &c. There was a comparatively light demand for plain and colored cottons at first hands, but the tone of the market was steadier, owing to a continued advance in the staple. Brown cottons were mostly quiet, but prices ruled firm, and some makes of Southern sheetings were slightly advanced by agents in accordance with instructions from the mills. Bleached and colored cottons were quiet and steady at unchanged prices. Print cloths were in fair demand, and extra 64x61s were advanced to 3⅛c., while 53x60s were in a measure nominal, in the absence of transactions. Prints were in irregular demand, and, upon the whole, quiet with agents, but a fairly good business was done by the principal jobbers. Ginghams and wash fabrics were in fair request by wholesale buyers, and moderately active in jobbing circles, and prices are well maintained.

DOMESTIC WOOLEN GOODS.—The situation in the woolen goods branch of the trade is practically unchanged. There was a moderate business in the most popular makes of men's-wear goods, as cassimeres, suitings, worsteds, &c., but fabrics that are not strictly in accordance with the present wants of the trade ruled very quiet. The best makes of heavy clothing woolens are pretty well under the control of orders, but fabrics of a less desirable character still await a market, in not inconsiderable quantities, and the outlook for their distribution at remunerative prices is not very encouraging. Ladies' cloths were only in moderate demand, while cloakings were sluggish, and about 2,500 pieces black beavers (adapted for cloak manufacturers) were sold through the auction rooms at very low prices. Kentucky jeans remain quiet, and satinets were mostly sluggish. All-wool and worsted dress goods were jobbed with considerable freedom, and a light re-assorting demand for these fabrics was reported by agents.

FOREIGN DRY GOODS were almost uniformly quiet in first hands, and the jobbing trade lacked animation. There was some demand for a few specialties in silks, dress goods, laces, embroideries, gloves, &c., but transactions were conspicuously light in the aggregate.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION.

A pretty general shrinkage of values at the Stock Exchange, with transactions very limited, was the record of the week's work on Wall Street up to Thursday morning. There was no special attack to hasten a decline, but it seemed more like a simple relaxing of the powerful grip which has held values in place so long. The reason for letting go was not obvious, the recovery on Thursday suggesting that perhaps it was more a feint to encourage a short interest again rather than any exhaustion or change of heart. Still, yesterday's market, though it opened strong, later in the day became weak, dispelling the idea that any permanent recovery was in progress.

During the same time, our general markets for goods have indicated very little change. A slow kind of hand-to-mouth demand has made spring trade very backward and unsatisfactory. With the turn upward in cotton, a hardening in the prices of a few of the standard makes of cotton goods is noted, but this has not been accompanied by any corresponding increased activity among buyers. Yet the interior stocks of all kinds of manufactures must be quite limited, while in production there has been a very considerable contraction all around, and hence there is confidence that the near future must bring some improvement. This feeling is decidedly strengthened by the complete break in the breadstuffs speculation, which has made further progress this week, and the favorable crop accounts which are being received. As we said last week, the change in the outlook of the breadstuffs market is the most hopeful sign that has appeared for a long time. An acceptance of the situation as to prices, with an abundant harvest this year, means the marketing of our produce, and that means business for our railroads and funds for our producers, and that in turn means a more active demand for our manufactures. For, although low values will not net the farmer what the higher rates bring, yet cheap food for the multitude is an element of strength which goes far towards compensating the country (does it not, in truth, much more than compensate?) for the loss on the surplus the outside world takes. What we need more than all things this year is a good harvest, then let us flood the world with our wheat and leave other producing countries to study the effect.

Two other subjects have elicited quite general comment during the week, one being the decline in the minimum rate of discount of the Bank of England, and the other the passage by the House of Representatives of the trade dollar bill, with a provision adding those dollars as redeemed to the quantity of bullion to be coined during the year. This latter circumstance would have been very discouraging had not the public felt that there was not the least danger of its ever becoming a law, for no one believes it will ever pass the Senate in its present shape, and if by any chance it should, there is every reason for supposing that it would be vetoed by the President. In fact, President Arthur would like no better chance than to put himself between the country and such a monument of folly. Is it not however a humiliating reflection to think that our legislators are really so obtuse and unteachable. There is one thing to be said about it, though, (our observation has taught us this), that the House of Representatives always reflects public opinion of between one and two years back. We advise the reader not to reject that proposition without giving it a little study. It would be out of place here for us to elaborate it. But remember it takes its opinions from its constituency at election, and that is more than a year prior to its first session. The reason we refer to it, is for the hope it encourages. Only recall the votes on this silver dollar question. The first one was all but unanimous in both houses, the bill passing over the veto of the President; since that time its following has gradually decreased and this week it secured on the objectionable section but a bare majority, with the prospect that if the House had been full Messrs. Bland and Belford would have been defeated. The logic of all this is, that it will probably take but one year more to repeal the original act,—about that time they will get the news in Washington that no considerable body of men favors silver dollars.

The reduction of the Bank of England rate on Thursday, to 2½ per cent, was foreshadowed by the rate previously ruling in the open market in London. Before the reduction the open market ruled at 2⅛, but after the change it fell to 1 15-16, which reflects the inactivity in business prevailing in Great Britain, and consequently the very small commercial demand there is for money. Here the change had no effect other than to cause an advance in the price of long sterling, the demand for that class of bills becoming greater by reason of the increased facilities for discounting them. The rate for short sterling remains strong at figures which justify gold exports, and as there is a great scarcity of commercial bills we must continue probably for some time to send more or less gold to Europe. The chief dependence of the market in the immediate future will have to be upon grain and provisions, for we have very little more cotton to go forward. Food staples may be expected to move more freely as soon as navigation is resumed, but these do not make bills rapidly, and the supply from that source will, it is expected, be insufficient to meet current demands. Should there be a further decrease in imports, or a renewed desire to trade in our securities (always possible, but not just at present probable), the exchange market might be affected materially. Otherwise, as our trade is likely to show a balance against us during the remaining months of the fiscal year, gold must be shipped until such time as bankers may see fit to anticipate the next season's exports. The shipments of gold this week have been $802,383 on Wednesday, and, so far as known at the time of writing, $1,850,000 will be shipped by the steamers sailing to-day.

As already stated, the stock market has moved in the direction of lower prices this week, the downward movement being only arrested during a part of the last two days. The influences which have been acting have many of them been already enumerated. The news of the Cincinnati riot had no direct effect, for before the opening on Monday it was known that the trouble was at an end. The chief features have been the Gould specialties and the Grangers. Mr. Gould disappointed those of his friends who expected that on his return he would immediately proceed to push the market up. His apparent apathy and occasional statements that he had done nothing since his arrival home gave color to rumors that he was in favor of a decline, if, indeed, he was not assisting a movement in that direction. This may have encouraged speculative sales of Western Union, Missouri Pacific and Union Pacific, and these probably brought out some long stock. On Wednesday, news came from Washington that legislation adverse to the Pacific roads would be pushed by the Railroad Committee; Union Pacific subsequently fell off sharply, and the impression was conveyed that this movement in Washington was the real cause for the weakness. On Thursday morning the report was current that the laying of the pneumatic tube, and the construction of the new buildings in Broad and Twenty-third streets, would not be paid for out of the Western Union earnings, and that these expenditures would be capitalized by the issue of $1,000,000 7 per cent 1st mortgage bonds. This was accepted as an explanation for the decline in Western Union, which had also been affected by the competition of the Bankers' and Merchants' and the Baltimore & Ohio Telegraph lines. Chicago & Northwestern common stock was noticeably weak on Wednesday, due, as it subsequently appeared, to the announcement that the directors had decided to absorb the Blair system of roads in Iowa and Nebraska, which are now leased to the Northwestern, and to pay for them with $14,000,000 of new common stock. By this operation it was claimed that the fixed charges would be reduced in the amount of the rental, about $1,000,000, and that the company would derive the benefit from the constantly increasing value of the property. As the reports regarding Western Union and the Chicago & Northwestern were made public early on Thursday, the fact that the market showed only a fractional decline in the early trade and then turned and moved steadily upward, was taken as an indication that the recovery was the result of speculative manipulation. The course of the market on Friday corroborated this view to some extent, for while, as stated above, much strength was manifested at the opening, the close was very weak at generally about the lowest figures of the day.

Atchison Topeka & Santa Fe is to hand, with an excellent exhibit for the month of January. The unfavorable returns made by the lines further north had prepared the public for some falling off in at least gross receipts, but the figures received show a gain in both gross and net. Very likely the Atchison, forming part of a transcontinental route to the Pacific, gained some through business that the more northern routes lost because of snows, and no doubt also the operation of the Atlantic & Pacific as a link in the route has improved the position of the Atchison for commanding such business. But the gain is, perhaps, even more largely due to the splendid yield of the crops in the territory traversed by the company's lines. The yield of corn in Kansas was phenomenally large last season, and the railroads in that State are getting the benefit in a heavy traffic and augmented earnings. This would be the more likely to affect the result on the Atchison at present, since the figures now furnished include (in both years) the operations of the Southern Kansas road, formerly reported separately. It is also to be remembered that the Atchison had some loss in earnings a year ago,—though only on its own lines, those of the Southern Kansas recording an increase. Lest, however, the extent of this loss be overdrawn, we give below the result on the combined roads for three years.

|---|---|---|---|
| Gross earnings | $1,172,348 | $1,065,794 | $1,145,249 |
| Operating expenses | 569,064 | 649,719 | 775,115 |
| Net | $603,284 | $416,075 | $369,894 |

This statememt shows that the gross receipts are larger not only than in 1883 but also larger (on a slight addition to mileage) than in 1882, when the Atchison was experiencing an exceptional period of prosperity. But the course of expenses is even more noteworthy than that of earnings. With increasing business, the cost of operating appears to be steadily diminishing. The reduction between 1882 and 1883 was perhaps natural, since up to the latter year the company had been spending large amounts for renewals and improvements which it charged to ordinary expenses, but the further reduction in the present year could only be effected through increased economies and excellent management—which, indeed, the reputation that the road has acquired justifies one in expecting.

Louisville & Nashville net earnings, which we have obtained this week for the month of February, fall behind those of a year ago, and the same was also true of the January figures. It will be remembered, however, that the company's business during these months was interfered with by rains and floods, which interrupted connections with lines north of the Ohio and caused a falling off in the volume of traffic, while, at the same time, expenses were increased in repairing the damage done to the property by these influences. The effect is seen in a loss of $20,500 net in February, and of $120,500 for the two months to the end of February. The falling off was less in February than in January, partly because the former month had already suffered a decrease in the previous year. To show the result for four years past, we have prepared the following table.

|---|---|---|---|---|
| | $ | $ | $ | $ |
| Gross earnings | 1,015,431 | 1,014,807 | 960,315 | 805,124 |
| Operating expenses | 713,127 | 691,917 | 588,874 | 603,556 |
| Net | 302,304 | 322,890 | 371,441 | 201,568 |
| Jan. 1 to Feb. 28. | | | | |
| Gross earnings | 2,034,748 | 2,133,542 | 1,924,842 | 1,622,084 |
| Operating expenses | 1,449,002 | 1,407,197 | 1,210,205 | 1,170,122 |
| Net | 605,746 | 726,345 | 714,637 | 451,962 |

Compared with either 1883 or 1882, the exhibit is found to be unfavorable, but that, it will be seen, is chiefly by reason of the fact that the net result in both those years was exceptionally good. If we go back to 1881 we see how large the gain was in those years. The two months then recorded net of only $451,962, while in 1882 this was raised to $714,637, an increase of nearly 60 per cent, and in 1883 was further augmented to $726,345. The falling off this year, therefore (to $605,746), though large, still leaves a considerable improvement on 1881. Besides, the decrease in these two months is by no means to be accepted as an indication of what subsequent months will show. For the reasons mentioned, the result in January and February was necessarily unfavorable, and a change has already taken place—at least in the gross earnings. For January these showed a decrease of $79,418, for February there was a falling off of $22,500 according to the approximate figures which the actual figures however have transformed into a small increase, and now the month of March records quite a handsome gain. Considering the continued depression in business and the contraction in the cotton movement (as compared with 1883) this latter is certainly an encouraging feature.

Philadelphia & Reading's statement for February, issued last Saturday, was unfavorable, as everybody supposed it would be. As in previous months, coal production was restricted, and this apparently (judging from the tonnage statements of the different lines) bears more heavily upon the Reading than upon any of the other coal producers. The extent of its loss on that account is not reflected in the monthly traffic statistics, since these include this year the operations of the Central of New Jersey (a large coal carrier itself), while last year only the Reading's own operations were covered. Taking out the leased road, however, we find that the Reading had a coal tonnage of only 359,051 tons this year, against 590,007 tons in the same month of 1883, which gives us a clearer idea of the extent of the falling off in this class of traffic. The movement of general merchandise and of passengers was quite encouraging. The additional day that February contained this year helped of course in producing the better result, but even with that qualification the comparison is favorable, and when one recalls the general inactivity of business prevailing, this movement will be considered a very promising feature. Excluding the Central of New Jersey, the merchandise tonnage was 520,642 tons in 1884 and 515,966 tons in 1883, while the number of passengers carried reached the large aggregate of 889,449, against 780,923 in the same month of the preceding year. But the loss on coal more than offset this gain, as is shown in the following table, prepared in our usual way. As the method of making up this return has been questioned, we wish to re-affirm its accuracy. It is claimed that we should not take out the Central's net and then in addition the loss on operating the same line. But that is precisely what should be done, for if the Reading has to pay out this month on account of the lease the whole of the Central's net ($291,136) and contribute besides $180,682 to make good the amount called for under its rental agreement, clearly both items affect the result and should be deducted. Below is the statement.

| Philadelphia & Reading RR. | February. | | Three Months. | |
| | 1884. | 1883. | 1883-84. | 1882-83. |

| Actual net result | 76,030 | 630,081 | 568,619 | 2,138,742 |

* Deficiency.

Thus, after making allowance for payments on account of the Central New Jersey, the Reading had $76,030 in February to apply to its own charges for interest, rentals, &c., against $630,081 in the corresponding period of 1883, making its total for the three months of the fiscal year $568,619, against $2,138,742 in the same period of 1882-3, a falling off of $1,570,123. These less favorable results, as is well known, are due to special causes, which are not expected to continue, the belief being that the company's business during the remaining three quarters of the year will furnish a far better exhibit. Of course, for the Central New Jersey, the later spring and summer months are always its harvest season, while the conditions affecting the coa traffic of both roads ought from this time to be more propitious.

The following shows relative prices of leading bonds and stocks in London and New York at the opening each day.

The above shows the actual changes in the bank holdings of gold and currency caused by this movement to and from the interior. In addition to that movement, the banks have gained $1,500,000 through the operations of the Sub-Treasury and lost $1,600,000 by exports of gold. Adding these items to the above, we have the following, which should indicate the total loss to the New York Clearing House banks of gold and currency for the week covered by the bank statement to be issued to-day.

The Bank of England lost £130,000 bullion during the week. This represents £203,000 received from abroad and £333,000 sent to the interior. The Bank of France shows a gain of 1,175,000 francs gold and of 2,700,000 francs silver, and the Bank of Germany, if correctly reported, lost 21,680,000 marks. The following indicates the amount of bullion in the principal European banks this week and at the corresponding date last year.

THE NECESSITY FOR TAX REDUCTIONS.

The first of April Treasury statements, read in the light of the present business depression, suggest how urgent the need is that Congress formulate its revenue measures at the earliest moment practicable. What can be gained by a longer delay of the tariff bill? If it is to be finally lost, as current belief indicates, it would be better to end the agony at once; then other remedies for our overflowing treasury could be attempted. This month's debt statement shows that the March revenue paid all disbursements and left a surplus of nearly 15 millions of dollars, forcing Secretary Folger to make another call of 10 millions of the three per cent bonds. Thus while all our industries are unprofitable and depressed, we draw from them these excessive contributions to pay a debt which, for special reasons, no one wants paid.

It is interesting to notice the sources from which this revenue is coming in, as that shows us in what degree the attempt of last year to stop the flow of money into the Treasury has been successful, and gives a pretty clear indication with reference to the necessity for further tax reduction. It will be remembered that the Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee estimated the loss to the revenue by the tariff changes at $45,000,000, and by the internal revenue modifications at $34,790,334. Three-quarters of the year have now passed and the following statement shows the results.

We here see that for the nine months internal revenue and miscellaneous receipts together (miscellaneous includes the remitted tax on national bank deposits) have reached about 111¼ million dollars, against about 139½ millions last year, a loss of 28¼ millions to April 1. As the bank deposit tax contributed nothing to the miscellaneous receipts during the last three months of 1883, and as the receipts on the whiskey tax are likely to be large the coming three months, we may estimate the loss for the year from the internal taxes remitted by last Congress at say 24 million dollars, instead of the 34¾ millions estimated. It should also be stated that our internal revenue taxes have in the past shown a constant growth (with the rates unchanged), and hence we may further assume that the result for the next fiscal year (with no change in these taxes) is likely to be somewhat better than for the year 1883-84.

But the most instructive part of the above exhibit is the customs receipts. Comparing with the corresponding months of 1882–83, the loss this year in this department of the revenue appears to have been—

In the second quarter, 5¼ million dollars.

In the third quarter, only 3 million dollars.

In other words the falling off in revenue on account of the changes in the tariff (which in the aggregate has been less than 16 millions) is a constantly decreasing item, so that the last quarter shows an average loss of only a million dollars a month! But this is not all, for the most surprising fact remains to be stated, and that is that this loss is alone due to a falling off in imports and not to the revision of the tariff. The following table will make this point evident.

*Estimated.

In the above we have given for the two years, first the total merchandise imports during each of the nine months, second a similar statement of the customs receipts, and third the percentage the customs receipts have borne to the total merchandise imports for the same months. We are aware that our percentage may be criticised as being calculated on the total imports and not upon the dutiable imports. But we have not the detailed figures so as to be able to make up the latter statement. Besides, it must be remembered we are not attempting to state the average rate of duty paid; that is a point of questionable importance in this discussion, as the free list was not the same at the two periods. What one wants to know is, how does the present tariff, compared with the tariff of a year ago, bear upon or affect our ordinary imports. That can only be shown as we have done it.

This statement therefore brings out the remarkable result that for the last quarter our customs revenue has fallen off only 3 million dollars, although the imports are more than 10 millions less, so that the percentage of customs duties to imports is really larger in 1884 than for the same months of 1883, being thirty and thirty-two one hundredths per cent now, against thirty and twenty-eight one hundredths per cent then. In other words, we are authorized to conclude that if the country had been fairly prosperous, and the imports had even equaled those of a year ago, the customs duties this year under the new tariff would have been larger than last year under the old tariff. Nor would the increase be measured by the above percentage, for it is reasonable to infer that in that contingency the customs revenue would have shown a greater percentage when computed on the total imports than even the above percentage indicates, because in dull times when prices at home are exceptionally low, the tariff of necessity becomes a greater relative obstruction to dutiable goods.

These exhibits thus clearly indicate that the work of tax reduction has now to contend with new conditions. First is the fact that with the present tariff continued we can not anticipate more than 12 millions loss in revenue from customs duties for the fiscal year ending with July 1885, compared with the amount so received for the year ending with July 1883, and if business should revive so that imports increased the revenue from that source would be still larger than in 1883. Second, from internal taxes and miscellaneous items with the laws as they now stand, the loss to the Government in 1884-5 cannot reach more than about 24 million dollars compared with 1882-83. The total revenue for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1883, was 398¼ million dollars; deducting 36 millions leaves 362¼ millions as the amount which it is reasonable to anticipate existing laws would produce in 1884-5.

What the disbursements will be, depends within certain limits, on the action of Congress. The natural presumption is, as there is a disposition to make a record for economy, that the appropriations will be less even than last year. At all events, the demand for interest will be a little less, and the pension payments, we presume, are likely to be less also, so that leaving out the sinking fund requirement (which in view of the depressed condition of all our industries and the disturbance to our national bank currency the further payment of bonds would cause, may well be disregarded for a year or two), we have left probably about 120 millions of revenue the country could dispense with and be benefitted by so doing. For of all the influences to which the existing business depression is chargeable, every one will admit that prominent among them is our burdensome taxation. Exacting such useless contributions from industries already in a moribund condition, is about as wise as bleeding a patient in the last stages of starvation.

GROWTH OF THE CHICAGO BURLINGTON AND QUINCY RAILROAD.

The Chicago Burlington & Quincy report affords striking evidence of the growth and expansion that our Northwestern systems of railroad have undergone during the last ten or twelve years. It is of course a familiar fact that the Chicago Milwaukee & St. Paul and the Chicago & Northwestern have very largely increased their mileage and operations, but it is not so generally recognized that the Burlington & Quincy is no less distinguished in the same way. The management of this road has always been so careful and so prudent, and the property has enjoyed such an unbroken period of prosperity as the result of this, that many think that the system is not materially different to-day from what it was prior to the crisis of 1873. But amid the general expansion and consolidation in progress, the Burlington & Quincy could not stand still without inviting decay, and the management, recognizing the requirements of the times, promptly and effectively met them.

The rapidity and extent of this development is strikingly indicated by the statement that the Quincy at present operates directly 3,322 miles of road, and indirectly about 1,000 miles more, while at the beginning of 1873 it controlled less than 800 miles in all. In the latter year the first marked addition to the system was made. Prior to that time its possessions were confined chiefly to the State of Illinois. Then the Burlington & Missouri River lines in Iowa, which for some time previously had been managed in its interest, (being owned by the same parties), were taken into the company, with the result of moving the Western confines of the system from the Mississippi to the Missouri River. Subsequently the purchase of a line to St. Louis and other smaller lines was effected, and in 1880 the Missouri River, too, was crossed and the Burlington & Missouri River in Nebraska added to the system. The latter road was then, as is known, extended to Denver (the extension being completed in 1882), which gave the Burlington & Quincy a continuous line under its own management all the way from Chicago to Denver, a distance of over 1,050 miles. It is this latter extension that has given the Union Pacific and other lines so much trouble and which led to the famous tripartite arrangement late in 1883. Since 1879 various other roads have been acquired, chief among them being the Kansas City St. Joseph & Council Bluffs (Omaha to Kansas City), the St. Joseph & Des Moines, the Burlington & Southwestern, and the St. Louis Keokuk & Northwestern. The latest acquisition — the Hannibal & St. Joseph — was added during the past year. The result is, that the Burlington & Quincy has very short and eligible routes to Kansas City, Omaha, St. Louis and Denver, which enables it to compete successfully for the business from and to all those cities.

A strong point always with the Burlington & Quincy has been the extent of the numerous branch roads in the system, all of them of course tributary to the main stem. This was a feature of the original system in Illinois, then became no less marked in the case of the lines in Iowa, and is now being applied in the development of the lines in Nebraska. It is by means of these various and numerous feeders that the road has managed to protect its local business from the encroachments of rival lines, and this peculiarity constitutes one of the main elements of strength possessed by it. Still, even a comprehensive system of branch roads can offer no guarantee against agricultural reverses—on the contrary, would make their influence all the more marked—and hence when for two successive years the crops in the territory tributary to the company's lines (chiefly corn) suffered a serious contraction, the business of the road remained practically stationary, notwithstanding the additions that had been made to its mileage. With a return of a year of good crops, however, this was speedily changed, and in 1883 we find a gain of over 4½ millions in gross earnings and nearly 2½ millions in net. To show the progress made in this respect each year since 1873 (when the system was first extended beyond the Mississippi), as well as the growth of stock and debt in the same time, we have prepared the subjoined tables.

Here we see that gross earnings have risen from less than 11½ millions to over 26 millions, and net from below five millions to more than 12½ millions, the latter being a million greater than the gross in 1873—this, too, exclusive of the thousand miles or so controlled, but not directly operated, by the Burlington & Quincy. Both dividend charges and interest requirements, it will be seen, have more than doubled in the ten years. A feature of the company's operations in recent times has been the setting aside each year of a certain sum from net earnings for new outlays on account of construction and the improvement of the property. Hitherto, the largest amount so spent in any twelve-month period was 1¼ millions in 1880, while in 1882 the amount was only ¾ of a million, but in the past year a million and a half was applied in this way. Yet, notwithstanding the increase in this item, the company had a surplus close on to a million dollars above all charges, or but a trifle below the largest surplus ever reported in any previous year;—that was in 1880, when a quarter million less had been contributed to renewal fund, and the interest and dividend requirements were two millions smaller. This surplus, moreover, is independent of the receipts from land sales, which in 1882 contributed $1,329,725 additional, but in 1883 contributed, it is stated, (we have not the exact figures), a smaller amount.

Of course, the expansion in mileage has brought with it a large addition to capital and debt, so that the company now has a total of 149¼ millions of stock and bonds, against less than 52 millions in 1873. Not all of the increase in capital, from 26½ to 72 millions, was on account of new mileage, some of it having been caused by a distribution of stock in the shape of scrip dividends to stockholders; nor is the increase in the debt (from 25½ to 77½ millions) wholly represented by the 2,058 miles of road which the company has directly added to its system—a good portion of it represents the cost of acquiring control of the various auxiliary and connecting roads, already alluded to, (about 1,000 miles in extent), which are still operated on their own account. At the end of 1882, the investments in these lines figured in the books for $16,342,894, and at the end of 1883 the amount was probably not less than 25 millions, since 9 millions of debenture bonds were issued during the year to cover the cost of the Hannibal & St. Joseph purchase from Mr. Gould. At present, this whole amount (and which is covered by the company's own interest-bearing obligations) appears to be unproductive—that is, it yields no direct income. The report tells us that the roads which this investment secured were operated in 1883 at a profit of about a million dollars above all expenses and above the charges on their outstanding obligations not held by the Burlington & Quincy, but that this balance was applied to improvements and the purchase of new rolling stock, &c. Of course the value of these acquisitions lies in the business which they secure to the Burlington & Quincy, but no doubt some day they will also become directly profitable. In that event the company would have, besides the income on its own lines and the receipts from land sales, of larger or smaller amount, this additional source of profit.

THE CONGO QUESTION.

The conviction seems to be pretty general that the British Government has got itself into a fresh difficulty in connection with African affairs. The language used by Judge Daly on Monday evening in his annual address before the American Geographical Society, and the report of the Senate Committee a week ago, seem to us to express the prevailing feeling.

As the subject is new, it requires some specific statement to make it intelligible to the general reader. It is now a little over six years, since Mr. Stanley made the famous discovery that the Congo was the great artery of Central Africa, and worked his way from the vast water-shed down the river westward to the sea. Public attention was immediately called to this river as offering a new and most desirable channel between Central Africa and the nations of the West. The result was the organization of an international association under the presidency of the King of the Belgians, and the adoption of measures whereby the newly-discovered water-way should be turned to satisfactory account. A well-equipped expedition was sent out under Stanley, and it was to be the business of the expedition to plant stations along the line of the river, so as to connect the mouth of the Congo with Kavema on Lake Tanganyika, and from there eastward across the continent to Zanzibar.

This expedition has worked with singular success for a period of nearly six years; and some recent travelers speak of the whole enterprise in the most flattering and encouraging manner. At Stanley Pool, a large body of water, far in the interior, formed by the widening of the Congo, and at a considerable elevation above the sea level, a town has been planned, and Mr. Stanley has made it his headquarters. It has become the headquarters also of several of the missionary societies. A Mr. Johnstone, who has just published an account of a visit he made to Stanley a few months ago, writes in enthusiastic terms of Stanley Pool and of the prospects of the enterprise. Everything he says indicates the growth at that point where Leopoldville is planted, of a great city which shall be the emporium of Central Africa; and, according to him, the climate is not such as to deter the white man from pushing his fortunes in those regions.

Difficulties have, from the commencement, been experienced by Mr. Stanley and his people, in consequence of a rival scheme headed by de Brazza, a Frenchman; and the French Government some time ago came to de Brazza's aid in a very substantial manner. These difficulties, however, did not hinder the work of the International Association, which recognized the superior authority of no one nation in Central Africa, or along the line of the Congo; and Stanley, in the name of the association, made treaties with the natives. The International Committee has, in fact, thrown open to the trade of the world this vast tract of country; and they have done so at great expense and at a large sacrifice in various ways. In these circumstances, after so many years of toil, and when it seemed as if they were about to reap the reward of their labors, Portugal steps forward and claims the entire territory from the mouth of the Congo to the very heart of Africa.

It was seen that the recognition of these claims would embarrass the International Committee, and efforts were made to prevent any of the Great Powers from encouraging them. It was believed that the British Government was pledged to take a course in harmony with the wishes of the Committee. It now appears, however, that Lord Granville, dreading the triumph of France in the matter, has signed a treaty with Portugal, according to which, in consideration of certain important concessions, England recognizes the sovereignty of the Portuguese Government over the Lower Congo. Under this treaty, it will be competent for the Portuguese Government to impose what is known as the "Mozambique Tariff" on all nations who shall make any use of the Congo River, or the adjoining coast line, for trading purposes. It is unnecessary to say that this arrangement does a great wrong, not only to the International Committee, but to all trading nations. It asserts at once superior sovereignty, and makes null and void all treaty arrangements already concluded between Stanley and the native tribes.

The recognition of this claim by England is the less defensible that it rests upon a basis which in these times seems a little absurd. Some four hundred years ago a Portuguese mariner touched at the mouth of this great river, planted a memorial stone at a place now known as Point Padron, and so took possession of the entire country in the name of his royal master. From that time till now, the Portuguese have paid little heed to this important piece of property; but now, when it has been made valuable by the labor and enterprise of others, they revive a claim which, as Judge Daly wisely said, they had long since forfeited by non-user.

This whole affair must be re opened. It is a case for International arrangement. Great Britain cannot be allowed, any more than any other power, to spring a surprise upon the nations. It concerns all the trading countries, ourselves included; and we cannot afford to be indifferent in the circumstances. An emphatic protest, in the spirit of the Senatorial Committee's report, should be presented at once. Those African lands should be held for the benefit, not of one nation, but of all. The conduct of Great Britain is the less justifiable that the Government of that country has repeatedly and decidedly protested against the claims of Portugal in the premises.

THE FEBRUARY TRADE STATEMENT.

The trade figures for the month of February, issued this week by the Bureau of Statistics, are more favorable than one would anticipate, judging from the high rates for foreign exchange ruling through the months of this year. And yet the record is not indicative of a healthy movement. Of course, no such balance as recorded in some of the months immediately preceding could be looked for, but the excess of exports is even smaller than it was a year ago, and much smaller than in the same month of some other good years. This excess in 1883 was 10½ millions, and for February this year is only 6½ millions. In 1881 the balance was as much as 20 millions, and in 1879 nearly 29½ millions, chiefly however by reason of smaller imports. On the other hand, in 1880 (a period of temporary depression in our trade) the balance was only 4½ millions, and in 1882 (after the crop failure of 1881) was against us in the sum of 2½ millions. The following shows the merchandise movement to and from each leading port for February, and since January 1.

These figures are particularly interesting in the light of the large shipments of specie that occurred during the same month, and they demonstrate anew that the outflow of gold is not wholly to be attributed to the state of our trade. The net export of gold and silver for the month is reported at $4,461,815, which added to the balance on merchandise, makes a total excess of exports of over 11 millions. Standing alone, this is more than the largest allowance generally made as due from us for interest on securities held abroad, undervaluation of imports, freight charges, &c. (which, at 100 millions a year, gives only about 8 millions a month), but when taken in connection with a balance in our favor of considerably over 60 millions on the trade of the three months immediately preceding, it presents strong evidence of other influences at work affecting the drain of gold, to which we have alluded on previous occasions.

It may perhaps appear strange that the falling off in the merchandise exports was no heavier than it is, in view of the large contraction that has taken place in our breadstuffs and provisions shipments. Of course, the fact that February this year had one day more than February last year is not to be lost sight of, but notwithstanding this fact the breadstuffs aggregate reached only $10,103,388, against $15,773,010 in February, 1883, a loss of $5,669,622, to which the provisions movement further added $2,831,565, making an aggregate loss on these two items of $8,501,187. In the total merchandise movement, however, the loss is only about 5½ millions, and it is therefore apparent that gains in other items of exports must have partially offset the loss in breadstuffs and provisions. Examination of our cotton figures shows that that staple contributed the greater part of the gain in these other items. The shipments for February, 1884, were 435,259 bales, while in February, 1883, they were 408,855 bales, or 26,404 bales less, and this would add about 1½ million dollars to values in 1884. Besides, the price of the staple was higher (about ⅛c. per pound), which would make the total gain in the one item of cotton over 2½ million dollars. Petroleum also seems to have been shipped more freely judging by the figures at the port of New York, which show a slight gain in quantity contemporaneously with the prevalence of higher prices. Taking cotton and petroleum then, in connection with the breadstuffs and provisions figures, and the variation in the total exports is easily understood. The following shows the breadstuffs and provisions exports from each port.

The principal feature in the breadstuffs shipments is of course the continued heavy falling off in the exports of wheat, which has this time extended to the product of wheat, flour, while corn also exhibits a large decline. The loss for the month is $2,200,000 in wheat, $1,900,000 in flour, and $1,800,000 in corn. Rye, on the other hand, is again conspicuous for a large gain. The total exports of that cereal in the two months of last year were only 111,000 bushels, while in the two months of this year they are 676,000 bushels. Below are the figures.

In the provisions exports the items of beef products maintain their totals of last year pretty well, but pork products, which constitute by far the largest part of the shipments, exhibit a heavy falling off, particularly bacon and lard, which together lose nearly 2½ million dollars for February, and 5 million dollars for January and February combined. This is shown below.

COTTON CONSUMPTION AND OVERLAND MOVEMENT TO APRIL 1.

This week we are able to bring down our overland statements to the 1st of April. The figures now cover seven months of the crop season.

OVERLAND MOVEMENT TO APRIL 1, 1884.

Gross shipments by rail during the month record an increase over the figures for the same month of 1883 and 1882, but the aggregate for the seven months is still behind the totals for the same period in the two previous seasons. The March movement has been 111,249 bales, against 106,162 bales last year and 94,716 bales during the same month of 1882; for the seven months of the season the figures reach 873,670 bales, against 939,656 bales for the same months of 1882–83 and 917,085 bales for the corresponding period of the previous year. This movement has been largely at the expense of the interior towns stocks, which are now fully 90,000 bales less than on March 1. The net movement for the month is also considerably in excess of the two previous years, reaching 65,258 bales, against 45,768 bales in March, 1883, and 41,118 bales in 1882, and making the total for the season thus far 526,328 bales, against 572,324 bales last season and 394,473 bales in 1881–82. Our usual table, giving in detail the movement for the seven months of this year and the two preceding years, is as follows.

RECEIPTS, EXPORTS AND SPINNERS' TAKINGS.

As clearly indicated by our weekly statements, a further decline from last year's figures is noted in the receipts at the ports, the month's movement being only 241,514 bales, against 482,772 bales in 1883 and 257,099 bales in 1882. The total for the seven months of the season now reaches 4,595,118 bales, against 5,345,670 bales last season and 1,299,640 bales in 1881-82. Exports to foreign ports exhibit a large decrease from last year's March total, and are slightly below the figures of 1882. For the crop year up to date the exports have reached 3,323,883 bales, against 1,718,183 bales and 2,685,858 bales respectively in the two preceding years. Port and interior-towns stocks have been drawn upon rather freely during the month, and, combined, are now about 255,000 bales below last year. Our usual table of receipts, exports and stocks is as follows.

Using the facts disclosed by the foregoing statements, we shall find that the portion of the crop which has reached a market through the outports and overland, and the Southern consumption since September 1 this year and the two previous years, is as follows.

|---|---|---|---|
| Receipts at the ports to April 1.... bales. | 4,595,118 | 5,345,670 | 1,299,640 |
| Net shipments overland during same time | 526,328 | 572,324 | 794,473 |
| Total receipts.....bales. | 5,121,446 | 5,917,994 | 1,685,113 |
| Southern consumption since September 1 | 236,000 | 240,000 | 190,000 |
| Total to April 1.....bales. | 5,357,446 | 6,157,994 | 1,875,113 |

The amount of cotton marketed since September 1 in 1883-84 is thus seen to be 800,548 bales less than in 1882-83 and 482,333 bales more than in 1881-82. To determine the portion which has gone into the hands of Northern spinners during the same period, we have prepared the following.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Total receipts to April 1, 1884, as above.....bales. | | 5,357,446 |
| Stock on hand commencement of year (Sept. 1, 1883)— | | |
| At Northern ports | 135,180 | |
| At Southern ports | 96,926 | —232,106 |
| At Providence, &c., Northern interior markets. | 5,011 | —237,117 |
| Total supply to April 1, 1884 | | 5,594,563 |
| Of this supply there has been exported to foreign ports since Sept. 1, 1883, bales. 3,323,883 | | |
| Less foreign cotton included | 6,030 | —3,317,853 |
| Sent to Canada direct from West | | 15,947 |
| Burnt North and South | | 12,138 |
| Stock on hand end of month (April 1, 1884)— | | |
| At Northern ports.....bales. | 378,066 | |
| At Southern ports | 341,908 | —719,974 |
| At Providence, &c., Northern interior markets | 10,940 | —1,076,248 |
| Total takings by spinners since September 1, 1883 | | 1,282,345 |
| Taken by Southern spinners | | 230,060 |
| Taken by Northern spinners since September 1, 1883 | | 1,282,345 |
| Taken by Northern spinners same time in 1882-83 | | 1,434,987 |
| Decrease in takings by Northern spinners this year...bales. | | 152,642 |

The above indicates that Northern spinners had up to April 1 taken 1,282,345 bales, a decrease from the corresponding period of 1882-83 of 152,642 bales and from the same months of 1881-82 of 28,406 bales.

AMOUNT OF CROP NOW IN SIGHT.

In the foregoing we have the number of bales which has already been marketed this year and the two previous seasons. An additional fact of interest is the total of the crop which was in sight on April 1, compared with previous years. We reach that point by adding to the above the stock remaining at that date at the interior towns, less stock held by them at the beginning of the season. In this manner we find the result for three years on April 1 to be as follows.

| Total marketed, as above...bales. | 5,357,446 | 6,157,994 | 4,875,113 |
| Interior stocks in excess of Sept. 1 | 88,000 | 249,000 | 187,757 |
| Total in sight.....bales. | 5,445,446 | 6,407,994 | 5,062,870 |

This indicates that the movement up to April 1 of the present year is 962,548 bales less than in 1882-83 and 382,576 bales more than in 1881-82.

Comparing the movement up to the end of March, this year, with the movement in previous years we find, first, that should no further decrease from the figures of last year take place during the remainder of the season, the crop would reach about 6,029,686 bales; second, should the increase now exhibited over 1881-82 be unchanged the crop would be 5,818,421 bales. As it will interest the reader to see what has come into sight each month of the season during this and previous years, we have prepared the following, which shows the movement for the last three seasons.

| Months. | 1883-84. | 1882-83. | 1881-82. |
| September | 459,047 | 462,336 | 550,673 |

| March | 262,772 | 518,540 | 207,974 |

WEIGHT OF BALES.

It will be noticed that the movement up to April 1 shows a decrease in the average weight as compared with the same periods of the last two years, the average this year being 482·72 lbs. per bale, against 490·67 lbs. per bale for the same time in 1882-83 and 473·99 in 1881-82.

THE COTTON GOODS TRADE IN MARCH.

There has been a light and rather unsatisfactory demand for cotton goods at first hands in the principal markets the past month, operations on the part of jobbers and the manufacturing trade having been almost wholly of a hand-to-mouth character. But, notwithstanding the slack trade, prices of plain and colored cottons have remained steady. This has been due to a sharp advance in raw cotton, which tended to impart more firmness, some brands of brown goods having been marked up by agents towards the close of the month, at which time the aspect of the general market was stronger than for some time past. Print cloths have been in fair demand, and close firm at considerably higher prices than ruled the first half of the month. The stock of print cloths shows a slight reduction during the month, the total in the hands of manufacturers and speculators now reaching 639,000 pieces, against 741,000 pieces on March 1, 1884, and 746,000 pieces on April 1, 1883.

FINANCIAL REVIEW OF MARCH, 1884.

The month recently closed was devoid of any startling events in the financial world. The principal topic of more than local interest occasioning any discussion was the export of gold from the United States to foreign countries, which amounted in all to about $11,000,000. This export of gold, however, was not without certain wholesome effects, as it drew public attention to the silver question and the continued coinage of legal tender dollars by the United States Government, and it also brought up the fact that an outflow of gold from this country is yet a possibility under certain contingencies; for the idea had rather grown up in late years that there was never likely to be another export movement of gold from the United States.

Another important occurrence was the break in the price of wheat at Chicago and New York. This had been expected for some time, and if the reduction in prices had come several months earlier, it would have been far better for the financial situation.

The money market remained easy, as usual, and the rates on call loans were scarcely influenced by the decrease of specie in the banks, as the surplus reserves were still much above those of last year.

At the Stock Exchange there was no great activity, but in the early part of the month there was much firmness in stocks, owing in part to the fact that the shorts had been frightened by the sharp pressure brought to bear on one stock and another whenever it had been heavily oversold. One of these turns was the squeeze in Lackawanna on March 1, when the price was quickly forced up from 128 "regular" to 139½ "cash," with heavy losses to the bears; and another was made in New York Central, which was pressed up to 122 March 13. Mr. Jay Gould took a trip to the South for a few weeks, and while he was absent prices generally sagged off, so that the rumor went round that he had been active in the previous upward turn and had realized on some of his holdings. A more potent cause for lower prices, however, was found in the reports of railroad earnings, which made a very bad showing—the trunk lines, the coal roads, and the so-called grangers, all showing a large decrease from 1883.

Foreign exchange, as indicated above by the gold movement, was very strong, and specie was shipped at a profit. In the latter part of the month there were several loans placed abroad, which furnished a supply of bills and diminished the pressure to ship gold, while a reduction in the Bank of England rate also had the effect of easing the demand for money in London.

The following summary shows the condition of the New York City Clearing House banks, rate of foreign exchange, and prices of leading securities and articles of merchandise, on or about the 1st of April, 1882, 1883 and 1884.

LONDON, Saturday, March 22, 1884.

In nearly every department of business, the greatest quietness continues to prevail, and there are no indications of immediate improvement. The fineness of the weather, the favorable crop prospects, and the large influx of gold, together with the fact that the money market must become easier before long, have but little influence, except that the Stock Exchange shows more steadiness in values. The actual business doing is.

however, upon the most restricted scale, and the complaints are great, especially as it is difficult just now to see how any new and favorable departure can be taken. We are entering upon the slack period of the year. We have already during the season imported largely, and of many articles the stocks are large. This is prominently the case with regard to wheat, flour, sugar, coffee, rice and sago. The purchases of those articles have been made at low prices, and, therefore, to our advantage. Were some stimulus to be given to business, handsome profits would be realized by merchants: but there is not, at present, any encouragement, and the business doing is strictly for immediate consumption.

There is a very general impression that before long an appeal will have to be made to the constituencies, as there is much dissatisfaction with regard to the Egyptian policy of the present government. There is a disposition, as is usual when business is bad and profits small, to attribute the position of things to one cause, and with this idea people say that a change of government would be effective of good. But the unfortunate fact is that a Conservative Government is not likely to create confidence, and the well-known saying of the late Lord Beaconsfield that the last Liberal Ministry was composed of "extinct volcanoes" applies as much to one side of the House as to the other. Undoubtedly the desires of the country are that the Egyptian difficulty should be settled as quickly as possible in a satisfactory and permanent manner, and that greater attention should be paid to domestic reforms, and especially to diminished expenditure.

This week's Bank return is quite as favorable as had been anticipated, and there now appears to be a certainty that the prediction of a very easy money market will be verified before long. The increase in the supply of bullion amounts to as much as £1,619,262, against a recorded influx of £1,333,000. A moderate amount of coin has been returned therefore from provincial circulation. There is a falling off of £250,850 in the note circulation, and the improvement in the total reserve is as much as £1,870,112, compared with last week. The Bank of England is now in a position of considerable strength, and the proportion of reserve to liabilities is 47·04 per cent, against 40⅞ per cent last year. The supply of gold is £25,252,434, against £22,620,724: while the reserve of notes and coin is £16,979,269, against £13,596,059 in 1883. Further considerable supplies of American gold have been sent into the Bank since Wednesday night, and the next weekly statement is certain to exhibit favorable results.

The Clearing House return for the week ended last Wednesday gave a total of £123,946,000, contrasting with £117,294,000 last year. In each return, a Stock Exchange fortnightly settlement is included, but while the clearances this year on "pay-day" were £36,283,000, the total last year was as much as £53,050,000. This is a great difference, and seems to indicate that Stock Exchange business has fallen away to the extent of one million sterling per day: and the comparison would be much more unfavorable were it extended to actually prosperous times.

The Bank of England still exercises great control over the money market, and the value of short loans is very satisfactorily maintained, very little money being obtainable under the Bank rate of 3 per cent. The discount market has been decidedly quiet, the supply of bills being very limited. The rates have been falling away, and three months' bank bills as taken at 2⅝ per cent.

The following are the quotations for money and the interest allowed by the discount houses to-day and same day of the previous five weeks:

Gold.—There has been but little demand for gold during the week and the imports, which have been very large from America and the Continent, have been sent into the Bank, the total so disposed of being £1,126,000. As the exchanges from the United States keep high, further shipments may be looked for. We have received £853,000 from the United States, £4,930 from the West Indies and £24,910 from the Brazils; total, £879,840. The Elbe takes £5,000 to the West Indies.

Silver.—Owing to lower exchanges from the East the price of bars declined, and the amount by the West India steamer was sold at 50⅞d. per oz. A slight rise in values has since taken place, the arrivals having been small and the Indian exchanges having somewhat improved, and the nearest quotation we can give to-day is 50[illegible]d. per oz. The amounts to hand comprise £14,900 from the West Indies, £5,700 from River Plate and £12,000 from the United States; total, £62,600. The Elbe has taken £12,320 to the West Indies, and the P. & O. steamer £55,000 to Bombay.

Mexican Dollars.—The amount by the French steamer (£180,000 in value) was taken at 49⅝d. per ounce, chiefly for refining purposes. The price has declined in sympathy with bar silver. We have received about £12,000 from New York.

The quotations for bullion are reported as follows:

Tenders will be received at the Bank of England on the 1st of April for £1,516,000 Treasury bills in the usual amounts to replace bills about to mature.

The weather in the early part of the week was bright and warm; but the temperature has since fallen, and some drying winds are having a good effect upon heavy soils. A large amount of work has been done in the fields during the week, and nearly all accounts agree in stating that there is every prospect of a good yield of agricultural produce. The small quantity of really fine wheat which is reaching us from abroad induces merchants and factors to hold out for better terms, but success only attends the effort in a few of the inland markets. The scarcity of really fine wheat seems to be the leading feature in the trade just now; but some very fine Australasian wheats, of the new crop, are nearing the coast, and it is expected that they will meet with an easy sale.

Some of the South Russian ports are now open to navigation at a much earlier period than usual.

The following return shows the extent of the sales of home-grown wheat, barley and oats in the 187 leading markets of England and Wales during the first 29 weeks of the season, together with the average prices realized, compared with 150 markets in previous seasons:

☞ This aggregate is arrived at by multiplying the sales in the 187 markets above by $3\frac{1}{3}$, and that result is reduced to cwt. by multiplying it by $4\frac{1}{3}$. This proportion between the 187 markets and the totals for the kingdom is adopted by the London grain trade and is accepted by it as producing a result approximately correct.

Annexed is a return showing the extent of the imports of cereal produce into the United Kingdom during the first twenty-nine weeks of the season, the deliveries of home-grown produce, the average price of English wheat, the visible supply of wheat in the United States, and the quantity of wheat afloat to the United Kingdom, compared with previous seasons:

LONDON, Saturday, March 15, 1884.

The directors of the Bank of England have this week reduced their minimum rate of discount from $3\frac{1}{2}$ to 3 per cent, and the change was very generally anticipated, but has not been universally commended. It is, however, difficult to see how there could have been any alternative course, as the Bank return indicates a strong position, while next week's statement will show still more satisfactory results. The supply of bullion now held amounts to the considerable total of £23,633,172, against £22,688,201 last year; while the reserve of notes and coin is £15,109,157, against £13,869,046 in 1883. The proportion of reserve to liabilities is 43·45 per cent, against 38·89 per cent last week and $42\frac{1}{2}$ per cent last year.

Those who contend that the Bank ought not to have reduced the rate this week fail to recognize the fact that the requirements of the country are now, and are likely to continue, upon a very moderate scale. Seldom is there so great a want of enterprise as is apparent at the present time, and, even after making allowance for the customary exaggerations, it is impossible to say that the condition of our commerce is otherwise than disappointing. There is, it is true, a moderate amount of legitimate business in progress, which is conducted by fewer hands than previously, as every endeavor is now made to reach the consumer by the easiest process. In a well-populated and well-to-do country like this there must always be a considerable amount of business doing for actual and immediate consumption; but this fact is certain—that there is no speculation, and no desire is shown to embark in new enterprises either in commerce or in the financial world.

Not only has this country been undergoing a protracted process of retrenchment, but all other advanced nations have been pursuing a similar course, and the ultimate result cannot be otherwise than satisfactory. "Ultimate," however, is a vague word, with an indefinite meaning, and the community are naturally anxious to know how long this condition of things is to endure. No reply can be given to that question. The general public avoid the Stock Exchange, and there are great complaints as to the paucity of business in that establishment; but, in spite of that fact, the value of securities—excepting the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada and the Suez Canal—has been very satisfactorily maintained. The domestic economies which have been in force for so long, continue, and we are now very far from being an extravagant nation; but the encouragements to trade which have, so far, failed to exercise their influence, are still prominent features, and must produce an effect at some more or less remote date. We have the Bank of England in a strong position; money is as cheap as is desirable; the weather is brilliant; and food is more likely to become cheaper than to rise in price. The country is no doubt disappointed with the Government in regard to the Egyptian crisis, but it is now to be hoped that there will be no more serious fighting, and that an arrangement will be brought about which will be both satisfactory and permanent.

The Bank of England now holds as much as £12,060,834 under the head of "public deposits," against £9,874,288 last year. The payments of imperial taxation have, therefore, been prompt, and the supply of floating money has become scarce. The Bank of England has shown, therefore, that it has control over the money market, and the rate for short loans has been as high as $3\frac{1}{2}$ to $3\frac{3}{4}$ per cent. Since the Bank rate was reduced to 3 per cent, and since the publication of a favorable Bank return, the quotation has fallen away, and only $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent is now charged. The supply of bills offering in the discount market early in the week was small, but the rate charged for three months' bank bills was $3\frac{1}{4}$ per cent. During the last two days there has been a considerable increase in the number of bills, but they have been in demand, and the quotation is $2\frac{5}{8}$ to $2\frac{3}{4}$ per cent. Nearly the whole of America's gold supplies have arrived, and we are advised of no further shipments. The New York sterling exchange is falling, and there is not at present an expectation of any immediate change in the value of money in this country.

Annexed is a statement showing the present position of the Bank of England, the Bank rate of discount, the price of consols, the average quotation for English wheat, the price of middling upland cotton, of No. 40 mule twist, fair 2d quality, and the Clearing House return for the past week, compared with previous years:

In reference to the state of the bullion market during the past week, Messrs. Pixley & Abell observe:

Gold.—The imports of gold during the week have been very large, not only from America, but from various parts of the Continent, and as, with the exception of India, there has been no demand for export, the Bank has received £780,000 since the 6th inst., being nearly the whole of the arrivals. We have had £434,600 from New York, £5,290 from Australia, £6,000 from the Cape, £274,000 from the Continent; total, £719,890. The Arizona has also arrived from New York, but her gold, £100,000 in value, will not reach London until to-morrow. £812,000 is still on the way from the States. The P. & O. steamer take £30,000 to India.

Silver.—The price of bars has slightly declined since our last, and transactions have taken place at 51 1/16d. and 51d. We quote this last as the nearest rate this day. The demand for the East has not been very active, and there has been a fall in the exchanges, as reported from India. The Cephalonia brought £40,000 from New York. The P. & O. steamers have taken £138,000 to India.

Mexican Dollars have slightly declined in value, in sympathy with the lower prices obtained for bar silver, and prices are quite nominal, there being none here. The Ville de Brest has arrived at St. Nazaire, with about £180,000, from Vera Cruz, but this sum will not be on the market for a few days. The P. & O. steamer has taken £20,900 to China and the Straits.

The shareholders of the Bank of England have held their half-yearly meeting this week, and a dividend of 5 per cent for the half-year has been declared, being at the rate of 10 per cent per annum. The following is a comparison with previous years:

The weather is unusually propitious and is very brilliant. The temperature is nigh, and vegetation is making rapid and, probably, premature progress. The only complaint, excepting low prices, which the farmers now circulate, is that the absence of frost throughout the winter does not enable them to work the heavy lands to advantage; but they have not been working under any great disadvantages, the crops looking promising and the seeding of spring corn now making rapid progress. With ample supplies, actual and prospective, the trade for wheat has lost the firmness which was perceptible in a slight degree a few days ago; but there has been no pressure of sales and prices have not varied to any important extent. There has, however, been a tendency in favor of buyers.

The following are the quantities of wheat, flour and Indian corn estimated to be afloat to the United Kingdom, Baltic supplies not being included:

The extent of the sales of home-grown wheat, barley and oats in the 187 principal markets of England and Wales during the first 28 weeks of the season, together with the average prices realized, compared with previous seasons, is shown in the following statement:

☞ This aggregate is arrived at by multiplying the sales in the 187 markets above by $31_{10}$, and that result is reduced to cwt. by multiplying it by $4\frac{1}{10}$. This proportion between the 187 markets and the totals for the kingdom is adopted by the London grain trade, and is accepted by it as producing a result approximately correct.

The following return shows the extent of the imports of cereal produce into the United Kingdom during the first 28 weeks of the season, the sales of home-grown produce, the average price of English wheat, the visible supply of wheat in the United States, the quantity of wheat and flour afloat, and the exports of wheat and flour for six months, compared with previous seasons:

Colorado Northern.—Denver Utah & Pacific.—The directors of the Colorado Northern and Denver Utah & Pacific railroads have consolidated the two roads, and on April 1 the stockholders met in Denver and ratified the agreement. The capital stock of the new company will be $6,000,000. It is proposed to extend the road from Longmont to Middle Park at once. Two hundred miles will be built the coming summer.

Toledo Cincinnati & St. Louis.—Mr. John Felt Osgood, who has resigned as Chairman of the Toledo Cincinnati & St. Louis reorganization committee, has, on behalf of the committee, presented to the security-holders a report of the present condition of the system. It is based on the recent examination of the line by a sub-committee, and by Messrs. Caten and Latchta, two experts. It divides the system into two sections, the Western—from Toledo to St. Louis, and the Southern—comprising all that portion of the line south of Delphos. The condition of both, in the matter of rails, road-bed and ties, is poor, the running of trains irregular, and, until of late much of the business transacted has been handled at a loss. In concluding the comments upon the "Western Division," the report says: "It is doubtful, from the reports on hand, if there was ever a month since the first incorporation of the road from Toledo that anything above the common expenses was earned. The great fault of the system is its narrow guage; and, after careful investigation by competent experts, one of whom is largely interested, with his friends, in the bonds of the road, your committee are of the unanimous opinion that, inasmuch as it is scarcely possible to hope for success under a receiver while the road is in an unfinished condition, and as we shall soon be forced to foreclose the mortgages, all future efforts should be in the direction of a standard-gauge road from Toledo to St. Louis, which will enable us to exchange business with the numerous crossing roads, and to compete or pool with others upon a safe basis at our terminus, and at the same time make our local business more secure. The estimated cost of bringing the road from Toledo to St. Louis up to a proper standard of narrow gauge is: By Mr. Latchta, $2,407,324; by Mr. Caten, $1,518,801; and for the same as standard gauge, by Mr. Latchta, $3,582,160; by Mr. Caten, $2,886,571; to which add terminals and equipment, say 80 engines, 3,015 cars, 35 passenger-cars and cabooses, &c., standard gauges, $2,163,000. By arranging with the equipment bondholders, who control the rolling-stock on the Southern Division, it is estimated that that section can be made a standard gauge and put into good condition for about $800,000.

—The Boston Advertiser says: "The indications are said to be that the main line from Toledo to Kokomo, and the St. Louis division from Kokomo to East St. Louis, will foreclose, reorganize and make the road of the standard gauge at the earliest time practicable. At yesterday's meeting of the General Committee proxies were appointed as follows: Main line, J. M. Quigley, John McNab and C. T. Harbeck of New York; St. Louis division, J. M. Quigley of New York and Halsey J. Boardman and Charles T. Pierce of Boston. These gentlemen will ask for proxies from the bondholders, empowering them to proceed with foreclosure and reorganization. The plan is said to be to convert the present first mortgage bonds into second mortgage bonds, to issue a new first mortgage for some $6,000,000 and an equal amount of preferred stock. The present incomes will probably also be made preferred stock and the common stock scaled down. The debentures and 25 per cent Delphos trust subscription will also be recognized. The fate of the Dayton, Southeastern, and other divisions south of the main line, is uncertain; but it looks as if they would be separated."

Utah Central.—The Utah Central Company has passed its regular quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent, due April 1. The road is leased to the Union Pacific, and extends from Ogden to Salt Lake City. The reason given for passing the dividend is that the company has not earned it, owing to the sharp competition of the Denver Company. The amount required for the dividend is $63,375. The capital stock of the company is $4,225,000, of which the Union Pacific holds $1,800,000.

—Messrs. John A. Hambleton & Co., bankers in Baltimore, have issued their annual in the form of a beautiful little handbook, which is full of information as to all securities sold in the Baltimore market. Messrs. Hambleton & Co. also issue an excellent weekly circular, and their business is apparently conducted on a liberal scale.

—The usual quarterly dividend of 2 per cent on the capital stock of the St. Paul Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway Company will be paid on and after May 1, at the office, 68 William Street.

NEW YORK, FRIDAY, APRIL 4, 1884—5 P. M.

The Money Market and Financial Situation.—The progress of the season has brought with it something of the increase of business incident to this time of the year, but not equal to what was expected, the movement being much below that of other recent years. There is, moreover, no increase of profits, and it is generally acknowledged in nearly all lines of trade that the margin of profit was never so small.

The decline in the price of wheat in the Western markets since March 1 has now reached about 14 cents per bushel. If to this be added the reduction of 9 cents per bushel in the rates of freight between Chicago and New York, it makes 23 cents per bushel, which is the reduction in the cost of laying down the wheat at the Atlantic seaboard. This, however, is in spring wheat. It is the winter grades that are chiefly dealt in here, and in these the reduction is not so much.

The heavy decline that has taken place, however, has had no great effect yet to increase the exports of breadstuffs, though it is stated that about 1,500,000 bushels have been shipped within the past week from Chicago for Liverpool. But there is a greatly-increased shipping movement from the West to the Atlantic seaboard, and whereas the aggregate shipments from the seven principal Western cities for the first week of March were less than 300,000 bushels, the movement since then has steadily increased to over 1,000,000 in the first week of April. There has been no corresponding increase in the movement of other grains, but this large gain in wheat is an important matter, and should have a beneficial effect on general trade and business later on.

The total exports of specie thus far in the last week (including last Saturday) have been $1,600,000, making the aggregate since February 21st $13,600,000, which, with $1,850,000 engaged for the steamers Arizona and Adriatic to-morrow, will make a grand total of nearly 15½ millions.

The activity in money, formerly a characteristic of the market at this time of the year, appears to be wholly wanting now, especially at New York; and though there has been some increased demand at the West by the country banks for accommodations and re-discounts upon their city correspondents, the bank capital there has been ample to meet these demands. The rates of discount for prime double-name mercantile paper in the New York market are quoted at 4 and 5 per cent for 60 days and 4 months and at 5 and 5½ for single name paper. Call loans on stock collaterals continue at 2 and 1½ per cent per annum, while time loans on dividend-paying stocks can be had at 3½ and 4.

The last statement of the weekly averages of the New York banks showed no important changes, though the decrease of loans was significant of the relapse toward stagnation in the market.

The reduction in the rate of discount by the Bank of England from 3 per cent to 2½ per cent has been expected for some time as the result of the large gains of the Bank in gold on the balance of foreign accounts, a part of which gold has come from the United States. During the last week, however, the Bank lost £130,000 in bullion, by reason of a drain to the interior. In the same week the Bank of France gained 1,175,000 francs gold and 2,700,000 francs silver.

The following table shows the changes from the previous week and a comparison with the two preceding years in the averages of the New York Clearing House banks.

Exchange.—The foreign exchange market has been very quiet, but also quite firm, during the last week. The increase of commercial bills against shipments of breadstuffs, in consequence of the decline in wheat, has been more than offset by the diminished amount of cotton bills on the market. The reduction of the rate of discount by the Bank of England caused an advance of ½ cent on the £ in the New York rates for 60-day bills, in order to make the difference between that and the rate for demand bills equal to the interest for 60 days. On Friday, the 4th, the posted rates were 4 88½ and 4 90½, and the rates for actual business were as follows, viz.: Sixty days, 4 87½@4 87¾; demand, 4 89½@4 89¾; cables, 4 90@4 90¼. Commercial bills sold at 4 86@4 86½.

Quotations for foreign exchange are as follows, the prices being the posted rates of leading bankers:

State and Railroad Bonds.—There was a diminishing business in the market for railroad bonds during the week, though this was more noticeable in the speculative issues than in the better class of investment bonds, for which there still seems to be a steady demand; and on the whole the prices of these were, in the majority of cases, higher, while the speculative bonds were lower. The following are the principal changes, viz.: Advanced—Bur. & Quincy debentures 1⅛, Canada Southern firsts ⅛, Metropolitan Elevated firsts ¾, Milwaukee Lake Shore & Western firsts 2½, Milwaukee & St. Paul, Chicago & Pacific Western division 5s, ⅜, New York Central registered firsts 1 per cent, Chicago & Northwestern debentures 1⅛, Norfolk & Western general mortgages ½, Missouri Pacific consols ⅞, and Texas & New Orleans—Sabine division—firsts 1 per cent. Declined—New York West Shore & Buffalo 5s 1½, Virginia Midland incomes 2¼, Texas & Pacific, Rio Grande division firsts, 1⅛, Oregon & Trans-Continental firsts ⅜ and Erie second consols ⅜.

In State bonds the transactions have been few and unimportant.

Railroad and Miscellaneous Stocks.—The stock market has been weak and feverish throughout the last seven days, mainly under the depressing influences of the unsettled relations of the roads towards each other in the trunk line pool from Chicago eastward, and also in the entire territory west of the Missouri River to the Pacific Coast. There have been rumors of the restoration of rates on east-bound freight from Chicago to 20c. per 100 pounds, but so far as can be learned there has been no attempted action in the matter. The Bur. & Quincy-Union Pacific conference of arbitrators in Boston also adjourned to-day without making any known progress toward a settlement—to meet again in a week. Under these circumstances there has been a general decline, though the stocks of the coal carriers have been pretty well sustained, Reading particularly being strong, and advancing in the face of the poor returns for the early months of its fiscal year. To-day the continued break in the grain and provisions markets at the West engendered fears of serious disasters to those concerned, and this had a very unfavorable influence upon stock speculation, which the large engagements of gold for shipment to-morrow still further intensified. Erie, Pacific Mail and Reading close fractionally higher than a week ago, and Northwestern preferred records an advance of 3 per cent; but nearly all other shares have declined more or less.
